A NEW DISPOSITION

Russ and Jap Getting New Lines for Next Set-to.

OPERATIONS ARE SUSPENDED

Japanese Swept Pontoon Bridge From End to End With Machine Guns and Wiped Out a Russian Battalion—Kuropatkin Reports—Russians Get Two Jap Guns—The Baltic Fleet.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 20.—For the moment heavy rains and impassable roads have compelled a suspension of operations in Manchuria. There was practically no fighting yesterday and none whateper last night.

There is evidence of a new disposition of the forces on both sides. General Kuropatkin is extending his right, whether with a view to a turning movement for the safety of Lone Tree Hill, the importance of which point is fully realized by the Japanese, who have attempted to retake it in two night attacks, or to meet and thwart a Japanese turning movement from the west, has not yet developed. The Japanese also appear to be shifting their weight to the westward.

Russian Battalion Annihilated.

London, Oct. 20.—Special despatches from St. Petersburg mention a crushing defeat of two Japanese divisions. The report is not confirmed here, however. According to The Standard's correspondent with Gen. Kuroki, who telegraphs under date of Oct. 18, a Russian battalion, which crossed the Taitse River, has been annihilated. While retiring over a pontoon bridge, the correspondent says, the battalion was overtaken by a regiment of Japanese cavalry, which got its machine guns into position and swept the bridge from end to end.

Kuropatkin Reports.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 20.—The Emperor has received from General Kuropatkin, under date of Oct. 18, the following despatch: "During the night the Japanese attacked our advanced positions at Lone Tree Hill, but they were repulsed. No reports have been received of any other engagements. Everything was quiet at all our positions up to 10 o'clock this morning. Rain fell all night, and the roads have been greatly damaged.

Russ Gets Two Jap Guns.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 20.—General Sakharoff telegraphs at midday yesterday to the effect that the Japanese are concentrating at Lingshinpu, west of the railroad. A detachment of Russian cavalry reconnoitering last night in the vicinity of Shakhe, captured two Japanese guns, with no losses to themselves.

One Quiet Night.

Mukden, Oct. 20.—Tuesday passed off quietly. No fighting was heard that night. The Japanese appear to be slowly falling back. A glare seen above their encampments may indicate that they are burning their stores prior to withdrawing.

Artillery Fighting.

Tokio, Oct. 20.—Manchurian headquarters, telegraphing yesterday, say that the Russians retreated from Bensihu to Kaiotai Pass. The Russian body facing the right army is diminishing but active. The enemy facing the centre army was repulsed in several night attacks on Oct. 17. "An artillery duel was progressing yesterday."

The report says: "The enemy is fortifying his positions in our front."

Revolt in Canton.

Shanghai, Oct. 20.—According to well informed Chinese, the Weifo Societies of bandits in the western part of the Province of Kwangtung are amalgamating with the object of raising a revolt in Canton and other parts of the province. It is believed that these bandits have allied themselves with the West River pirates.

Baltic Fleet Divided.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 20.—The Baltic fleet will divide, part of it going by way of the Suez Canal and the remainder round the Cape of Good Hope.

Big Fire At Preston.

Preston, Oct. 20.—There was a big fire at 7 o'clock last night in the paint shop of the Metal Shingle & Siding Company. When noticed, the whole building was ablaze, and the fire spread into the main building, which was totally destroyed. The loss is about $80,000, and the insurance unknown.

Killed in Syracuse.

Peterboro, Oct. 20.—Tuesday evening the sad news of the accidental death of William C. Dixon, was received from Syracuse, where he had been living, and where he carried on an electric business. The deceased was born and brought up in Peterboro.

Anxiety For 169 Souls.

Havana, Oct. 20.—Anxiety is felt here for the safety of the Spanish royal mail steamer Buenos Ayres, which left New York, Oct. 13, carrying 169 passengers, and is now nearly three days overdue at this port.

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—Probate of the will of the late Miss Harmon, who committed suicide by jumping off the Inter-Provincial bridge, has been applied for. She left an estate valued at $20,000.

Not True.

London, Oct. 20.—At the offices here of the Cunard Steamship Company a rumor that the steamer Slavonia had sunk in a storm off the Spanish coast is entirely discredited.

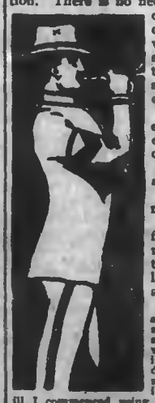
THE BUGLER'S CHEST

Is well expanded. He uses his lungs to their fullest capacity. People in ordinary do not use much over half their lung power. The unused lung surface becomes inert, and offers a prepared ground for the attack of the germs of consumption. There is no need to warn people of the danger of consumption, but warning is constantly needed not to neglect the first symptoms of diseased lungs.



Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures obstinate coughs, bronchitis, bleeding lungs, and other conditions which, if neglected or unskilfully treated, find a fatal termination in consumption. It is entirely free from opiates and narcotics.

"About three years ago I was taken with a bad cough, vomiting and spitting blood," writes Mr. D. J. Robinson, of Spring Garden, W. Va. "I tried many remedies; nothing seemed to help me till I commenced using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. After using ten bottles and four vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets,' I commenced to improve. My case seemed to be almost a hopeless one. Doctors pronounced it ulcer of the lungs. I was sick nearly two years—part of the time bedfast. Was given up to die by all. I thought it would be impossible for me to live over night at one time. I haven't spit any blood now for more than twelve months, and worked on the farm all last summer. It was Dr. Pierce's medicines that cured me."

SOUTH AMERICAN ANTS.

The Most Dangerous and Troublesome Enemies of the Hunter.

"What are the most dangerous and troublesome beasts you ever encountered?" a famous big game hunter was asked, after he had finished telling a string of yarns about his adventures in South America.

"Ants," he replied. "They are far worse than bears, jaguars, alligators or any other beasts about whom hair raising stories are told. They give the hunter in tropical and subtropical countries more trouble than anything else.

"Once I rested my gun against a tree to take aim at a deer. There was an ants' nest in that tree. As soon as I fired the ants tumbled out in swarms and fell all over my guide and myself.

"We were nearly stung to death and had to tear our clothes off and wallow up to our necks in the mud of a nearby swamp before we could get any relief.

"Another time I climbed a tree to wait for mountain lions. I did not notice that there was an ants' nest in the trunk, for the ants were all indoors when I climbed up.

I shot a mountain lion and started to climb down, but the ants had been disturbed by the firing and they swarmed all around that tree trunk by millions. I had to slide over them, and I didn't forget it for a week."

Where Stanley Worked as a Boy.

He sometimes, but not often, spoke to me of his life as a boy. I remember in 1890, when we were staying in Cincinnati together, his asking me one afternoon to go for a walk with him. He took me through obscure back streets and down dirty alleys until we reached a wharf on the banks of the Ohio river. He stopped at the bottom of a street which ran steeply down to the river and pointed out a lad who was rolling a large cask of tallow from a cellar down to the wharf. He said: "I have brought you here because I wanted to show you this place. I was doing exactly the same work as that lad, and, if I mistake not, that is the same cellar in which I worked."—"Reminiscences of Sir Henry Stanley" in Scribner's.

MOURNING FAREWELL.

Goldwin Smith At Cornell is Laying a Corner Stone.

Ithaca, N.Y., Oct. 20.—Prof. Goldwin Smith of Toronto yesterday laid the corner-stone of the Hall of Humanities at Cornell University, which bears his name, and is being constructed at a cost of $250,000. University classes were suspended during the exercises. President G. Schurman, former President Dr. Andrew D. White and Dr. Charles Mellen Tyler were present.

President Schurman said that in dedicating the hall to Goldwin Smith, Cornell honored him as one of its earliest professors, who came to the youngest from one of the oldest English-speaking universities, Oxford; as one of the truest friends of the university and the United States; as a champion of democracy, liberty and peace among the nations and as an exemplar of the highest culture.

Prof. Smith said in part: "The honor is deeply felt and he on whom it is conferred heartily wishes that it had been better earned. A long life, now at its close, has many memories of mingled happiness and pain. One memory is unalloyed. Bright in my life, though dark and sad with rain, was the November morning in the year 1868 on which I landed from a train at Ithaca, was received by Andrew White and afterwards taken out by Ezra Cornell to the campus on which then stood one poor block, but which now is covered with stately buildings and is joyous with the student life of the great Cornell University.

"I fear I am bidding a long farewell to Cornell and all objects of my long interests and attachments here. I do it with a full heart of affection and gratitude."

DEATH OF BISHOP BALDWIN.

His Lordship Had Suffered Stroke of Paralysis Friday.

London, Oct. 20.—His Lordship M. C. Baldwin, Bishop of Huron, who has been very ill for some days, passed away yesterday morning. He has been ill since last Friday and never regained consciousness.

The Right Rev. Maurice Scollard Baldwin is the fourth son of the late John Spread Baldwin, of Toronto, and was born in that city, June 21, 1836. He was ordained deacon in 1860 and priested the following year by the late Bishop Cronyn, taking a curacy at St. Thomas and subsequently the incumbency of St. Paul's, Port Dover. In a few years he went to Montreal, where his earnest eloquence gained him a high reputation. He became rector of Christ Church Cathedral, Dean of Montreal in 1879 and third Bishop of Huron in 1883. Dr. Baldwin belonged to the evangelistic school among churchmen, and his practical piety has won many tributes. He is the author of two volumes and has identified himself with the Lord's Day Alliance, and the Western Bible Society.

Killed in Runaway.

Dutton, Oct. 20.—William Campbell about 20 years old, second son of Archibald Campbell, of the township of Dunwich, was killed yesterday. He and his brother were drawing wood to Dutton with two teams. While the unfortunate lad was descending a short but steep hill the front stakes gave way, letting the load slide forward, carrying the young man with it. The horses ran away when the wood struck them. The boy fell under the wagon, the front wheel passing diagonally over his chest. He was carried to the nearest house and expired in about half an hour after the accident. His father and mother were away from home attending the funeral of their uncle, the late Malcolm Campbell of Ekfrid.

Rancher Killed in Runaway.

Winnipeg, Oct. 15.—Louis Monkman, a rancher at Lander, B.C., was instantly killed Thursday evening in a runaway accident. He was thrown out of the wagon, and his head struck one of the wheels, causing a fracture of the jaw and skull.

Father of Music Halls Dead.

London, Oct. 19.—Charles Morton, the "father of music halls," died yesterday morning. Although 87 years of age, he remained in active management of the Palace Theatre until a few days ago, when he retired. A big farewell matinee, at which all the leading artists were to appear, was in course of preparation for the veteran's benefit.

INEXPENSIVE MEATS.

An Experienced Hotel Caterer Offers Some Hints For Economy.

The cheap cuts of beef are not at all available in these days in a hotel or restaurant because the patrons, mainly men, are suspicious of any madeup meat dishes.

In the private household, however, there is no reason why the less expensive meats cannot be made as palatable as need be, and of their nourishing qualities there is no dispute. For example, the bottom of the round of steak may be rendered tender by long cooking as a pot roast and is delicious when rightly done.

Our friend the hotel man sounded a note of warning concerning hamburg steak. Round steak cut fine in a machine is as nourishing and in the opinion of many people as good as the tenderest of short steak. Beware, however, of buying that which is found ready made on the counter of a large market.

Hamburg steak, like sausage, is the destiny of a great many scraps and a great deal of partially tainted meat. That which is made to the customer's order from a piece which he sees cut off or which he knows is cut off for his use is safe and good. Cases have been known, however, where even this is not enough precaution, for some marketmen are careless about the chopper and allow the bits of meat and juice to dry on the machine.

Indeed the method par excellence is to buy your own meat, take it home, remove the gristle and tough skin, wipe it well and then put it through your own chopper, when it may be fine or coarse, according to your taste.—Exchange.

BASEBALL.

Fred, Whitcroft, late manager of the Peterborough team has been winning distinction in Midland. He played with that team against Penetang for the northern championship, and practically won the game for his team. He played short stop, and his batting and fielding were features of the game. Out of four times at bat he secured four hits, two singles, a double and a three bagger. In the eighth, with three men on bases and the score five to five "Whitty" went to bat and got a three bagger, and stole home, winning the game. He got four hard flies and made five assists without an error.

"Whitty" is evidently playing his game up in the north.

The open season in this region is from October 16th to November 15th, both days inclusive, and by applying to J. D. SPLENDID MEETING IN BRIDGENORTH.

county, was absolute nonsense, and must have been instigated by Mr. Kendry to cover up his neglect.

The trade with Great Britain has increased by leaps and bounds since the preference was adopted, and the exports from Canada to Great Britain increased in a corresponding proportion. When the Government came into power there was no such trade, because there were no facilities for the shipment of farm produce, but when Mr. Fisher assumed the reins of power he at once inaugurated the cold storage shipping facilities, the result of which is that the Canadian produce is now landed in Great Britain in as good condition as when it is first shipped, and the result that the butter shipped to Great Britain now amounts to nearly $7,000,000 a year, and is now pronounced as being a little better than the best. The exports of ham and bacon has increased nearly $12,000,000 a year since 1896. The exports of eggs have also greatly increased, and the prices for all these products have increased. This being the case a Government which does things in a business-like way can be appreciated by the people.

The exports to Great Britain has nearly doubled in the last seven years. In 1896 they amounted to $95,000,000, while at the present time the exports were $183,000,000. It has been said that Providence had been good to the country and that accounted for the prosperity. This may be a fact, and if Providence is with the Government, why should the people be against them. The total trade of Canada in 1896 was $239,000,000, while in 1903 the total trade was $467,000,000.

Evidences of prosperity were present in Bridgenorth and were also seen in Peterborough. The American Cereal Company had established their large works there. He also cited a number of other new works and enlargements which had been consummated since 1896. In the Canadian West great development is seen in all parts. At present there are 3,000,000 acres of land under cultivation, and in 1903, 134,000 persons went into the west, and he thought that these figures would be largely increased this year. Canadians are coming back from the United States and are bringing with them many Americans, and a larger home market for our goods is being developed. The great increase of population in the west requires increased railway accommodation.

In 1903 there were 31 times as many homesteads located as there were in 1896.

This increase demands greater railway facilities and to secure this a certain amount of inducement must be offered, and the Government has adopted a wise policy in making the contract with the G.T.P. Since 1896 there has been no less than 2,700 miles of railway constructed in Canada. These facts are evidences of the fact that the Laurier Government should be maintained, and the believed that it would be returned.

The Post Office Department was another thing in which a splendid showing had been made. In the last year of Conservative rule the department was run at a loss of $700,000. But Sir Wm. Mulock had placed it on a business basis. The first thing he did was to reduce the postage, and thereby saving the people of Canada more than $1,000,000 a year, instead of losing it as Sir Charles Tupper said would be the case. To-day the post office department has a surplus of no less than $293,000. In 1896 instead of attending to business the members of the Conservative Cabinet were engaging in intrigue.

The people of Smith should have some improvements in the post office facilities, and should not have to go seven miles as some do. In Peterborough the revenue is $25,000 per year and the expenses are about $5,000.

Canada's debt has decreased during the Liberal regime, and $57,000,000 has been spent in public works, while during the 18 years preceding 1896 the debt was increasing at the rate of $3,000,000 per year, and the result would have been that the country would have been bankrupt. The Conservatives say that the expenditures has increased, but the country could better afford to pay the increased expenditures because the income was also larger, and the increase was necessary. No country on earth had equalled Canada in the growth of trade since 1896. All this growth has not been by accident. It has been because the country has been governed by a party which has the interests of the country at heart. The fact that the Conservatives have not placed candidates in Quebec in a number of ridings shows that there is no hope for the party there.

Mr. Hall then criticised Mr. Borden's railway scheme and said that for a Government to attempt to own and operate a railway is to go right in the teeth of the leaders of the party, and Sir John Macdonald, the great Conservative leader, condemned the plan of Government railways. Since the I.C.R. had been constructed it had not paid the running expenses, although since 1896 that road has made a much better showing.

Sir John Macdonald said that to operate a Government railway would be a losing venture.

The building of the G.T.P. will open up a great country to the north, which will prove of great advantage to the country. It will give a direct line of communication between the east and west, and the trade of Canada will increase at a great rate if the railway is built. It will also result in cheapening railway rates.

These are reasons why we should retain in power the Liberal party.

Mr. Hall said that it would be to the great advantage of the riding to have a Government supporter in the House, and he believed that the polling on Nov. 3rd would prove that the people thought so, too.

He had criticised Mr. Kendry only as a public man, and he intended to continue this course, and would rather be defeated than to indulge in personalities. Mr. Hall referred to the personal attack on him which appeared in the Review of last night, and explained the circumstances fully.

He would rather be defeated than to bring such a charge against anyone, and it was only to gain an unjust advantage over him that such a base act had been committed.

Mr. Hall closed by thanking the hearers for their attention and said that he felt sure that the people on Nov. 3rd would return a Liberal candidate.

The speaker was loudly cheered during his address, and at its conclusion was given an ovation.

The meeting closed with hearty cheers for the King and Mr. Hall.

PETERBOROUGH BOY OUT IN A STORM.

Fred Whitcroft's Exciting Experience on Georgian Bay Last Week.

Fred Whitcroft had an experience last week which he has no desire to have repeated. "Whittie," as he is known in Peterborough, is at present in Midland and in a letter to his father recently he gives an account of a trip on the Georgian Bay which he had last week. On Tuesday he accepted an invitation of Capt. Clarke, Government Inspector of the Georgian Bay, to enjoy a sail to Fort William on the "Pilot." All went well until Wednesday evening when at a distance of about 75 miles from Midland, the waters became quite rough. Three of the sailors were sent to inspect the Seagram Bank buoy and in the squal the boat broke loose from the buoy, the iron bar at the top giving away. The boat drifted about in the storm until it finally sighted a boat from Chicago loaded with grain. The pair proceeded safely to Parry Sound, which was reached on Friday night. Nothing had been heard of the three unfortunate sailors who it is feared were drowned.

SUFFERED TORTURE FOR FOUR YEARS

Then Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Wm. Doeg's Rheumatism.

He was so Bad That He Could not Lie Down, but had to Sit Night and Day in a Chair.

Sundridge, Ont., October 18 (Special)—Mr. William Doeg, of this place, now a hale hearty man, tells of his almost miraculous cure of Rheumatism by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"For four years I suffered excruciating torture," says Mr. Doeg, "I was scarcely an hour free from pain. I could not lie down to take rest, but had to sit night and day in a chair.

"I was treated for Rheumatism by several doctors and also tried several medicines without receiving any benefit. Almost in despair I feared I never again would be free from pain. Then I read of some remarkable cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills. I procured a box and soon found that they were doing me good and before I had finished the second box I was entirely free from pain and a new man."

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure Rheumatism by putting the Kidneys in shape to take the cause—Uric Acid—out of the blood.

Dividing Up.

Mr. M. C. Tooley, the big hearted bonaface of the Queen's Hotel is at his old tricks again, remembering his friends. He took a couple of days fishing back at Lake Katchecum with a bunch of his bosom companions, and got back yesterday with a big basketful of speckled trout—beauties—which he is generously dividing up among his best friends. The state of the weather, the condition of the water, the appetite of the fish, all scored in favour of "The king of the Italians." Do you good to hear him tell fish stories, now, by the furlong. His vivid descriptions are exciting—how the big fish would play for ten minutes and sulk for six; how they made such a fight that, when they were pulled in at last the hook had almost torn through their tender mouths and fell as soon as they were landed! "My dear Tooley" is only sorry he couldn't stay longer; but he had a mission to perform at the present juncture—helping to save his country. Besides, he says there is only a certain amount of fish allowed to every man in this world. Some get it going fishing most of the time and working the rest; some get making money most of the time and going fishing the rest. The two lines of business he claims won't agree. The more money the less fish. Mr. Tooley's face is broader than when he went back, and a sparkle of triumph is in his eye as he hands you over your parcel of speckled beauties.

The funeral took place on Sunday when the remains were taken to Norwood where Father Conway held a burial service and then to Peterborough for interment. He leaves a wife and grown up family. The boys of town will miss his kind hospitality when they now go to Mud Lake for a fish.

Some???

One half dozen of the thousands of questions answered in John L. Stoddard's lectures, illustrated with five original engravings:—

1. What is the single name of one hundred and twenty-seven separate and distinct streets in the city of London?
2. Who was England's greatest poetess and where is she buried?
3. What noted cathedral was built with money obtained by taking every ton of coal that came to the port of the city where it stands?
4. What system of water works over two thousand years old gives a famous city the best water supply in the world to-day?
5. Who wrote "God's finger touched but did not press in making England?"
6. The last and most important question is, "How can I procure the Stoddard lectures, and the answers to these questions, with thousands of others equally interesting and valuable?"

The New York Tribune says: "In Canadian Pacific consider merely these two brief paragraphs from the annual address of the president, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy:

In three years your gross revenue from traffic has grown from $30,855,000 in 1901, to $46,469,000 in 1904, or about 51 per cent. Your land grant bonds outstanding at the end of 1901 amounted to $17,831,000, while in 1904 only $11,500,000 remained to be provided for, and in the intervening period deferred payments on land sold increased from $3,052,369 to $15,252,308.

There is a property where intelligence and integrity vie for the production of lasting prosperity."

LATE ROBT. WALTON HIGHLY RESPECTED

Spent the Greater Part of his Life in Peterborough.

The late Robert Walton, who died at his family residence 675 Water Street yesterday afternoon was born in the township of Smith in 1822. He was the son of Joseph Walton who was born in Cumberland, Eng., and who came to Canada in 1817, taking up residence in Newmarket. He subsequently lived for a time in Cavan and later in Smith. When a young man, the late Robert Walton took up residence in Peterborough where he has resided ever since, with the exception of a brief sojourn in Grimsby. He carried on a very successful harness and hardware business on George street, where the Stinson shoe store now stands. In 1846 he was married to Bethania Lapp, who died in August 1903 leaving three children, Edgerton J. R. Walton, of Medicine Hat, Assa., Mrs. Helena Fisher and Mrs. William Langford of town. In 1868 he married Miss Lavenia Ferris, who with a number of children still survive him. There are four daughters, Mrs. Charles Pearson, Aurora, Ont., Clara, of Los Angeles, Cal., Mrs. Arch. Brownie, Chicago, Ill. and Mrs. I. S. Levry, of New York, and five sons, Frank, of Norwalk, Ohio, Harry C., of New York, Fred, J. of Chicago, Robert E., of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Evans C., of Vancouver, B.C.

In the year 1880 he retired from business in Peterborough, and was engaged in farming for some years. In all his undertakings he met with great success and the last few years have been spent in the quiet enjoyment of a prosperous and successful life. He took a prominent part in the affairs of the town, having been councillor and Chairman of the Licence Commissioners for a number of years. He was at all times highly respected and esteemed by those with whom he came in contact. Early last spring he was stricken with a paralytic stroke from which he never recovered. Since then, he has gradually become weaker until he received the death summons yesterday afternoon.

The funeral will take place at 3 p.m. to-morrow from the family residence, 675 Water street and proceed to Little Lake Cemetery.

BOTH ARMIES ARE TIRED OUT

Battle Worn Out and Jap and Russ Separated by Shakhe.

WEATHER TAKES A HAND, TOO

Pall of Fog Completely Hides Belligerents From Each Other and When the Mist Rises New Formations May Confront Them—Quiet History of Past Day or Two of War.

Mukden, Oct. 20, via Pekin, Oct. 21.—The big battle has practically worn itself out, leaving the two armies facing each other, with the Shakhe River as the dividing line.

Says Japs Are Retiring.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 21.—The Bourse Gazette's correspondent at Mukden sticks to the story that the Japanese are slowly retiring. On the other hand several other correspondents telegraph that operations have been suspended owing to the rain. They say the armies are confronting each other across the Shakhe River, and add that nothing important is expected for several days.

A Pall of Fog.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 21.—Apart from skirmishes and exploits of scouting parties, there is almost a complete suspension of operations in Manchuria. The heavens have interposed to put a stop to bloodshed. Rain, impassable roads and exhausted armies are factors sufficient in themselves to explain the cessation of hostilities, and these conditions are aggravated by a dense fog overspreading the whole of the theatre of war. Behind this pall, either side would be able to change the disposition of whole forces in absolute secrecy, but the obscurity renders it absolutely dangerous to attempt any forward movement. When the curtain of mist is lifted, the fighting may be resumed under totally changed conditions.

Associated Press correspondents at the Russian front record a successful repulse of a night attack on Russian outposts in the early hours of Oct. 18. The Russians pursued the Japanese and captured a gun, which, under the cover of the fog, they were able to remove.

The wild flight of rumors continues in St. Petersburg, the rout or capture of Japanese divisions or battalions and scores of guns alternating with alarmist stories of General Kuropatkin's retreat on Mukden, all equally untrue. The War Office declares that there have been no serious developments since the capture of Lone Tree Hill last Sunday, and authorizes the Associated Press to deny the report that a Russian battalion has been annihilated in trying to re-cross the Taitse River. A prominent general said: "It is absurd to suppose that a battalion was still on the other side of the Taitse River when the whole of the eastern flank had withdrawn 16 miles north of the river."

As to the stories of General Kuropatkin's retreat, it is sufficient to refer to the energetic scouting behind the Japanese lines to show that the Russian commander is determined to engage the enemy as soon as the weather permits.

From Jap Headquarters.

Tokio, Oct. 21.—Manchurian headquarters, telegraphing Wednesday, reviews the situation at the front as follows:

"Yesterday the centre column of the right army attacked and dislodged the enemy's cavalry holding Tunchiafen, but a small body of the enemy's infantry has returned to that eminence.

"The enemy continues to hold Faitao eminence.

"On Oct. 19 two battalions of the enemy's infantry were visible near Kaokwanchia, lying to the right of the right army, and they appeared to have supports in the rear. The strength of the latter is under investigation.

"On the afternoon of Oct. 19 the right wing of the centre column discovered two battalions and a battery of the enemy advancing in its front from Tunchiafen to Titi Mountain. They concealed themselves behind Titi Mountain.

"One brigade of the enemy is located near Fenchiapao. The enemy's guns north of Fenchiapao occasionally shell our position.

"There is no change in front of the left column of the right army.

"There has been no change in front of the centre army, except that there are occasional changes of shells.

"It is quiet in front of the left army, though the enemy occasionally sends shells toward our positions.

"On the night of Oct. 18 the enemy attacked the front of the left column, but he was repulsed."

Captured By the Japs.

Tokio, Oct. 21.—It is announced at headquarters here that the left Japanese army captured carts, 5,354 rifles, 4,920 rounds of field gun ammunition, 5,000 rounds of rifle ammunition, and tents, clothing, sabres and implements.

Quiet On Western Front.

With the Russian position at the village of Huansian, 10 miles south of Mukden, via Mukden, Oct. 21.—All has been quiet yesterday on the western front. There were isolated discharges of artillery in the early hours of the day, but later complete silence prevailed.

There was a sudden attack by the Japanese at 2.25 o'clock Wednesday afternoon on the Russian advanced position southwest of Mukden, held by the 35th Rifles, belonging to Gen. Kondratovitch's division. Colonel Musnitsky promptly sent out three companies to make a counter attack, and the Japanese quickly fell back, having sustained severe losses. The Russian casualties were three killed and eleven wounded. The Japanese were pressed so hard that they were obliged to abandon a gun bearing the number 383; but before abandoning the gun the breech block was removed. The limber contained 48 rounds of ammunition. Thanks to the dense fog prevailing at the time the Russians were able to remove the gun without the loss of a single man. A few scouts belonging to the same regiment that night raided the Japanese trenches and brought away a number of entrenching tools.

Cossacks Whipped.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 21.—A despatch from Gen. Sakharoff, dated Wednesday night, reports that a detachment of two hundred Cossacks Tuesday night reconnoitred the Japanese left southwestward along a line extending westward from the railroad, where it crosses the Peachili River through the villages of Haitsantai, Tadousampu and Sandepu, the latter fifteen miles west of the railroad. The Japanese sentinels fired and retired as the Cossacks rode rapidly along the line, but near Sandepu the Cossacks unexpectedly ran into a good-sized Japanese force, with machine guns. The latter opened a murderous fire on the Russians, killing many horses and mortally wounding Capt. Turgeoniff, but all the Cossacks succeeded in getting away. Not one was killed on the field.

50,000 Japs Killed.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—A special to The Daily News from Che Foo says: "According to a camp follower, who has been for some time with the Japanese army besieging Port Arthur, the number of Japanese killed before the forts has reached 50,000. He says the Mikado's men recklessly attacked the strongest positions, making wild rushes in masses, the soldiers being stripped of their accoutrements and clothing. The result was that the Russian machine guns mowed them down. He also asserts that there is some talk among the officers and men that leads to the belief that the Japanese mean to try to carry the inner forts and citadel this month."

The Baltic Fleet.

Berlin, Oct. 21.—A despatch from The Tageblatt's correspondent at Kiel says he learned from the Russian fleet the plans of the future movements of the vessels. They will, he adds, proceed separately to the Island of Maderia, where they will coal. The battleships and large cruisers will then start for the Far East by way of the Cape of Good Hope, and the smaller vessels will go by way of the Suez Canal. The fleet will re-assemble at the Sunday Islands (Malay Archipelago), and thence the fleet will go to Vladivostock, where it is expected to arrive in 85 days. As the fleet will reach Vladivostock in mid-winter, when the harbor is frozen, the ice-breaker Ermak will accompany the vessels.

Feared Japs Shells.

Che Foo, Oct. 21.—A junk which left Liaoti Promontory Wednesday was driven by a gale and arrived here last night, bringing 100 coolies who left Port Arthur because they feared injury from Japanese shells. The coolies say that on Oct. 13 there was fierce fighting for several hours on the slopes of Rihlung Mountain, between comparatively small forces, during which the Japanese lost 300 killed and wounded.

Japs Near Port Arthur.

Che Foo, Oct. 21.—The most important recent events at Port Arthur include the capture by the Japanese of further minor positions near Rihlung Mountains, and the severe damage of a Japanese torpedo boat destroyer by striking a floating mine. It is asserted that the Russian force at Port Arthur now numbers 5,000 men, excluding the militia, which is not engaged in fighting, but in guard duty. The garrison is greatly worn out by the many months of exhausting, anxious labor and fighting. The town is full of wounded.

Sir Robert Decorated.

Pekin, Oct. 21.—Sir Robert Hart, Inspector-General of Chinese Imperial Customs, has received from the Emperor of Japan the Order of the Rising Sun of the first class, for his services in connection with the commercial treaty, concluded between China and Japan.

Montreal, Oct. 20.—One man was killed and three badly injured early yesterday morning in a collision between two gravel trains on the main line of the C. P. R., near Montreal Junction, five miles west of the city. One train ran into the rear of the other, and Brakeman McMahon was killed, while Fireman Hart had a leg broken, Conductor Myers an arm broken and Engineer Draper an arm and leg broken.

A SECOND RESIGNATION.

But Mr. Blair Declines to Take Public Into His Confidence.

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—Fearing that his letter of resignation to the Governor-General was irregular, Mr. Blair has written another letter to the Secretary of State. It is a brief intimation that he resigns the office of Chairman of the Railway Commission. Mr. Blair has up to the present declined to take the public into his confidence with regard to his future plans. The public, he states, have no right to concern themselves with his private affairs. He reiterates, however, that he does not intend to re-enter politics. A number of invitations to address political meetings have reached Mr. Blair. One came to-day by telegraph from M. R. L. Richardson, who is opposing Mr. Sifton in Brandon. Mr. Blair says he does not intend to accept any of the invitations. The belief is growing that Mr. Blair will be associated with Mr. David Russell of Montreal in the carrying on of industrial interests.

POLITICS IN A NUTSHELL.

J. T. Cardinal has received the Conservative nomination in St. James, and L. P. Marechal in St. Mary's, Montreal.

The writs for Dawson City got through on the last steamer and the election will be held on Dec. 16, as originally intended.

Instead of going to Lindsay, Sir Wilfrid Laurier came to Toronto direct from Orillia Thursday, and left in the afternoon for Peterboro.

A. W. Wright will speak at Millbrook on Oct. 26, and at Blackstock on Oct. 28, for Col. Ward. Mr. Aylesworth refuses to meet anyone on the platform.

Ald. Vallieres, chairman of the Montreal finance committee, was nominated by the Conservatives Thursday night to oppose Hon. Mr. Prefontaine in Maisonneuve.

The proclamations for the West Algoma elections have been posted, and they call for the voting on Nov. 8, the date of the general elections. However, there are very few people in the district who believe that they will be pulled off on that date. The list for the unorganized districts are said to be unready.

Miss Alice M. Smith, of Minneapolis, Minn., tells how woman's monthly suffering may be quickly and permanently relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have never before given my endorsement for any medicine, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has added so much to my life and happiness that I feel like making an exception in this case. For two years every month I would have two days of severe pain and could find no relief, but one day when visiting a friend I run across Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,—she had used it with the best results and advised me to try it. I found that it worked wonders with me; I now experience no pain and only had to use a few bottles to bring about this wonderful change. I use it occasionally now when I am exceptionally tired or worn out."—MISS ALICE M. SMITH, 804 Third Ave., South Minneapolis, Minn., Chairman Executive Committee Minneapolis Study Club.

Beauty and strength in women vanish early in life because of monthly pain or some menstrual irregularity. Many suffer silently and see their best gifts fade away. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps women preserve roundness of form and freshness of face because it makes their entire female organism healthy. It carries women safely through the various natural crises and is the safeguard of woman's health.

The truth about this great medicine is told in the letters from women published in this paper constantly.

Mrs. C. Kleinschrodt, Morrison, Ill., says:—

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have suffered ever since I was thirteen years of age with my menses. They were irregular and very painful. I doctored a great deal but received no benefit.

"A friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and after taking a few bottles of it, I found great relief.

"Menstruation is now regular and without pain. I am enjoying better health than I have for sometime."

How is it possible for us to make it plainer that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will positively help all sick women? All women are constituted alike, rich and poor, high and low,—all suffer from the same organic troubles. Surely, no one can wish to remain weak and sickly, discouraged with life and without hope for the future, when proof is so unmistakable that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will cure monthly suffering—all womb and ovarian troubles, and all the ills peculiar to women.

"NATIONAL" VERSUS A RATIONAL POLICY.

The Conservative high water protectionist claim that the prevailing prosperity, and the prosperity that has prevailed for eight years, under the application of the Liberal policy, is solely due to the "National" Policy, which, some say, is practically still in force, but, which others say, has been destroyed by the Liberals.

Assuming, for the sake of argument, the latter is correct, what does it prove? That the "National" policy is safer in the hands of a Liberal than of a Conservative. The Conservatives have tried their 'prentice hand, at applying the "National Policy" for eighteen years, with the result of slow growth at every point, failing revenue, depressed industries, and general stagnation. During eight years of the "Rational" policy, under Liberal rule, exactly opposite conditions have resulted. We have had rapid growth, humming industries and abounding prosperity. Therefore, it is naturally to the country's advantage that the Liberals should still have the power of administration.

But, as a matter of fact, the so-called "National" policy is as different from the Rational policy of the Liberals as chalk is from cheese. There may be a certain apparent resemblance, but the essence of the one is quite different from that of the other.

A traveller, passing an orchard, sees two apple trees, which outwardly look very much alike. One bears gnarled, crabbed, sour, bitter fruit. That is the "National" policy, which brought hard times, deficits, etc. The other tree bears the lordly Northern Spy, with all its pleasant qualities; that is the Rational policy of the Liberals, which has been attended with good times, big revenues, large surpluses and general prosperity and growth.

Sir Wilfrid in 1896 promised that he would not treat the then existing tariff in a way to injure existing industries, and he kept his word. He lopped off some mouldering branches from the "National policy tree and engrafted on some good stock. He engrafted on the principle of helping manufacturers by decreasing the cost of raw material. He stimulated trade with our best market and raised Canadian credit in our best market by giving the British preference. He forestalled slaughter market imports by anti-dumping legislation. He put a surtax of one-third on German imports. He converted the "National" policy sour apple tree into the National policy, Northern Spy. He created the conditions that helped the manufacturer, that helped the working man and lessened the burdens of the people. True the people paid a larger sum into the revenues, but they were made more prosperous, had more money to buy with, and they paid the increased revenue on a tariff rate 13 per cent. less all round than under the Conservative tariff.

The metaphor of the apple trees suggests the saying "By their fruits ye shall know them." What have been the fruits of the two policies? Every body knows that the practical, the tangible results, have been overwhelmingly in favour of the fruits of the Liberal Rational policy.

We had hard times, low wages, scarce employment under the "National policy. We have had, and still have, under the Liberal Rational policy, good times, abounding prosperity, abundant employment, good wages. Isn't such prosperity worth keeping? What we have let us hold.

Keep both hands on the full dinner pail.

When Your Child Suffers.

For lack of knowledge of the value of Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for eczema, many a mother has been worn out in the effort to relieve her child of suffering. Eczema, scald head and other forms of itching skin disease are common to children, especially during the teething period. Though readily cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment, eczema, if neglected, becomes chronic and may last for years.

RUN DOWN BY TRAIN

Retired Farmer of Alvinston Killed on G. T. R. Track.

SEVERAL SAW THE ACCIDENT

He Heard the Train Approaching and Tried to Reach the Crossing, But Was Too Late—David Bowler, Car Inspector, Has Both Feet Amputated At Bowmanville—Found Dead.

Alvinston, Oct. 21.—James Cook, a retired farmer, about 65 years of age, residing in the village, was instantly killed about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by a Grand Trunk freight train. Mr. Cook was walking on the track and apparently heard the train approaching, as he tried to reach the crossing, but was caught. The accident was witnessed by several people living near. Mr. Cook leaves a widow but no children.

BOTH FEET CUT OFF.

Serious Accident to G.T.R. Car Inspector David Bowler.

Toronto, Oct. 21.—In an attempt to alight from a train traveling at a considerable rate of speed David Bowler of Brockville was the victim of an accident which cost him the use of his feet.

He is car inspector on the G. T. R. and while the passenger train on which he was riding was passing through Bowmanville yesterday he stood on the step and tried to jump to the ground. He lost his footing and, owing to the fact that he did not immediately release his grasp of the rail, he fell forward on his face on the ground with his legs across the track.

The forward truck of the car passed over both legs, just above the ankle. Dr. Tilley of Bowmanville was called and he accompanied the wounded man to the Toronto General Hospital. Both feet had to be amputated. Although very weak Bowler will in all probability recover.

He is 42 years of age and has been in the employ of the G.T.R. for 30 years.

Found Dead in a Drain.

Toronto, Oct. 21.—When James Mayo, a farm hand, working for Chas. Silverthorne at Islington, failed to come home for tea yesterday a search was made and he was found dead in a drain he had been digging. Death was due to heart failure. Mayo was 45 years of age, and came from Holyoke, Mass.

60,000,000 BUSHELS.

Bumper Wheat Crop in the Northwest—Comparison of Estimates.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 21.—The crop report issued this year by the Northwest Grain Dealers Association was published yesterday and indicates that, despite the sensational reports of rust, frost and delayed harvesting, the yield this year can fairly be called a bumper one. It estimates the total yield of wheat at 59,857,190 bushels on an acreage of 3,420,411 acres, or an average yield of 17.5 bushels. This compares favorably with the same estimate at the corresponding date in 1903, which gave the production for that year at $50,290,974 bushels on an acreage of 3,228,663 acres, or an average yield of 16.1 bushels.

The percentage of wheat which will grade under No. 4 is figured at 30 per cent., or 17,955,000 bushels. This is a pretty heavy percentage, due largely to the effect of rust, blight and early frost, while the threshing of grain this fall before the grain was dry is also a reason for the lowering of the grade. Below are given the figures as compiled:

Wheat, 3,420,411 acres, at 17.5 bushels per acre, 59,857,190 bushels.

Oats, 1,205,960 acres, at 37 bushels per acre, 44,620,520 bushels.

Barley, 392,569 acres, at 26.8 bushels per acre, 10,520,850 bushels.

Flax, 46,540 acres, at 11.4 bushels per acre, 530,550 bushels.

Breaks Unity.

London, Oct. 21.—(C.A.P.)—The Australian Commonwealth Cabinet has declared to address a representation to the Imperial Government, urging that the nullification in the Mother Country of marriages entered into with a deceased wife's sister, which are recognized within the Commonwealth, is a grave breach of the unity of the Empire, and praying the Imperial authorities to give the matter their serious consideration.

Government Railway Running.

Toronto, Oct. 21.—A regular service has been inaugurated on the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, the Government line, trains leaving North Bay for Haileybury on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week, and returning on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. The fare has been reduced from five to three cents a mile.

Unrest in New Republic.

Washington, Oct. 21.—American marines will be retained on the Isthmus of Panama for the present, prepared to meet any emergency which may arise as the result of disgruntled elements in the new republic. This decision was reached yesterday, and orders have been issued for a new battalion of marines to go to the Isthmus about Nov. 15.

Decision Reserved.

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—The Railway Commission heard argument in an application of the Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railway Company to fill a trestle and expropriate land on the farm of W. Anderson, Lancaster township. Decision was reserved.

Why will you allow a cough to lacerate your throat or lungs and run the risk of filling a consumptive's grave, when, by the timely use of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the pain can be allayed, and the danger avoided. ON THE SAFETY OF OVER EATING

The Rule of Choosing the Lesser of Two Evils Applies to the Way You Eat.

I want to know how a man is to know when he has had enough?

The Pilgrim Fathers, I believe, had a quaint saying to the effect that you should always rise from the table feeling as if you could eat some more.

But the question is, how much more?

Just when to stop?

That's the point.

The rule is wrong, because it's no rule at all.

It is inexact and unscientific.

It is likely to lead to the dangerous habit of eating too little.

And eating too little—or digesting too little, which amounts to the same thing—is the cause of nine-tenths of—the diseases from which humanity suffers to-day.

What is disease?

It is simply uneven balance between waste and repair.

Some organ lacks strength to carry on the special work for which it was created.

Where shall it find the strength it lacks?

In drugs?

Ten thousand times, NO!

Better die than become a hopeless drug fiend.

No; in food.

"But," you say, "I eat a plenty of good food every day!"

True, dear friend; but you don't digest it.

And food, undigested, is mere poison.

So, to make food do you good, you must take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The great thing about Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is, that their action does not depend upon stimulative druggery.

They cannot create a habit.

They contain no ingredients to "pick you up," "tone up your nervous system" or furnish whip energy, by calling out your vital reserve force.

They create new strength, force and energy out of your food.

It taken starving they will do you no good at all.

So, eat to live, and live to eat, with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The curse of our present civilization is exhaustion.

And exhaustion, whether of brain, nerves, physical strength, or vital force, is caused by starvation.

Of two evils, it is better to overeat—and prevent indigestion with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets—than to rise from the table, not having eaten enough to repair the exhaustion of your vital forces.

For exhaustion or starvation leads to the most varied forms of sickness or disease, brought on by inability of the weakened vitality to counteract the disease—poisons and microbes.

Whereas the well-fed and well-nourished person, without ever feeling the worse for it, can expose himself to dangers, the mere thought of which would drive the weak, starving dyspeptic into a panic fit.

Good food, well digested, is the great secret of a healthful existence here on earth.

So eat heartily, every day, of the best food you can get, and regulate the working of your digestive machinery with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

As a result you will be astonished to find, how much stronger and livelier you feel, how much more and better work you can do, how much more pleasure you can get out of life, and how your old enemy, that chronic trouble, which has fastened upon your weak spot, wherever it is, will up and away, and ever after leave you in peace, health and comfort.

There's more truth than poetry in all this.

Try it once.

C.P.R. Must Pay.

Brockville, Oct. 20.—There was concluded in the High Court here yesterday, before Judge Anglin, the trial of an action brought by Mark Forsythe, a Kemptville carpenter, against the Canadian Pacific Railway, to recover $7,000 damages for personal injuries sustained by reason of an accident while driving over one of the company's crossings, near Kemptville Junction, Aug. 24, 1903. A verdict of $4,000 was rendered in favor of the plaintiff. The C.P.R. solicitor signified his intention of entering an appeal.

TWO JUDGES REQUIRED.

Objections Well Taken and Trials Not Going On At Once.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 21.—On the resumption of the sittings of the Assizes yesterday morning, Mr. Justice Osler gave his decision as to the objection brought up by defendants' counsel, in the corrupt election practice cases Wednesday. He ruled that objection was well taken.

The objection was as to one judge having jurisdiction in such cases, and it was shown that amendments had affected the statutes governing the right of judges to sit on these cases, making them read so as to give the power only to two judges of the rota sitting together, but not to one. The Assizes therefore adjourned until November 8.

Special Audit Made.

Winnipeg, Oct. 21.—The special audit of the books in which Melvin Bartlett, late clerk in the Provincial Agricultural Department, kept the accounts, connected with the sale of marriage licenses, has been completed. The result will not be made public until the Ministers, who are just now busy with Dominion politics, have considered the report. An order has been passed, appointing a commission of two judges to deal with Bartlett's charges against Hugh McKellar, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, and it is expected that the judges will be at once named and instructed to proceed with the matter with as little delay as possible.

Prof. Pike's Apology.

Kingston, Oct. 21.—The following has been issued for publication:

"October 20.—I desire to express my regret for having publicly stated that Prof. John Marshall was not a Christian. I fully withdraw the statement, and humbly apologize for having made it. Walter J. Pike."

This is the finale of the episode at the Bible Institute where one professor of Queen's objected to another speaking because of his non-Christian views.

To Be Buried in Toronto.

London, Oct. 21.—The funeral arrangements of the late Bishop Baldwin are very simple. There will be no lying in state at the cathedral. The funeral services will be held at 8:30 on Saturday morning at St. Paul's, and will be conducted by Bishop Carmichael, coadjutor bishop of Montreal. The remains will be removed to Toronto by the 10.25 a.m. G.T.R. train for interment in St. James' Cemetery, Toronto.

Murderer At 78.

New London, Conn., Oct. 21.—Gershon Marx, the aged Colchester farmer, who has been on trial for several days, charged with the killing of Pavol Rodeki, a farm hand in his employ, last spring, yesterday was found guilty of murder in the first degree. Marx probably will be sentenced to death to-day. The prisoner showed no concern when the verdict was announced. He is 78 years of age.

Blame to Housedy.

Winnipeg, Oct. 21.—The medical commissioners appointed by the city to report the cause of the prevalence of typhoid in the city have completed their work, and in their opinion the existence of fever can be laid almost wholly to the unsanitary conditions prevailing in the city. This, coupled with the house fly carrying the disease to different sections, is held responsible.

Adopted a Compromise.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 21.—The House of Deputies at the Episcopal General Convention yesterday adopted by a large majority the compromise in the resolution on the divorce question, by which the innocent party in a divorce for adultery may re-marry after one year on the presentation of satisfactory evidence of the fact.

Postponed Indefinitely.

Copenhagen, Denmark, Oct. 21.—The departure of Queen Alexandra for England, which, earlier in the week, was postponed until yesterday on account of the indisposition of her sister, the Dowager Empress of Russia, was again postponed yesterday, this time indefinitely.

Suprise to Doctors.

Most doctors are astonished at the results obtained by Dr. Chase-s Ointment as a cure for eczema, salt rheum and itching skin diseases which are often considered well nigh incurable. By word of mouth from friend to friend the exceptional merits of Dr. Chase's Ointment have gradually become known until it is now standard the world over and has a record of cures unparalleled in the history of medicine.

A TRIBUTE FROM CANADA.

Characteristic Decoration For Nelson's Monument From Esquimalt Navy League.

London, Oct. 21.—Lord Stanley, M.P., speaking at Bolton, said there was the utmost divergence of opinion regarding the colonial preference, which was understood by some as entailing a tax on food. He was unwilling to commit himself to such a course until he knew exactly what were the benefits which would accrue to this country in return. If our colonies inclined to favor us by some pereference, it would be foolish in the extreme if we said absolutely and definitely "no" to any proposals they might make, simply because they were supposed to be contrary to doctrines put forward 50 years ago, when present circumstances of trade could not be foreseen.

The general purposes committee of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce Wednesday endorsed the Liverpool Chamber's condemnation of the new customs laws and regulations of Canada re certificates of origin and value, and declared itself prepared to co-operate in any action which might be deemed advisable to take for the interests of British shippers.

Earl Grey, opening the Presbyterian Church bazaar at Alnwick, said he as a member of the Church of England looked upon the various Protestant churches in this country not as rivals but as comrades, who ought to be upheld as far as possible. They were all regiments of one army and engaged in fighting the same enemy.

Among the decorations on the Nelson monument was an autumn-tinted maple leaf bearing an anchor of lichen, and as emblems the rose, shamrock and thistle from the Esquimalt branch of the Navy League.

Recommended Dividend.

London, Oct. 21.—(C.A.P.)—The directors of the British Columbia Electric Railway Company recommend a dividend on the deferred ordinary stock for the half year of 3 per cent., making 6 per cent. for the year.

A Book for the Home.

Dr. Chase's Last and Complete Receipt Book, containing over three thousand medical, cooking, veterinary and miscellaneous receipts, is sold at $2.75 post-paid. There is no book published which is so useful in the home. After using it a month you would not exchange it for $10. Congratulates Canadians.

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—The Canadian exhibits at St. Louis have been thoroughly appreciated by the people of the United States. The latest evidence of this comes from Philadelphia. The mayor of that city has written to the Department of the Interior, congratulating Canada upon the exhibits of natural and industrial products. He states that a permanent industrial museum has been established on a large scale in Philadelphia, and asks that the Canadian exhibit in St. Louis shall be sent to Philadelphia. He is willing to accept it whole or in part. The application has not been acted upon.

BROKEN MIRRORS.

Varying Phases of the Superstition That Clings to Them.

A young man with a hall bedroom atmosphere about him got off an elevated train at Hector street. He omitted to take a paper bag that a passenger who got aboard with him at Fifty-ninth street saw him carrying.

"Hi!" shouted his fellow passenger. "You've forgotten your luncheon."

The young man hurried off without appearing to hear. The train hand peeped into the bag. "Broken glass!" he exclaimed. "Broken mirror this trip," he said to the passenger. "We run across broken mirrors in bags or wrapped in neat newspaper parcels [illegible] part, I put the pieces under the seat for the cleaners to take away. If one is superstitious at all it is just as unlucky to dispose of the pieces of a broken mirror as it is to break the glass. I don't want any secondhand bad luck handed out to me.

"Somebody has got to break shaving mirrors or there wouldn't be any sale for new ones, but young chaps who live in boarding houses don't like to leave the pieces around when they break one for fear of the landlady. There is no more superstitious person on earth than a boarding house keeper. I have heard of cases where a man has been asked to give up his room because he [illegible] a mirror."

CANADA'S GREATEST TOWN DOES HONOUR TO CANADA'S GREATEST STATESMAN.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Addressed 6,000 Cheering Men and Women.

Masterly Address by Canada's Great Orator on the Public Questions.

Mr. R. R. Hall's Candidature Endorsed by Sir Wilfrid and Thousands of West Peterborough Voters.

Largest Gathering Ever Held in Peterborough Was That Which Last Night Filled Brock Street Rink.

Streets Lined with Citizens Eager to Catch Glimpse of the Premier--Monster Torchlight Procession.

Canada's Premier Received an Enthusiastic Welcome to Canada's Largest Town--A Great Ovation.

Hundreds of Visitors to Peterborough Last Night--Three Bands in the Procession.

Greatest Liberal Gathering in the History of Eastern Ontario Was That Held in Peterborough Last Night.

Last night the largest crowd that has ever been seen in Peterborough on any occasion, gathered in the Brock Street Rink to hear Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Premier of Canada and the "First Statesmen of Great Britain" discuss the public issues of the day, and to pay a tribute to the man who has been instrumental in raising Canada from the status of a colony to a nation in the eyes of the world.

Six thousand persons were crowded in the rink and as many more were outside unable to gain admittance.

From six o'clock the crowds began to gather in the rink, and when its doors were opened at 7:15, there were fully 2000 persons waiting to be admitted.

PETERBOROUGH, the largest seat town in the Dominion, last night gave Sir Wilfrid Laurier the largest and best reception he has yet received in his triumphant Ontario tour of great and enthusiastic welcomes. Never before in the life of the town, has anything in the way of a political gathering reached, or even approached, the meeting of last night, whether one refers to the immense numbers, or the other features which go to making a magnificent and successful political gathering. The Laurier meeting at Massey Hall was, at the time, considered the greatest political demonstration, but newspaper men, who attended both, say that the Peterborough meeting was, at least, equal in numbers, and other features, to that hitherto crowning event of its kind.

Laurier's lucky star was in the ascendant, and shone with greater brilliancy in the closing hours of his tour than at any precedent period. The weather conditions were perfect, and the local management of the masses that thronged to hear the great statesman, were as perfect as circumstances would admit.

The attendance was simply immense. The rink, 100 x 190 feet in area, was seated for five thousand people, but between one and two thousand filled the standing space in every available place, and it is a conservative estimate to say that between 6,000 and 7,000 persons were packed in the immense auditorium, and it is also safe to say that an almost equal number were outside, unable to gain entrance.

The town turned out its thousands, the country other thousands, and special trains were run from every point of the compass, from Tweed on the east, to Pontypool, on the west, from Belleville on the south, to Lindsay on the north. Fully 1500 persons came by train from outside points.

Not only was the welcome of the heart-felt tribute of the multitude accorded to Sir Wilfrid, but the town itself was brilliant with fluttering banners and streamers with loyal and patriotic blazons of welcome and recognition. From the Grand Trunk station to George street, on Charlotte street, from the C. P. R. station to Brock street, on George, were avenues of gorgeous colouring. It is safe to say, that Turner & Sons, given a free hand, never carried out so brilliantly before the scheme of decoration entrusted to them. Conspicuous among the legends was "Long Live the King," many times repeated in varied forms. His Gracious Majesty was not forgotten, and "Laurier and the Larger Canada," with its tremendous significance, caught the eye of the admiring beholder.

As early as six-thirty — half an hour before the doors opened — the space in front of the rink was crowded with people anxious to enter, and the streets were a moving mass of people bent upon the same errand.

Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier arrived at 5.33, and were met at the station by leading local Liberals, Mr. R. R. Hall the Liberal candidate, His Worship Mayor Roger, chairman of the meeting, Hon. and Mrs. J. R. Stratton, Mr. N. T. and Mr. Ossias LePlante and others.

After dinner at Mr. LePlante's Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier were escorted from the C.P.R. station by a torchlight procession, and citizens in carriages.

At the Rink.

At the rink the scene looking from the press gallery was an impressive one. The whole vast space was crowded to almost suffocating compactness. Below a sea of faces, above roofed with flags, banners and bunting, waving in the ruffled air. It would be impossible for the rink to have had a gayer gala dress than was given it last night by Mr. A. Kingscote with his splendidly successful decorations. The committee in charge of the rink carried out the seating arrangements excellently and it was not their fault that the invasion of the multitude made accommodation more crowded and less comfortable than was to be desired. The scene in the rink had to be seen to be appreciated. Under the parti-coloured canopy that was over the platform were seated a gathering of representative citizens from the town and surrounding cities and towns. A balustrade of palms formed the front of the stage. Amongst those upon the platform were the following:—

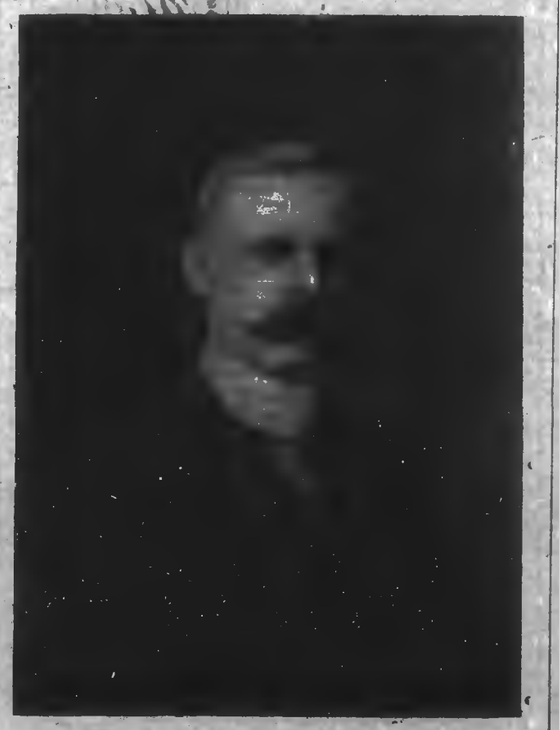
Robt. Harrison, Wm. Telford, Rev. J. Ross, Peterborough; Rev. G. A. McLennan, Norwood; W. P. Plant, Hastings; John Holmes, N. Monaghan; M. E. Knox, Norwood; J. W. Wood, John Cameron, Ed. Chapman, Havelock; D. M. Hamilton, Geo. Minorgan, Peterborough; Senator Kerr, Cobourg; Rev. J. E. Robeson, Fraserville; Rev. E. Bowerman, Selwyn; G. W. Morrow, Robt. Innis, Ald. Scott, Mr. Braund, Peterborough; Rev. Father McColl, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral; Rev. Father Conway, Norwood; L. F. Clarry, J. J. English, Hastings; Dr. Bradd, Peterborough; John Brown, Belmont, ex-warden of Peterborough County; William Crough, Ennismore; A. E. Dixon, Peterborough; John Riddell, South Monaghan; W. T. Curtis, Havelock; Wm. Anderson, M.P.P.; John Lang, ex-M. P., Dr. Robertson, Norwood; Mr. VanNorman, Havelock; John Finlay, Liberal candidate in East Peterborough; H. B. R. Dryden, Campbellford; E. Corkery, Ennismore; D. J. Lynch, F. E. Gaudrie, Campbellford; Baron Lott, Liberal candidate in West Hastings; Wm. Graham, F. M. DeLaForce, Lakefield; J. I. Davidson, J. B. Larocque, Alex. Davidson, Smith; Thos. Howson, Norwood; Robert Stuart, Treasurer of American Cereal Co., J. A. Tully, W. S. Merrill, J. J. Hartley, Peterborough; Rev. Father McGuire, Hastings; Rev. Father Brotherson, Downeyville; F. A. Walters, Lindsay; D. W. Douglass, J. B. Ferrie, E. C. West, Campbellford; John Douglass, Warkworth; Thos. Rutherford, Campbellford; Senator McHugh, Lindsay; A. L. Sykes, Peterborough; W. E. Burrows, Campbellford; G. A. Payne, Campbellford; Capt. Thompson, W. J. Moher, Mayor of Cobourg; J. F. Collins, Ennismore; R. J. Mulligan, Omemee; A. E. Bryson, Omemee; Rev. J. J. Wright, Yukon; F. A. Kilbourn, Lakefield; D. O'Connell, Wm. Hamilton, Jr., Peterborough; Johnston Paudash, Hiawatha; Hon. J. R. Stratton, Adam Hall, Jas. Davidson, O. LaPlante, D. Conroy, J. C. Sullivan, V. Eastwood, R. R. Hall, R. Kingan, Rich. Hall, Peterborough; Hon. Senator Cox, Rev. Father O'Sullivan, Victoria Road; Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, Ennismore.

While waiting the arrival of Sir Wilfrid and party, the immense throng was patient and good natured. An incident that testified to the popularity of Senator McHugh, from Lindsay, broke the monotony of waiting. At the time the aisles were crowded, and the Senator had a hard task before him to reach the platform. But stalwart as he is in frame and character there were other stalwarts who seeing his dilemma, hoisted him on their shoulders and carried him triumphantly to the stage.

The rink, in addition to the ornamental features, had many mottoes, showing the prominent features and results of the Liberal policy, as follows:

"Laurier and the Larger Canada."
"Canada Leads the World as a Business Country."
"No Soup Kitchens Under Laurier."
"Give the Country Five Years more Progress."
"Welcome Laurier."
"Prosperity, Progress and Good Will."
"A Preference to British Kin."
"Laurier Government is All Right."
"All Canadian Railway for Canada."
"Listen to the Hum."
"Maintain British Connection."

Sir Wilfrid and his party, including Mr. Hall, the candidate, entered the rink at 8.15, and those who could no see this exp cted event were soon apprised of it, for the immense throng rose en masse as soon as the Premier's entrance was known and a scene of wild enthusiasm succeeded. The people were on their feet standing on seats or on the floor, waving hats and handkerchiefs, while volley after volley of acclaiming cheers made the very rafters vibrate. This continued till Sir Wilfrid reached the platform, when, as his imposing figure and his pale intellectual face wreathed in smiles became visible to all, the eruption of frantic applause burst forth in renewed volume and intensity. It would be impossible for any man in any sphere of national prominence to have had a warmer and even more affectionate welcome. Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier were accompanied to the platform by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hall and Mrs. N. T. LePlante.



R. R. HALL, the Liberal Candidate for West Peterborough.

MAYOR ROGER'S ADDRESS.

The proceedings opened without delay. After the band had played "God Save the King," Mayor Roger, who presided as chairman, at once began the speaking. He said:—I think that I make no mistake if I represent to Sir Wilfrid Laurier that this entire community, irrespective of party affiliations and of every other consideration, desires to unite in the cordial welcome to Peterborough which I have the pleasure of now extending to him. (Loud Cheers.) The vast audience assembled here to-night, the largest probably which has ever assembled under one roof in the town of Peterborough, is expressive of the universal respect and esteem in which Sir Wilfrid is held by the people of Canada. All may not agree with all details of his policy, but all agree in acclaiming him as our foremost Canadian and as a Statesman who has rendered distinguished service to Canada and to the Empire of which we form no mean part. (Cheers.) The visits which the Leaders of both the great political parties have been pleased to favour us with at this time may, without undue vanity on our part be taken, I think, as a tribute to the growing importance of Peterborough as a business centre, and we on our part only too gladly acknowledge that Peterborough has profitted by the general prosperity now so evident throughout Canada. (Long continued applause.) He then introduced

HON. J. R. STRATTON

Who was given a very enthusiastic reception.

He said in all his public life, which extended over a period of almost twenty years, he had never risen to address an audience of such tremendous proportions as the one before him. He did not desire to underestimate the importance of the Liberal policy, or the great ability of its administrators, but he regarded this magnificent ovation as a popular tribute to the ability and worth of the greatest statesman of Canada, and he would give the people before him their one desire of hearing our distinguished guest, whom the London, England News, had fittingly described in these words, "Sir Wilfrid Laurier is easily the first statesman of Greater Britain." (Enthusiastic applause.)

Mr. Stratton next referred to the marvellous growth and development of Canada during the last eight years and of the changes that had taken place in the town and county of Peterborough. The speaker said that Sir Wilfrid had brought Canada closer to the Mother Country, and to-day this country is recognized as the greatest of all the British colonies. Mr. Stratton characterized Sir Wilfrid as being the moving spirit and the one who was instrumental in giving Canada the position she has attained, and he put it to the audience present as to whether or not the premier had not carried out every promise to the letter, made to the people. The faction cries of years ago, when the Conservatives held the reins of government, which threatened to disrupt the Dominion, were not heard now. That great statesman, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, had told the people of Canada that he thought he could loosen the bonds that tied our manufacturers down, and appealed to the people to give him a chance and promised that the smoke stacks of the industrial concerns would smoke as they had never smoked before. (Applause.) Every one of these promises had been fulfilled, said Mr. Stratton, and, as a result, there was not a working man in Peterborough at the present time who does not enjoy greater prosperity, there is not a factory but is paying more wages, and turning out more work, than it did in 1896. (Cheers.) He advised the people to do what he (Mr. Stratton) thought best, and send a young man who is a Liberal to represent the riding of West Peterborough in the House on November third, a man with good ability, unconquerable energy and enterprise, with a will and determination to look diligently after the best interests of the town to which he belongs. He was sure that the electors of the riding did not desire to repeat the mistakes they had made eight and four years ago. The speaker asked the electors to vote with a view of the prosperity of Canada, and to consider to whom it was largely due, how it was brought about, and to consider the wants of Peterborough for the next five years, and if they did this they would elect Mr. R. R. Hall, and he (Mr. Stratton) wanted to see him sent down to Ottawa by an overwhelming majority. (Hearty applause.)

He appe[illegible] young men, who would [illegible] vote, to consider well how they would mark their ballots; they would be the men of the future. He impressed on the older ones who had stood by the Liberals in the past, and who had grown old in the good fight, to join hands with the young men, and by so doing indicate the esteem and loyal feeling they have for the statesmen of

RIGHT HON. SIR WILFRID LAURIER.

Canada, and practically recognise the great services they had rendered to Canada. (Prolonged cheers.)

MR. R. R. HALL'S ADDRESS

was a model of conciseness, good taste and good matter. He was given a most encouragingly enthusiastic reception. He opened by referring to the great pleasure it afforded him to address one of the Peterborough, who were gathered Peterborough, who were assembled to tender their respects to Canada's Premier, the Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier. (Cheers.) He referred to the policy and condition of the Conservative Government of 1896, and to their administration, which was bringing want and degradation to Canada. Trade and industries were languishing, one province was working against another, one race against another, and one religion against another, and note to the tremendous change which Sir Wilfrid statesmanship had brought. He had settled the vexed question, and the brightest chapter in the history of Canada, when it came to be written, would be that which recorded how Sir Wilfrid Laurier had laid the foundation of eternal peace and amity between the diverse races of Canada. (Great cheering.) He commented upon the growth and development of Canada during the last eight years, and how the trade and commerce had nearly doubled. He quoted instances in the town and county of Peterborough. The Canadian General Electric Co. had substantially increased their works, and were now employing nearly double the hands they formerly did; the American Cereal Co., who invested an immense sum of money in building a plant in Peterborough; the Peterborough Hydraulic Power Co., who had expended a large sum of money in developing power to operate these works, and supply power and light at reasonable rates to consumers. The Otonabee Power Co., the Canadian Cordage Works had been established, and other industries located in Peterborough had extended their works. The speaker also referred to the building of the Lift Lock, and the opening of the Trent Canal between Peterborough and Lakefield, and spoke of the evidence of growth and prosperity on every hand. (Applause.)

Mr. Hall then proceeded to briefly present the causes which had brought about this wonderful increase, and attributed it to the management of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and the business-like methods adopted by those in charge of the different departments of the Government. Great reforms had been introduced by the Liberal leader, such as the reduction of one third off the tariff wall between Great Britain and Canada, giving a loyal preference to that extent to our own kin beyond the seas, and by so doing the total trade between the Mother Country and the colony had increased 20% year to year at an astonishing rate, as had all other trades. This wonderful and gratifying increase, said Mr. Hall, had not been brough about by chance, but by wise laws and prudent administration, and Canada to-day occupies a far higher position than she did in 1896. (Cheers.)

He was confident that all appreciated and felt satisfied that from one end of this country to the other there has been prosperity and a tremendous growth of continued activity for the last eight years under Liberal rule, and, therefore, when they weighed the disadvantages of the old policy, against the great advantages of the Liberal policy, they would vote to continue it for five years longer. (Applause.)

Mr. Hall in conclusion made a telling appeal to the people present to declare by their votes at the polls that West Peterborough possesses a grateful recognition of the fact that the affairs of the country have been administered wisely and well and that such a Government should be returned to power for a further period of usefulness in building up Canada, and prolonging our prosperity, by no uncertain majority. (Enthusiastic applause.)

The greater part of the Trent Valley Canal has been built already, but if we were to leave it as it is it would be a Canal wouhout an issue. (Laughter).. But let me tell you this, whatever Government may be in power, whether Liberal or Conservative, that Government will be derelict of its duty—would be criminal—which having commenced a Canal would leave it without an outlet at all. Therefore the Canal must be prosecuted as quickly as possible until completed. (Applause.)--Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Flowers in the Pathway.

When the cheering had subsided, and Mr. Hall had taken his seat, three little girls, sweet as the flowers they carried, ascended the platform struggling with their burden of bloom. Miss Mabel Brown, daughter of Dr. Brown, presented Sir Wilfrid Laurier with a splendid sheaf of crimson roses; Miss Alice McFarlane, daughter of Mr. Charles McFarlane, presented a bouquet to Mr. R. R. Hall, the Liberal candidate, and Miss Mabel Lount, daughter of Mr. F. A. Lount, and a descendant of one of Canada's martyr patriots, gave Lady Laurier a magnificent basket of white chrysanthemums. As these gifts were placed in the hands of the gratified recipients, the usual osculatory acknowledgments were made amidst great cheering.

HON. J. R. STRATTON,
Provincial Secretary.

THE PREMIER'S ADDRESS.

Sir Wilfrid was given a tremendous ovation, when he arose to address the gathering, which he said was the largest he had spoken to in Ontario during the present tour, and was without a doubt, the greatest number of persons that has ever gathered to hear a political address in the town of Peterborough, if not in the whole of Eastern Ontario.

Sir Wilfrid was happy in his address, which, although it was not long, was an eloquent one, and was listened to with the greatest attention by the thousands who filled the building.

Prosperity Everywhere.

The Premier said, in opening his address, that eight years ago he had visited Peterborough, and it had been his pleasure then to address the people of this town on the political questions of the day. The circumstances then were the same as on this occasion. It was on the eve of a general election. At that time he had been privileged to spend a whole day in Peterborough, and he had been able to see something of the town. He regretted that on this occasion he had been unable to arrive here in the morning, as he had intended, in order that he might again have been given an opportunity of going through the town for the purpose of witnessing the changes that had taken place here, and which had been told to him by his friend Mr. Stratton, and his friend, Mr. Hall.

In 1896 half of the population of Peterborough showed signs of sadness. The Conservatives were rather numerous in Peterborough in those days, but he hoped that they were not as numerous to-day.

Prophecies Unfulfilled.

At that time the Conservatives prophecied that if the Liberals were elected, the prosperity of the country would be at an end, but their prophecies had not been fulfilled, and to-day the country was more prosperous than it had ever been before. It has been found that the prophecies made by the Conservatives at that time were without foundation, and to-day everyone in Peterborough as, indeed throughout the whole of the Dominion, is prosperous and contented.

In 1896, after the Liberals had been elected, they decided that a revision of the tariff was necessary, and they decided that the revision should be one he said, which would not only give relief to the consumer, but at the same time create conditions which would give satisfaction to the manufacturers. That revision was made, and the expectations had been more than realized.

At the next session of Parliament, after the general election of 1896, a revision of the tariff was made, and that revision had been such as to give satisfaction to all classes of citizens.

Another Tariff Revision.

Still, the tariff cannot be permanent, because it is simply the work of human hands. In a country like Canada, in which the conditions are always changing, it is impossible that the tariff be permanent like the laws of the Medes and Persians. But it was never intended that the tariff should be permanent; it was intended that there should be stability, and stability there has been in it. (Cheers.) Eight years have elapsed since the tariff was first introduced, and put upon the statute book. We all know that the time is not far distant when there should be another general revision of the tariff, but if such a revision is undertaken, upon what lines shall it take place? As to that the people of Canada need have no anxiety; there is no uncertainty on that subject, because we have given you the lines upon which the tariff is to be revised. Hon. Mr. Fielding has declared what these lines should be, and he was sure they will commend themselves their judgment. In the first place Mr. Fielding has declared there shall be no revision of the tariff until there has been ample investigation — (cheers) — until there has been consideration given to every class of the community, to the producer and the consumer. (Applause.) All classes of manufacturers will be heard, and will give their advice, so that the Government will have the best possible advice, and be in the best possible condition to do in 1906 what it did in 1897, bring forth the best tariff the country demands at the moment. (Applause.)

Minimum and Maximum Tariff.

We are not going to follow the old groove that has been followed since the Dominion became a confederation, up to the present moment, said Sir Wilfrid. We have now only one line of duty which we apply to all countries alike, except to Great Britain, to which we give the preference. (Applause.) But we propose to add a new chapter; we propose to have a double class of duties, to have a minimum and a maximum tariff. The minimum tariff we shall apply to such countries as will treat us fairly, to such as will trade with us fairly; that is to countries that will not only sell to us, but buy from us. The maximum we propose to use against those countries which are selfish in their methods, which insist upon selling to us, but will not have elasticity or reciprocity of fair trade arrangement with us. (Applause.) Under such circumstances we believe we are following the consensus of opinion of all Canadians when we apply to others the same treatment as they apply to us. (Applause.) Upon this point I have given you a few words on the line of the policy we intend to follow, when we revise the tariff. (Applause.) Let me ask this question of Conservatives present. I believe there are some Conservatives in the hall, but they are getting fewer and fewer all the time. (Laughter and applause.) I ask them do they not approve of this line of policy? (Applause.) [illegible] according to your views [illegible] of hearty [illegible] tariff in the [illegible] which I have events, give you something which is interesting, something which you can all understand, and upon which you can all form your own judgment.

The British Preference.

There is a feature of the tariff which we have at the present time, the preferantial tariff to England, to which he wished to refer. There is a motto here, "A Preference to British Kin." It is a motto which he found in a good Liberal audience. The Conservatives practically have never shown much sympathy for the preference. True, they have not attacked it, but they have not supported it very cordially either. It would be very difficult for Mr. Borden and his party generally to meet on a common platform on this subject. He never attacked it himself, but some of his lieutenants have attacked it. They never attack it here in this province of Ontario, but go into the Province of Quebec, and you will find his lieutenants, such as Mr. Casgrain, telling the people of Canada, the people of Quebec, that the greatest mistake that was ever made by the Liberal party, was to grant the preference to England. It is the old old story which we are long familiar with, one language for Quebec and one for Ontario; but so far as the Liberal party is concerned we are in Ontario as in Quebec, it is always the same language, the language that we imposed when we brought in the preference, and so long as it works as it has been working in the last seven years, we have decided it is a good thing, and we intend to maintain it. (Loud cheers.) Among the people of Canada, among the Conservative party, the preference has done well.

Mr. Kendry's Opposition.

In the province of Ontario all are agreed on the preference; no, not all, for there is one man, who, if he is reported correctly, is opposed to that policy, and that man is Mr. Kendry, the Conservative candidate in West Peterborough, and he felt safe in saying that Mr. Kendry was the only man in the province who is opposed to that preference.

The British preference, however, had not been adopted only because of the desire to give an advantage to British goods, because they are of the same kin, but because they believed that trade attracts trade, and the growth of trade between Canada and Great Britain had been wonderfully increased since the adoption of the preference.

A Mutual Preference.

Two years ago there was a conference, a British conference, at the time of the coronation of His Majesty the King, and at that conference, said Sir Wilfrid, we laid down upon the table those conditions under which we were prepared to give a preference to Great Britain, and it is now embodied in a state paper, which we laid on the table on that occasion. We said that if a preference were given on Canadian products from a duty now or hereafter to be levied—at that time, you will remember there was a war tax on cereals — we would be prepared to go further into the subject, and endeavour to give to the British manufacturer some increased advantage over his foreign competitors in the markets of Canada. That is the policy which we laid down two years ago. It is there, it is before the world, it is before Canada, it is before the empire. It is for the people of Great Britain to pronounce upon it, whether they are ready to meet us and advance the policy we have laid down, or whether they are not.

Increase in Imports and Exports.

In 1896, our imports from Great Britain amounted to only $29,000,000, while in 1903 under the influence of the policy of British preference, they had increased to $61,000,000 or more than double. In reference to the exports, in 1896 they amounted to $61,000,000 while last year the exports including all kinds of lumber, agricultural products, minerals and manufactured articles had risen to $134,000,000. This was a justification of policy adopted towards Great Britain and that was instrumental in bringing about such properous conditions as are at present existing. (Applause.)

The people of Canada were now called upon to determine by whom they will be governed during the next five years. There was no question, however, about this, it was already settled. (Applause.) In making this statement he was not prophesying, he would leave this to the olden times, to this good friend Sir Charles Tupper, (laughter,) who was always prophesying though falsely. But Sir Charles was never discouraged and if he failed one day or one year, he commenced again the next as ardent as ever. And in this respect Mr. Borden was second only to Sir Charles, (applause and laughter,) for he was prophesying victory, but there was no need of this for the Liberal party was going to have a glorious triumph on Nov. 3. (Prolonged applause.) He could read this everywhere with a certainty which assured success. There was an obvious reason why there should be no change—because there was no cause for a change. (Applause.) The country had been exceedingly well governed, had been enjoying more prosperity and had seen greater development in the past eight years than during any previous period.

Proud of Being Canadian.

Friend or foe, Liberal or Conservative alike must admit that there is not in this town or in Canada, anyone who is not prouder to-day to call himself a Canadian than he was eight years ago. (Applause.) The name of Canada had travelled far and wide during the term of Liberal rule. In Europe eight years ago the name of Canada was seldom heard of and no significance was attached to it, but to-day the nation of the world turn their gaze to this new star in the western world. There was no need for a change and we all could see the reason why the present Government should be returned to power on Nov. 3rd. (Applause.)

A "Lucky" Government.

The Conservatives would not give any credit to the Liberal party for having brought about any prosperity in the country, but say that the Liberals were "lucky" and were (a) dispute that Providence had done dispute that Providence had done a great deal for the country during the Liberal administration, nor would he dispute the statement that the Liberals had been lucky. He knew that he had been born under a lucky star, (applause,) and he wanted to know from the Conservatives from what point of view they were going to change what was lucky for what was unlucky. (Applause.) The past eight years had been years of extreme luck, whereas the previous eighteen years had been a period of bad luck. The Conservatives appeared anxious to resume power, bringing back the bad luck and giving up the fat for the lean, but he thought the people too shrewd for this, and consequently he had every confidence in the result of the election because there was absolutely no reason for any change. (Applause.)

The Government's Part.

But apart from that luck and Providence, said Sir Wilfrid, I claim still that after all, the Government has done something for the country and has not been satisfied to rest on their oars. Their thought has been to improve the circumstances of Canada and its people and if the country has been developed and has risen from the rank of a colony to that of a nation it is because there have been put on the statute books measures which will always resound to the honour and glory of Canada. (Applause.) The first of these measures was the preference to the British kin. Mr. Foster was not very complimentary in speaking of the Liberal party, but Sir Wilfrid would let him have his own way. Mr. Foster had said that there was no credit due to the Liberal party for the British preference for they did not invent it but simply stumbled up against it by mere accident. He would not argue on this point, but if the party had stumbled on to the preference, they did so by their usual good luck. (Applause.) Mr. Foster, on the other hand, was not lucky enough to stumble in any such a manner. (laughter.) But whether they had stumbled or not, the result was there, and Mr. Foster or anyone else could not deny it, whether it were founden on haphazard or by design.

The Preference.

In the month of April, 1897, Hon. Mr. Fielding stated that British goods would get a preference in all custom houses in Canada, and when the news flashed to England, the name of Canada became a famous one and the heart of John Bull was moved as it never was moved before. (Applause. The name of Canada which hitherto had been unknown was in the mouth of all England from the humblest subject to Her Majesty the Queen, and from that date Canada arose in the estimation of England. (Applause.)

There was one obstacle to that policy of preference and that was in the old treaties existing with Germany and Belgium and which prevented Canada taking the rank of a nation and prevented the giving of a preference if they wanted to. They had asked to be released from these treaties but all efforts were in vain because the treaties were satisfactory to Great Britain and was helpful to her trade. But it so happened that in the year of the Diamond Jubilee, he was called upon as Prime Minister to go to England to represent the Government and the people on the festive occasion. Sir Wilfrid realised that it was an opportune time to plead the cause of the Canadian people with the British people and Government. On June 11, he landed at Liverpool and on the first day was called upon to address a meeting as large as the present one. He put the question before the British people and told them of the preference given to British goods, and also told of the obstacles of the treaties help by having these renounced. He said if we could not have these renounced the preference could not be given and either Great Britain must advance or Canada must recede. The cause was taken up by all and two months afterwards the treaties were renounced with Germany and Belgium. Two years before there was a sensation in England when it was announced that there would be a preference for English goods, but there was a sensation all over the world when it was learned that England had denied treaties with two of her best customers and had done so almost by compulsion of Canada. The world began to wonder what this Canada was and since then, she has been known as one of the rising nations of the Western Hemesphere. (Applause.) This is one of the reasons why the Government should be sustained.

No Division in the Party.

Partyism must give way to sound reasoning. He was not present to violate the conscience of anyone. There were Conservatives in the audience and he wished to tell them that he respected their convictions but they believed they were in the right, and he knew they were in the wrong, and were unfortunate in not recognising their fault. Let them look around and they must come to the conclusion that the Government well merited the support of all Canadians. This was a difficult country to govern. Sir John Macdonald, Sir John Thompson, Sir Mackenzie Bowell and other Premiers had all found it so. He had had no difficulties in the ranks of his own party, but still it was a difficult matter to govern the country properly. There were all kinds of difficulties to be contended with, but with the help of kind Providence they had been able to bring the country to its present prosperous conditions. (Applause.)

The Transcontinental Railway.

Sir Wilfrid said that important as the other questions were there was another matter which was very important, that of the Transcontinental Railway policy of the Government. This is the supreme issue of the campaign, and upon it the Government wanted the honest opinion of the electors.

There could be no question in the minds of anyone as to the need of another railway through the West. Not only would that railway be a necessity in the future, but it is also a necessity at the present time. The population of Canada now is about six millions, and in the not distant future it will be twenty-five millions, and he was speaking to persons who would live to see the population of this country reach the fifty million limit. Canada has a great heritage in the western country, and the great need of the west, and one which must be supplied, is a new railway, and one which will reach from the Atlantic to the Pacific, every foot of it

Through Canadian Soil.

The C. P. R. is a great railway, and it has been a great blessing to the country, but there was one great blunder made in its construction, and that blunder was made when it was not constructed entirely on Canadian soil. The present relations between Canada and the United States have, happily, up to the present time been friendly, and all hope that they may so continue, but, while there may not be war, there may be a commercial war, and if the United States should refuse Canada the present bonding privilege the result would be disastrous to Canadian shipping, which in the case of through traffic on the C.P.R. has to pass through U. S. territory before it reaches the seaboard.

Speaking as to the cost to the country, Sir Wilfrid said that the only cash outlay would be one of $13,500,000, or less than the surplus of the country for one year. The people, he thought, would be quite willing to pay that amount for the inestimable benefit of securing a transcontinental railway reaching from ocean to ocean, every foot of it passing through Canadian territory, and carrying Canadian products.

Sir Wilfrid admitted that the country and the Government had been lucky during the last eight years. He always was lucky; had been born under a lucky star. The last eight years had been a period of good luck while the previous eighteen years had been extremely unlucky, and he wanted to know why the Conservatives were so anxious to exchange again a period of good luck for one of ill-luck. They were apparently anxious to resume power, bringing back the bad luck and giving up the fat years for the lean, but he thought the people were too shrewd to be caught again, and since there was no good reason for a change, there would be none.

Government Ownership Impracticable.

The Conservatives profess to be shocked at what they affect to believe is an uneconomical bargain. But when they had control of the purse strings they were not so anxious as to the economy. Mr. Borden's plan is that the Government shall build the railway, and operate it after it has been built. This is a strange proposition, particularly when the history of Government owned railways in Canada in the past is considered.

Experience With Intercolonial.

The Intercolonial Railway is a Government operated railway and what has been the history of the Intercolonial Railway? It has been this, that in 1867 when the road was supposed to be completed to Quebec with a mileage of 700 miles it cost $36,000,000. The road has been extended since that time to Montreal, and is now about 1,290 miles in length, and has cost the Canadian Treasury $70,500,000. Now upon this amount of seventy and a half million dollars there has not been a cent of interest paid. Not only has there not been a cent of interest paid, but four years out of five there has not been enough money earned by the railway to cover the expenditure on running it. And is that what we are going to have in the extension of the Intercolonial Railway? An extension of deficit and deficit? An extension of a railway from which we shall never have a dollar of interest paid? What proposal is that to put before an intelligent audience? Is there a man here would say, "Yes; let it go on; we will have the Intercolonial extended to the Pacific Ocean?" (No, no.) Have we call to hope that it will be any better in the future than in the past? That when the Government railway as it is at present has not earned a dollar of interest, it shall earn interest upon the extension? It is preposterous, and it is not fair to expect, it is not possible, that the Canadian people can look seriously upon such a proposal as this. (Cheers.)

Mr. Borden's "Surplus."

Mr. Borden says that if he were elected and allowed to run the Intercolonial he could produce a surplus. We have heard that story before. Good men in the past have been in charge of the affairs of the Intercolonial, and the road has never yet paid a surplus, nor has it even paid profits enough to buy the grease on the wheels. (Laughter.) Sir John Macdonald, Sir Charles Tupper, Mr. Blair have been good men, better men than there is to be found in the Conservative party today, when it comes to running a railway, and they have not been able

ANECDOTES OF TRAVEL.

Some Gathered From All Parts of the World by Lloyd's Weekly Newspaper of London.

In clubs small mistakes often break cherished friendships. A rather pompous gentleman informed an acquaintance in the smoke-room that he intended to spend his holidays in a circular tour.

"Ah," remarked the other, whose mind did not soar beyond the Underground Railway, "are you going to take the Inner or the Outer Circle?"

He cannot understand why his friend will not speak to him now.

Civilized Stink!

The tastes of Europeans and the "outer barbarians" vary in the strangest manner. In this connection there is a story told of old Lobengula's disgust when he came on Mr. Maguire's Eau de Cologne bottle.

"What's this?" asked the Matebele King. "It stinks!"

"Majesty," quoth a grovelling attendant, "the white men like the stink of that bottle."

"H'm!" rejoined Lo Ben, "that accounts for them smelling so vilely!"

Soul Saving.

A party were traveling in an Irish canal boat; it was Friday, a fast day. A fine boiled salmon was on the cabin table, and his reverence the priest was taking a very large helping of the fish, when one of the travelers called across the table:

"Will your rivrence plase to pass the fish? Do you think no one has a sowl to save but yourself?"

Chucked.

When the late Lord Russell of Killowen once visited the United States he joined Mr. Evarts, an American lawyer, in walking along the bank of a wide stream. They came to a point where Washington is alleged to have once thrown a dollar across the river, and the myth was duly related to the somewhat sceptical visitor.

"You don't believe it?" said the American. "But then, you know, a dollar went farther in those days than it does now."

"Ah," replied Russell; "it may have been easy enough for Washington, who threw a sovereign across the Atlantic!"

As Advertised.

A visitor to Marseilles, anxious to secure lodgings, had his attention attracted to a placard which, in addition to the usual announcement of rooms to let, gave the information, "Clock on every landing."

He entered the house, examined the rooms, but failed to discover the clocks. On appealing to the landlord, that functionary promptly replied, "Why, my dear sir, look out of the window." And there, sure enough, was a church clock, visible from every landing!

Ruling Passion.

An amusing incident happened during the troubles in the Argentine Republic, in 1890. While the Government and insurgent forces were face to face in a conflict, pouring deadly volleys of bullets into each other's ranks, a British tourist and his wife, arrayed in all the traditional equipments, pushed their way through General Roca's troops, and, taking their stand near the front, coolly levelled their field-glasses to survey the fight with the same sangfroid with which they would have witnessed a sham engagement at home.

Everyone looked at the bold travelers, and General Roca was so struck by their courage and inveterate love of sight-seeing at whatever risk, that, turning to an aide-de-camp, he remarked: "No wonder the British are the ruling race."

Thief Trapped.

A gentleman, who had been refreshing himself at one of the Paris boulevard cafes, hurriedly re-entered the establishment and asked the waiter, "Did I leave behind me on the table a small parcel tied with a string?"

"No, sir," replied the waiter.

"By Jove, then, it's unlucky! I shouldn't like the parcel to get into strange hands, for it contained some valuable—"

"Jewels, sir?" suggested the waiter, smiling blandly.

"Good heavens! No, man; scorpions—some very rare and deadly scorpions!"

The waiter smiled no more. On the contrary, he turned deathly pale, and, sinking into the nearest chair, gasped as he pointed to his coat pocket: "They are there!"

Not Secret.

A well known Washington woman, doing the Cathedral cities of England last summer, wore a tiny American flag pinned to the waist of her traveling-dress. A good many of the English people whom she met did not understand, or pretended not to understand, what the flag represented.

"You belong to some secret society, I perceive," said an Englishwoman to whom she was introduced, pointing to the diminutive Stars and Stripes.

"Yes," responded the Washington woman, amiably, "there are seventy millions of us!"

Scared Quaker.

The elder Booth, the American actor, once took the fancy to be an absolute vegetarian, and while possessed of this craze he was traveling on the Western steamboat, and happened to be placed at a table opposite a solemn Quaker, who had been attracted by the eloquent conversation of the great actor. The benevolent old Quaker, observing the lack of viands on Booth's plate, kindly asked:

"Friend, shall I not help thee to the breast of this chicken?"

"No, I thank you, friend," replied the actor.

"Then shall I not cut thee a slice of the ham?"

"No, friend, not any."

"Then thee must take a piece of the mutton; thy plate is empty," persisted the old Quaker.

"Friend," said Booth, in those deep stentorian tones, whose volume and power had so often electrified crowded audiences, "I never eat any flesh but human flesh, and I prefer that raw!"

The old Quaker was speechless, and his seat was changed to another table at the next meal.

Outflanked.

Frederick the Great, the famous commander, sent to Dresden for Dr. Baylies, an English physician, to introduce inoculation into his dominions. When the doctor arrived in Berlin the King did not forget to ask his favorite question:

"Well, doctor, how many have you despatched to the other world?"

"Not so many as you, sir," was the quick and witty retort.

WILD ANIMALS.

Different Methods by Which They Are Captured.

The different methods by which various wild animals are captured in their native state are interesting. Lions are generally caught by being tempted to thrust their heads through nooses of strong cords composed of twisted hides. Pieces of meat are used for bait, but frequently the hunters have many days of hard chasing before the lion can be persuaded to try the noose. When he does, the cords are pulled quickly around his throat, stifling him, and other stout cords are bound around his legs. Tigers are more savage than lions and can rarely be captured when full grown. Recruiting is accordingly carried on among the cubs, the parent tigers being killed and the young, left without protectors, being easily caught. The cubs readily accustom themselves to captivity. Perhaps the most difficult of all wild animals to capture is the giraffe. In addition to being very rare giraffes are exceedingly timid and swift footed. There is no special way to capture a giraffe. Many different ways have been tried, and all have been equally unsuccessful. The method which has occasionally resulted in a capture is that of using a long cord, at each end of which is a round weight. This cord is thrown by the hunter in such a manner as to wind around the animal's legs, either bringing it to the ground or rendering it incapable of escaping before it is made a prisoner. Most of the giraffes in captivity have been caught by chance when young.

Dynamite Bait For Sharks.

In the British navy the engineers have a curious way of killing sharks. They seal up a dynamite cartridge in an empty can and put the can inside a lump of pork. The pork is thrown overboard on a wire which has been connected with an electric battery. When the shark takes the bait the engineer presses a button which explodes the cartridge and kills the fish.

A Curious Fish.

Many deep sea fish carry searchlights. One species, called the chinsmodon, emits a strong white light; another glows with a rich golden light, like a small incandescent lamp, while yet another carries a lantern on its head that emits bright green rays.

Rarest United States Coin.

The rarest coin of the United States is not, as many suppose, the silver dollar of 1804, but the double eagle of 1849, of which there is only one in existence, and that belongs to the cabinet of the United States mint. It cannot be bought.

IS YOUR CATARRH REMEDY CURING YOU

If You Are Unconsciously Using An Alcoholic Liquid Remedy Stop At Once.

People soon learn that the true test of a catarrh remedy is whether it cures to stay cured. Have you ever inquired why a liquid catarrh remedy makes you feel better for a time? It is because the alcohol in the liquid remedy makes the mucous membranes drunk. It deprives them of sensation, it inspires false hopes and always leads to alcoholic deceits. A permanent cure by any liquid dyspepsia or catarrh remedy is simply impossible. The alcohol used in liquid preparations makes it almost a travesty to call them remedies. They incite the worst forms of catarrhal trouble rather than cure such troubles. Can a physician be found who will truthfully say that any liquid catarrh remedy is worthy of use? Every physician knows that it is an absurdity for anyone to claim that catarrh, dyspepsia or any form of blood disease can be cured by a so-called liquid catarrh cure. In this connection it is wise to consider carefully the best means for relief. Smith's Triple Cure, that grand old remedy, consisting of four separate preparations, three of which are in tablet form, and used internally and another in the form of a catarrh cream, contains no alcohol and never leads to false hopes. It makes you feel better the first day, and each day following is but a repetition of the first day's experience. It restores the mucous membranes in every part of the body. It positively cures catarrh, dyspepsia and all blood disease. If you have long been a slave to a liquid catarrh remedy, break away from the habit. Use Smith's Triple Cure, and health, abundant, full and complete, will be yours. Four separate preparations, lasting a full two weeks for 50 cents, the greatest value for the money ever offered. If your druggist won't supply you, send us 50 two-cent stamps by mail today and we will send it, postpaid and guarantee safe delivery. Address W. F. Smith Co., 189 St. James St., Montreal.

A DOOMED VILLAGE "CAGE" SITUATED IN GREATER LONDON.

Quaint Roundhouse at Shenley, in Herts, Is to Be Demolished—With Its Disappearance Will Vanish One of the Last of the Village "Lock-ups"—Moral Inscription Over Its Two Barred Windows.

With the disappearance of the quaint "roundhouse" at Shenley, in Herts—which, it is reported, is about to be demolished—will vanish one of the last of the village "lock-ups" in Greater London. Indeed, the only example of any importance that will then remain will be the one at Cranford, now used as a mortuary. Erected in 1810, the Shenley "cage," which is of peculiar, if not unique, shape, has two barred windows, above which are the injunctions, "Be sober, be vigilant," and "Do good, and fear not." Though it was doubtless a terror to evildoers at one time, it has not had an inmate for a good many years. The last person incarcerated in it, according to the local quidnuncs, was a landlord of the adjoining inn, who is said to have nearly lost his life in consequence, the dampness from the horsepond bringing on a serious illness.

But its most important occupant was a murderer, whose deed is still vividly remembered by some of the inhabitants, notwithstanding that a quarter of a century has elapsed since it took place. It became necessary to evict a certain man, and consequently the village constable—this was before the days of the Metropolitan police—was called upon to do his duty. As he was going towards the house the defiant tenant popped out with a gun in his hand and bade him stand, threatening to kill him if he advanced another step. Ignoring this threat, the constable kept on his course, whereupon the miscreant shot him dead. Subsequently the murderer was arrested and placed in the "roundhouse" till he could be conveyed in safety to Barnet.

THE SECRET OF YOUTH.

It Is to Eat Raw Apples and Drink Much Distilled Water.

To drink the waters of the fountain of youth is still, in the opinion of some, within the range of possibility, says The Medical Age. A recent writer observes that man begins in a gelatinous condition and ends in an osseous or bony one. He is soft in infancy; he is hard in old age. Aging is a process of ossification. After middle life has passed a more marked development of the ossific character takes place. The arteries become thickened with calcareous matter, and there is interference with circulation, upon which nutrition depends.

The whole change from youth to old age is one of steady accumulation of calcareous deposits in the system. Entire blockade of the functions of the body is a mere matter of time, and the refuse matter deposited by the blood through the system stops the delicate machinery we call life.

The blood contains compounds of lime, magnesia and iron. In the blood itself are these earthy salts. In early life they are thrown off; in age they are not. Almost everything we eat contains these elements for destroying life. Earthy salts abound in the cereals, and bread itself is one of the most calcareous of edibles. Nitrogenous food also contains these elements; hence a diet made up of fruit is best for people advanced in years.

The daily use of distilled water is, after middle life, one of the most important means of preventing secretions and derangements of health.

Diluted phosphoric acid is one of the most powerful influences known to science for shielding the human system from the inconvenience of old age. Use it daily with distilled water and so retard the approach of senility.

To retain perpetual youth avoid all foods rich in the earth's salts, use much fruit, especially juicy, uncooked apples, and take daily two or three tumblerfuls of distilled water with about fifteen drops of diluted phosphoric acid in each glassful. Thus will your days be longer in the land.

A Remarkable Timepiece.

A remarkable timepiece is a clock fan manufactured by a Swiss jeweler. The clock is described by the Jewelers' Weekly consists of twelve leaves hinged like an ordinary fan. The number of the hour is marked from 1 to 12 at the end of each of these leaves. The fan timepiece starts at 6 o'clock and expands regularly for twelve hours, when it closes up and starts over again.

A Record in Trees.

The largest tree in the world is to be seen at Mascali, near the foot of Mount Etna, and is called "The Chestnut Tree of a Hundred Horses." Its name rose from the report that Queen Jane, of Aragon, with her principal nobility, took refuge from a violent storm under its branches. The trunk is 204 feet in circumference.

Wanted No Reminders of His Past.

"In my plans for your new home," says the architect, "I have provided for a large, ornate frieze in the hall."

"Don't want it," asserts Mr. Congealed.

"What?"

"Not a bit of it. Can't take any chances on having any one being reminded that I [illegible] drive an ice wagon."

THE JAPANESE BABY.

Showered With Gifts Before It Even Makes Its Appearance.

A hundred gifts in various shapes are offered to the baby before its appearance—toys, big ones, of course; pieces of cotton, silk or crepe, invariably with a happy omen in their design, are a joy to the mother. The housemaids will be busy with the baby's dress under the supervision of the grandmother. It will be no slight affair if the baby is a boy—yes, especially if it be the first son.

Parties coming with their congratulations will begin to stream into the house the very next morning after the announcement. They will bring dried fish or a box of eggs to express their good wishes, which will be returned in some form of present when the baby is two weeks old.

On the seventh day after the birth comes the christening, and rice cooked with red beans—doesn't red mean happiness?—will be sent among the friends. Matsu (pine) is a favorite name, since it signifies bravery, keeping green even under winter's frost. Isn't Mume (plume) better, since it is the harbinger of spring, breathing out the most divine odor in the world? Mi amairi (going to temple) will take place on the thirtieth day. The boy will be dressed in a kimono. It must be silk, with the family's coat of arms on it. He will be put under the immediate protection of the deity. His fortune will be secured.—Good Housekeeping.

Stature and Illness.

According to a paper read by Dr. Shrubsall before the British association, sufferers from tonsilitis, rheumatism and heart disease are of a higher stature, and sufferers from tuberculosis, nervous and malignant diseases of a lower stature than healthy individuals.

It appears that blond sufferers from pulmonary tuberculosis respond to treatment better than brunettes, while in diseases of the heart the positions are reversed. It is believed that in successive generations of city life stature shows a progressive diminution and that there is an increase in brunette traits with each generation passing from rural to urban life. With increasing length of residence there is an increase of morbidity among the different classes of Londoners.

Changed His Mind.

A man of notoriously bad character, residing in a village, wished to emigrate. To obtain assistance from the emigration commissioners one must have a character, and the man accordingly asked one from his neighbors. Everybody was anxious he should go, any everybody therefore testified to his excellent reputation. No one was more astonished at this result than the man himself, and after looking at his certificate, with its long list of signatures, "Well," said he, "I had no idea I was so much esteemed in the neighborhood. I think I shall stay."—London Tit-Bits.

Do You Choose

YOUR MEDICINE WITH CARE AND INSIST ON HAVING

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed AND Turpentine

FOR AILMENTS OF THE THROAT AND LUNGS

You cannot be too particular in buying medicine.

It may be a question of life or death.

There are so many cough and cold remedies that there is a tendency to be careless in the selection of treatment, and yet what is more dangerous than a cold?

You would not think of taking any medicine that might be offered for heart trouble or kidney disease, and yet far more people die from the result of neglected colds than from these ailments.

INSIST ON HAVING A MEDICINE OF RELIABILITY AND REPUTATION, SUCH AS DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE.

This great family medicine has stood the test of years, and never disappointed those who put their trust in it as a cure for croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma, coughs, colds and throat troubles.

Do not be satisfied with substitutes and imitations, for they lack the curative powers which have given Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine its world-wide reputation.

MRS. GEO. GOOD, Tichborne, Addington Co., Ont., writes: —"It is with pleasure that I certify to the wonderful success of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for colds. It is the best and surest treatment for coughs and colds that we have ever been able to find.—Mrs. Geo. Good, Tichborne, Addington Co., Ont."

MRS. A. A. VAN BUSKIRK, Robinson street, Moncton, N. B., writes:—"For years I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for my children when they have colds in the winter. I first used it with my daughter, who suffered from a severe form of asthma. The least exposure to cold would lay her up and she would nearly suffocate for want of breath. I must say I found it to be a most satisfactory treatment, and it has entirely cured her. It seems to go direct to the diseased parts and bring the desired relief."

Constipation

Fruit is nature's laxative. Plenty of fruit will prevent Constipation, but won't cure it. Why? Because the laxative principles of fruit are held in peculiar combination and are very mild.

After years of labor, an Ottawa physician accidently discovered the secret process by which

Fruit-a-tives or Fruit Liver Tablets

are made. He used fruit juices, but by combining them in a peculiar way, their action on the liver, kidneys, stomach and skin is increased many times.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" TABLETS contain all the medical properties of fruit—are a mild and gentle laxative—and the only permanent cure for Constipation, Torpid Liver, Sick Headaches, Bad Stomach and Kidney Troubles.

All druggists have them.

STORIES OF SAILOR MEN

A QUICK SHOT TO A POMPOUS OFFICER OF THE ROYAL NAVY.

Dead by the Doctor's Order—How H. M. S. Nelson Answered the First Question of the People of Sydney, N.S.W.—Amusing Instance of the Obedience Which Obtains in the Royal Navy—Useful Marines.

The following little story concerns a certain pompous officer in the Royal Navy:

One day it strangely happened that, like King Gama, he could find "nothing whatever to grumble at." So he went to the speaking-tube communicating with the boiler-room and shouted down to the chief stoker, "Is there a blithering idiot at the end of this tube?"

"Not at this end, sir!" came the reply, quick and startling.

Died to Order.

A doctor used to tell a story of a great epidemic on shipboard when he was a ship's surgeon. They had hundreds of passengers, and the mortality was so great that the doctor would pass along the berths and remark the word "dead" on those where the patient had died in the night, whereupon the sailors would come and remove the bodies.

When they were about to raise one poor fellow who was marked "dead," he recovered consciousness and protested, but one of the tars said to him: "Hold your tongue; do you suppose you know better than the doctor?"

Harbor Light.

The inhabitants of Sydney, New South Wales, are justly very proud of their beautiful bay, and invariably the first question they put to visitors is, "What do you think of our harbor?"

This inquiry was once answered in a unique way by the commander of H.M.S. Nelson. When this vessel steered into the harbor a large board was seen hanging over her side, and to the amusement of the Sydney people there was painted upon it in gigantic letters: "We like your harbor very much!"

Nearly Wrecked.

An old admiral, well known for his "powers of exaggeration," was describing a voyage at supper one night. "While cruising in the Pacific," said he, "we passed an island which was positively red with lobsters!"

"But," said one of the guests, smiling incredulously, "lobsters are not red until boiled."

"Of course not," promptly replied the undaunted and wily admiral; "but this was a volcanic island with boiling springs!"

Useful Marines.

Master Jack (from the country): "What are all those soldiers on board the flagship for?"

Jack's Father: "Thim? Oh, thim's the marines, sonny."

Master Jack: "Marines? And what are they for?"

Jack's Father: "Don't ask so many foolish questions, my boy. Everybody ought to know as thim gentlemen is employed by the Government for the sailors to tell their stories to!"

The Secret Out.

"In the Navy are you, my friend?" inquired a man with mutton-chop whiskers to his neighbor in a 'bus. The sailor nodded.

"Well," said the other, "I'm not exactly in the Navy, but I'm a naval contractor—that is, I furnish the cheese for the Navy."

"Oh, ye do, do ye?" shouted the sailor, jumping up suddenly. "You are the blankotty blank—son of a marline-spike I've been looking for these twenty years." Saying that Jack brought his mighty fist down on the contractor's shiny hat, butted him in the chest, and landed him neatly into a passing mud cart. "Now," he roared, looking round with a glare, "show me the cove as furnishes the butter, and I'll bury ye together!"

Wilful Waste.

A fishing boat was outward bound from port. "We're a wee bit short o' proveesions, a'm thinking," said the skipper, and, so saying, he despatched an elongated "boy" to the shore in company with a golden sovereign.

In a short time the aforesaid boy reappeared, and with him were six bottles of whiskey and one loaf of bread. When he saw the last-named the skipper was indignant.

"Ye muckle, lang-leggit fule," he roared, "who's tae eat all that bread?"

Concerning Trousers.

Society is sadly backward in the Solomon Islands. While we were at anchor there a ship came in without the captain. I went on board and asked where he was. The mate told me he had gone ashore to visit a Mrs. M——, who is certainly the leader of society there; in fact, she is the only white woman there at all. During the night the ship had been blown off shore, leaving the captain behind.

The mate then said, "I don't so much mind leaving the captain behind, as he has a boat; but, unfortunately, he has left his only pair of trowsers on board, and I'm afraid he won't like to go on board a man-of-war to see you gentlemen without them!"

"But," said we, "has he not gone to call upon a lady?"

"Oh," said the mate, "she won't mind; her husband never wears trowsers, and there is nothing she hates so much as a man who gives himself airs."

I am certain that if I had called upon Mrs. M——, I should have given myself airs. Such is society in the Solomons. When I have nothing better to do, I amuse myself by chopping up little bits of tobacco, and making dusky ladies dive for them. For four sticks of tobacco you may marry into the Royal family here.—Romilly's "Letters from the Western Pacific."

PRACTICAL JOKES.

A Recent One Which Created Much Amusement in England.

From time immemorial, says The Queen, hoaxes have been played on the unwary, sometimes in good taste, sometimes in bad, sometimes with laughable results, sometimes with deplorable, while sometimes the victim has the good sense to join in the laugh against himself, but more often than not he takes unkindly to the trick which has been worked upon him.

A story has been going the rounds during the last few days—it will not do to enquire too closely into the authenticity of the facts recorded—that the sober-minded citizens in a certain town were recently very much surprised to notice a number of well-dressed young men solemnly parading in front of one of the chief public buildings. Each wore a straw hat, carried an umbrella, had an ivy leaf fastened to his coat, and did his best to look unconcerned, as if his presence in that particular spot was the most natural thing in the world. No explanation was apparently forthcoming of this curious parade, but presently public curiosity was increased by the appearance of a band of young ladies, coquettishly attired, but each wearing an ivy leaf in her dress, and it then began to dawn upon the minds of most that once again had the hoaxer been at work, and there was nothing more to do but depart with as much dignity as could be assumed under the distressing circumstances. It afterwards transpired that the masculine detachment were duped by the receipt of a letter asking for an appointment at the place specified, and requesting that each recipient should wear a straw hat, carry a rolled umbrella under his right arm, and wear a sprig of ivy in his buttonhole.

Little things are supposed to please little minds, but there is no doubt that the successful playing off of a hoax is a great source of delight to the majority of mankind. Many years ago, when, say, the Kamschatkhan navy was anchored off a certain port, a visitor dined on board the flagship, and was not long in telling all the officers, from the admiral downward, their business. The hosts took it all in good part, but presently, an adjournment was made to the upper deck, where the visitor, seeing what he took to be a bellrope, asked what its purpose was. A junior officer replied that it was the bell which the officer of the watch rang when he wanted coffee, and the guest was persuaded to pull it. He did so; there was a splash, an illumination, a shout through the ship, "man overboard," the hurrying of a boat's crew to quarters, and general excitement, the unhappy pseudo sailor having pulled the lever which released the life buoy.

Some hoaxes have of course, become historical, like the famous bottle hoax of 1749, when a person advertised that he would, on a certain evening, play on a common walking cane the music of every instrument then used, that he would get into a tavern quart bottle, while there sing several songs and allow the bottle to be handled, and would also declare the identity of any masked spectator. The Haymarket Theatre, in which these wonders were to be performed, was crowded on the night in question, the Duke of Cumberland being amongst the band of spectators who waited in vain for the conjuror to appear. Their patience being exhausted, they set to work, incited thereto, so it is alleged, by the duke, to pull down the house, and much damage was done before order could be restored.

The Great "W. G."

Mr. W. G. Grace, the cricketer, is the only man who has seven times accomplished the double feat of scoring over 1,000 runs and taking over 100 wickets in a season. Three times he has scored two separate centuries in the same match. In these days there were three Graces in the Gloucester team—E. M., G. F., and W. G., and while the two first were great cricketers, especially "Coroner," it was W. G. that carried the county team on his shoulders. The little lad of those days has been transformed into a great, grey-bearded giant of some 16 stone, but his spirit is still that of a bed, and his keenness has not abated one jot. He still plays the game rigorously and vigorously. Just as there is no better judge of a cricketer's faults, so there is, says a writer in London Opinion, no better judge of a cricketer's strong points. He has literally created hosts of good men, and on his nursery at the palace he grows a fruitful crop of good batsmen and bowlers every year. As a judge of the game, and a captain of a side, he has never been surpassed. If ever there was a man fit to be crowned king of cricket it is W. G. His bat is his sceptre and the ball his orb. His throne would be built of 50,000 runs, and 200 centuries would sparkle in his crown.—Newcastle Chronicle.

Omelet Variations.

To make a plain omelet beat up six eggs with three tablespoonfuls of milk and a goodly seasoning of salt and white pepper. Heat the omelet pan very hot and put in it a tablespoonful of fresh butter. When the butter is melted pour in the eggs. Shake the pan vigorously to keep the omelet from burning, and when the egg begins to thicken fold over both sides of the omelet to give it an oval shape. Toss it on to a very hot platter and serve at once. The ideal French omelet is not browned, but of a rich golden color.

This simple omelet may be varied in countless ways. A ham omelet is delicious. Mince the ham fine, add a touch of cayenne pepper and add the ham to the omelet just before it is "rolled." A chicken omelet is made with the addition of a cup of cooked chicken minced fine and warmed up in a cream sauce. A kidney omelet is a dish well liked. Mince the kidneys, which have previously been cooked; warm them up in just enough cream sauce to moisten them thoroughly and add to the omelet before it is folded and dished.

LIGHT AND DARK,

Day and night, sunshine and shadow are not more different from each other than a healthful from a sickly woman. The healthful woman carries light and sunshine with her wherever she goes.

The woman who suffers from ill-health casts a shadow on her own happiness and the happiness of others. She cannot help it. Those who suffer cannot smile and sing.

Ill-health in woman is generally traceable to disease of the delicate womanly organism. Many women have been restored to happiness by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If there is an invalid woman, suffering from female weakness, prolapsus, or falling of womb, or from leucorrhea who has used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription without complete success Dr. Pierce would like to hear from such person—and it will be to her advantage to write as he offers, in perfect good faith, a reward of $500 for any case of the above maladies which he cannot cure.

"I feel it my duty to inform you that I had been a sufferer for many years from nervousness with all its symptoms and complications," writes Mrs. O. M. Fisher, of 256 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. "I was constantly going to see a physician. I was induced to ask Dr. Pierce's advice. I then took five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription.' I am not now cross and irritable, and I have a good color in my face; have also gained about ten pounds in weight and was thousand of comfort, for I am a new woman once more."

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps for the paper-covered book, or 50 stamps for the cloth bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ACADEMY OF BRAN.

A Celebrated Italian Literary Institution and Its Aims.

The Academy of Bran was the most celebrated of Italian literary academies, and its title was borrowed from a previous literary society at Perugia, the Accademia degli Scossi, or the Academy of the Well Shaken. The device of the earlier society was a sieve, and its motto "Il piu bel fior ne cogile" (It collects the finest flour).

The principal object of the Bran society, the Accademia della Crusca, was the purification of the Italian language, in order to effect which, in the spirit of pedantry common to the age, it reintroduced many obsolete words which had been replaced by more effective derivative forms or foreign adaptations.

Its greatest work was the Vocabulario della Crusca, the Vocabulary of the Bran, published in 1613. The whole (one of this work was archaic. It affected to regard the fourteenth century as the Augustan age of Italian literature and endeavored to make the standard of that period a standard for all time. The Accademia della Crusca is now incorporated with two older societies, the Apatici, or Impartials, and the Florentine academy.

ANIMAL TAILS.

Some That Are Quite Useful as Well as Ornamental.

The tail, or, more strictly speaking, the caudal fin, of a fish is, says Professor Seeley, "the great organ of motion," and among the mammalia we find several useful tails.

The most remarkable is, perhaps, that common to most American monkeys, which is as good as a fifth hand, owing to its prehensile powers. The yellow tailed howler, if it is shot when hanging by the tail, will remain suspended for some hours, so tight is the grip. Humboldt noted in South America how spider monkeys form themselves into clusters by means of their limbs and tails, the whole group being suspended from a bough by the tail of the strongest.

The long, thick tail of the kangaroo, which serves as a balance against the heavy hind quarters, especially when the animal leans forward to browse, and also aids in supporting it when in its characteristic upright position, is also a most valuable appendage.

Senator Vest's Pledge.

Just before his first election to the United States senate the late Senator Vest went to a caucus of Missourians who were members of the general assembly. Following a competitor who had talked three mortal hours, Vest spoke for three minutes, concluding with these words: "As for myself, I have to say, with the full knowledge that the pledge I now make will influence your votes tomorrow, that if I am elected to the United States senate during my entire term I shall draw my pay regularly like a gentleman and spend it like a thoroughbred." He was elected and served the state for twenty-four years.

Peaceful, but Dull.

An Englishwoman with a serviceable sense of humor was she who is mentioned in a recent English book as having aided her husband in fighting "a good fight." The two were found one day, in their old age, by a caller, sitting one on each side of the fire, and the old man said proudly:

"Well, t' missis and me, we've been married nigh on fifty year and we've never had one quarrel."

The old woman looked up at the visitor with a twinkle in her eye.

"It wur varie conscientious," said she, "but varie dool."

FOR THE CLOSEST ESTIMATES OF THE TOTAL VOTE TO BE POLLED AT THE DOMINION ELECTIONS, ON NOVEMBER 3rd, 1904

Will be paid by THE CALCULE COMPANY, 9 Toronto St., Toronto.

CERTIFICATE

$3,250.00 has been deposited with The Trusts and Guarantee Company, Limited, 14 King Street West, Toronto. The money will remain in the Trusts Company's hands and payment will be made by them for the best estimates when the official figures of the total vote polled in the General Elections are issued by the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery for Canada.

THE TRUSTS AND GUARANTEE CO., LIMITED.

In the General Elections of 1887 there were 866,820 votes polled throughout the Dominion; in 1891 there were 730,094, an increase of eight per cent. over the figures for 1887. GOOD PAPERS AT CONVENTION

Containing Useful Information to the County Teachers.

Features of Yesterday Afternoon's and This Morning's Meetings—The Papers.

Yesterday afternoon's session of the Peterborough County Teachers Association Convention opened at 1.30 o'clock. Mr. J. C. Brown gave an interesting talk on geography. He spoke of the importance of local geography, and urged the teachers to use the map in teaching the directions to junior pupils, an early use of the map makes them familiar with it, as they advance to higher classes. He outlined a limit table in geography for the different classes.

Mr. S. W. E. Hill, Principal Lakefield Public School, dealt very fully with the subject of "Writing". Mr. Hall spoke of the three systems, the Spencerian, the vertical and the medial slant. The Spencerian produces good writers, the vertical is claimed to be more legible, and some contend more speedy than the other systems. The aim should be freedom and ease of movement. Mr. Hill gave a number of black-board exercises to illustrate his subject. Discussion followed in which Mr. D. L. Somerville, Inspector Brown and others took part.

The address given by Rev. W. R. Tandy, M. A., of Havelock, was a very important feature of the session. The subject was "The Empire Idea in History". In his opening remarks the speaker expressed his pleasure at the privilege of an opportunity of again appearing before the teachers of Peterborough County. He spoke of the Roman Empire under the following: B. C. 48, Battle of Pharsalia, the beginning of the Roman Empire; A. D. 476, end of the separate western empire; A. D., 800, Coronation of Charles the Great; A. D. 962, Coronation of Otto the great; A. D. 1250, death of Fredrick II.; A. D. 1453, extinction of eastern empire; A. D. 1806, Abdiction of Francis II, the last Roman Emperor. Rev. Tandy dealt with his subject in a very able manner. A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Tandy for his able paper.

Rev. J. C. Davidson, of Peterborough, gave a few short pointed remarks to the teachers, which were well received.

Charming New Millinery.

Miss Delaney's millinery show room is resplendent with a lovely gathering of new millinery from New York and other fashion centres. These artistic conceptions consist chiefly of ready-to-wear outing hats of striking designs and not expensive either. All the patterns and accessories are chosen with due regard to the tastes of Peterborough ladies, based on professional knowledge and experience.

Miss Wall has removed her Dressmaking Rooms over 391 George street, where she will be pleased to see her customers. Entrance through T. H. Adams' Store, 393 George Street.

CANADAS GREATEST TOWN HONOURS CANADAS GREATEST STATESMAN

to operate the Intercolonial to produce a surplus. The system of Government construction and Government operation is wrong.

Sir Wilfrid said that he knew the people of Ontario were with him, and in conclusion appealed to his listeners to support Mr. Hall, the Liberal candidate in West Peterborough, in the present election.

His tour through Ontario had just about concluded. This week would see his last meeting in this province in this campaign, and he was safe in saying that the audience which faced him then had not been surpassed in intelligence or in numbers during the whole of his Ontario tour. During his tour he had witnessed evidences that the policy which he was preaching would on the third of November receive the endorsement of the people of this province. He was not satisfied with the showing that Ontario had made in 1896 nor in 1900, but he believed that in the present election the province would return to the Liberal party as it had done in the days of George Brown, when Ontario was the stronghold of Liberalism in this country.

Trent Valley Canal.

The great statesman closed his magnificent speech amid the prolonged cheers of an enthusiastic audience, and as he resumed his seat after the cheering had subsided a voice in the hall asked "What about the Trent Valley Canal?" and Sir Wilfrid again standing to his feet said:—

"I am asked about the Trent Valley Canal. Well I want to know what is the question you want me to answer—what is there particular about the Trent Valley Canal you want me to inform you about?"

"When is it to be built?" said the questioner.

"That is an easy question. The greater part of the canal has been built already, but if we were to leave it as it is it would be a canal without an issue. (Laughter.) The first thing that a sane Government must do is to give this canal an outlet at both ends—at Georgian Bay and at Lake Ontario. We are at the present time prosecuting surveys to determine whether the outlet shall be at Port Hope or at Trenton. That is a question to be determined by engineers. But let me tell you this, whatever Government may be in power, whether Liberal or Conservative that Government will be derelict of its duty—would be criminal—which having commenced a canal would leave it without an outlet at all. Therefore the canal must be prosecuted as quickly as possible until completed. (Applause.)

MR. ARCH. CAMPBELL'S SPEECH

Mr. Archibald Campbell, member for West York, was the next speaker. He was pleased to have the opportunity to say a few words in commendation of the policy pursued under the wise administration of Sir Wilfrid. In 1888, when Mr. Campbell had the honour of a seat in the House of Commons, and when the leader, Hon. Mr. Blake had to resign, the Liberal party sought a leader, and in their aim for an able man, all eyes were centred on the great statesman, the present Premier, and without one dissenting voice, he was chosen as the Liberal leader. In looking back over the years of progress under Laurier's administration, all would be agreed that no mistake had been made in selecting the leader. Sir Wilfrid had led the party wisely and well, and had guided the interests of the vast Dominion in a way as had never been done before. There was never a time when the country was going ahead with such leaps and bounds, as under the Liberal rule. He felt sure that Mr. Hall would be elected member for West Peterborough. He was glad to see Peterborough progressing, that its manufactories were increasing, more goods were being turned out, and better wages were being paid. This was simply the condition of affairs existing throughout the entire Dominion, and this was not the only town of which this story could be told. In 1896 there were 6,000 empty houses in Toronto, many factories were practically idle and those which were running employed but a few hands. To-day houses were being erected by the hundreds. The population was increasing, and the manufacturing establishments had doubled the number of their employees, and could not get enough men to do the work.

Prosperity Everywhere.

Everywhere were signs of prosperity shown, and this progress was owing to the wise administration of the Laurier Government. The sun and rain were just as effective in the eighteen years of Conservative rule, as in the eight years of Liberal administration, but at the close of the former period, stagnation was the order of things, young men and young women were going to the United States, and trade was practically at a standstill. Only one thing was progressing, and that was the national debt, which was becoming larger, at the rate of six and a half millions yearly. But under the seven years of wise government, it was gratifying to know that, notwithstanding all the public works, canals, railways, and vast public expenditures in the erection of public buildings all over the land, the debt at the end of the past fiscal year was $1,084,000 less than in 1896. The Government had ably looked after the agricultural interests, by establishing a system of cold storage, etc. The productions of the farm, had, under Sir Sidney Fisher, received proper attention. Sir Wilfrid had selected good men for his Cabinet, and all had shown themselves worthy of the confidence placed in them. In every other way the Government had contributed to the welfare of the progress of the farmer.

Never had a Government looked after the interests of the mechanics and artizans as this one had done; their rights had been protected and they had been defended whenever they needed defence. Mr. Campbell in speaking of the reforms made by the Government, referred to the abolishing of the sweating system, which insured that the letting of contracts would be fair to all. The Government was the first to establish the labour bureau and had also passed an alien labour bill simply to keep pace with the Americans who had such a bill in force against Canada. The Government had been the most progressive, economic and honest of any Government Canada had ever had. They had spent more money than in the past, but it had been well spent. It was true that in 1896, the Liberals had criticised the Conservatives for their expenditure, but they pointed out where the money had been expended for the people's best interests and at the present the Conservatives could not do this. The Government had been compelled to carry on public works commenced under Conservative administration. The Trent Valley Canal had been started and the Liberals would have it completed as quickly as possible, for it was in the best interests of the people to have it completed. The great Yukon had been developed and for every dollar expended, more than a dollar had been brought back.

Mr. Campbell referred to the work of the Post Office Department. Under Conservative rule this department was going behind at a rate of $780,000 yearly, but under Liberal rule, with penny postage in force, the deficit had been wiped out and this year there was a surplus of $304,000. One thousand post offices had been opened in the past 8 years and the mails were carried 7 million miles more than before. He firmly believed that the Liberals would be returned to power because there was no cause for a change. The existing era of prosperity had never been known in this or in any other country.

The Government had been wise in their Grand Trunk Pacific bargain; there had never been a bargain made by any Government to compare with this. The railway would greatly assist in developing the west. There was a glorious future for Canada and the electors would be very unwise not to return Sir Wilfrid to power.

The meeting was concluded with the usual cheers for the King, Laurier and the Liberal candidate, Mr. Hall.

KITCHENER KISSED.

Rich Incident Which Has Escaped Publication Until Now.

"The story of Lord Kitchener's sangfroid, as related by Colonel Marchand, reminds me," writes a Westminster Gazette correspondent, "Of a Kitchener incident of which I was an interested spectator. I believe it is one of the few in connection with the South African war which have as yet escaped publication. Lord Kitchener was coming through Cape Town at the end of the war on the way to England, and the corporation of the city gave a luncheon in his honor. I received an invitation and sat in the sixth or seventh place from the General, but, as the table formed an angle between us, I was quite close to him. Sir John French sat near me on the right, and farther away was General Sir Ian Hamilton, who made an extremely happy speech on that occasion. In the middle of the proceedings a little girl about twelve years old, entered the room at the far end, and, proceeding straight to where the great general sat, kissed him emphatically on the left cheek.

"Now, anybody knows what General Roberts would have done, according to the popular impression of his character, on such an emergency. He would have expressed his utmost delight and placed the courageous little intruder upon his knee before the entire company. Lord Kitchener did no such thing. He betrayed no emotion whatever, either of surprise or alarm or pleasure. Sir John French, on the contrary, was visibly amused and evidently wondering whether it would be his turn next. But the little girl had not finished with the conqueror of the Soudan. She passed to his right hand and reached him a little album and pen and ink, with an implied command which was not to be gainsaid. The commander-in-chief obeyed with the same stoical demeanor, and the little girl handed him next a piece of blotting paper, which he passed submissively over the illustrious autograph. Throughout the whole incident, which caused much amusement to the assembled company, the features of the General remained as immovable as an iron mask. The incident was extremely gratifying to many people in South Africa, and to none more so than to the High Commissioner, who found it difficult to conceive how Lord Kitchener would comport himself under such an unusual and unprovoked assault."

THE WARRIORS ARE AT REST

Armies of Russia and Japan Entrenched Near Each Other.

RESERVES TO THE TRENCHES

A Significant Movement Made by Gen. Kuropatkin—Another Great Battle is Imminent With the Japanese in the Offensive—Description of the Final Stages of Shakhe Battle—Desperate Courage.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 22.—The rival armies of Russia and Japan entrenched a short distance from each other south of the Shakhe River, are forced to continued inactivity until the fine weather now prevailing dries the sodden guns and the tired warriors are sufficiently rested to resume operations. A despatch from Mukden to the Associated Press reports that the Russians yesterday confined themselves to a bombardment of Shakhe station and the adjoining Village of Lamatung, the Japanese feebly responding. This news clears up an interesting point and shows that Shakhe station is not held by the Russians.

The Fifth Siberians.

Russian correspondents report that some regiments of the Fifth Siberian Corps have been engaged in slight skirmishes on the advance line the past few days. The fact that the first and fifth Siberian were the only corps hitherto unmentioned in reports of the fighting on Oct. 19 shows that General Kuropatkin has sent the reserves to the trenches, giving much tried corps a thorough rest. Meanwhile the Cossacks are raiding the Japanese lines.

Can't Get the Guns.

It has developed that after the Lone Tree Hill rout the Japanese were unable to remove a number of cannon, in addition to those left on the hill, and those which remained midway between the Russian and Japanese trenches. As they lay, these guns were so exposed to fire from both sides that it was impossible for either the Russians or Japanese to get possession of them during the daylight, and the repeated attempts have been made, both by Russians and Japanese, to secure the guns under cover of darkness. Up to the present time Cossack detachments have succeeded in securing three of the guns.

The Wily Cossack.

The dexterity of the Cossacks in this sort of work was repeatedly illustrated during the Russian army manoeuvres. On one occasion they abstracted the artillery harness, completely disabling all the batteries of their rival combatants. A more famous occasion was four years ago, when Gen. Kuropatkin commanded the southern army marching from Moscow against the northern army, commanded by Grand Duke Sergius. Kuropatkin's Cossack leader, Dienrichs, surrounded the hut in which Sergius' chief of staff, Soboleff, now commanding the sixth Siberian corps, and his subordinates were asleep, and quietly went off with their despatches and maps. When Soboleff woke up he found his whole staff bound and gagged and every document missing.

Great Battle Imminent.

London, Oct. 22.—The Times' Tokio correspondent says that despatches from Oyama's headquarters seem to indicate the Shakhe River as the immediate scene of the original advance and that appearances suggest that another great battle is imminent in which the Japanese will assume the offensive.

What Saved the Situation.

The Standard's Yental correspondent, describing the final stages of the Shakhe battle, refers to the danger which temporarily threatened Field Marshal Oyama's right near Bensihu, where the Russians, in overwhelming force, nearly succeeded in turning the Japanese right and isolating the men sent to protect Oyama's right wing. He says it was the indomitable courage and energy of the Japanese infantry that saved the situation. Detailing the struggle of Oct. 18 south of the Shakhe River, the correspondent pays a tribute to the desperate courage of the Russians. The Japanese infantry, he says, again had the task of carrying a formidable position by supreme effort and self-sacrifice. The slope up which they swept was swept by a storm of lead. The thin dark line wavered under the blast and broke and scattered back down the hill, but a handful of heroes rallied and rushed headlong up the slope, halted, reformed and dashed on again, their numbers being lessened with every foot they advanced and once again they were swept back in confusion down the hillside. Another company pushed forward with left well thrown back.

Unavailing Volleys.

Again volleys crashed out, but this unavailingly against the desperate headlong rush and the little men gained the summit. The Russians rose to their feet, the ranks closed and rifle and bayonet were at work in one wild melee. It was only for a moment. Shaken by the courage of the Japanese, the Russians broke and fled to their comrades below, already in retreat. The Russians fell back to a range of low hills bordering the Shakhe River, whence, on the 14th, the artillery failing to dislodge them, the Japanese drove them in the afternoon by a magnificent spectacle of disciplined war involving terrible carnage, pursuing them down to the Shakhe River.

Kuropatkin's Plans.

The same correspondent, under date of Oct. 17, says: "General Kuropatkin appears to be preparing to hold the plain in front of Mukden. He is concentrating troops and strengthening his defence works in three lines, the outer along the Shakhe River, the second along the Hun River and the innermost close to Mukden."

Russians Hope Again.

New York, Oct. 22.—The Herald's St. Petersburg correspondent wires: Telegrams received from Gen. Kuropatkin are of such a reassuring nature that the most confident optimism reigns in the highest circles here.

Impression is given in these quarters that the Japanese have shot their bolt and are now suffering such exhaustion that they must retreat quickly, while on the other hand General Kuropatkin is confident he can throw off the Japanese to the westward, leaving the way open to Port Arthur, which it is calculated, he could reach in three weeks.

Such is a summary of the ideas entertained here, which are causing great elation. Should success not crown General Kuropatkin's plans in the immediate future, the disappointment here will be more intense than ever before.

Japanese are reported burning their stores with a view to retreating. The fact that a reconnaissance party found two abandoned guns is construed as demonstrating that the enemy is making special haste to get away.

Release Prisoners.

Tokio, Oct. 22.—The military authorities have released the captured paymaster of the Russian armored cruiser Rurik, who is 70 years old, on account of his age; thirty-four Russian hospital attendants, and 12 battle maimed soldiers. In the future it is probable that the Japanese will release prisoners whose wounds are healed, and who are incapacitated from further fighting.

Every Man Wounded.

Mukden, Oct. 22.—Every man of the two hundred Cossacks, commanded by Captain Tourgenieff, who on Tuesday night reconnoitred the Japanese left southwestward and who near Sandopu unexpectedly encountered a good-sized Japanese force with machine guns, was wounded, and every horse except Capt. Tourgenieff's was hit by the bullets from the Japanese machine guns. Tourgenieff, though mortally wounded, carried off one man behind his saddle while others managed to creep back to camp. But, as already cabled, not one man was killed on the field. There is the greatest fear on the part of the Russian wounded of falling into the hands of the Japanese, the Russians being convinced that they torture their prisoners.

Short Service Abolished.

London, Oct. 22.—The British Army Council has issued an important order, under which, instead of enlisting three years with the colors and nine in the reserve infantry of the line, will in future enlist for nine years with the colors and three in the reserves, thus practically abolishing the short service system.

War Secretary Arnold Forster foreshadowed this change in a speech last July, in which he declared that the existing system had proved a failure because so few men volunteered to extend their service with the colors. Some critics, however, declare that the existing difficulty of obtaining recruits will be greatly enhanced under the new order.

Careless Handling of Shotgun.

Brockville, Oct. 22.—The careless handling of a shotgun in a boat while duck shooting on the river opposite here yesterday almost caused J. McDonald, aged 16 years, the loss of his right foot. In moving about in the boat the hammer of one barrel struck something, causing it to discharge and the contents entered his foot, tearing away the flesh and shattering the bones. He was quickly rowed to Brockville and placed in an hospital for treatment. It is thought the foot can be saved.

Minister Inhales Gas.

San Francisco, Oct. 22.—Rev. Charles G. Adams, formerly an Episcopal minister, but more recently a lawyer, has committed suicide by inhaling illuminating gas. Two years ago Adams shot and killed Dr. Jessup, an Oakland dentist. He was declared insane and sent to an asylum. After being released, he began the practice of law. Despondency is the supposed cause of his suicide.

Canadian the Victim.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 22.—Phileas Fontaine, who is supposed to have been murdered at Mentor last Saturday, has been found alive and has identified the body of the murdered man as that of Joseph Mongeaon, a Frenchman of St. Pie, Province of Quebec.

Roommate of Poe Dies.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 22.—Col. Pick Jones, who was a room-mate of Edgar Allen Poe at West Point, died at his home at Seguin Thursday night. He was 90 years old.

STR. SOVEREIGN HAS A MISHAP

Cargo Shifted and Steamer Went Over Near Harwood This Morning.

Eighteen Passengers and Crew All Escaped—Boat Heeled in About Six Feet of Water—Cargo Damaged But Boat Uninjured.

The steamer "Sovereign" met with a mishap about seven o'clock this morning upon leaving Harwood with a cargo of freight and eighteen passengers for Peterborough. When about one hundred yards from shore the cargo, which was a heavy one, shifted to one side of the deck, and as a stiff breeze was blowing from the opposite direction, the boat went over on her side. The water at this point was fortunately only about 7 feet deep, and the boat was only about one-half submerged. Most of the passengers were on the lower deck and at once reached the upper deck with all possible haste. The life boat was got out, and several small boats from the shore conveyed the passengers to the landing, and all escaped without the least injury. The crew on board was Captain Breen, J. Snyder, mate, J. Logan, engineer, and J. Irwin, deck hand.

The boat was carrying a cargo of 200 bushels of peas, and 150 bushels of potatos, which, of course, were damaged by the water. The boat, however, was not damaged to any extent. Rathbun's alligator was quickly on the scene, and is to-day assisting in taking off the cargo and righting the boat. It is expected that the boat will be righted again to-morrow.

This is the first season for the "Sovereign," and to-day's was the first mishap which she has encountered, although she has been exposed to some severe storms on Rice Lake.

THIS MORNING'S POLICE COURT

Several Boys in Trouble for Their Misbehaving.

There were youthful prosecutors and youthful defenders at the Police Court this morning, when three cases came before the Magistrate. In the first, Charles Burgoyne, a boy about eleven years of age, was charged with throwing stones and breaking a pane of glass. He pleaded guilty. It seems that three other boys were with him at the time and the Magistrate adjourned the case until Wednesday, when it will be settled, if in the meantime, the quartette of youngsters pay the fine of $3.60 with $4.30 costs and $1.50 as the price of the glass.

A case of assault occupied considerable of the time of the court, but was eventually dismissed.

Eight boys were charged with behaving in a disorderly manner on the Separate School grounds. It was claimed that while playing on there grounds one evening, they had thrown apples at the door of the janitor's house at the rear of the school. The boys were discharged with a warning.

—The Mission to Men in the Y.M.C.A., will be conducted by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt from Nov. 13th to 18th inclusive.

MILITARY REGULATIONS.

The following extracts are from the regulations governing the officers, of officials, from the highest to the lowest, of the army in Great Britain, and the similar regulations governing the officers, or officials, from the lowest to the highest, in Canada, within the Canadian militia — they are extracts from the King's regulations," and the Canadian Militia Regulations.

Deliberations or discussions by officers or soldiers with the object of conveying praise, censure, or any mark of approbation towards their superiors or any others in His Majesty's service are prohibited. — THE KING'S REGULATIONS.

It cannot be permitted that officers shall bring accusations against superior officers or comrades before the tribunal of public opinion, either by speech or letter inserted in any newspaper; such a proceeding would be in glaring violation of the rules of military discipline and in contempt of authority.—CANADIAN MILITIA REGULATIONS.

Any officer, high or low, who contravenes these regulations, commits "a glaring violation of the rules of military discipline," and incurs the penalty of dismissal. For such a breach of the King's regulations, Gen. Sir Redvers Buller, a soldier with a distinguished career, was relieved of his command. Lord Wolseley offered advice to the Minister to whom he was responsible. It was declined, and he resigned, and it was only after he had ceased to become a public servant that he ventured to find fault with the Minister. This example was lost on Lord Dundonald. He criticised the Minister to whom he was responsible, the Minister of a Government whose paid servant he was, and for this breach of the spirit of the King's Regulations, and the letter of the Canadian Militia Regulations, he was relieved of his command. And as great and good soldiers have been dismissed from the British Army service for the same offence.

Lord Dundonald in plain disregard of the military regualtions, and in invitation of the consequent penalty, indulged in public criticism of his employer and official superior—"official" superior is a necessary distinction, for in the matter of military record, of service and soldierly distinction, he was the superior of his employers, as thousands of privates in our volunteers are the equal, duke and otherwise superiors of their "official" superiors. One of the imprescriptible criticisms of Lord Dundonald was the charge that the Liberal Government was "indifferent to the welfare of the militia."

If Lord Dundonald with the record of the Liberal Government towards the Militia in view made this criticism, if he had been in command when the Conservative Government was in power, he would not have contented himself with criticism alone—he would, having regard to the relative merits of the two administrations, have paraded the Conservative Government some fine morning at sunrise and shot them.

His un-military charge of "indifference to the welfare" of the Militia should be examined in view of the following contrasting figures.

In the last eight fiscal years of Conservative rule, the expenditure for militia purposes was $12,352,561—an annual average of $1,544,070. The expenditure for militia purposes for the eight fiscal years of Liberal rule, was $23,865,763, an annual average of $2,983,195, or an increase of $11,513,002, or nearly 100 per cent.

The point at issue is not Lord Dundonald, but whether the Government has neglected and been indifferent to "the welfare of the Canadian Militia."

There are many, both Liberal and Conservative, who think the Liberal Government's militia expenditures have been too liberal. Military preparation is a good thing and Canada is at least doing her share of it. But the country that is strong in the day of war is one that has expended the national energies in the development of her resources and that is the means which are the sinews of war.

PROSPERITY POINTERS.

The great stream of wealth that flows into our country and is distributed to all who in any way contribute to the common welfare, is largely the price of the products of the farm. When the men who till the soil and raise, stock, grain and fruit, thrive, the country prospers. The Liberal Government has in many ways, contributed to stimulating production, and export, by provisions for cold storage, curing stations, seeking new markets, and protecting the standard and reputation of our products abroad. Here are results worth thinking about:

BUTTER EXPORTS.

1890 to 1896, Conservative period, $6,140,331.

1897 to 1903, Liberal period, $28,869,710

Those are figures which help to account for the success of the Liberal policy in aiding and producing prosperity. All industries receive the attention which is due them at the hands of a Government. And Laurier has more wise projects to carry out. Give him your hearty support in the patriotic work.

HELPING FARMERS AND MINERS.

By the granting of a subsidy amounting to $3,630,000, the Government secured the speedy construction of the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, by which one of the richest mineral sections of the country was opened up, and the trade connected therewith diverted from American to Canadian channels. It also provided a fine market for the agricultural produce of the Northwest Territories, and since the construction of the road, the dairy and live stock interests of the Alberta District have enjoyed a measure of prosperity never before known.

The Government made it a part of the bargain with the Canadian Pacific Railway that the said company would grant a substantial reduction in freight rates outgoing and outgoing, to the farmers of the West. It was conservatively estimated that these reductions effected a saving to the farmers of $750,000 on grain and flour alone in 1899. Spread this reduction over a few years, and you will see that it will recoup the public for the whole amount of the subsidy.

Further, it was a part of the contract that the C.P.R. would turn over to the Government 50,000 acres of coal lands in the neighbourhood of the Crow's Nest Pass. These lands formed one-fifth of a grant by the British Columbia Provincial Government to another railway company, whose charter had been acquired by the Canadian Pacific Railway. The object of the Government in securing these lands was to enable it to control the price of coal to the mining industries of British Columbia, and others. It is a provision of the Act that the coal from such mines shall be disposed of at a reasonable price, not exceeding $2 per ton f.o.b. at the mines. The Government also secure control and supervision over the new road, and can grant running powers over it to other railways.

LIBERAL TARRIFF HELPS.

The importation of raw materials used in manufacturing industries, gives a very fair indication of the activity and volume of business in manufacturing. The Dominion Trade and Navigation returns supply a few figures to show the great increase of importations of raw materials used by manufacturers, under the Conservative and Liberal rule respectively. The first column in the table represents the imports of the several articles under the Conservative seven years from 1890 to 1896 inclusive, and the second column to the importations under Liberal rule for the seven year period from 1897 to 1903 inclusive:

Grs. of metals	$ 40,127	$ 3,092,145
Raw cotton ...	257,777,625	385,524,765
Crude rubber...	12,782,476	18,477,598
Hides, skins, ...	13,312,137	28,917,527
Flax seed, lb ...	3,366,913	217,918,576
Oak...	1,394,596	5,268,369
Mahogany	168,719	375,274
Furs ,skins	3,029,227	8,386,340
Coal, soft	11,308,650	18,405,432
Coke, tons	111,348	1,380,230
Drugs, dyes and chemicals	11,361,307	19,819,998
Fire brick, for manufacture ..	621,594	1,876,689

This increase represented by 321 million imports in the Conservative period, and 708 millions under the Liberal regime, an increase of over 100 per cent., illustrates what tremendous advantage our manufacturing industries have now under Liberal tariff conditions compared with the previous conditions. The Conservative policy is to place high duties upon these articles, and the Liberal policy is to reduce, or abolish the duty on the raw materials — the tools, so to speak, with which manufacturers work. The consequence of the Conservative high tariff policy would be to make the cost of manufacture greater, to lessen profits and to lessen the wage-paying power of industrial concerns and which is very important also increase the price to the consumer.

The Liberal Rational Tariff is good for the manufacturer, the workingman and the consumer, who compose the whole people of Canada. It has brought prosperity, which the "National" policy did not do. Let us keep our prosperity by keeping the Liberal Government in power.

Keep both hands on the full dinner pail.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Borden's railway policy is repudiated and condemned by many of the strongest men in the Conservative ranks, past or present.

Mr. Borden's tour through Ontario is described as a growing triumph to the end. The extent to which he fired the heather is shown by the fact that at Montreal he had to pay "rooters" at $1.50 per head to furnish the cheering and applause. Splendid evidence of popular enthusiasm.

When the Conservatives went out of office they left a deficit of $519,981. The Liberals wiped that out, and closed last year with a surplus of $16,500,000. Vote for Sir Wilfrid and good Government, and a tariff that brings prosperity and an overflowing treasury on 15 per cent. less taxation.

Among the many Finger Posts of Prosperity that the Brantford Expositor enumerates in that city is the fact that in 1896, the last year of Conservative rule, when the Liberals went into office, there were 2,925 men employed there, earning $965,412. In 1903 there were 4,570, earning $1,742,000. Ditto in Peterborough. These figures speak for themselves. Isn't this prosperity? See that you keep it.

Mr. Borden in Peterborough said he had one tariff policy throughout the length and breadth of the land. Yet Mr. Richardson, the Conservative candidate in Brandon wants agricultural machinery placed on the list. Mr. Borden declares for Preferential Trade, while Mr. Kendry want have the British Preference at any price.

The official returns of the last Canadian census show, as we all can see for ourselves, that, as a class the manufacturers are basking in the sunshine of exceptional prosperity. In 1901 the earnings of the manufacturers represented a profit of nearly 20 per cent. on the capital invested, and there has been growing prosperity since 1901. The manufacturers are prospering as never before under the rational tariff of the Liberals, and the consumer is taxed 15 per cent less. Leave well enough alone. Keep the prosperity we have. Keep both hands on the full dinner pail.

WHAT SULPHER DOES

For the Human Body in Health and Disease.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and, mind you, this old-fashione remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any result.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide), and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolated-coated pellets and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigour and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver, and excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur, were often worse than the disease and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins, while experimenting with sulphur remedies soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples, and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article and sold by druggists, and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and especially in all forms of skin disease as this remedy."

At any rate, people who are tired of pills and cathartics and so-called "blood pirifiers," will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers, a far safer, more palatable and effective preapration.

To Meet Lord Curzon.

London, Oct. 20.—The India Office announces that the Ameer of Afghanistan will send his eldest son to meet Lord Curzon of Kedleston on his return to India, and will receive at Kabul an official sent by the Indian Government, authorized to discuss with the Ameer questions concerning the relations between the two Governments. The London newspapers express satisfaction at the opportune time selected by the Ameer for such a meeting, which is calculated to remove apprehensions and consolidate British Indian relations with Afghanistan.

SHE FOUND A DIFFERENCE.

A Buffalo Lady Says:—Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill Differs From the old Methods in Medicine as Day From Night.

Mrs. J. H. Rehorn, of 189 Landon street, Buffalo, N.Y., says of Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill — the Great System Treatment.

"Its action is so different to anything else I ever used—Anti-Pill is so mild and gentle—that I never thought it would cure my Chronic Constipation, but it did.

"Soon after the birth of my first child, 14 years ago, Constipation became troublesome. I used everything I heard of, but temporary relief was all I got. I must have used fifty different medicines in that time.

"I finally get very bad, and at times I would have no relish for food, and what I did eat would distress me afterwards. I had headaches, bloating, bearing down pains, backache, could not sleep well, was easily tired and never felt rested.

"From the very first dose of Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill I began to improve. Now I am well. It is wonderful."

Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill is sold by all druggists, or the Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont., sole agents for Canada. The price is 50 cents. 103

Another Shooting Accident.

Kingston, Oct. 22.—While out shooting at the high banks below Kingston Mills yesterday morning William Milne, University avenue, was injured by the accidental discharge of a companion's gun. The shot struck him in the left shoulder, tearing away part of the collarbone and touching the second and third ribs. The shot scattered and came out in front of the breast. It did not enter the chest. The injured boy was conveyed to the city with all possible speed and removed to the General Hospital.

A NOTE OF TRIUMPH

Significant Paragraph in Sir Wilfrid's Cornwall Speech.

WILL LEAD PARTY TO VICTORY

Another Big Gathering in Cornwall Welcomes the Premier and Lady Laurier—English Compatriots of French Origin Turn Out—Canada Will Stand By the Agreement Says Lord Strathcona.

Cornwall, Oct. 22.—"We want no other Premier but Laurier" was the motto which adorned the wall and expressed the dominant sentiment of the 5,000 people who occupied the Auditorium last evening. The audience was a thoroughly representative one; large delegations from the outlying portions of the County of Stormont and from the adjoining counties of Dundas and Glengarry were brought in by special excursion trains. The townships, English-speaking as well as the Premier's compatriots of French origin, turned out in large numbers, and, although a steady rain all day had made the roads heavy and muddy and driving exceedingly disagreeable, many enthusiastic admirers drove long distances in order to hear the Premier's masterly exposition of the Government's policy. Here, as elsewhere throughout Ontario, the demonstration was of such a nature as to gladden the heart of any public man. The Premier acknowledged in terms of sincerity and appreciation the extreme kindness shown towards him by the Liberals of Ontario, who had adopted him as their child and received him throughout his tour with a warmth and enthusiasm which could not have been excelled by the people of his native Province. There was a note of triumph and courage to the Liberals throughout the Dominion in his declaration, when referring to the paragraphs appearing in the Tory press regarding his health, that, although he had been pretty sick, he was recovering and had strength enough to again lead his party to victory.

The Premier and Lady Laurier arrived by the afternoon train, and were met by Mr. R. Smith, the Liberal candidate, Mrs. Smith and the local reception committee. After holding an informal reception they returned to the car and remained until evening, when they were escorted to the auditorium by a torchlight procession and band through streets thronged with people, who cheered all along the route. The auditorium was handsomely decorated with flags, banners and evergreens, and above the platform was the motto,

"Laurier for Canada, Smith for Stormont."

STAND BY THE AGREEMENT.

Lord Strathcona On the Transcontinental Railway Project.

London, Oct. 22.—Lord Strathcona, interviewed, said the Grand Trunk Pacific would be for the advantage of the C.P.R., and in no wise hinder its future expansion. By two competing railways, the commercial interests of the Dominion would likely be advanced. Asked whether the Conservatives, if returned in the November elections, would repeal the Railway Act, Lord Strathcona, while protesting to be no partisan in Canadian politics, was confident the people of Canada would not withdraw from their agreements, although any act, of course, is subject to modification or amendment in the details.

FEARED A BREAKDOWN.

Another Explanation of Hon. Mr. Blair's Resignation.

Ottawa, Oct. 22.—(Globe Special.)—It is now becoming apparent that the heavy burden of work devolving upon Mr. Blair in connection with the Railway Commission was as large a factor in influencing him to resign as was the offer of more remunerative occupation. Ever since the creation of the Commission the work has grown with the utmost rapidity, so that the present staff are scarcely able to keep up with it. As for the Commissioners, they are engaged almost daily in hearing cases, and at night have to read voluminous evidence and prepare their judgments. Their duties are so continuous and exacting that it leaves no time for recreation or social intercourse. With the rapidly increasing numbers of cases before them this state of things would be aggravated as time pressed on. Mr. Blair has a robust constitution and is in good health, but there is reason to believe that he feared a complete physical breakdown at the end of two or three years longer if he continued to work as he has been doing. Hence, when the offer of a position of greater profit involving less exacting duties came to him, he decided to accept. What that position is Mr. Blair still declines to say, and will maintain secrecy perhaps until his resignation has been accepted. Up to the present his telegram to the Prime Minister has been acknowledged, but that is all.

Mr. Scott Expresses Regret.

Ottawa, Oct. 22.—Hon. R. W. Scott, Secretary of State, has received a copy of the letter of resignation from Hon. A. G. Blair, which he forwarded to the Governor-General on Tuesday. The resignation is couched in the briefest terms. It reads:

"I hereby resign the position I hold as Chief Commissioner and member of the Railroad Board."

Hon. Mr. Scott, in acknowledging the receipt of the copy, expressed to his former colleague the regret which he felt at Mr. Blair's resignation of an office which he was eminently qualified to fill.

Mr. Champagne Made a Judge.

Ottawa, Oct. 22.—Mr. L. N. Champagne of Hull, has been appointed Judge for the district of Pontiac. Mr. Champagne has represented Wright County ever since Mr. Charles Devlin's resignation.

POLITICS IN A NUTSHELL.

Dr. Michael Fiset will be Sir Wilfrid Laurier's opponent in Quebec East.

Both parties have candidates for every seat in Ontario, with the exception that the Liberals have not nominated a man in Dufferin.

At a rally of the Liberals of London, C. S. Hyman, acting Minister of Public Works, was nominated to contest the city of London.

The Sunlight Maids are always through their wash at twelve o'clock.

SUNLIGHT SOAP

With ordinary soap a woman has to work so hard and so long on wash day she has no time for preparing any of the family meals. Wash day is a trial, and the good wife faces each with a sigh of despair.

Sunlight Soap makes all the difference in the world. No toiling—no rubbing—no boiling—less than half the labor with much better results. Most women are all through their wash by twelve o'clock when they wash with Sunlight Soap the Sunlight way. It makes child's play of work.

ATTEMPT TO CHLOROFORM HEIRESS.

Alleged Attempt to Abduct Woman At Ruthven, Ont.

Ruthven, Ont., Oct. 22.—Some unknown man attempted to chloroform Mrs. John Scram Thursday night. She was within a few feet of her own door. A cloth was thrown over her head and a sponge containing chloroform held to her nose.

Her son, who had been attracted by her screams, came out of the house and frightened away her assailant.

Mrs. Scram claims to be one of the heirs to an extensive estate in Montana, and she believes that her assailant wished to kidnap her in order to prevent her from appearing in Montana to claim her inheritance.

Ruthven is in the township of Goofield, in South Essex.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefitted by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

Britain Will Not Comply.

Berlin, Oct. 22.—The Government has asked Great Britain to permit Germany to use Walfish Bay for the landing of troops and supplies for the war against the natives of German Southwest Africa. The British Government has refused positively to grant the request.

Copenhagen, Oct. 22.—Queen Alexander and her daughter, Princess Victoria, left for England last night. At the station to bid them farewell were all the Danish Royal family, members of the legations here and many notable personages.

Freight Trains Collide.

Geneva, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Two freight trains on the Pennsylvania division of the New York Central collided a mile east of this city yesterday. Three of the train crew, C. D. Rogers, Charles Hickey and Engineer Rouse, were killed.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents those diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. For sale by all druggists.

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

BALANCING FEAT.

An Ingenious Trick With a Hairpin, Coin, Ring and Hatpin.

Here is an ingenious balancing trick which is performed with a silver half dollar, a large wire hairpin, a heavy ring and a long hatpin or "stickpin."

Bend the hairpin into the shape shown in the picture. Force the half dollar into the book on one end of the hairpin, which book you have pinched well together so that it will grip the coin tightly, and hang the ring on the other more open book. Now balance the coin at a point near its edge and in line with the two books on the point of the hatpin, which you hold vertically in your left hand.

You can nearly always make it balance on some point, but to make the trick more effective the pin should be very near the edge of the coin, so if the ring is not very heavy you may have to borrow another one and slip it in the book beside the first, or you can use a light ring and substitute a quarter for the half dollar.

Now, if you blow against the ring the whole thing will turn on its pivot, and by giving a good puff every time the ring comes round you can make it spin very fast and keep on spinning a long time. If the hatpin is very sharp and of very hard steel it will gradually bore a hole in the coin. Indeed it is possible to bore clear through a soft coin in this way.

THE FEET OF A FLY.

Why This Little Insect Is Able to Walk on the Ceiling.

Few people probably know what it is that enables flies to walk on the ceiling. It has been supposed that their ability to do so was due to the fact that each of their feet is a miniature air pump. This theory was found to be unsound, and it was then explained that it was made possible by means of a viscous substance which exuded from the hairs on their feet. This theory also was abandoned as being only partly accountable for the facts, and the preferred explanation is that flies are enabled to walk upside down on smooth substances by the help of capillary adhesion. An investigator has found by a series of nice calculations, such as the weighing and measuring of hairs, that a fly would be upheld by capillary attraction were it four-ninths as heavy again as it is. Each fly is supposed to be furnished with from 10,000 to 12,000 foot hairs. These exude an oily fluid, and it is because of the repulsion between a watery surface and this oily liquid that a fly finds it difficult to mount a dampened glass.—Harper's Weekly.

Spiders That Form Colonies.

As everybody knows, spiders usually fight to the end if one happens to enter the web of another. Yet there are spiders that live together in peace. In South America one variety of spider forms colonies of several hundred members. These build a joint nest, almost as big as a hat. It hangs from high branches, and a silken strand, sometimes ninety feet long, dangles from its lower end to serve as a ladder for the inmates. In Venezuela there is a spider which joins with hundreds of others in the manufacture of a giant web. Often they weave a web big enough to cover a whole coffee shrub. Inside this web is divided into cells, and the spiders not only agree perfectly, but often help each other

TEMAGAMI MOOSE TRAILS.

How and Where the Monarch of the Forest Is to Be Found and the Hunter Is Rewarded—Glorious Sport.

Like a great network of harp-strings across the sounding board of the forest, the moose-trails of Temagami harmonize, writes James W. Barry in The Sunday World. On these giant harp-strings huntsmen will play the tunes to which the unwieldy moose of the Temagami district will dance, when the season opens on Oct. 15. From that time until Nov. 15 the combat between man and beast will deepen. Here the sportsman's hopes will bloom, and joy brighten his woodland hours traversing forest by-paths all golden with nature's hugs and autumn's rich content.

Having secured in the regular way a license which costs to Canadians $5 and aliens $25, and allows of the killing of one bull moose, plenty of heavy ammunition, warm waterproof clothing and long extra strong leather boots well studded with nails to keep from slipping, to reach without delay, the one daily Switzerland of America—Temagami—from Toronto, "sports," as huntsmen, ought to leave, after purchasing tickets direct to Temagami, on the 1.45 p.m. G.T.R. express for North Bay, 227 miles distant, arriving there about 9.30 p.m. There a restful night may be spent. Next morning an early start must be made as the Temiskaming and North Ontario Railway station lies exactly one mile from the town's centre, and the train is scheduled to leave at 6.30 a.m. for Temagami, 72 miles further north, a lake embellished with over 1,300 islands and lying in the heart of a district containing five billion feet of virgin timber.

Temagami station is reached early in the afternoon. Here, or at the Hudson Bay Co.'s trading post Bear Island, 16 miles down the lake, and reached by a daily steamer, huntsmen may secure canoes, camping necessaries and capable Indians at about $2.50 a day each, that have made Temagami moose-hunting famous, as their boast is that no "sport" ever leaves Temagami without his moose.

Upon reaching Bear Island, the storm-centre of attraction, the day after leaving Toronto, all roads lead to excellent moose grounds, though probably the best lie in or about Sucker Gut in North Lady Evelyn Lake, a day's paddle from Bear Island, owing to the presence of innumerable lily-pads and an immense play ground for rampant moose. Maple Mountain is 2,300 feet in altitude, towards the top of which cariboo are reported by the Indians to be found.

Years ago, in Lady Evelyn Lake, before the white man's advent, annual moose feasts were held close by to where widow Wendavin's shack and tepee now stand, and as many as 200 braves smacked their lips over what they still consider to be the "pieces de resistance" of the moose, the nose and tongue. These wassails lasted for days and days, or until everything was eaten.

One morning in September, while paddling down Lady Evelyn Lake, we surprised a herd of four moose on the point of a headland and in short order the forest quiet galvanized into the wildest kind of animal life, and Fire Ranger Dent traversing Lady Evelyn Lake and its adjacent waters had seen up to a week ago 67 of these forest monarchs.

Sandy Inlet, an arm of Lake Temagami, about 15 miles north of Bear Island, is another excellent section. Last season a Toronto party were only on the trail two hours when a magnificent animal possessing fifteen spurs was bagged, and another of equal grandeur (I have seen both heads) followed the way of all flesh early next morning.

But no matter where the huntsman may journey in the Temagami district, if a native accompany him, he is sure of gaining his point—of securing a head—as none know the haunts of the moose better than the children of the forest themselves.

This year with a good train service obtaining and great distance annihilated thereby, it will be an easy matter to land trophies of the chase home in good condition.

But, oh, the joy of living when at night with the frosty kiss of autumn in the air you bend over a fire and fry to a turn a rich juicy stake off your first moose, followed by a sociable pipe and another talk on just how you did it.

Then, perhaps, will cross your mind as the fire burns low the reflection that the surly blasts of fall will soon strip the trees of their wealth of color and under winter's winding sheet of snow the leaves will re-enter the processes of kindly nature, which wastes nothing and overlooks nothing—not even your friend the moose.

DON'TS FOR YOUNG MOTHERS

Don't give baby a sleeping draught, soothing mixture, or opiate of any kind, except by the order of a competent physician who has seen the child. Remember that all so called soothing mixtures contain dangerous opiates. If your child is restless give it Baby's Own Tablets, as they are absolutely harmless and in a natural way promote health-giving sleep.

Don't give medicine to check the movement of baby's bowels in diarrhoea, except on the advice of a doctor. Feed the child sparingly and give Baby's Own Tablets to cleanse the bowels of irritating secretions. Keep the abdomen warm. This treatment will cure diarrhoea.

Don't give a young child harsh cathartics, such as castor oil, which gripes and tortures. Baby's Own Tablets have a gentle laxative action and never fail to cure constipation.

Mrs. J. D. Gilly, Heathertow, Que., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for stomach and bowel troubles and have always found them a most satisfactory medicine."

Don't fail to keep Baby's Own Tablets in the house. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE LATE EX-U. S. MINISTER TO ENGLAND

Commends Pe-ru-na to All Catarrh Sufferers.

Hon. Louis E. Johnson is the son of the late Reverdy Johnson who was United States Senator from Maryland, also Attorney General under President Johnson, and United States Minister to England, and who was regarded as the greatest constitutional lawyer that ever lived.

In a recent letter from 1008 F St., N. W., Washington, D.C., Mr. Johnson says:

"No one should longer suffer from catarrh when Peruna is accessible. To my knowledge it has caused relief to so many of my friends and acquaintances, that it is humanity to commend its use to all persons suffering with this distressing disorder of the human system."—Louis E. Johnson.

Catarrh Poisons.

Catarrh is capable of changing all the life-giving secretions of the body into scalding fluids, which destroy and inflame every part they come in contact with. Applications to the pieces affected by catarrh can do little good save to soothe or quiet disagreeable symptoms. Hence it is that gargles, sprays, atomizers and inhalants only serve as temporary relief.

There is but one remedy that has the desired effect, and that remedy is Peruna. This remedy strikes at once at the roots of catarrh by restoring to the capillary vessels their healthy elasticity. Peruna is not a temporary palliative, but a radical cure.

WISDOM'S COAL.

(By Mutsuhito, His Majesty the Emperor of Japan.)

The water placed in goblet, bowl or cup
Changes its form to its receptacle;
And so our plastic souls take various shapes
And characters of good or ill, to fit
The good or evil friends we choose,
Therefore be ever careful in your choice of friends
And let your special love be given to those Whose strength of character may prove the whip
That drives you ever to fair wisdom's goal.

Like Charles II.'s Fish Story.

A correspondent of Nature asks for evidence, if there is any, in support of the almost universal belief among drivers, owners and builders of carriages that if the distance between the force and hind wheels of vehicles be increased the draft will become heavier. No reason is given for the belief, and no explanation of it is offered; but a carriage builder to whom the correspondent in question submitted a test case in which two carriages were of exactly the same height, but with the body of one much longer than that of the other, was sure that the former would be the heavier to move. It seems to us that this is a matter in which the facts should be settled by experiments before the theory is investigated. Every one remembers how Charles II. asked the Royal Society why if a fish were put into a full bucket of water the water did not overflow and when they had exhausted themselves in learned explanations suggested that they should get a fish and a bucket and see what happened then. There ought to be no difficulty in testing how much power the long and the short carriage respectively require, and if it proves to be the same the question is answered without more ado.—London Globe.

The Iron Duke and His Handwriting.

"As even a trifling detail connected with the Duke of Wellington cannot fail to be interesting, I will here mention," says Lady Bloomfield in a paper full of interesting reminiscences which appears in The Pall Mall Magazine, "a circumstance related to me by Lord Charles Wellesley. At the time my brother-in-law, Charles, fourth Earl of Hardwicke, was in office in Lord Derby's Government, he had occasion to write on business to the Duke of Wellington; but his writing was so illegible the duke could not read it, so he wrote to Lord Hardwicke to tell him so, giving his letter, as was his custom, to Mr. Arbuthnot, his secretary, to copy. But . . . Mr. Arbuthnot was unable to decipher the duke's writing, and in despair took it to Lord Charles Wellesley, who in turn could not read it; so there was nothing to be done but to take the said letter back to the duke, who took it with considerable signs of impatience, looked at it and then, throwing it into the fire, exclaimed, "'Pon my soul, I cannot read it myself!"

Will Adorn the Chair.

Alderman John Pound, the Lord Mayor-elect of London, says The Star, is a packing-case maker in a large way of business in Leadenhall street, but he is better known as the Chairman for many years of the London General Omnibus Company, whose vehicles should loom large in the procession of November 9. The worthy Alderman has been a member of the Corporation for more than 30 years, and for the most part a silent one. His white beard and his penchant for wearing frilled shirts with morning dress make him a picturesque figure, however, and he will adorn the chair.

DON'T take medicine to make you feel better when you are not feeling just right. If it's your nerves the only safe and sure remedy is rest. The proper way to rest is lying down, but you can rest your nerves while you stand or walk by wearing

SPLENDID MEETING IN MR. FINLAY'S INTERESTS

Large Attendance at Zion Last Night to Hear Liberal Speakers.

A very enthusiastic meeting was held at Zion last evening in the interests of Mr. J. Finlay, Liberal candidate for East Peterborough. There was a large attendance of the electors present. The chairman was Mr. W. Dickson.

Mr. Jno. Lang, ex-M.P., spoke regarding the Grand Trunk Pacific, and referred to the contract of the Government as an excellent one. He expressed confidence in Mr. Finlay, when he expected to see elected by a handsome majority. He spoke of the prosperity of the country, the state of the markets and increase of trade, the improvements in the post office department, and of the flourishing condition of the farmers. He was a farmer's son, and knew of the prosperity being enjoyed by the farming class.

Mayor Roger spoke at some length on the Grand Trunk Pacific question and gave good reasons why the Government's policy in connection with it was a good one. He also referred to Mr. Finlay as a candidate who, if elected, would be certain to prove a most satisfactory member.

The meeting closed with cheers for the King and Mr. Finlay.

Ladies' Hats.

Miss Delaney has received a splendid assortment of ladies' hats direct from New York. Every one a pattern design, and no two alike. These hats were selected with great care as to their popularity with the well-attired woman of New York's fashionable quarters. They are in quiet but tasty style of rich material, but not high priced. td

SELWYN MEETING WAS SUCCESSFUL

Splendid Rally in Interest of the Liberal Candidate Last Night.

Addresses by Mr. R. R. Hall, Hon. J. R. Stratton and Mr. F. D. Kerr, on Political Questions.

General Prosperity Under Laurier Administration—The Transcontinental Railway.

Mr. R. R. Hall, the Liberal candidate for West Peterborough, continues to meet with success and enthusiasm in his campaign meetings. Last evening a meeting was held in the Temperance Hall at Selwyn, when addresses were given by the candidate, Hon. J. R. Stratton and Mr. F. D. Kerr. The meeting was an enthusiastic one, and those present appeared heartily in sympathy with the Laurier Government and with the candidate. All the speakers were given a most attentive hearing. There was a good attendance, and Mr. W. Manning occupied the chair.

MR. F. D. KERR.

Mr. Kerr was pleased at being afforded the opportunity of addressing the electors present, and congratulated them on the prosperity which had been enjoyed in that part of the riding. He spoke of the marked prosperity of the country under careful administration of the Liberal Government, and compared its trade returns with those of other progressive countries, such as Great Britain, the United States, Germany, Japan, etc. As compared with Canada the increase in the trade returns of these countries as small, the increase of the United States in the past seven years being only 48 per cent, as compared with that of 107 per cent in Canada. The speaker took up the question of the business-like way in which Sir Wilfrid Laurier had chosen his Cabinet, and illustrated by reference to the different departments how the application of sound business methods had produced the most favourable results. He especially devoted his attention to the post office department, showing the very effective way in which that department had been administered. Mr. Kerr especially commended the Premier in the conduct of the affairs of the country generally. He had placed the interests of the people, and the business interests of the country above and beyond party. The speaker congratulated the people of West Peterborough on their opportunity of being represented for the next five years by a man such as Mr. R. R. Hall, whose capacity and determination would insure that all the interests of West Peterborough would be given proper attention, and the wants and requirements of the people would be brought before the attention of the Government. He felt certain that Mr. Hall would be returned as representative for West Peterborough.

HON. J. R. STRATTON.

Hon. Mr. Stratton was warmly received upon rising to address the meeting. He devoted his remarks chiefly to an exposition of the contract of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, which question was a live issue on the present campaign. He pointed out that there was no doubt about the necessity of having such a railway as its benefits to the country would be very great. The west was rapidly going ahead in every way and a transcontinental railway running entirely upon Canadian soil would prove a means of vastly improving the trade and benefiting the country generally. He defended the contract made by the Government as against the plan advocated by Mr. Borden, condemning the Government ownership scheme. The Government ownership scheme had failed in connection with the Intercolonial Railway and should not be attempted again in regard to the transcontinental line. He quoted the words of the late Sir John Macdonald in a speech delivered in 1881 in reference to the matter of Government ownership of railways as follows:—

"The Government has every right to use all their exertions in order to relieve themselves and the country of the obligation of building this road (the Canadian Pacific Railway) and of the still greater responsibility of running it. We see this in the Intercolonial and in every public work. Why, sir, it is actually impossible for the Government to run that railway satisfactorily. The men we put on the road, from the porter upwards, become civil servants. If one is put on from any cause whatever he is said to be a political hack, if he is removed, it is said his removal was on account of his political opinions. If a cow is killed on the road a motion is made in respect of it by the member of the House who has the owner's vote and support. The responsibility, the expense, the worry, and annoyance of a government having charge of such a work, are such, that, for these causes alone, it was considered advisable to get rid of the responsibility."

At the time of the construction of the C. P. R., the Government constructed two costly sections of the road—from Lake Superior to Winnipeg, and from Kamloops to the Pacific Coast—and made a present of this 600 miles of completed section to the Company, while the Grand Trunk Pacific from Winnipeg to near the Atlantic Ocean will be built by the Government and will remain the property of the Government in perpetuity. Parliament granted to the C.P.R. a subsidy of $25,000,000, whilst the only financial aid given to the G.T.P. is a guarantee of interest—which will not cost the country anything—to the capitalists who furnish the means of construction west of Winnipeg. On the section east of Winnipeg, which will be built and owned by the Government, the country will receive a rental sufficient to pay interest on the sum invested. Parliament also gave the Canadian Pacific, 25,000,000 acres of land including the privilege of establishing town sites, but the present Government gives not an acre of land except for right of way and station facilities to the Grand Trunk Pacific. The G.T.P. will cost the country $13,500,000 with no grants and every foot of it will be through Canadian soil to carry Canadian produce to Canadian ports. Mr. Stratton also touched on other points in connection with the contract.

In closing his remarks he referred to the candidate, Mr. Hall, and urged upon the electors to support him as their candidate at the coming election.

MR. HALL'S SPLENDID RECEPTION

The candidate, Mr. R. R. Hall, was the next speaker, and upon rising to speak he was given a splendid reception, an enthusiasm being manifested which augurs well for his victory at the polls on Nov. 3rd. He expressed his pleasure at seeing so many voters present, in spite of the rather disagreeable weather conditions. It showed that they had the interest of the cause at heart, and that they wished to become intelligently informed as to the public questions of the day.

Mr. Hall then plunged into a discussion of the political questions which are of particular moment to the electors of West Peterborough. During the last eight years, since the Liberal Government had been in charge of the affairs of the country this riding had been represented by a member opposed to the Government in power, and that member had not given the attention to the needs of the riding which he represented, that he should have given, and as a result the riding had not secured the things which it had required during that period.

Just at this particular time, when there is so much to be gained from the Government, in the way of public works for the country, it would be an unwise policy to continue to send an opposition member to Ottawa.

The great need, and the one before which at the present time, all others should bow, is that of the early completion of the Trent Valley Canal, for with it completed the country, and this county and district especially, would enter upon an era of prosperity never before experienced. It cannot be found that during the eight years in which the late member has sat in Parliament, he has hardly raised his voice in the halls of Parliament in an advocacy of the the completion of the canal, which would mean more to his constituency than any other one thing, and yet he comes seeking re-election, and his record is one of almost absolute idleness, as far as parliamentary work, or benefit to West Peterborough are concerned.

He was condemned out of the mouth of his own leader on the occasion of the latter's visit to Peterborough, when the latter said that his attention had "that day" been called by Mr. Kendry to the importance of the Trent Canal, and the necessity for its early completion.

The Government had taken hold of it in a business-like way, and at the present time there was a stretch of 160 miles of waterway, but it should be opened to Lake Ontario and the Georgian Bay, enabling the manufacturers along its route to get cheap rates. Canada, with its boundless territory and growing trade should be able to spend $5,000,000 to complete this canal. The saving to the county of Peterborough alone, if the canal were commenced would be $100,000 a year, yet on this important matter Mr. Kendry, during the last two sessions, had failed to advocate the completion of the canal.

There were other matters affecting West Peterborough, which Mr. Kendry had not advocated in Parliament.

One of these was the necessity for a wharf at Burleigh. The attention of the Government had apparently never been called to the need of this wharf, for after representations had been made to him (Mr. Hall) he at once took the matter up with the Government, and the result was that an appropriation had been made, and the wharf would be built. The same thing applies to the Peterborough post office. It was inadequate to supply the demands made upon it, but through his efforts $4,000 had been granted, and the improvements necessary would be made; $100,000 would also be spent in providing Peterborough with a modern armouries building.

Then, there were other improvements which the riding needs, and these he would be in a position to advocate if he were elected, as he believed he would be on November 3rd.

Mr. Hall then dealt with some of the great national questions, which are of interest to every voter in every riding. The preference to Great Britain was one of the masterstrokes of the present Government, and the immediate result had been an immense increase in the trade of Canada with the Mother Land. At once upon the adoption of the preference to British goods, Britain began to buy more products from the Canadian farm, until at the present time the trade had reached proportions never even dreamed of during the years of Conservative rule, and yet Mr. Kendry was not in accord with even his leader on this important question. He alone of all the Ontario M.P.'s had denounced it, saying that he was "opposed to the preference idea in any form."

Then, too, the Government had done a great deal to increase the trade with Great Britain in farm products, by providing cold storage facilities for their transportation, the result of which is that the Canadian produce is now landed in Great Britain in as good condition as when it is first shipped, and the butter shipped to Great Britain now amounts to nearly $7,000,000 a year, and is now pronounced as being "a little better than the best." The exports of hams and bacon has increased nearly $12,000,000 a year since 1896. The exports of eggs have also greatly increased, and the prices for all these products have increased. This being the case, a Government which does things in a business-like way can be appreciated by the people.

There were not lacking evidences of the abounding prosperity of the country. Would any one present say that he was not better off than he was in 1896? And the conditions here were identical with the conditions everywhere throughout the Dominion. There was not a city, town or village in which prosperity was not rampant. In Peterborough there were evidences of this prosperity almost to an endless degree, and one of these which had a great deal to do with the farmers of West Peterborough was the establishment of the American Cereal Works, which had created a market for oats and cereals, enabling the farmers to obtain higher prices for their products. This industry was started in Peterborough as a direct result of conditions created by the Liberal Government.

Mr. Hall dealt with the new transcontinental railway, showing that a good contract had been made with the G.T.P. for its construction, and compared it with that made by the Conservatives for the construction of the C.P.R.

He also referred to the fiscal policy of the Liberals, and the wise administration of the Post Office Department, which now showed a surplus.

Mr. Hall was well received, and at the conclusion of his address was heartily applauded.

The highly successful and encouraging meeting closed with the usual cheers for the King, and the candidate.

OBITUARY.

Recent Lamented Death of Mr. Patrick Francis Crough.

A recent death was that of Patrick Francis Crough, son of Philip Crough, Smith, (formerly of Ennismore). Patrick Crough had been ailing all summer but death was looked for, even though all preparation had been made for the dread coming. The deceased was quite a young man, the age of 30 years and was well known and liked in Ennismore. The bereaved parents, brothers and sisters have the sympathy of all who know them. The funeral being very large, took place on Tuesday morning from the residence of the father of the deceased, Smith, to St. Peter's church, and thence from the church to St. Mary's cemetery, Ennismore. Rev. Father P. J. Galvin celebrated the mass at St. Peter's and Rev. Father Fitzpatrick recited the prayer at the cemetery. The pall bearers were Frank Crough, Leonard Crough, Timothy Crough, Edward Crough, Edward Donoghue and Michael Donoghue, all cousins of the deceased. May he rest in peace.

PRACTICAL POINTERS OF PETERBORO'S PROGRESS

NUMBER THREE

The half-tone above depicts the present large and modern harness manufactory of Messrs. B. F. Ackerman, Son & Co., one of the most prosperous industrial concerns in Peterborough, and among the largest harness factories in the Dominion.

In 1896 the business of this firm was conducted in a much smaller building situated across the street from the present structure. But the firm shared in the general business expansion consequent upon the Liberals' accession to power in 1896, and it soon found it necessary to procure larger premises. This was done by the erection of the magnificent building now occupied, and a largely increased number of hands is now employed, bringing a greater revenue to the town, and increased prosperity to the firm. Since this out was made the building has been considerably enlarged by an addition at the north end.

"How Will He Get Over It?"

His trouble is Kidney Disorder and he cannot get over it alone and unaided. If he attempt it he will fail. By the aid of Bu-Ju, The Kidney Pill, he can put aside the trouble and go on to success.

Symptoms of kidney disorders are many—too many to enumerate here. Among the most common may be mentioned: lame back, rheumatism in its various forms, pallid complexion, puffed face, swollen feet, dropsical conditions, irregularity of kidney secretions, sick headache, sick stomach, weak eyes, loss of memory, brain fag, tired feeling, loss of ambition, sleeplessness, melancholy, and many other ailments.

Bu-Ju, The Kidney Pill, cures all these troubles and maladies, by attacking the seat of the disease, the disordered kidneys. It restores the kidneys to their normal condition, so that they perform their functions properly. The stream of poison which had been carried throughout the system ceases. The man or woman is restored to health and is able to climb to the top rung of the ladder of life.

TENT DWELLERS IN TORONTO.

House Famine in the Rich Capital of the Province of Ontario.

Under the heading "House Famine Causes Overflow," The Globe of Monday contained the following: "The scarcity of house accommodation is causing an overflow of population beyond the city limits and into all kinds of receptacles. City Relief Officer Taylor was notified that a family was living in destitution in a tent north of Somerset avenue. Though the tent was located beyond the city limits, he sent up an inspector, who found a man and his wife and five children. The head of the house, however, denied that they were short of the necessaries of life. He said he could support his family, but had found it impossible to get a house in the city, so he had set up his tent where he would not be disturbed by the city authorities. But the tent-dwellers were but a small portion of what the inspector found. He discovered nearby a whole colony of house-famine outcasts. In a shack resided two women, one man and ten children; in an adjacent shed were two women, one man and four children, and there were in the same vicinity also four derelict street cars, all tenanted by people who could not get houses within their means." I ask a civilized public if this kind of thing is desirable. Tents and abandoned streets cars have and can have no decent sanitary arrangements, while men, women and children being herded promiscuously together must be morally hurtful. At the same time I rather admire people who would rather live with their families in this way than share a house or hovel with others. In the Northwest and in Manitoba hundreds and perhaps thousands of families live in tents, but their make-shifts are but temporary and they have hopes of better things. They are dependent upon themselves, but in Toronto such dwellers have no such hopes. They simply exist and unless small houses, such as will rent at a low figure, are erected they must suffer in mind and in body and in severe weather be liable to terrible privations. Something really must be done, and that right quickly. The process of co-operative building is altogether too slow to meet the requirements of this situation. These people are not the victims of landlord rapacity—and that exists right here in Toronto in greater and keener measure than in any city, town or district in Ireland—but of absolute dearth. There are evidently problems other than those of transportation and communication calling for solution and demanding instant attention.

Hallowe'en Hints.

Here are some suggestions for decorating house and table for a Hallowe'en party:

"If there are mantels in the house, fit the shelves with a board so the fringe of corn with upturned husks can be securely nailed in place. Secure some fine corn stalks having full tassels on, to bank each side of the fireplace and drape bitter-sweet over the mantels, which should have a generous banking of either grain or branches of autumn leaves. If the fireplace is not needed, a huge jack-o'-lantern set in a tangle of leaves and grasses will make an effective decoration. If one has the patience to make them, a row of tiny lanterns made from gourds or oranges are very decorative arranged each side of the mantel, using the tiny candles for Christmas trees in them.

"Mats of autumn leaves and doilies of corn husks should adorn the table with candlesticks formed from large radishes, carrots and cucumbers. Red peppers make attractive salt cellars and hollowed-out turnips will hold sugar very acceptably. Long-necked squash can be arranged to form a centrepiece over a tiny jack-o'-lantern and the sides of a large pumpkin will furnish several shell plates. A group of red ears of corn hung from the chandelier may be as suggestive as the mistletoe bough.

"For serving the salad, a unique dish is made from a fine white cabbage by cutting out the centre, then shaping the shell into four broad scallops outlining a face on each with cloves. If the supper is to be passed, the root of the cabbage may be left on to serve as a handle and the outer leaves nicely curled down around it. Huge beets hollowed out make fine "dishes" in which to pass the nuts. Small bright red apples are very pretty to hold the dessert whether parfait or ice."

King's Gift to Canadian Soldiers.

Monday, August 11, Lord Minto presented the Imperial banners given by the King to the representatives of the Royal Canadian Field Artillery, the Royal Canadian Garrison Artillery and the Royal Canadian Regiment for distinguished service in South Africa. Lord Minto, in making the presentation, said: "Officers and men of the Royal Canadian Field Artillery, of the Royal Canadian Garrison Artillery and of the Royal Canadian Regiment,—I have been commanded by His Majesty the King, in recognition of the distinguished services of your respective corps, to deliver to your charge the colors which I have just presented. I know that they will receive every honor at your hands."

His Excellency afterwards presented Color-Sergeant F. Clark of Ottawa with the meritorious service medal, and the proceedings terminated with "God Save the King."

Automobiles in India.

Automobilism is making steady progress in India, and patrons have not been found wanting who are ready to lend valuable aid in furthering the industry and pastime there. His Highness the Maharajah of Kapurthala has, says The Car, an electrically driven vehicle, which was built by Krieger of Paris, and is the only one of its kind in India. Its silent and graceful running always excites enthusiasm wherever it goes. The Maharajah of Kapurthala, by the way, has quite a number of motor vehicles, and it is possible that one of these may compete in the forthcoming reliability trials between Delhi and Bombay, for which he contemplates giving a cup. The Gaikwar of Baroda, who is, perhaps, better known in England than any other eastern potentate, has also offered a handsome trophy for the reliability trials. It is hoped that the stimulus thus offered to the development of automobilism in India will have its due effect, and that amateur owners—to whom only is the trial open—will be induced to visit India with their cars. The road from Delhi to Bombay is a magnificent highway, as good as the Great North road, while perfect weather is invariably assured to the traveler between the months of October and March.

Not Satisfied.

Sailors are sometimes considered to be the greatest grumblers on earth. A passenger, hearing the sailors of the ship daily complaining about their food, observed to the captain that something serious must be wrong. The captain, laughing, said it was just the way of the sailor, and that he would growl although he had roast goose to eat. The passenger doubted this, and resolved to put it to the test.

When the ship reached port, he caused a roast goose to be sent to the forecastle, and hid himself so that he could hear the delighted remarks of the men. At eight bells in they trooped, when the first man, sticking his knife into the goose and holding it up, cried out:

"Look here, boys, if this wasn't cheaper than beef it wouldn't have come our way!"

Spain's Army of Beggars.

There are 190,227 professional beggars in Spain. In some of the cities beggars are licensed to carry on their trade. Seeking alms is recognized as legitimate business, and the municipality demands a percentage upon the collections. Sevfile is the only city in the kingdom which forbids begging in the streets.

AT THE KING'S LEVEE.

What Is Required of Those Who Attend—Quaint and Picturesque Ceremonies Even To-day.

Quaint and picturesque are the ceremonies connected with the King's Levee in Buckingham Palace even at the present day. In the old days it was expected of certain sections of society that they should put in an appearance at a couple of Levees at the least in each season. The present regulations require each personage who desires to attend or to be presented to obtain a card of admission, and as the number is limited the task of making a selection is not the least arduous of the duties that devolve upon the Lord Chamberlain. Army officers accordingly send in their names a fortnight before the appointed day, and other sections of the community are allowed at least a week longer to make up their minds. Members of the public services, the Diplomatic Corps, clergy of all denominations and some other classes may generally reckon upon being included in the list, in virtue of their status. But private personages must be prepared to run the gauntlet of the Lord Chamberlain's penetrating eye. He is a social censor in more ways than one. The refusal of an invitation is a serious thing; but if, as occasionally happens, The Gazette should subsequently announce that a presentation has been cancelled, social ruin is the result.

At an early hour of the eventful day the Yeomen of the Guard arrive from the Tower, and are scattered about the main entrance, into which the general company are ushered upon their arrival. Upstairs, in the State saloons there is a glittering array of the Honorable Corps of Gentlemen-at-Arms. Here and there are posted troopers of the Household Cavalry. In every part of the palace are to be seen officials of the court, armed with staves, and their suavity is only the mask that conceals a peremptory method of keeping every one in his place.

Mute officials stroll round the rooms to see that nothing has been overlooked. A fine polish is given to the inlaid table in the King's closet; then there is a glance to see that the cheval glass is spotless, and fit to mirror the glittering personality of the Monarch; perhaps a window has to be opened, and a settee pushed into its place. And as the strains of the National Anthem float in from the crowded Mall the stage managers retire and the drama begins in earnest.

The last piece of furniture to lose its wrappings is the throne. As the last member of the company departs, the holland shroud is brought out of its hiding place, and is deftly hoisted into position again. Not for a single day is this embodiment of sovereignty left exposed to the sun and air.

A Novelty in Cycles.

From Melbourne comes an account of a new invention, which is one of the most novel things the wheel world has had placed before it for a long time past. Mr. Henry Glade, a Victorian, has completed and patented two miniature cycles for the foot.

The motive power for these is derived from the action of the heels, which, on being lifted and pressed alternately, operate the gear by means of a set of elbow cranks. The power from the gear wheels is communicated to the front wheel by a driving chain. The action of the rider when traveling is very similar to that of a swimmer treading water, the only thing needful for proficiency being to learn the amount of balance required when going fast to lean forward, and to straighten up when slowing. It is stated that a speed of 16 miles an hour is attained with ease on some surfaces, and the machines are shortly to be placed on the London market.

"Life Plant" of Jamaica.

There is a creeping moss found in Jamaica, in Barbados, and other islands of the West Indies, which is called the "life tree," or more properly the "life plant." Its powers of vitality are said to be beyond those of any other plant. It is absolutely indestructible by any other means except immersion in boiling water or application of a red-hot iron. It may be cut up and divided in any manner, and the smallest shreds will throw out roots, grow, and form buds. The leaves of this extraordinary plant have been placed in a closed air-tight, dark box, without moisture of any sort, and still they grew.

The World's Tallest Building.

The Park Row building in New York is the tallest inhabited building in the world. It covers 15,000 square feet of ground and is thirty stories high. The distance from the curbing to the cornice is 336 feet, to the top of the towers 390 feet, to the top of the flagstaff 447; the depth of the foundations below curbing is seventy-five feet, making a total distance from the foundations to the top of the flagstaff of 552 feet.

A Novel Cucumber Salad.

Pare two cucumbers, cut lengthwise into quarters and cut off the edge containing the seeds if they are large; then chop fine and press through cheesecloth quite dry. Season with salt, paprika and sugar and stir in one-half cup thick cream, whipped stiff.

ORIGINAL OF MAXWELL

NEW GOV.-GENERAL PORTRAYED BY MRS. HUMPHRY WARD.

Earl Grey's Character Looms Larger and Stronger the More It Is Considered—Personal Appearance Striking—Once He Could "Have Hugged the Poor Old Chap," He Said, Referring to Late Cecil Rhodes.

Earl Grey, who is to be the next Governor-General of Canada, possesses one of the most interesting personalities of all the Governors the Mother Country has sent to her colonies during the past fifty years. The more his character is studied the larger it looms and the stronger become its colors.

He is said to be the original of Lord Maxwell, the nobleman portrayed by Mrs. Humphrey Ward in "Marcella" and "Sir George Tresady." Maxwell took his high position and his high responsibilities with the utmost seriousness and worked to improve the condition of his tenantry and also of the London poor. Earl Grey also lives up to his responsibilities, and his work has been similar to that of Mrs. Ward's great character.

In appearance Earl Grey is tall, big-boned and loose-jointed. He has a high, smooth-domed forehead, the baldness extending well down the back and sides of the head. The hair and moustache are sandy, the latter bushy and clipped off in a ragged line. The under-lip protrudes slightly, casting a faint shadow between the full mouth and square chin. The general appearance is that of the English north countryman, the type to be expected from Northumberland, the Earl's home.

He is well and comfortably but never fastidiously dressed. The long frock coat which many Englishmen practically live in, he only wears upon special occasions, instead preferring a sack-coat "business suit" of rough Scotch weave. In fact, the Earl is too fully occupied to let his mind dwell upon his clothes, but, being conscientious in all things, he is also careful in this.

Politically Earl Grey is something of a puzzle. Previous to his accession to the peerage he sat three terms in Parliament as a Liberal, and since then he has been a steady supporter of that party in the House of Lords. He is, however, more of a Whig than a Radical. Among his friends are men of all parties. W. T. Stead is one of his frequent companions, though on the question of the South African war they differed fully. Lord Grey is one of the Cecil Rhodes executors, and was one of the warmest friends of the empire-builder in his lifetime. From 1896 to 1897 Earl Grey was administrator of Rhodesia, and in long rides over the veldt with Rhodes the latter unbosomed himself of some of his most intimate thoughts and plans.

"Do the comparative!" Mr. Rhodes said to Lord Grey one day when they were together in Rhodesia. "Always do the comparative. You will find it a great comfort. For instance, if I had been sent to jail after the raid, I had fully made up my mind what I would do. I should have gone down to the Tower of London before I was locked up; I should have gone to the cell in which poor old Sir Walter Raleigh was imprisoned before he was led out to be beheaded; I should have gone to the cell and thought of all that Raleigh suffered in the long years in which he lay there. And then, afterwards, when I was in my comfortable cell at Holloway, I should have consoled myself every day by thinking, 'After all, you are not so badly off as poor Sir Walter Raleigh in that cell of his in the Tower.'"

On another occasion when Rhodes had been made wretched by the attacks made upon him in the Cape Parliament for his share in the raid, when it seemed as if he had lost everything for which he had striven, and had nothing to look forward to but punishment and disgrace, he burst into Lord Grey's room one morning and exclaimed:

"Do you know, Grey, I have just been thinking that you never have been sufficiently grateful for having been born an Englishman. Just think for a moment," he went on, "what it is to have been born an Englishman in England. Think how many millions of men there are in the world who have been born Chinese or Hindoos or Kaffirs, but you were not born any of those; you were born an Englishman. And that is not all. You are just over forty (which was Rhodes' own age at that time) and you have a clean, healthy body. Now, think of the odds there are against anyone having these three things; to have been born an Englishman, to be just over forty years old and to have a clean, healthy body. Why, the chances are enormous against it and yet you have all three. What enormous chances there are against you having drawn all these prizes in the lottery of life, and yet you never think of them."

"I could have hugged the poor old chap," said Lord Grey, "for it was so evident that he had been doing the comparative by way of consoling himself, and reflecting that in the midst of all his misfortunes there were some things which no one could take away from him, and then he would burst into my room to pour out his soul to me in that fashion."

Earl Grey's quieter nature had a soothing effect upon Rhodes, while Earl Grey, on the other hand, was able to learn something from Rhodes' philosophy and apply it in a way the more impulsive man never could. Rhodes' dictum to take a comparative view of all things and steer a middle course has been largely applied by Earl Grey in his career.

In England Lord Grey is largely known for his connection with the temperance reform movement. He is the prime mover in the so-called Public House Trust, which operates drinking places in England somewhat on the same line of the one in New York upon which Bishop Potter recently bestowed his episcopal blessing. Lord Grey, however, derived his idea chiefly from Sweden, where the so-called Gothenberg system is almost universal. On this principle Lord Grey's drink-shops keep as much alcoholic supply as other resorts, though the liquor is of a considerably better quality. No profit, however, is allowed the manager on alcoholic drinks, while he is given a handsome percentage on all "soft" drinks, tea and coffee. As a result, the sale of innocent beverages is pushed and customers are restrained from over-indulgence. The trust saloons are therefore literally poor men's clubs and are welcomed by the better people of all neighborhoods.

Lord Grey's county seat is Howick House, in Northumberland. It is a modern structure surrounded by a great park. The estate comprises nearly 17,000 acres. Much of it is bare moorland and other parts are rough upland country, but the cultivated portions and the preserved parts are as fine as can be found in this part of England. The Earl has a model tenantry, and they regard him as a model landlord. He has encouraged modern and scientific cultivation. Like Mrs. Ward's Lord Maxwell, he has given much time to the housing question and replaced a number of ancient rookeries with modern sanitary dwellings.

Lady Alice Grey is not, like her husband, of noble lineage. She was the daughter of a plain Mr. R. S. Helford, who, however, was for a time a member of Parliament. They were married in 1877. Their eldest son, Lord Howick, was formerly a Lieutenant in the First Life Guards.

Lady Grey is a very handsome woman, with large, regular features and a restful manner. She is rated as an intellectual woman, though she never parades her superiority over less clever friends. She is in the fullest accord with her husband in all his plans, and upon several occasions in his career her advice and counsel have been of the utmost value to him. Her manners are simple and pleasing and her experience has been sufficiently wide to fully equip her for the difficult position of the mistress of Government House in Ottawa.

WILD PIGEONS.

Recent Reported Appearance of the Bird's in Manitoba.

A recent allusion to the reported appearance of wild pigeons in Manitoba has brought a letter to The Globe from Mr. E. E. Law, proprietor of The Progress Publishing House, Qu'Appelle, Assa. Mr. Law says that in 1896-7-8 he used to hear wild pigeons cooing in the woods eighteen miles south of Winnipeg. He also saw them in the woods and along the roads. Last year he drew the attention of some friends to several pigeons in Qu'Appelle. This year he has seen a large number feeding on the road and in the garden by his own house. He declares that there can be no doubt of their presence of of an increase in numbers yearly. How much farther west and north they go he is not prepared to say.

In all parts of the continent bird-lovers are keenly alert for the return of the wild pigeon, and sometimes their eagerness warps their judgment. That the birds were cooing in the woods certainly justifies the hopes Mr. Law's letter will arouse. But, on the other hand, the mourning dove is a ground bird, and the skeptical will regard the habits of the birds observed—their feeding on the road and in the garden—as characteristics suggesting a reserved judgment. The mourning dove is more brown in color, with a not very distinct spot on each side of the neck. It is a ground bird, while the wild pigeon is a bird of the woods. If the pigeons have returned they will soon become numerous, and eagerness for a positive identification should not prompt collectors to take any specimens. The story of their appearance in South America has not been verified. They have gone like the buffalo. There are a few in captivity, and if some have still survived the mysterious fate of their fellows everyone should refrain from killing or molesting them.

An Indian Relic.

Mr. F. Lamorandiere of Cape Croker, Bruce County, has presented the museum of the Education Department, Toronto, with a lot of wampum, consisting of twelve strings, ten of white and purple, and two of white beads. They had been in his possession and in the possession of a family named Grandville for a number of years, having been presented to the latter family in gratitude by a Chippewa Indian widow, who said they were the deed of a farm.

THE CHANNEL ISLANDS.

Jersey, Guernsey, Sark and Herm Are Constitutional Curiosities—Strange Laws Which Prevail There.

In view of the feeling aroused in the Channel Islands by the announcement of the intention of the Government to withdraw the British garrison thence, a great deal more is likely to be heard of the question in this country before long. The constitutional position of the islands in the Empire is a curiosity. "Every schoolboy knows" that they are the sole remnant of the Norman possessions of the Norman dynasty of 1066. But their relation to Parliament is peculiar. As a matter of fact, Parliament legislates for them, when it thinks fit, which is not often, and in the Interpretation Act of 1889 Parliament ordained that the expression "British Islands" should include, as a general rule, the Channel Islands.

But the islanders maintain their territory never did belong to the King of England, as King of England, but as Duke of Normandy, and that Parliament has not more right to legislate for them than it had to legislate for Hanover in the reigns of the Georges (Sir William Anson, "The Constitution.") What happens, in fact, is that when a statute affects the islands, the Crown in Council transmits it through the Home Secretary—for they are not "Colonies"—to the Lieutenant-Governors for registration by the Royal Court. This satisfies the theory of the islanders that they are bound by the act of the Crown and not of Parliament. The basis of the local law is the old Norman law.

In Jersey the Royal Court till 1771 was—what political philosophers have always abhorred—at once a legislative and a judicial body. It is now only the judicature. It consists of the baltic appointed by the Crown, and twelve "jurats"—that is, sworn men, who are elected for life by the whole of the ratepayers in Jersey. The whole of the judicial work is done by different distributions of the jurats in number—namely, as Courts of First Instance or of Appeal, but always with the bailiff presiding, and there is a final appeal to the Crown in Council. "The constitution of the court," quietly observes Sir William Anson, "is not calculated to further the ends of justice." This is probably the only tribunal in the whole Empire of which a dispassionate technical writer could make this observation. "The jurats, who act as judges, are elected for legislative as well as judicial purposes. They are not paid, and no security is taken that they should possess any legal training. The bailiff, who is appointed by the Crown, who is always a qualified lawyer, and whose income from direct payment and fees amounts to about £750, is not allowed to express an opinion, unless the jurats are equally divided. Change has constantly been desired and expected in the constitution of these courts, but no change would seem to have been effected."

The state of things in the judiciary of Guernsey and Alderney seems to be much the same, and, according to the same authority, equally unsatisfactory. Each of the islands has its law officers (of the Crown) and a staff of executive officials, and Alderney apparently appeals to Guernsey. "Sark has a court which exercises limited criminal jurisdiction. The tiny island of Herm"—surely Sark and Herm correspond in our Empire to Andorra or san Marino—"once attempted to assert its independence of Guernsey, but the attempt was not successful." ("Encyclopaedia of Laws.") The Legislature in Jersey has been since 1771 "the states," i.e., the Royal Court plus the twelve parsons (rectors) and the twelve constables of the twelve parishes. The constables are elected by parishioners (principeaux) possessing property of the annual value of from £160 to £400. Here, too, the bailiff presides.

The relations between this body and the Privy Council have been much discussed with much antiquarian lore. The present position is thus summed up by Sir W. Anson (ubi supra): "The Crown can by Order-in-Council extend to the islands the operations of statutes in which the islands are not named, or may legislate independently of statute, by Order-in-Council. In such cases the order must be registered by the Royal Court, and it is accepted custom that the order to register should be addressed to the States, that they may have an opportunity of addressing the Crown on the subject of the proposed legislation." This they have often done successfully: they are not heard by the judicial committee, but by a special one for the islands.

The States may themselves, and do, initiate legislation, subject to the approval of the Crown in Council, and they may, even without this consent, make enactments which are valid for three years, unless the Crown vetoes. The powers of the Guernsey Legislature are also very limited.

Lord Basil Blackwood.

Lord Basil Blackwood, who has been home on holiday for the last six months, is now on the Atlantic on his way back to Bloemfontein to resume his place as Assistant Colonial Secretary of the Orange River Colony. Lord Basil went out to South Africa early in the war as a Deputy Judge-Advocate, and after the general settlement was given a place in the Colonial Secretary's office in the new Orange Colony. His elder brother, Lord Ava, who would now have been Marquis of Dufferin had he lived, lost his life, it will be remembered, during the siege of Ladysmith in one of the sorties by the garrison against the Boers.

Fountain Tree of the Congo.

A French explorer, M. Henri Lecomte, recently returned from the Congo, tells some curious details of a fountain tree. It grows to a great height, and usually in damp places. The trunk is regular and provided with large branches, which bear finely dissected leaves. It is divided at the base like the mangrove, and enters the earth through a large number of ramifications. When the tree is cut at a height of about five feet from the ground, a large quantity of water is observed to flow from this section. M. Lecomte cut one at this height that had a diameter of 20 inches, and then, forming a gutter along the trunk, placed a pail at the base. The next morning the pail, which held nine quarts, had overflowed. The water is drinkable, though it is rich in chlorides and other salts.

LINCOLN AND LONDON.

Tower Dedicated to Our President in an English Church.

"With charity for all and malice toward none"—these well known words of the great, brave, sagacious Lincoln—appear in large lettering in the creed of Christ church, Westminster road. It is fitting, then, that the imposing tower of this superb structure, costing over £62,000 ($310,000), should be dedicated to the liberator of a race. Rowland Hill, whose name is linked with the world's great preachers, founded Surrey chapel eighteen years before the close of the eighteenth century. Newman Hall was one of his successors, and under his leadership the church secured this splendid temple and center of Christian service. When the building was still in the hands of the architects Dr. Hall conceived the idea of dedicating the tower to Abraham Lincoln, the martyred president of the United States, and today within the tower you may read the following inscription:

LINCOLN TOWER.
Inaugurated 4th July, A. D. 1876, by Sir Thomas Fowell Buxton Bart.
The memorial stone was laid 9th July 1874,
By the American Minister to this country.
The cost (£7,000) was defrayed equally by English and American contributions obtained by the Rev. Newman
Hall, LL.B.
It was built in commemoration of the abolition of slavery effected in 1865 by PRESIDENT LINCOLN;
And as a token of international brotherhood.
GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST.
—St. Nicholas.

ELECTRIC CURRENT CAUSED DEATH

William Dixon's Death Was Accidental and the Circumstances Sad.

Was at Work and Was Killed Instantly—He and a Companion Killed by Electricity.

Details of the accident which caused the death of Mr. William Dixon are supplied by an article from a Syracuse N. Y. paper, which says:—

"Believing that the power had been shut off, Thomas E. Deegan, a steamfitter, and William C. Dixon, an electrician, attempted to raise an electric transformer in a greenhouse in the rear of Lyman C. Smith's residence at No. 804 James street, and were almost instantly killed by electricity. The accident occurred at 11.25 o'clock yesterday morning, and from that time until 1.25 o'clock, when Coroner Daniel F. Matthews arrived, Mr. Smith stood guard over the dead and would let none enter.

As Deegan and Dixon took hold of the two crowbars, which they had placed under the transformer to raise it, they fell unconscious. Thomas Savage, of No. 320 Belden avenue, and George Bertrand, of No. 1510 East Fayette street, two young men employed by Mr. Deegan as helpers, carried the prostrate forms into the open air and attempted to revive them, but were unsuccessful, although the two men were still breathing. Dr. A. B. Brooks was called and found the men breathing their last. Dr. Frank B. Brooks, Dr. Raymond J. Stoup and Dr. Nathan A. Menees were also soon on the scene. The voltage which killed the two men is estimated at between 2,000 and 2,200.

SAID POWER HAD BEEN SHUT OFF.

Coroner Matthews stated last night that he learned that Mr. Deegan had thought the power had been shut off and Savage was authority for the statement that Mr. Dixon had said so. Coroner Matthews said that he found the two plugs which connected the line from Mr. Smith's residence to the transformer had not been taken out and that the full current was on. "The current had not been disconnected," said Dr. Matthews.

Relatives of the two men were notified of their tragic deaths and there was profound grief in the homes of both. Arthur McKeever removed the body of Deegan to John McCarthy & Sons' undertaking rooms, while undertaker W. P. Hart took that of Mr. Dixon to his undertaking rooms in South Clinton street.

Mr. Dixon was a member of the firm of Meigs & Dixon. Mr. Deegan was senior member of the firm of Deegan & Leavery.

SURVIVORS OF THE VICTIMS.

Mr. Deegan was about 35 years old and lived at No. 228 West Belden avenue. He leaves a widow, but no children. For the past two years he had conducted a plumbing business with Mr. Leavery, prior to which he had been a steamfitter twenty years. He also leaves several brothers and sisters.

Mr. Dixon resided with his wife and 6-months-old child at No. 812 Kellogg street. He had been married two years. His mother resides at Peterborough, Ont., and he also leaves a sister, Mrs. Dawson of Montreal, Que., and two brothers, George Dixon, of Collingwood, O., and J. H. Dixon, of Slidell, La. His body will be taken to his home from Hart's undertaking rooms.

Coroner Matthews stated last night that he would not hold an inquest.

PRETTY WEDDING IN DOURO CHURCH

Miss Minnie O'Connor Married to Mr. Thomas Whibbs.

A very pretty wedding took place Wednesday, October 19th at 9 a. m. at St. Joseph's church, Douro, when Rev. Fr. Kelly united in the holy bonds of matrimony Miss Minnie, youngest daughter of Mr. William O'Connor, of Douro, to Mr. Thos. Whibbs also of that place. The bride was attended by her sister Annie, while Mr. Dan Delaney supported the groom.

The bride was very tastefully attired in a gown of lavendar Sicilian cloth trimmed with black point face and panned velvet and wore a large black picture hat.

The bridesmaid, Miss O'Connor, wore a tailor made suit of brown lady's cloth and also a picture hat.

The groomsman was Mr. Dan Delaney. After the ceremony the happy couple returned to the home of the bride's parents, where the family circle was assembled and partook of a sumptuous wedding breakfast and a very pleasant afternoon was spent.

In the evening a large number of friends gathered and spent a very enjoyable time in dancing after which they partook of a midnight supper.

The bride received both numerous and costly presents which goes to show the high esteem in which both parties were held.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome sable scarf, to the bridesmaid a fleur de lis pin set with pearls.

They left Thursday noon for their home near Lakefield. The bride's going away suit was a castor brown sibeline cloth with hat to match.

The bride being a general favourite in the family circle and also in society she will leave that vicinity with the best wishes of her many friends for a bright and happy future.

AN INDUSTRY FOR TOWN

Shovel and Spade Factory to be Established

BY LOCAL CAPITALISTS

Peterborough Shovel and Tool Co. Have Incorporated With $50,000 Capital—An Important Industry.

To-day's issue of the Ontario Gazette announces the incorporation of a company which in all probability will mean very much for the future of Peterborough, as an industrial city. The company referred to is the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company, Limited, which has been formed in Peterborough, the provisional directors being prominent business men of Peterborough, and the works of the Company as well as the works will be located in this town. The provisional directors of the Company are Messrs. Thos. Fortye, A. L. Sykes, Alex. Elliott, H. LeBrun, W. H. Hill and F. J. Jamieson, and the capital stock will be $50,000.00, of which $30,000.00 is to be subscribed at once and the balance at a later date.

Negotiations for the establishment of this company have been progressing for some time, and it was not entered into before those promoting it had satisfied themselves that the venture would be a paying one, and of this there can be little or no doubt.

The company, which will proceed at once as soon as a sufficient amount of stock has been sunscribed to warrant them in doing so, to erect a building upon a site which has not yet been fully decided upon, and commence the manufacture of shovels, spades, axes, picks and other tools, although at first the manufactured articles will be largely confined to shovels and spades, for which there is a good demand.

It is the intention of the Company to refrain from commencing operations until an ample capital has been secured, and work in the construction of the plant will not be started until an amount, already decided upon by the directors, has been subscribed. There is not the remotest probability that this amount will not be reached, because as a matter of fact at the present time, at the incorporation of the company, and before any public announcement of its formation, about half of the required amount has been actually spoken for, and the whole amount is practically in sight, so that there is no danger of the factory not becoming a reality.

At the present time there is only one other factory of a similar kind in Canada, at Gannanoque, and it is learned that this factory is doing a splendid business, in fact cannot fill all the orders offering. When the great market for these articles in Canada is considered, it is a remarkable fact that the country has gone so long with only one factory. It has been felt, therefore, by the directors that the present is an opportune time to establish such an industry.

Nearly all the railways are making extensions to their lines, and in addition many new railways are already in course of construction, while the new transcontienntal railway and its construction will create a great demand for articles such as will be manufactured in this new Peterborough factory.

The recent tariff changes, the imposition of the anti-dumping clause to the tariff, will also work to the decided advantage of the new industry. With this new clause, it will be practically impossible for the American manufacturers to sell their products here in competition to the Canadian manufacturers. The present tariff on shovels, and similar articles is 35 per cent., and the anti-dumping regulation will have the effect of still further raising the duty, if goods are sold by the Americans below the ruling American price for the article, as is the custom of these manufacturers, and it is possible to raise the actual duty paid to above 50 per cent., which will effectually protect the Canadian industry.

The new factory will employ at the beginning from thirty to forty hands, but the Company expect that in the very near future this number will be very materially increased, and if the prospects are as bright as they appear to be it is quite within the range of probability that in the not distant future this factory will be one of the largest employers of labour in Peterborough.

It will also be a distinct advantage to the town because the great majority of employees will be men who are skilled, and who will draw good wages.

No definite announcement has been made as to the probable date upon which the factory will be in operation, but it will be at as early a date as possible.

SIR WILFRID AND THE CANAL.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's remarks, at his great meeting on Thursday night, in answer to a question regarding the completion of the Trent Valley Canal, were, under the circumstances, the only thing that could be said. They were in fact, a recognition and emphasis, with the seal of authority and power, of what everybody knows and admits. The expenditure of four or five millions upon a canal without outlets, which is not followed up by the additional expenditure for completion, would be stupendous folly. Sir Wilfrid's declaration that "the first thing a sane government would do would be to give the canal an outlet at both ends;" that whatever Government may be in power would be guilty of "criminal" neglect, if it failed to have the work of completing the canal "prosecuted as quickly as possible," was significant and encouraging.

The completion of the canal would be only in line with the policy of the Liberal Government, which, in eight years, has spent double the amount spent by former administrations in eighteen years on Trent Canal construction.

The completion of the canal would also be in line with the general canal policy of the Liberal Government. At the rate of progress the late Conservative Government was making, it would have taken ten years to enlarge the St. Lawrence canal system. The Liberal Government took hold of the work with their usual energy, and in three years had the 14-foot channel completed, with such splendid results in transportation development, that the United States raised the wail that Canada's canals and Montreal, were capturing the grain trade of the United States.

The completion of the Trent Valley Canal, and that speedily, may safely be left to Sir Wilfrid's Government. He has the will, and the power, to do the work. Mr. Borden may have the will, but he has not, and will not, have the power.

SIR WILFRID IN PETERBORUGH

There is little need for comment upon Sir Wilfrid's splendid reception in Peterborough or the high-planed, broad-minded hopeful speech. They both speak for themselves. It was a statesman-like declaration of record and policy. It showed how Canada has advanced in its position in the affections and regards of the Mother Country under Sir Wilfrid's administration. How Canada has captured the attention of the nations of Europe and how she has emerged from a position of comparative obscurity into the status of recognized nationhood. How Canada has prospered in the domain of every national interest. How it is prospering and will continue to prosper under Liberal rule, and arising out of these conditions how great is the claim of the Liberal Government to a renewed lease of power. It was demonstrated that the Liberal Government's regime should be extended to permit of a further application of the rational policy of stable tariff conditions, which invite confidence of investors in industrial enterprises, and has been attended with such unexampled success. That it should be extended, because of its Transcontinental railway policy which means the building up of a new Canada to the north of the narrow fringe of settlement which now marks our developed territory, from ocean to ocean. This railway is an immediate necessity. If the electors should retire this enterprise from Sir Wilfrid's hands, it would postpone to an indefinite period the much-needed extension of the Grand Trunk into the North-west, and set back the hands on the dial of progress many years.

Potato Blight.

Ottawa, Oct. 22.—Reports from many districts indicate that potato blight and rot are again causing serious loss to the farmers of Canada. This disease has been quite prevalent in various parts of Ontario and Quebec, and, although a good preventive is known in the Bordeaux mixture, few growers seem to have sprayed their potatoes. L. H. Newman of the seed division, who visited nearly every county in Ontario during the summer, confirms this statement, and reports that in many cases he found growers sadly wanting in knowledge of the disease and methods of preventing it.

Seized Custom House.

St. Thomas, D.W.I., Oct. 22.—It is reported here that the United States has seized the custom house at Puerto Plata.

Marine Kills Himself.

New York, Oct. 22.—Augustus Dietrich of Chicago, a private of marines at the New York navy yard, has killed himself with a revolver which had been left in the guard room of the barracks an instant before. He had recently been reduced from the ranks of corporal for leaving the barracks without permission and had brooded over the matter.

PEERS AS MAYORS.

Conferred in Office, But Bad for Others to Follow.

The Earl of Londesborough has declined the honor of acting as Mayor of Scarborough in the ensuing year.

The present Mayor, Mr. Morgan, and other members of the Town Council, visited the Earl and explained that it was the unanimous wish of the Town Council that he should accept the office.

For private reasons, Lord Londesborough said it was impossible for him to undertake the duties; but he promised to do his best to help the Council in the event of a royal visit to the town next year, when it is hoped the Prince of Wales will open the new marine drive around the foot of the Castle Hill.

Lord Londesborough's decision will cause much disappointment to the townspeople.

The appeal to Lord Londesborough has caused the question to be asked whether peers make ornamental or useful mayors. Opinions differ on this point, but so far the peers who have been mayors have always made themselves popular, and, above all, have spent plenty of money during their year of office.

Among peers who have been mayors are the following:

The Duke of Devonshire, Eastbourne.
The Duke of Bedford, Holborn.
The late Marquis of Bute, Cardiff.
The Earl of Warwick, Warwick.
The Earl of Derby, Liverpool.
Earl de La Warr, Bexhill.
Lord Windsor, Cardiff.
Lord St. Levan, Devonport.

A civic authority discussed the question of peers as mayors, and seemed inclined to think that, on the whole, peers make useful mayors.

"As you will notice, all the peer-mayors have held office in towns in which they had great interests. Take the Duke of Devonshire, for instance. Eastbourne, of which he was mayor, is practically owned by him, and the same remark applies to the late Marquis of Bute, whose interests in Cardiff were enormous.

"Then, again, we have Lord de La Warr, at Bexhill, who owns half the town, and in the case of the Duke of Bedford, his vast property in Holborn, of which he was mayor, speaks for itself.

"The chief reason why boroughs like a peer for their mayor is that he will spend plenty of money and on official occasions adds a special distinction to his office.

"From a business standpoint, too, a peer-mayor is a decided acquisition to the town, as should royalty or any other very distinguished person visit it he often pays all the expenses of the visit, and so relieves the townspeople of a heavy addition to their rates.

"On the other hand, a peer-mayor is bad so far as his successors are concerned, as they cannot hope to entertain like he did, and in consequence it is always hard to find a man willing to take office immediately after the term of a peer's mayoralty has finished."

How Dodd's Kidney Pills Banish Pain in the Back.

Cured Mrs. Jas. Murphy and Everyone Else She Recommended Them To.

River Gagnon, Que., October 21. — (Special) — No complaint is so common among women as Pain-in-the-Back. It is a safe estimate that fully half the women in Canada are afflicted with it. For that reason every evidence that there is a sure and complete cure in existence is thankfully received. And there is abundant evidence that Dodd's Kidney Pills is just such a cure. This district could furnish a dozen cures, but one is enough for an example. The one is that of Mrs. Jas. Murphy, She says:

"I suffered for thirty-eight months with a pain in my back. I took just one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and I have never been troubled with the pain since. I also recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills to other people who complained as I did, and in every case the Pills did their duty and brought relief."

A WEAK HEART.

The Interesting Experience of a St. Catharines Man.

"Twelve years ago" says Mr. Wm. Emery, of Welland avenue, St. Catharines, "I was living in the town of Gananoque, and the physicians there told me I had heart disease. From that time and up to four years ago I often had severe spells of the trouble. The least exertion would bring on violent palpitation, and at other times I would become dizzy, nervous and frightened and my heart would almost cease to beat. I became reduced in flesh and insomnia followed. I was hopeless of finding a cure for I had been treated by an experienced doctor, and had taken many advertised remedies without getting any benefit. One day a neighbour strongly advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and acting on his advice I got a half dozen boxes. I soon found much relief through the use of the pills, and after continuing the treatment for a couple of months I was again enjoying perfect health. I have not since had any return of the trouble and I feel safe in saying that the cure is a permanent one, and I can strongly advise the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all who suffer from similar trouble." The reporter can also add that Mr. Emery is well known in St. Catharines, is a prominent worker in Methodist circles, and has the highest respect of all who know him.

If you have any symptoms of heart trouble, neuralgia, indigestion, rheumatism, anaemia or any of the numerous troubles caused by poor or watery blood, you will find new health and strength in a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Do not waste money or further endanger your health by the use of substitutes—get the genuine pills with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

CANADIAN POETS.

Some of Those Who Have Given Much Pleasure to the Public.

Duncan Campbell Scott is a rising young Ottawa poet. His lyrics are probably his best work. This verse from a "Night in March" is a good type:

"At eve the fiery sun went forth,
Flooding the clouds with ruby blood;
Up roared a war-wind from the north,
And crashed at midnight through the wood."

In the "Fifteenth of April" we again note his felicity of expression:

"Lighter than the robin—hark!
Quivering silver—strong
From the field a hidden shore-lark
Shakes his sparkling song."

His "Home Song" is very pretty. It is a real Canadian poem:

"Oh, land of the dusky balsam,
And the darling maple tree,
Where the cedar buds and berries,
And the pine grows strong and free!
My heart is weary and weary
For my own country."

Rev. Frederick George Scott of Quebec is another poet whose work is very good, especially in such poems as "A Dream of the Prehistoric" and "Samson." The latter poem has attracted much attention in England. In "Dawn" Scott very neatly puts an old thought in new words:

"The immortal spirit has no bars
To circumscribe its dwelling-place;
My soul hath pastured with the stars
Upon the meadowlands of space."

Dr. W. H. Drummond of Montreal, the poet of the "habitant" is deservedly popular. He brings out in fine style the peculiar characteristics of the French-Canadian. His "Wreck of the Julie Plante" is now a Canadian classic.

Other poets deserving of mention are: Charles Mair, author of the drama "Tecumseh;" John Reade wrote "The Prophecy of Merlin" and other poems; Clive Phillips Wolley of British Columbia, Theodore Roberts, Arthur Stringer, J. W. Bengough; C. D. Shanley (now dead), author of "The Walker of the Snow," and many others of more or less prominence. Louis Frechette is the French poet laureate of Canada.

There are about half a dozen women in Canada who write good verse. Chief of these is Miss Pauline Johnson, daughter of the late Chief Johnson of the Mohawk Indians. Miss Johnson dresses in Indian garb and recites her own poems in public. In imagination and musical rhythm her poems rank high. "Shadow River," "Prairie Greyhounds" and "The Song My Paddle Sings" are good examples of her style.

Elizabeth Roberts Macdonald, sister to C. D. G. and Theo. Roberts, has written many charming lyrics, most of which were published in "Lays of the True North."

Mrs. Jean Blewett of Toronto is, next to Pauline Johnson, probably the best known poetess in Canada. Her book, "Heart Songs," was published in 1897.

Agnes Maule Machar of Kingston, Mrs. S. Frances Harrison of Toronto and Ethelwyn Wetherald are all well known to magazine readers as clever verse-writers. Their work is gradually gaining favor with the Canadian public.

There are many other poets of less prominence in Canada whom we have not mentioned. Indeed there are some hundreds of poetically inclined persons who are included in various Canadian anthologies. Comparatively few, however, have gained fame and fortune in the field of Canadian poesy.—W. F. Wiggins, in Toronto Globe.

Curious Calendars.

Ancient time-keeping has received new light from two remarkable stones lately unearthed by the German explorers on the site of the old Ionic port of Miletus. These stones are the remains of calendars, of which one is shown to date from 109 A.D. The year was divided into twelve zodiacal signs, and against each month the motion of the remaining signs was give, with a note predicting the weather. On the left side were thirty holes, a wooden peg being moved forward one hold each day, thus giving the astronomical date. This new find has made clear the meaning of parapegma, or peg calendar, a name by which other stones have been rather mysteriously known.

Holiness is walking in the humblest ways hand in hand with God.

FLOWERS OF AUTUMN.

Myriad Glories of the Canadian Woods and Forests in the Waning Time of the Year.

The asters and golden-rods come out in profusion to bedeck the departing year. In their rich and glowing abundance there is a perfection and fulfillment, seeming to complete the promise of the delicate and timid flowers of the year's awakening. But there are other flowers lingering with the waning season, whose tribute may pass unnoticed in the crowding of gay and brilliant colors. The fringed gentian is now in full bloom, the rich, deep ultramarine of its feathery-lipped flowers decorating the borders of the open woods and touching even the dryest hills with an occasional retiring point of color. The tubular flowers, ending in folded feathers of rich blue, the erect attitude, and regular, opposite leaves and branches give it a distinction and character, apart from its late arrival and protracted stay, when the vigorous composites crowd out more retiring and dainty flowers. It is the most tempting of autumn flowers, its coy habits, rich color, and soft, frail aspect making it a special favorite. Yet it is one of the flowers that appeal for protection. An annual, perpetuated only by seed, every flower plucked lessens the chances of a renewed acquaintance in the returning seasons. To see and admire a fringed gentian and leave it to fulfill its mission is the summit of virtuous self-abnegation.

The blind gentian, a sister flower, seems, in spite of its rich beauty, strangely incomplete. It seems to have forgotten to blossom. The elongated, oval loops of deep blue remain closed, imprisoning the delicate floral mechanism in beautiful dungeons. The blind gentian prefers the borders of swamps and marshes, where it reaches its tall stem above the dense grass, displaying its closely-bunched loops deeper in color than the clearest sky. There is often another bunch of loops clustered on the side of the stem and pointing upward. Their free display of color and handsome form seem to atone for their seeming incompleteness. Occasionally, for no apparent reason, they appear clothed in pure white, and then they can be seen in the distance, conspicuous among the dark greens and browns of the marshes. Between these two typical forms, and partaking of the character of both, is a sister bearing the unpoetic name of soapwort gentian.

A more delicate sister, with pale blue flowers, is called the stiff gentian. Its straight, slender, tubular flowers top off the stems and branches in bunches of from three to seven or eight. Sometimes two and occasionally one will decorate the end of a lower branch, but generally the flowers stand up together in close bunches. There is a geometrical appearance in the straight, enlarging tubes terminating in regular angled and standing close and evenly together. The lack of rich ultramarine is made up in part by the more delicate forms and greater profusion of flowers. The season has not been favorable to the development of color, for some have come out in pure white, thus imitating the tall and robust blind gentian of the marshes. This is a somewhat unusual departure. There is the warmest appreciation and the most eager greeting for the flowers that hasten to meet the spring. But there is even a stronger human appeal in the delicate blossoms that linger in the fall and brighten the departing year. The gentians wait and wait till the falling leaves make their rich ultramarine more deep and strong by contrast. They wait till the frost touches their delicate petals with its blighting fingers, and fades their rich blue to sickly white. Their end is worthy and heroic, for they cheer the season that brings the sadness of parting.

Fish Planting.

The Ontario Government, in conjunction with the Grand Trunk Railway, inaugurated a vigorous policy of restocking with fish many of the lakes in Northern Ontario, where there was any chance of a depletion, and the success which has attended their efforts has been marked. During the summer season this year no less than 5,305 parent bass were captured and transported from Lake Erie to the several districts that are visited by the angler and summer tourist. A special fish car was built by the Grand Trunk three years ago expressly for the transportation of live fish for this purpose and it has been used each summer in the propagation of this good work. This year three car loads of bass, none less than 12 inches in length, and many weighing two and three pounds, were planted in the Muskoka Lakes, two carloads in Lake Simcoe and Couchiching, one carload in the Lake of Bays region, one carload in Balsam Lake (one of the Kawartha group in Victoria County), and a carload in the lakes along the Canadian Atlantic Railway in Algonquin Park. These carloads contained in each instance, from 500 to 700 fish. In addition to the planting of the parent fish, a carload of 5,000 black bass fingerlings was placed in the Lake of Bays region. The results of each shipment have been most gratifying, and the summer tourist and angler have appreciated the movement and look forward to better sport in these waters in the future.

WHEN LIFE'S NOT WORTH LIVING

Your Stomach is out of Order and Needs Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—Story of Isaac Jenkins.

If you have any of these symptoms you needn't rush off to a doctor. Just procure a box of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They will fix up your stomach and make life worth living again. They've done it for others. Isaac Jenkins, 126 Dundas street, Toronto, says:

RELIGIONS OF INDIA.

Brahmanic Hindus Are Seven in Ten of the Population.

Some interesting knowledge concerning religions in India is presented by the census. The number of Brahmanic Hindus in 1901 was 207,050,557, or 7 in 10 of the population. This great sect, broadly speaking, has declined 19 in 1,000 since 1891, but chiefly because of famine and marriage customs. The Mohemmedans, in the same decennial period, managed to increase 9 per cent., their total number now being 62,458,077. Assertions often made that Mohammedanism is gaining ground in India thus appear to be well founded, and it is evident that, at the present rate of increase, that religion may some time dominate the country. While Buddhism increased 33 per cent., it is confined almost exclusively to Burma; and there most of the 9,000,000 nominal adherents of the Buddhistic cult are really bound to an ancient demon worship. As for Christianity in India, the census of 1901 returns 2,923,241 professors of the Christian faith an increase of 31 per cent. since 1891. This growth seems decidedly encouraging, but it must be said that, according to the official view, the returns of Christians were swelled by the inclusion of the famine waifs, who were cast upon Christian charity in large numbers by the terrible famines of the past decade. It is also stated that in Madras and Bengal the more degraded classes tend to become converts to Christianity for social reasons.

FOR THE

NEW POWER AND STRENGTH FOR EVERY ORGAN OF THE BODY IN THE USE OF

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Good digestion, ruddy complexion, splendid circulation, clear brain, steady nerves, sound, restful sleep, better health and greater strength of mind and body, is what you may expect from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Not in any mysterious way but from the hard fact that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is composed of the elements of nature which go to form new red corpuscles in the blood, or in other words, make the blood rich in the nutritive principle which creates nerve force — the power which runs the machinery of the body.

WITH THE VITALITY OF THE BODY THUS BROUGHT TO HIGH WATER MARK, WEAKNESS AND DISEASE GIVE PLACE TO HEALTH AND HAPPINESS.

Impaired digestion, irregular action of the feminine organs, weakness of heart, lungs, or other bodily organs, pains and aches, and all the annoying consequences of weak nerves and blood disappear because the cause of their existence is removed.

By noting your increase in weight you can prove that new, firm flesh and tissue are being added by this great restorative.

MRS. H. A. LOYNES, Nurse, Phillipsburg, Que., writes, "I was all run down and could not do my work. Everything I ate made me sick. In nursing others I had seen the good results of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and resolved to try it. As a result of this treatment I have gained ten pounds, do my own work alone, and feel like an entirely different person. I have received so much benefit from this medicine that I am glad to recommend it to others. I have a copy of Dr. Chase's receipt book, and would not part with it for $50 if I could not get another."

Test the extraordinary upbuilding power of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food; 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 4

FROM A LAND ACCURSED

WHY FINLANDERS ARE COMING IN THOUSANDS TO CANADA.

Characteristics of These New Colonists of the Dominion—Will Make Good Settlers in the Northern Zone of the American Continent—Finn Has a Passion for Freedom, But Joins Not With the Russian Nihilists.

Russia may have failed absolutely in Manchuria, but in Finland she is steadily subduing all opposition to her policy. By the thousands Finns are fleeing from their country as from a land accursed. A recent despatch announced that a great migration to Canada will take place in the Spring. In the past thousands of Finns have found new homes here. They have become good citizens, and Canada is glad enough to be the refuge for those who are to follow. The Finn makes an admirable settler, and is as freely assimilated by English-speaking communities as a German or a Frenchman. He is industrious, sober and peaceable invariably, and is mentally more active than the average Swede or Norwegian. He is not a fighting man, the Finn. If he were he would be in Helsingfors with his back to the wall, or plotting with the Nihilists in London. Yet he has a passion for freedom which equals in strength the intensity of that of Englishman, Irishman, Scotchman, or American. To tyranny and injustice he opposes passive resistance. This has failed with the Russian, whose stolidity equals that of the Finn, and who is supported by a ferocity unknown to the other. So it comes that the Finns are deserting their country by wholesale, seeking in Canada and the United States those commonplaces of justice and equality unknown in their own country.

Finland's Hopeless Cause.

For a moment, after Bobrikoff had paid with his life the penalty of his cruelty, it was hoped that a brighter day had dawned for Finland. The character of his successor speedily dissipated this delusion, and it became plain that the Russification of the country would continue along the lines followed with so much brutality by the assassinated Governor. It is not premature to say that Russia has won her campaign in Finland. The possibility of an armed rising of the Finns grows every day more remote, and there is no chance of "passive resistance" succeeding in the end. The outside world deeply sympathizes with the little country in the death grip of her huge neighbor, but the outside world has no thought of interposing in her behalf. Even were the Finns in arms making a brave fight for their national existence they could expect little from Britain, Germany or France or any other power. The great Christian countries stood idly by and saw Poland cruelly done to death. They have seen Jews slaughtered, the Armenians massacred, and public opinion has not been strong enough to make them interfere. In the past half century only one nation has undertaken a war from any such chivalrous inspiration, and singularly enough, that country was Russia, the master-robber of them all.

Finland's Race Problem.

To make the cause of Finland still more hopeless, the Finns themselves are torn with internal dissensions. They do not present a united front, even in the face of a common danger. In Finland, on a small scale, we have a duplication of the conditions which threaten the nominal federation as they have destroyed the actual unity of Austria and Hungary. There is in Finland a dual race problem. The "two great historic parties" are the Svekomans and the Fennomans. The latter have always been considered the pure, national party. Through all the years of Swedish supremacy the Fennomans stood out sturdily for the integrity of the old Finnish manners and traditions, and opposed (passively, of course) the increasing influence of Sweden, an influence which finally transformed Finland, and made it, in fact, as in politics, a part of the Swedish Kingdom, as the Svekomans desired. Thus was the country divided when Russia acquired Finland. As soon as it became apparent that the present Czar had no intention of maintaining the hoary constitution of Finland, despite his own oath and the oaths of his predecessors, the old party lines were, to some extent, blotted out, and the Finns took counsel together as brothers. An extreme body of the Fennomans, however, remained aloof, and nursed their ancient jealousies. It was supposed, however, that the estrangement would be short lived, and that soon the Old Fennomans would join the new Constitutional party, welded together in the furnace of Russian persecution.

Bobrikoff's Opportunity.

The crafty Bobrikoff, however, was keenly alive to the advantages the situation offered to the policy he represented. He lost no opportunity to embitter the Old Fennomans against the Svekomans, to keep open the old wounds, and to sow further dissensions. He succeeded admirably. About two years ago it became apparent that the famous Old Fennomans, under the leadership of the wily Yejo-Koskmir, were little better than the hireling agitators of Bobrikoff. They became too subservient, too slavishly Russified, to justify their claim to being the old, pure Finland party. They have been discovered by the Finns, and though much of their influence has been lost, they are still useful to Russia, if for no other reason than that they indicate to the rest of the world that there is a considerable body of Finns which approves of the Czar's Government and policy in Finland.

Clergy Bow to the Storm.

The boast is stronger when the status of many of the Old Fennomans is considered. A majority of the bishops and clergy is numbered among them, and, of course, most of the Finns who hold any office in the gift of the Russian Government. The secret of their apostasy is not hard to guess. After all, they may have chosen the wiser, if less heroic, course. They may only have realized earlier than their more patriotic fellow-countrymen the hopelessness of opposing the shambling march of the Bear. This much is sure—if a Finn wishes to live with comfort in his native land he must bow his neck to the Russian yoke. His alternative is emigration. Those thousands who will pour into Canada next Spring have chosen exile rather than submission.

Bear Island's Bell.

An interesting ceremony on a beautiful autumnal Sunday afternoon was the consecration and hanging of a new 250-pound bell of rare sweetness, cast at Troy, N.Y., and costing $115, for the recently opened Catholic Mission Chapel located on Bear Island, Lake Temagami. Rev. Father Evan of North Temiskaming, in addressing his flock in both English and Indian, spoke warmly of how loyal and generous the Indians had been to the mother Church in contributing so handsomely to the building fund of the mission, though they had from time to time suffered various extremes and alterations of fortune. When famine had prostrated their strength, and the rigors of an Arctic winter had benumbed their faculties, their charity to the Church, their patriotism and their fortitude had never once been endangered.

Among those who acted as godparents for the new bell, which was christened "St. Victor," were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Woods, Mr. L. Laughrin, Chief and Mrs. White Bear, Miss Angel Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Petrant, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. John Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Cat.

The following Torontonians were also present: Messrs. Southworth and Montgomery, Dr. Jas. Bain, Dr. Ellis, S.P.S., A. D. Crooks, Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Crocker, Wm. J. Gwynn, Jas. Kent, Stuart G. Jackson, A. H. Martice, Arthur Manrello and two members of Trinity Camp, Thos. E. Knowlton and James W. Barry.

Famous Dog Has Had His Day.

General French's dog "Major" died on the 5th October in Stratford. "Major" was a Dachshund, and said to be over twenty years of age. He had been for some years kept at the Boys' Home of Stratford, the result of experiences which form a somewhat interesting story. He was a great pet of General French, and went to South Africa with one of the British regiments as a mascot. But "Major" could not land in Africa, because he had no registered pedigree. He was sent back to England, but there also he was debarred from being taken on shore. Unable to find a resting place, "Major" came to Canada, some friendly hand placing him on board a boat Canada-bound. For some time he has been very decrepit, and Wednesday he died. The Home authorities in Stratford have still his regimental collar, which he was wearing when taken in charge by some of the Home people, who were en route for Canada on the same boat.

Portable Asbestos Buildings.

In the court of the West Block of the Parliament Houses at Ottawa there was erected the other day a portable asbestos house for inspection by the Northwest Mounted Police Department officials. The department uses these portable buildings for outpost work, but has never used any constructed of asbestos, which, it is claimed, are both fire and water proof. The Marine and Fisheries Department is also investigating asbestos as a possible material for the construction of movable lighthouses.

People who have tried change of climate in vain for the cure of weak lungs have been perfectly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, bleeding lungs, emaciation, and other conditions which, if neglected or unskilfully treated, find a fatal end in consumption.

"Last spring I had a severe attack of pneumonia which left me with a very bad cough, and also left my lungs in a very bad condition," writes John M. Russell, Esq., of Byrd, Cherokee Nat., Ind. Ty. "I had no appetite and was so weak I could scarcely walk. My breast was all sore with running sores. I got two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I believe saved my life. I cannot express my gratitude to you. I am able now to do very good work."

Any substitute offered as "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery" is a shadow of that medicine. There are cures behind every claim made for the "Discovery," which no "just as good" medicine can show.

THE MENNONITES.

Rev. S. Goudie Takes Up the Cudgels in Behalf of the Brethren.

Rev. S. Goudie, pastor of the Bethel Mennonite Mission in Toronto, thus writes to The Star whose article he criticizes we recently published:

My attention was drawn to an article in The Star under the caption of "The Drawbacks of the Mennonites," undersigned by J. P. McC., and possibly those who are not familiar with the Mennonites of Ontario would naturally think they were no better, so I beg leave to say a word in behalf of the Mennonites of Ontario through your paper. I do not wish to contradict the statements of your correspondent ("J. P. McC.), nor do I wish to reflect on his character,' though he is a stranger to me, but I do think it very unkind to use such statements as he used in writing of those people, and very unwise to speak of them as Mennonites, not making any distinction between them and other Mennonites, for there are many different bodies of Mennonites, and the people he is describing are Russian Mennonites, a people with which we Mennonites of Ontario have little in common. I would very much enjoy taking your correspondent or anyone who may be misled by his article to the different settlements of Mennonites of Ontario, such as you find in Markham township or across the lake between St. Catharines and Beamsville, or in Waterloo County, or any other Mennonite settlement I know of in Ontario, and prove to them that we are not a lot of filthy, tobacco-using, gormandizing, pool-playing people, that live in filthy homes, that live on the kind of beefsteak described by your correspondent. In fact, the Mennonites of Ontario compare with the best, cleanliest, and most enterprising people of our province, though they are a plain people. Hoping this may clear up this matter in the minds of any who do not know the difference between the several bodies of Mennonites, and thanking you, dear editor, for space in your paper for my small article.

Star's Note.—We accept and wish to endorse all that the Bethel pastor here says in praise of the Mennonites as we know them in Ontario. They are a cleanly and respected people. But J. P. McC. was writing from Winnipeg, Manitoba, about the Mennonite settlement there as he saw it. It was a race of people, not a form of religion, that came under his observation, but in order to identify them he had to describe them by the name they use.—Editor.

Development of the Battleship.

The ships of the new Lord Nelson class are to have as main armament four 12-inch guns, and as sub-main armament ten 9.2 guns, says The London Morning Post. The King Edward, launched last year, has four 12-inch guns as main armament, and as sub-main armament four 9.2 and ten 6-inch. The ten 6-inch guns, then, of last year's great ship have been replaced by six 9.2 in the last development. Thus the Lord Nelson has no 6-inch guns. At first sight, this would seem to be a clear gain to the Lord Nelson. Indeed, an enthusiastic contemporary describes the Lord Nelson as "the battleship of the future, the most brilliant creation that has ever emanated from the brain of Mr. Watts." That part of the statement concerning Mr. Watts' brain is, perhaps indisputable; but as regards the battleship of the future the proposition is not so evident. In the first place, it seems to have escaped notice that the 6-inch gun, abolished in the Lord Nelson, is the largest gun whose ammunition it is possible to "man-handle." That is to say, the projectile, weighing 100 pounds, can be lifted by hand. The 9.2 requires mechanical loading gear, giving an additional risk of breakdown. Is it worth while to sacrifice a certain number of hand-worked guns to gain a lesser number of heavier metal? Again, partly in order to support this enormous armament, and partly to gain an increased thickness of armor, the displacement of the Lord Nelson is 16,500 tons, as against 16,350 of the King Edward. Her speed is half a knot less—18 as against 18½—than that of the King Edward, and her cost is some £43,000 more, the King Edward costing £1,457,682, the Lord Nelson a little under £1,500,000. For ten times this sum we could have fifteen Montagus as against ten Lord Nelsons—a gain of five battleships. This consideration should surely be weighed. What is the advantage to be gained in mere mass and bulk as against five fine fighting ships? The matter, being highly technical, offers endless opportunity for debate. But, we may bear in mind that size, as such, is quite worthless, and exceedingly expensive; that speed is quite as important a factor, if not more important, than a tremendous weight of artillery; and that the more you put into one ship the more your risk the losing at one time.

QUEEN OF A HOME.

No clever, brilliant thinker, she,
With college record and degree;
She has not known the paths of fame,
The world has never heard her name;
She walks in old, long-trodden ways,
The valleys of the yesterdays.

Home is her kingdom, love her dower—
She seeks no other wand of power
To make home sweet, bring heaven near,
To win a smile and wipe a tear,
And do her duty, day by day,
In her own quiet place and way.

Around her childish hearts are twined,
As round some reverend saint enshrined;
And following hers the childish feet
Are led to ideals true and sweet,
And find all purity and good
In her divinest motherhood.

She keeps her faith unshadowed still—
God rules the world in good and ill.
Men in her creed are brave and true,
And women pure as pearls of dew,
And life for her is high and grand,
By work and glad endeavor spanned.

This sad old earth's a brighter place,
All for the sunshine of her face;
Her very smile a blessing throws,
And hearts are happier where she goes,
A gentle, clear-eyed messenger,
To whisper love—thank God for her!

The Fall of Meteorites.

Recent falls of meteors in Canada renders the subject one of interest here. A total of 634 meteorites was known up to 1903, of which there were 182 irons and only 74 stones in the western hemisphere, and 299 stones and only 79 irons in the eastern hemisphere. The records show only the fall of 350 of these meteorites, dating back to the fifteenth century. Professor Berwerth, of Vienna, despite this small number of known specimens, calculates that 900 meteorites must fall to the earth each year, not counting shooting stars that disappear in the atmosphere, and that 55 of these at least should come under observation. Professor Berwerth finds that meteorites have been chiefly recorded in civilized countries, but that in many instances they are more numerous in thinly settled districts, and that they have an especial affinity for mountainous areas.

NEW STAMPING MACHINE AT THE POST OFFICE

First of It's Kind in Existence—A Great Saver of Time and Labour.

A new stamping machine has been installed at the Post Office in town, which will prove a great saving in time and labour to the employees at the office, the machine known as the "Hey-Dalphin Hand Power Cancelling Machine" manufactured by the International Postal Supply Company of New York, is certainly one which will commend itself to all who have seen it in operation. It has a capacity for stamping letters, that is cancelling the stamp and stamping the usual place, date, time, etc., at the rate of 15,000 an hour when perfectly handled or an average of 10,000 an hour. The machine is very easily operated and the only labour is the turning of a crank, about a foot in diameter, which runs very easily with practically no effort. The machine stands three feet high and can be placed in any position desired. When the crank is turned, the machine is set in motion and the letters are placed between two rollers with rubber circumferences. The rollers work in opposite directions one, the larger, being the feeder and the smaller one working in the opposite manner, prevents two letters running through at the same time, preventing all danger of any letters not being stamped. After passing through these rollers the letters are stamped and cancelled by a stamping device which makes a beautifully clear impression. The mechanism is such that no matter how long the letter may be it cannot be stamped more than once. Every detail has been perfectly adjusted. The gear works like clockwork and lies beneath the surface in a pan of oil, causing it to run with perfect smoothness. The time and date can be changed with but little trouble.

This is the first machine of its kind that is in existence to-day except one at the company's works. There are others worked on the same principle, but are run by motor power and the largest ones turn out 60,000 letters per hour. These are used in the large cities but the hand power ones are being introduced at smaller places. The agent, Mr. Chas. Gelnay was in Toronto this week and was sent by Hon. Mr. Ross to Peterborough, this being considered the busiest Post Office outside of the cities where the motor system is in use. The machine will be left here and thoroughly tested and will certainly prove a great assistance to the local staff.

COLLEGIATE BOYS BEAT COLLEGIANS

In a Good Game of Rugby on Thursday Afternoon by 8—0.

The Collegiate Institute Rugby team triumphed over the Business College bunch of footballists at the Driving Park on Thursday afternoon by the cheerful score of 8-0. Reports concerning the game are to the effect that it was a good exhibition from almost every standpoint and some splendid material was displayed by both teams. The winners' points were scored from a touch down which Stortz secured after a fumble by the College backs, a rouge and a safety touch. The return game will be played next Saturday when the Business College hope to reverse the score. The teams were:—

THE TEACHERS' CONVENTION

Report of the Session Held Yesterday Morning.

The morning session opened with the concluded report of O.E.A. by Miss Simpson. The report was carefully prepared and was listened to with interest by the convention.

Mr. S. G. Cowan, B. A. next followed with a very practical paper on "The Simpler Rules". Mr. Cowan encouraged rapidity and accuracy. The teacher must not assume anything, but base his instruction on the pupil's present knowledge, proceed from the known to the unknown. The relation between the different rules was illustrated by black board exercises. Discussion on this paper followed in which Inspector Brown, D. L. Somerville, and S. A. Smithson took part.

Miss Kirkpatrick next favoured the convention with an excellent paper on "Geography". After speaking of the relation existing between history and geography the paper gave an elaborate review of the characteristics of physical geography.

Mr. J. C. Brown next led a discussion on "The Half Day System" in which he proposed to divide the day into two sessions, the first from 8.00 a. m. to 11.00 a. m. for all senior pupils and from 2.00 p. m. to 5.00 p. m. for the junior pupils.

An animated discussion followed in which several of the teachers took part. It was moved by Mr. S. A. Smithson and seconded by Miss Courtney that the teachers place the matter before the trustees to be discussed at the annual meeting in December.—Carried.

Man's Narrow Escape.

Listowel, Oct. 22.—Last evening about 4.40, A. Broadfoot's team, hitched to a delivery wagon, started from behind his undertaking establishment, turned around and up the back alley to Mill street, where they started off at full speed, crossed Main and up Wallace street as hard as they could run. James Vanstone was driving towards them with his umbrella in front of him and did not see them coming straight towards him. One horse went one side of his and the other on the other, the tongue just missing his horse. Mr. Vanstone was thrown out. The buggy was considerably broken, but the man and the horses were but slightly hurt.

When Your Child Suffers.

For lack of knowledge of the value of Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for eczema, many a mother has been worn out in the effort to relieve her child of suffering. Eczema, scald head and other forms of itching skin disease are common to children, especially during the teething period. Though readily cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment, eczema, if neglected, becomes chronic and may last for years.

Many Mothers of a Like Opinion.

BABIES ON FIRE

With Itching, Burning, Scaly Humours of the Skin

Instantly Relieved by Baths with Cuticura Soap

And Gentle Applications of Cuticura Ointment.

Instant relief and refreshing sleep for skin-tortured babies, and rest for tired, fretted mothers, in warm baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, and purest of emollients; to be followed in severe cases by mild doses of Cuticura Resolvent.

"My niece's little baby boy, two years old, was so badly afflicted with eczema that he needed constant watching. It was all over his face and he scratched the sores constantly. Mornings his clothes would be stained with blood, and his face and hands would be covered. His family never could take him out, as his face was always full of large sores. They had medical treatment, and tried everything they heard of. She commenced using the Cuticura Remedies last spring and found that at last she had a wonderful healer. The sores left his face and he was entirely cured, and now his face is as smooth and rosy as though no sore had ever been there to mar it."

Several Trawlers Sunk and Many Men Injured ---The Fishing Vessels Were Exchanging Signals and the Russians Ships Opened Fire---One Vessel Believed to Have Been Sunk With All Her Crew.

Hull, England, Oct. 24.—A. M. Jackson & Co., solicitors for the owners of fifty Hull fishing boats, have notified the Foreign Office and Admiralty of an attack on the Hull fishing fleet by the Russian Pacific squadron.

The official information is that early Saturday morning the Russian squadron fell in with the Hull fishing fleet in the North Sea. The first portion of the fishing fleet passed safely. Then the Russian fleet turned their searchlights on the British vessels for some time and a little later opened fire. The steam trawler Crane was sunk and the decapitated bodies of her skipper and mate have been brought to Hull. The boatswain and other members of the crew, who are understood to be seriously injured, are on board a missionary ship. The only slightly injured member of the crew has arrived at Hull. The steam trawlers Moulmein and Mino have arrived at Hull, seriously damaged by shots, the latter having 16 holes in her hull. It is feared that other damage was done to trawlers and that at least one more trawler was lost with all hands.

Where It Occurred.

According to other reports the affair occurred 200 miles off Spurnhead. The Russian ships were steaming in line. The leading ships passed without incident, though most of the vessels turned searchlights on the trawlers long enough to prevent any mistake as to identity. After the bulk of the squadron passed it opened fire, nearly all participating in the firing. The Crane was struck below the water-line and raked above deck. Skipper Smith and Third Hand Leggott had their heads carried clean away by a shot, many of the crew being seriously wounded. Another trawler also was sunk, but the Sea Gull, which brought the news to Hull, has not particulars as to her fate.

The news has created an intense sensation and indignation in Hull. The Moulmein arrived with her flag at half-mast. Her skipper states that the trawlers were fishing about 220 miles east by north of Spurnhead, at one o'clock Sunday morning, the weather being hazy, when the outlines of several vessels, apparently warships, sailing in line, were dimly seen. Whilst the crew were watching the warships, searchlights were flashed upon them, in the glare of which the Moulmein's crew observed what they took to be torpedo boats approaching apparently with the intention of boarding the Moulmein.

Horrified By Fire.

They steamed away, however, and soon the fishermen were horrified to find they were being fired upon. First one and then another trawler was struck by flying shot. What seemed to be a round shot went through the Moulmein's galley. The Mino, lying near by, also was struck with many shots, but fortunately the damage was above the water-line and none of her crew was struck. The bombardment lasted twenty minutes. When it had ceased the fleet sailed southward, and some of the trawlers sent up rockets. The Moulmein steered in the direction of the rockets. Soon cries were heard, and the Crane was found sinking, with another trawler taking off some of her crew. Those seriously injured were removed to a mission ship and the bodies of Smith and Leggott were placed aboard the Moulmein. The other men with minor injuries were put aboard the trawler Sea Gull, which at a late hour had not arrived at Hull. Crowds have gathered around the dock, but no further information is available.

Representatives of the fishing fleet started late last night for London to consult with the authorities there.

No motive can be assigned for the extraordinary procedure of the Russian warships.

One Solitary Survivor.

The only survivor of the Crane, who has reached here is J. A. Smith, son of the deceased skipper, and who, with the captains of the Moulmein and Mino, is going to London to consult with the authorities. Young Smith was asleep in his bunk when the firing aroused him. Just as he was getting up a shot struck the starboard and penetrated to the forecastle, smashing a lamp near where he was standing. He rushed on deck, where the searchlights revealed the horrible sight of his father and Leggott lying headless and the deck strewn with the injured. It was soon found that the vessel was sinking, and signals for assistance were sent out.

Smith and others concur in the details of the firing that have already been given.

Ignored Green Flares.

From interviews with members of trawler crews, it appears that the admiral of the fishing fleet burned green flares to show that they were harmless fishermen, but these signals were ignored.

Eighteen injured men are here under treatment.

One trawler, the Wren, is missing, and it is feared she has been sunk.

There were many distressing scenes at Hull during the day and night, relatives enquring after friends.

There is a rumor that the Great Northern fishing fleet was also chased by the Russians. This report has not yet been confirmed.

Capt. Peaker's Story.

London, Oct. 24.—The steam cutter Magpie, belonging to the Gamecock trawler fleet, which was fired on by the Russian Baltic fleet, arrived in the Thames last night. Her captain, Peaker, confirmed the details of the story received from Hull. He says:

"Friday night there were about 40 vessels of the Gamecock fleet fishing in lat. 55 degrees, 15 minutes, and long. 5 degrees 6 minutes, east. It was a misty, drizzly night. We spread over an area of some miles. Our admiral had just previously signaled by rockets and colored lights the fishing direction for the night. Whether that has anything to do with what followed, I do not know. The whole thing is a mystery.

"Presently through the mist there appeared the lights of many vessels, big and small. Knowing that the Baltic fleet was en route, we naturally assumed that they were Russians, but I cannot say for certain. They were signaling one another, and with powerful searchlights spied out every one of our fleet. Suddenly some of the warships started firing at about 20 boats which were nearest them. We at first supposed they were blank shots, and the boatswain of the Tomtit, which was close in, held two big fish out at arm's length. Some say he was offering them to the Russians in fun, and others that he meant to acquaint the Russians with the fact that we were peaceful fishermen and not disguised enemies. In any case, there was no mistaking our occupation, for we were close enough for the Russians to see that our men were all engaged in gutting fish. When we realized that the Russians were firing shot, and that men were being wounded, all became terror and confusion. Nets were cut away, steam was gotten up, and the trawlers hurried away as fast as possible.

"Judging by the rapidity of the shots, they were from quick-firing guns. I have seen some of the shots embedded in boats. They are about the diameter, but not the length of a big cucumber, and with brass heads.

"What with the darkness, the rain and the glare of the searchlights, we were unable to identify the warships. After about half an hour the firing suddenly ceased, and the fleet steamed away speedily in the direction of the English Channel."

Captain Peaker confirms the details of the fate of the trawler Crane and her crew and speaks with intense indignation of the conduct of the Russians. He says:

"It is impossible that we could have been taken for anything but trawlers. I can only imagine that the Russians lost their heads and blazed away in confussion, and when they discovered their mistake steamed off."

RUSSIAN HEARTLESSNESS.

London Papers Declare the Situation Demands Satisfaction Or An Ultimatum.

London, Oct. 24.—As Foreign Minister Lansdowne and Russian Ambassador Benckendorff were out of town yesterday and all the Government offices in London were closed, no official view could be gleaned of the firing by Russian warships upon a British fishing fleet in the North Sea. The first reports of the affair received in London were regarded as almost incredible.

Heartlessness of Fleet.

The worst feature of the story as viewed here, is the heartlessness displayed by the Russian fleet in steaming away without taking the trouble to ascertain even whether their fire had inflicted any damage and without any effort to rescue the victims.

While admitting the necessity of a suspension of judgment for investigation and explanation, the morning newspapers are unanimous in demanding that the Government instruct Ambassador Hardinge to make the strongest representation to the St. Petersburg Government and obtain reparation and apologies and assurance of the Russian Pacific fleet's good behavior for the future.

Demand Immediate Satisfaction.

Considering the circumstances in the case, the newspapers treat the matter with commendable calmness, but are firm in demands for immediate satisfaction.

The Chronicle says: "The next 24 hours must settle it one way or the other. Only two modes of settlement are possible. Either explanation, apology and generous compensation to the victims' families or an ultimatum."

The Standard says: "An explanation should be promptly and sternly demanded for the intolerable outrage. The Russian Government should be informed that it is expected to recall its ill-starred squadron, first, in order that proper investigation may be held, and, second, to keep it out of harm's way for the future."

Queen Might Have Been In It.

It is remarked that but for an eleventh hour alteration of arrangements for Queen Alexandra's departure from Copenhagen the Royal yacht, which arrived home with the Queen yesterday, might have been in the neighborhood of the Russian fleet when the trawlers were fired upon.

M. Sazoneff, one of the officials of the Russian Embassy, last night expressed deep regret for the North Sea incident. He was convinced, he said, that the unfortunate event was the result of accident. If there had been firing, it could only have been due to suspicion of some hostile attack upon the fleet.

Baltic Fleet Moves.

London, Oct. 24.—The Russian Pacific (Baltic) fleet, comprising seven battleships and four cruisers, passed Dover in three sections between 6 o'clock yesterday morning and 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and later passed Eastbourne. They were watched by large crowds from shore.

Nothing has been seen of the torpedo flotilla, which may, however, have passed during the night, as Lloyd's at noon reported four Russian torpedo boats passing St. Catharines Point, "apparently boarding a steamer bound east."

A despatch from Cherbourg reports that three Russian torpedo boats, escorted by the volunteer cruiser Krie, are moored in the roadstead there to take coal, water, etc.

DESTRUCTION OF FINE STEAMER

Passenger Boat "Kenosha" Burned at Lindsay.

Caught Fire Saturday Morning and Totally Destroyed—Loss $7,500 Partly Insured.

The Lindsay Post of Saturday, says:

The finest vessel of Lindsay's fleet of steamers—the excursion steamer Kenosha, owned by the Kawartha Lakes Navigation Co.—was burned to the water's edge at the town wharf basin at an early hour this morning, and the blackened and charred hulk now rests on the river bottom.

The steamer had been moored at the west end of the dock since the close of the excursion season, and was to have been taken to winter quarters in Bobcaygeon dry dock next week. At 2.15 a.m. a couple of the Flavelle Milling Co's employees crossed the pontoon bridge to the cars on the opposite side of the river, but saw no sign of fire, yet five minutes later, Mr. G o. Doig, head miller, who happened to be in the third story, noticed a blaze and gave the alarm. Mr. Geo. Cornell rang up the fire hall, from the box at the Y.M.C.A. corner, and though the brigade responded quickly, the boat was enveloped in flames from bow to stern when they arrived. The water pressure was very poor with two lines of hose in use, and it was quickly recognized that the craft was doomed.

The bow hawser finally burned through, and allowed the blazing craft to swing around against the iron bridge, but the crowd caught hold of the remaining hawser and pulled the boat away. Then the boat took a sheer in the direction of the woodpiles across the river and again the crowd by straining on the mooring line, pulled her out into the stream, where the work of destruction was completed, and an hour or so later the hulk settled down on the bottom.

Capt. Joe Parkin has been up north since Tuesday, and as neither Mr. John Carew, nor Mr. E. A. Gregory heard the alarm, no members of the company was present to witness the destruction of the fine steamer, which was valued at $7,500, and was insured for $4,000 in the Caledonian and Anglo-American Companies.

That the boat was set on fire is a certainty, but there is no reason to suppose that the act was a malicious one. The steamer not having been boarded up for the season, it is suspected that some tough characters made it a rendezvous, and that a carelessly thrown match or upset lamp was the cause.

MR. BLAIR'S RESIGNATION.

The retirement of Hon. A. G. Blair from the chairmanship of the Railway Commission, has been received by the Conservatives with frantic and hysterical demonstrations of delight. In their political extremity they hailed his retirement as the addition of a new ally of their tottering cause. He was to do all sorts of things to the Government, incidentally, if not overtly, in the interests of the Conservative cause. His resignation was described as the drop of a bomb-shell into the Liberal camp, that must scatter death and destruction on every side, and blow the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway sky high. Mr. Blair was to take the stump against the proposition, and he was bombarded with frantic telegrams, beseeching him to come to the rescue of Borden candidates.

But Mr. Blair remains inscrutably and obstinately deaf to such appeals. He keeps his own counsel, and declares that he is not going to take the stump.

So the great sensation, the great bombshell, was only a flash and a fizzle — it did no blowing up, except to the hopes of the party which looked for so much from such an ally. In their anxiety they committed themselves to extravagant praise of Mr. Blair, which they will have to swallow later.

The present hero-worship of Mr. Blair is a variation of the opinion which the Conservative press and politicians have at different times held respecting him. When he became Minister of Railways and Canals, he was one of the incompetents, who, it was hinted, composed Sir Wilfrid Laurier's cabinet. When Mr. Blair extended the Intercolonial Railway to Montreal, he was an extravagant visionary. When Mr. Blair retired from the Cabinet, upon a difference of opinion with his colleagues as to the Grand Trunk Pacific, he was a self-sacrificing and noble patriot — when it was supposed he might help the policy of the Government's opponents. When Mr. Blair accepted the chairmanship of the Railway Commission, he rapidly degenerated into a vulgar place-seeker and spoil-hunter. When Mr. Blair resigned the chairmanship, we all know what a howl was raised, how it was declared that he would pulverise the railway project and help to place Mr. Borden at the head of the procession. Mr. Blair once more became the man of the hour; but if he doesn't speedily take the stump he will lose caste and become once more a renegade in Conservative eyes.

It does not appear that Mr. Blair is going to stump against the Government but if he should do so the Government and Liberal party can view such an action with complacency. Mr. Blair can say no more against the Grand Trunk Pacific scheme than he has done. Indeed what he might choose to say would now have less effect than his former utterances. For recent events, events since he retired from the Government, would colour what he might now with the tinge of personal interest and motives begotten of, say, spleen. He would not be speaking as a disinterested critic, but as a man with a grievance. We know what Mr. Blair's opinion of the railway is and whatever he might add—which by the way he does not seem inclined to do — would be discounted in advance — could hail hot again.

Government operation of the railways is Mr. Borden's last ditch, the last key he has struck after ringing all the possible changes on all possible and impossible schemes of constructing a new transcontinental railway. In this he will find no justification either from experience or from the leading members of his own party. Sir John Macdonald and Sir Mackenzie Bowell were against it, and leading men of the country in finance and commerce, such as Mr. Clouston, Senator Drummond and others. It has been a flat failure in Australia and New Zealand. It is only justified by considerations of military expediency in Germany, Russia and Austria, countries where it injures the private transportation interests, the very key-stone of the arch of national upbuilding and progress. The Montreal Gazette, by all odds the ablest and most respectable of Conservative journals in Canada, and one of the greatest commercial and financial authorities, in concluding an article in opposition to Government operation of railways, says:

"This gives one an idea of the ACTUAL DETRIMENT GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP IS TO TRANSPORTATION, inasmuch as it destroys almost every inducement leading to the improvement or rates of travel, whereas under private ownership (and necessarily private operation) competition constantly renders improvement imperative."

It is not enough to bracket together Government ownership and operation, the two are not necessarily inseparable.

The Grand Trunk Pacific will be a Government owned road for half its length absolutely, and if the western section, built by the company, should not succeed, would revert to the Government by virtue of the first mortgage the Government will hold upon it.

THE OLD AND THE NEW.

Hon. Mr. Foster will probably tell his audience to-night in the Brock street rink, that the Liberal tariff, under which Canada has prospered, and is prospering, as it never has done before, and advanced in trade as no other country has ever advanced, is the old National Policy, and that this prosperity is only due to the National Policy — Tilley and Foster brand.

If that be the case, why then have any change? If the country has prospered under the "National Policy, with Liberal administration, why restore its administration to a party under whose management there were the most unsatisfactory conditions — scanty revenue — gaping deficits, industrial and commercial depression, low wages, dull times, political bickering, family quarrels, hostile race factions and general national unrest and discouragement.

Hon. Mr. Foster and his party, want the people to replace the days of buoyant prosperity for the blue ruin days of the old regime. This is very like the demand of an employee discharged for incompetency and failure, requesting re-engagement with his employer. He comes to him and says, "I know that when I managed your business it was going to the dogs, and that I made a sorry mess of it. I know that under your present manager everything is prosperous and booming, and your credit is good; but I want my old 'job.' Discharge this fellow and put me in his place." Would the employer, if he is sane, listen to such a wild proposition?

It is claimed that Canada is prospering under the "National Policy." It is understood that Mr. Foster says so. Other Conservatives make it a standing reproach against the Liberals that they have smashed the "National" policy, and that ruin — such as the country is enjoying now, perhaps—is sure to come.

Assuming that Mr. Foster and those who think with him are right, why did not the country flourish under his administration of it. The "National policy was born in 1878. Sir Leonard Tilley nursed the foundling till 1888, when Hon. George E. Foster took charge of it and nursed it till 1896. He had the same chance that Hon. Mr. Fielding has had to prove the merits of his policy and with what result?

He left office with a deficit of $519,981. Hon Mr. Fielding will enter upon a new term of office on Nov. 3rd with a surplus of $16,500,000. During the last three years of Mr. Foster's financial management under the Simon pure "National" policy there were deficits amounting to the tidy sum of $5,694,759. During the seven years previous to 1896 there was a reduction of two millions in revenue. During the seven years of the Liberal Rational tariff the revenue increased sixty six millions, an actual improvement of sixty-eight millions. And it is to be specially noted that this tremendouos increase of revenue was OBTAINED WITHOUT ADDING to the burdens of the people. Customs duties are on the average thirteen per cent. less than they were under the Foster tariff—postage rates for home and United States letters are one-third less, and for British letters one half less.

It is true that the ordinary expenditure has largely increased, but no apology is offered and none is needed. The development and public services of the country demanded this increase and they have had the benefit of it.

Under Mr. Fielding the national debt has not had one cent added to it, on the contrary the net result of Mr. Fielding's financing has been a reduction in eight years of over one million dollars. During the eight years of Mr. Foster's rule over twenty millions was added to the debt of the country. When Mr. Foster left office the public debt was $50.96 per head of the population, to-day the public debt is $47.97 per head a reduction of $3 per head.

One could go on with comparisons such as this to the length of columns, but it is not necessary. It is known to everybody, felt by everybody, that Canada has prospered and is prospering under Liberal rule and under the Liberal tariff policy. It is known and was felt by everybody that under the old rule the conditions were quite different. In the large it may be mentioned that under eighteen years of Conservative rule—"National" policy rule—the foreign trade of Canada increased sixty-six millions of dollars or 3 3-4 millions a year. Under eight years of Liberal rule—National policy rule—the foreign trade of Canada increased two hundred and twenty-eight millions, or 28 1-2 millions a year.

ANECDOTES OF ROYALTY.

A Good Story of the Late Duke of Clarence —Pace, the Jester of Queen Elizabeth, and His Bitter Retorts.

The Emperor Charles VI. of Germany was passionately fond of music, and the composer Fuchs congratulated him on his skill, saying, "What a pity, sire, you are not a conductor."

"Well it can't be helped," replied Charles. "I am only an Emperor, and must make the best of it."

Anthon's Gift.

On being presented with the second volume of Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," His Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester (George III.'s brother) received the distinguished author with great affability, saying to him, as he laid the "quarto" on the table: "Another d—— thick, square book! Always scribble, scribble, scribble! Eh, Mr. Gibbon?"

Seemed Familiar

Several amusing stories have been told of the late Duke of Clarence, who was King Edward's eldest son. The Prince was visiting his friend and tutor, Mr. Oscar Browning, at the latter's rooms in Cambridge University. There hung upon the walls an engraving of Windsor Castle, taken from a point of view unfamiliar, perhaps, to the young Prince.

"What a beautiful place!" he exclaimed, as he looked at the picture. "Somehow, I seem to know it. I think I must have been there!"

"Windsor, sir, Windsor," said Mr. Browning. Of course, the Prince and everyone laughed heartily.

No Laughing Matter.

The Prince Imperial, killed in South Africa in 1879, was one day talking with the young King of Spain, then Prince of Asturias.

"What," asked the former, "is the lesson you find hardest to learn?"

The future King of Spain, in a lugubrious tone, replied, "Not to laugh at the theatre when I am amused!"

"They let me laugh as much as I like," replied the Prince Imperial. "But, he added, referring to Bismarck, who had come on a visit to Napoleon III., the Prince's father—"what I don't like is to be obliged to smile and look pleasant to men who I know are my father's enemies."

Strange Lingo.

Prince Lucien Bonaparte, who died in 1891 at the age of seventy-eight, was a nephew of the great Emperor. He was a noted philologist, and lived long in England. The following story used to be told of him.

He was once presented with an address by an Irish municipal body, and by way of special compliment the document was composed and read in French. After listening to it the prince rose and, speaking in English, expressed his gratitude, but added that he could not reply to the address as he would have wished, since it was his misfortune not to understand the Irish language!

Met His Match.

King Frederick William III. (of Prussia) was very spare of words. One day he learned that there was at Toplitz, where he was drinking the water, a Hungarian magnate still less talkative than His Majesty himself. An opportunity for a meeting was soon managed, and the following conversation took place, the King beginning: "Bathing?"

"Drinking," was the reply.
"Soldier?"
"Magnate."
"Good."
"Policeman?"
"King."
"Compliments."

One Fault.

The Emperor Francis of Germany one day took Lauderer, his eccentric Court chaplain, over his model farm at Laxenburg. On entering the stables, which were floored with marble, and fitted up in the most luxurious style, the Emperor said to his companion:

"You are much given to fault-finding, I know, but I fancy you will find nothing missing here."

"Nothing, Your Majesty, except a sofa for each horse," was the reply.

Sharp Pace.

Pace, jester to Queen Elizabeth, was so bitter in his retorts upon Her Majesty that he was forbidden her presence. After an absence of some time friends intervened and entreated Her Majesty to receive him back into favor, engaging for him that he would be more guarded in his wit for the future.

The very first time they again met, however, Pace was as bad as ever.

"Come on, Pace," said the Queen, in a gracious humor; "now we shall hear of our faults."

"No, madam," replied Pace; "I never talk of what is discoursed by all the world!"

Painful Experiment.

William Carstairs, the Scottish divine, was suspected of being implicated in the Rye House Plot, but when put to the excruciating torture of the thumbscrews he endured it heroically, without confessing or implicating others.

Some time after he became confidential secretary to William III., and was presented with the instrument by which he had been tortured. The King, wishing to see the measure of fortitude necessary to endure the terrible torture without making a confession of some sort, placed his thumbs in the machine and told Carstairs to turn the screw. He turned slowly and cautiously.

"It is unpleasant," said the King, "yet it might be endured. You are trifling with me: turn the screw so that I may really feel pain similar to that you felt."

Carstairs gave a sharp turn. The King shouted with pain, and when released said that under such agony he would have confessed to anything, true or false.

THE PREMIER'S TOUR

His Progress Through Ontario One Continued Triumph.

HE SPOKE TO 40,000 PEOPLE

Sir Wilfrid Benefited By the Trip—The Province Is Returning to the Liberal Fold, and the People Will Signify Their Approval of His Efforts to Promote Unity and Prosperity.

Carleton Place, Oct. 24.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier's tour of Ontario, which practically closed with the meeting here Saturday, though he speaks at Alexandria to-day, has been a remarkable event in the political annals of the country. His progress through the Province—and his visit covered all parts of it except the newer districts to the north—was one continual triumph. The reception accorded him was especially gratifying to one who, a native of another Province, of different blood and of different language to that of the majority, has devoted his life to the promotion of peace and harmony between the diverse elements of which our people are composed, whose voice has ever been raised in trumpet tone against the unholy attempt to stir the passions of race and creed. Liberals throughout the Dominion will rejoice to learn that after undergoing the fatigue and discomforts of two weeks of continual travel, during which he addressed some fourteen meetings, the Premier returns to the capital to-night stronger and better than when he started out. This most gratifying condition is no doubt largely attributable to his estimable wife, who has accompanied the Premier, bearing unflinchingly the hardships of the campaign, and whose devotion has been rewarded by flattering demonstrations of popular approval.

Another important factor in Sir Wilfrid's improvement has undoubtedly been the evidences which on every hand give assurance that Ontario is returning to the Liberal fold, inspiring Sir Wilfrid with strong hopes that the desire which he has so much at heart will be gratified in the near future, when the people of Ontario shall at the polls signify their approval of his efforts to promote unity and of his progressive policy.

Sir Wilfrid at the various meetings he addressed, it is estimated, spoke to nearly 40,000 people, and in addition conversed with thousands of others whom he met at the railway stations and at the various social functions he attended. The attendance at his meetings was notably larger and the enthusiasm greater and more spontaneous than at the meetings held a short time previously in the same cities and towns by the Opposition leader. In many cases larger buildings were secured, but were found to be utterly inadequate to accommodate the audiences which gathered.

The meeting in this town was characterized by the usual scenes of enthusiasm, and Sir Wilfrid's speech was a masterly elucidation of the chief public issues and an eloquent appeal to the reason of his great audience.

POLITICS IN A NUTSHELL.

Dr. Montague of Hamilton appeared on Saturday and has withdrawn as candidate in London.

William Gray on Saturday night was nominated by the Conservatives of London to oppose Hon. Charles Hyman.

The Conservatives of Kings County, N.S., on Saturday nominated J. W. Ryan of Kentville, as their candidate for the Dominion House.

Admits Pullman Robbery.

St. Louis, Oct. 24.—Believing himself about to die, William Morris, alias Blair, the leader of the three suspects who killed Detectives Shea and Dwyer in a desperate battle Saturday, and who was himself wounded in vital organs, yesterday confessed to having been implicated in two train robberies, after his identification by railroad men as one of the four men who robbed the Pullman passenger, on the Illinois Central "Diamond Special" between Harvey and Madison, Ill., Aug. 1.

Divorce Still Worries Them.

Boston, Oct. 24.—At the close of the fifteenth day of the Episcopal General Convention the House of Bishops and House of Deputies were still at variance on the question of marriage and divorce. The issue will be taken before the latter body this week for the third time during the convention, the bishops having declined to accept without amendment the compromise measure adopted by the deputies.

$320,000 in Gold On Steamer.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 24.—The steamer City of Seattle arrived Saturday from Skagway. She brought $320,000 in gold and 204 passengers. Miners report that the water is lowering rapidly in the Yukon and in some parts the ice is already solid.

To Buy Gas Stock.

Toronto, Oct. 24.—The ratepayers of this city on Saturday gave the bylaw to purchase stock in the Consumers' Gas Co. a majority of 2,039. Three money bylaws were also carried.

To Entertain Earl Grey.

London, Oct. 24.—(C. A. P.)—The Canada Club will entertain Earl Grey to dinner on Nov. 21. Lord Strathcona will preside.

BURGLARS STILL OPERATING IN TOWN

Several Tools Stolen from Mr. R. Clinkscale's Shop Friday Night.

Burglars appear to be again on the warpath and another case of shop-breaking is reported. Saturday morning it was discovered that Mr. Robt. Clinkscale's shop in connection with his planing mill in the East Ward had been broken into sometime during the night and some valuable tools were stolen and a tool chest broken into. An iron bar was found with which it is supposed the door was opened. The following articles were missed:—One iron smoothing plane, one dittant saw, two ordinary saws, one 7-in augur bit, one beval quadrant and a pair of pants.

Friday afternoon a man was seen about the town attempting to sell goods goods of a similar nature to those stolen at various shops in town. He was a man about six feet tall, with light brown mustache, about thirty-five years of age and wearing a dark suit of clothes, apparently soiled from work. He claimed to have four saws in a chest at the C.P.R. station. So far, however, no complaints have been made other than that of Mr. Clinkscale of stolen goods and he did not miss his articles until Saturday morning, while the man referred to was selling his goods on Friday. The police are investigating the affair.

ON THE SAFETY OF OVER EATING

The Rule of Choosing the Lesser of Two Evils Applies to the Way You Eat.

I want to know how a man is to know when he has had enough?

The Pilgrim Fathers, I believe, had a quaint saying to the effect that you should always rise from the table feeling as if you could eat some more.

But the question is, how much more?

Just when to stop?

That's the point.

The rule is wrong, because it's no rule at all.

It is inexact and unscientific.

It is lokely to lead to the dangerous habit of eating too little.

And eating too little—or digesting too little, which amounts to the same thing—is the cause of nine-tenths of—the diseases from which humanity suffers to-day.

What is disease?

It is simply uneven balance between waste and repair.

Some organ lacks strength to carry on the special work for which it was created.

Where shall it find the strength it lacks?

In drugs?

Ten thousand times, NO!

Better die than become a hopeless drug fiend.

No; in food.

"But," you say, "I eat a plenty of good food every day!"

True, dear friend; but you don't digest it.

And food, undigested, is mere poison.

So, to make food do you good, you must take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The great thing about Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is, that their action does not depend upon stimulative druggery.

They cannot create a habit.

They contain no ingredients to "pick you up," "tone up your nervous system" or furnish whip energy, by calling out your vital reserve force.

They create new strength, force and energy out of your food.

If taken starving they will do you no good at all.

So, eat to live, and live to eat, with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The curse of our present civilization is exhaustion.

And exhaustion, whether of brain, nerves, physical strength, or vital force, is caused by starvation.

Of two evils, it is better to overeat—and prevent indigestion with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets—than to rise from the table, not having eaten enough to repair the exhaustion of your vital forces.

For exhaustion or starvation leads to the most varied forms of sickness or disease, brought on by inability of the weakened vitality to counteract the disease—poisons and microbes.

Whereas the well-fed and well-nourished person, without ever feeling the worse for it, can expose himself to dangers, the mere thought of which would drive the weak, starving dyspeptic into a panic fit.

Good food, well digested, is the great secret of a healthful existence here on earth.

So eat heartily, every day, of the best food you can get, and regulate the working of your digestive machinery with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

As a result you will be astonished to find, how much stronger and livelier you feel, how much more and better work you can do, how much more pleasure you can get out of life, and how your old enemy, that chronic trouble, which has fastened upon your weak spot, wherever it is, will up and away, and ever after leave you in peace, health and comfort.

There's more truth than poetry in all this.

Try it once.

House Moved By Wind.

Brockville, Oct. 24.—During an exceedingly heavy gale which swept over these parts a large frame house in the west end of the town, under construction by J. C. Yarwood, was swept bodily from the foundation and landed several feet away. The frame had been erected and boarded in, and the roof put on. The structure was totally wrecked.

To Change Its Name.

Rat Portage, Ont., Oct. 24.—The Town Council has decided to change the name of the town, and that it shall be called Kenora, on receiving the approbation of the Lieutenant-Governor. Papers will be forwarded to the east without delay.

Disappointed Young Miss.

A small miss who had but recently mastered her catechism confessed her disappointment with it thus: "Now, I obey the fifth commandment and honor my papa and mamma, yet my days are not a bit longer in the land, for I'm put to bed every night at seven o'clock just the same."

RUSSIANS ENTRENCHING.

No Change in Relative Positions of the Armies At Shakhe—A Big Battle Is Near.

Mukden, Oct. 24.—Sharp fighting continues along the front. The Russians are entrenching ground recently occupied by them.

No Change in Positions.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 24.—There is no change in the relative positions of the armies on the Shakhe River. General Sakharoff telegraphs that the Russians have been bombarding Lamuting and the Buddhist temple at Linshinpu, while the Japanese have been shelling the Russian position at Shakhe and near Linhinpu. An Associated Press despatch from Mukden reports that the Japanese are fortifying an important height south of Shakhe, and that neither side shows a disposition either to advance or to retire.

An Associated Press despatch from the Russian front says the situation is not yet ripe for the resumption of the offensive. This meagre but significant admission is all that the censor allows to pass over the wires, and doubtless indicates that General Kuropatkin is maturing important plans and distributing his forces in readiness for another attempt to break the Japanese resistance. The roads are now dried by winds and frost. The cold is intense and flooded fields have been frozen. Thus, military movements are facilitated, though at the same time it will be more difficult to carry on entrenching work.

An Associated Press despatch from the Russian front gives a rumor that the Russian force has made a detour to the west, arriving abreast of Liaoyang, but there is no confirmation of this report. Greater importance is attached to a report from Tokio that 200 Russians have crossed the Taitse River east of Bensihu and that 20,000 are concentrated at Kauta Pass 20 miles northeast. This may indicate the direction of Kuropatkin's next blow or possibly it is intended to disconcert the Japanese and compel them to weaken their force on the railroad. Whatever Kuropatkin's ultimate object may be there is no doubt he is desirous of obtaining the most reliable information as to the number and disposition of the force opposing his eastern flank. The Cossacks may be relied upon to harrass the Japanese line of communication, besides reconnoitering.

General Kuropatkin is with the centre of his army. The Japanese estimate that the Russian losses in the battle of Shakhe amount to 60,000 is not confirmed here. A telegram from Harbin reports the passage north of 26,000 wounded. The remainder, who are quartered in hospitals at Mukden, cannot exceed a few thousands.

Big Battle Nears.

Mukden, Oct. 24.—Another big battle is expected shortly, as the weather is already turning cold. It will be impracticable for the two armies to winter in their present positions, midway between Mukden and Liaoyang.

Many incidents are coming to light, showing the bravery of the Russian soldiers during the stubborn resistance to the Japanese advance and in their attempt to drive the Japanese back. The men fought night and day without rest, and afterward worked for hours carrying the wounded to the hospitals. At the conclusion of the fight at Lone Tree Hill the ground was covered with dead and wounded of both armies. The Japanese prisoners were treated by the Russians with the greatest kindness. At one hospital visited by the Associated Press correspondent Japanese privates were found in the officers' ward. The army medical corps and the Red Cross Societies did splendid work.

The Russian commissariat also was admirably handled. Portable soup kitchens were most useful, being taken under fire to feed the men.

Russian Loss Over 60,000.

Tokio, Oct. 24.—Manchurian headquarters, reporting by telegraph yesterday, says:

The enumerated spoils, etc., of the battle of Shakhe follows:

Prisoners, about 500.

Enemy's dead left on the field, 10,550.

45 guns.

37 ammunition wagons.

6,920 shells.

5,474 rifles.

78,000 small arms, ammunition, number swords, shovels, axes and tents.

Besides the enumerated property the uncounted property, extending over 25 miles, will reach an enormous quantity.

The enemy's dead is being interred with military honors.

According to the number of dead the Russian casualties are estimated at over 60,000.

Pensioner Disappears; Wife Pauper.

Port Huron, Oct. 24.—Wm. Harper, aged 80 years, a pensioner of the British Government, has disappeared, and it is believed he has been drowned. His aged wife is a helpless paralytic and is left alone in extreme poverty.

Primate of All England.

Liverpool, Oct. 24.—Right Rev. Randall Thomas Davidson, Archbishop of Canterbury, landed here Saturday evening.

When Your Child Suffers.

For lack of knowledge of the value of Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for eczema, many a mother has been worn out in the effort to relieve her child of suffering. Eczema, scald head and other forms of itching skin disease are common to children, especially during the teething period. Though readily cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment, eczema, if neglected, becomes chronic and may last for years.

FOR OCCASIONS.

Dress requirements here are more exacting than elsewhere.

State and social affairs are more important—a chap wants to look well when alongside an Englishman or a United Stateser.

Semi-ready offers superlative advantages for a better appearance.

Suits for dress occasions—formal or otherwise—conform to the physique better—are more shapely—in better taste—of better fabrics than custom-made of either this country or any other.

Semi-ready suits are carefully designed to be conventional as well as in style—a Semi-ready dress suit is neither freakish nor antique.

You can try on a Semi-ready suit and not feel embarrassed if you do not want to purchase.

Charged With Stealing 1,200 Sheep.

Lethbridge, N. W. T., Oct. 24.—J. Seeley, a prominent Mormon sheep owner, of Stirling, was brought up before Inspector Belcher, charged with stealing twelve hundred sheep belonging to B. Grote. In a recent storm the sheep strayed from the band and were found in Seeley's bunch. When charged Seeley said he had bought them from Gray, another sheepman, and denied that Grote's sheep were with his. He was remanded to Oct. 28 and bail was accepted.

Upset Steamer, now Ready to Continue Her Trips.

The steamer "Sovereign," the unfortunate capsize of which was reported in Saturday's issue of the Examiner, is now happily in as good condition as before the accident. She was taken to the Harwood wharf, where she now lies, and will be able to resume her trips in a day or two.

The mishap which befel the steamer, was one which is in no way due to faulty construction, but to the fact that proper care was not exercised in the loading of the cargo, which was placed to too great an extent upon the upper deck.

SPLENDID RALLY IN COMMITTEE ROOMS

Saturday Night's Meeting was the Largest That has yet Been Held.

Splendid Addresses by Mr. R. R. Hall, Hon. J. R. Stratton, Mr. R. H. Shepherd and Mr. W. F. Johnson.

Great Enthusiasm and Encouraging Reports of the Work—Victory is in the Air.

The Liberal Committee Rooms could not nearly afford seating capacity for the very large audience which gathered on Saturday evening to listen to the addresses in the interests of Mr. R. R. Hall. Every week the attendance has been increasing, until last Saturday scores were standing, and the meeting was in every way a most enthusiastic and encouraging one, and speaks well for the interest and support being manifest in favour of Mr. Hall, whose chances of election are from day to day growing brighter. Judging from the magnificent weekly rally meetings, Mr. Hall is going to be royally supported in Peterborough.

The chairman of the meeting was Mr. J. J. Hartley, and the speakers were the candidate, Hon. J. R. Stratton, Mr. R. H. Shepherd and Mr. W. F. Johnson.

THE CHAIRMAN.

The chairman, in a few opening remarks, expressed his pleasure at seeing such a large gathering, which evidenced the fact that the work was progressing favourably, and that the interest was in no way abating. He thought there was never a more important time for the return of a Liberal candidate than at the present. The interests of Peterborough were at stake, and it would prove a boom to the town to have a Liberal member as a supporter of the Liberal Government, which would of a certainty be sustained. The working men realized this, and it would be to their best interests to support Mr. Hall.

MR. R. H. SHEPHERD.

Mr. Shepherd was glad to see so many of the young men as well as the older men present. He said that he had always been a supporter of Hon. Mr. Stratton for the Local House, and had worked for Mr. Kendry during his last two terms, but he felt that he had worked in vain. Mr. Kendry had been sent to Parliament, and that was all. What had he ever done? The speaker had nothing to say against him personally, as he was a man generally respected, but he felt that a cigar store Indian might have as well been sent to Ottawa, as far as his use to Peterborough town and county was concerned. It was a business proposition, and we must not stand on sentiment. Mr. Shepherd referred to the advancement Peterborough had made along many lines under the Laurier Administration, and felt assured that Mr. Hall would be returned as member on November 3rd. He denounced the recent mud-slinging of the Conservative press, and particularly of the Review, saying that such was the tactics of the Opposition who had no other platform. He was glad to see the work progressing so favourably and hoped it would continue to do so.

MR. W. F. JOHNSON.

Mr. W. F. Johnson referred to the dead-set made by the Conservatives through the Review, upon Mr. Hall's personal character. The speaker was a lawyer as well as Mr. Hall, and claimed that consequently he should know something at least of his manner of doing business, as he had been practising in Peterborough for the past twenty years, and had often been against Mr. Hall in legal affairs but had never known him to do a mean or dishonest act at any time. "His word and mine," said Mr. Johnson, "have often been between hundreds, and even thousands of dollars, but I never knew him to do anything which was not upright and honourable and becoming to a gentleman." He would support Mr. Hall for well defined reasons. This town and county had come to a critical position in its stage of growth and a wrong step taken at the present time would retard its progress. Other towns had reached this stage but could not advance beyond a certain point, and had gone back. One thing to help us past this crucial point was the completion of the Trent Valley Canal, and he would support Mr. Hall, irrespective of politics, because he believed him to be the man to impress upon the Government the need of the completion of the canal at the earliest possible moment, and would not give up in his efforts until his aim was accomplished, and when this was done it would place Peterborough in a position to compete in financial affairs, with the lake towns and cities, such as Hamilton and Toronto. He would also support Mr. Hall, because he was a worker, and had plenty of energy, ability and determination to look after our best interests. He had a great respect and friendship for Mr. Kendry, but one reason why he would not support him was because of his statement, which, as far as he could learn, was made at a recent Conservative caucus, that he had not done his duty in the past towards his party, and would not run again, because he felt that he had not time to do his duty in the future. Why should we elect him, then, when we have such a worker as Mr. Hall, concluded Mr. Johnson, amid applause.

HON. J. R. STRATTON.

Hon. Mr. Stratton said that he was glad to be able to inform them that, from all that he could learn, Sir Wilfrid Laurier would be returned by an overwhelmingly majority. In going to Toronto that morning he had met with some gentlemen from Quebec, who were quite sanguine that Sir Wilfrid would do as well there as he had ever done, and the same results were expected from the other provinces. He felt satisfied that Peterborough should, and would, be with the Government. He greatly regretted the personal attacks that had been made upon Mr. Hall. Mr. Hall's life and career — public and private — would stand as close investigation as those of his traducers. The public questions of the day are the questions that should be discussed — those questions that affect the people.

Mr. Stratton said he was glad to see so many working men present. The working men of Peterborough are an important body, and the Department of Labour at Ottawa has given important legislation with beneficial results to the working man's interests. The sweating system had been abolished by the Liberal party. When the Liberal Government came into power, the contracts for making militia clothing, etc., were let and sub-let, and sub-let, till the poor people had practically to work for nothing, for the benefit of the contractors. Thus women and frail girls, to keep body and soul together, were burning the midnight oil in squalid homes, or in unhealthy surroundings, for the magnificent sum of twenty cents a day, and unfairly competing by such cut-throat wages with the work of the mechanic and workman. This system was not only an injustice to working men, but it resulted in the worst form of slavery for women and children, to satisfy the greed of contractors. The Liberal Government changed all this. (Applause.) The Labour Gazette had been established to give information to the working men, to describe the exact conditions, and it was an immense advantage to the working man to know what is being done in lines in which he was interested in in various parts of the Dominion. The laws affecting manufacturing shops, railways, etc., were codified and placed in a convenient form, so that the working man could see for himself the rights and protection he enjoyed, and was entitled to under the law. It was very valuable to have information published monthly and distributed free as to the standing of unions, the number of them and where situated.

The fair wage policy of the Government, in forcing contractors to pay a fair day's pay for a fair day's work, was one of the best laws ever passed. (Applause.) By this the wage current in the district must be paid on all contracts, and an officer of the Department is detailed to see that this matter is carried out to the letter. This officer visits all contracts to see that justice is done to the workmen in the way of full and fair wages. It is a condition of all Government contracts under the Liberal Government, that men's wages must be paid, and to ensure this a sum due the contractor is withheld till every cent of the wages due is paid.

Scores of other beneficial acts and regulations could be cited to show that if there was any gratitude amongst working men for beneficial legislation and watchful care of their interests, it was due to a Government which had done so much in the short space of eight years as compared with the work of the Conservative Government in 18 years, their only legislation for the working man being the establishment of a holiday. (Cheers.) In eight years alone under the Liberal Government 20,000 men had been restored to their work by the intervention of the Government, in the matter of strikes and lockouts.

Mr. Stratton said he was sorry to read in the press a letter from Mr. Eyres in which an attempt was made to create political capital against Mr. Hall in connection with the drowned lands on the Otonabee River. As a matter of fact Mr. Hall had no more to do with this matter than the man in the moon. How a man can satisfy his conscience by withdrawing his support from the Government and practically endorsing Mr. Kendry, who during the eight years in the House has sat dumb and neglected to urge and advocate the claims of his constituents as represented by Mr. Eyres, it was difficult to see. What is a member for, but to do what Mr. Kendry did not do—urge upon the floor of Parliament at every opportunity the claims and grievances of his constituents. Even if he were in opposition he could clear his conscience by doing his duty—by doing his best. This was apparently not done by Mr. Kendry. True he moved for the papers in the case to supply him with ammunition to fight the cause of his constituents. But it appears he only made a blank cartridge of them. There seems to be no record of his having ever opened his mouth on the matter in parliament, beyond making a motion which would take about half a minute to do. Hasn't the matter of these claims been dragging along since 25 years before Confederation, and still nothing has been done? Let us have a man of ability and business industry a man who is not afraid and who will attend to his duties, a man that will not be in Parliament once a month, but every day. While this drowned lands matter has existed we had had Mr. Hilliard in Parliament. We had had Mr. Stevenson in Parliament. We had had Mr. Kendry in Parliament—sometimes—(laughter,) and they had done nothing, but now a man must be blamed who has never been in Parliament, but who will be there now, and who takes a manly, straightforward course in the matter and commits himself to having the legality and validity of the claims investigated and decided, the first step to a satisfactory and lasting settlement. Mr. Hall had done all that it was possible for a man to do under the circumstances, and it does not seem fair that he should be held accountable for the short comings of others.

Mr. Stratton concluded his address with the statement that Mr. Hall was meeting with a splendid encouragement in the country and if the electors of the town, the business element and the working element, were true to their own interests, if they placed the advantage and benefit of the town, its growth and progress in the first place—the place they should hold—they would put Mr. Hall, the candidate of a Government under which the town had flourished so splendidly, at the head of the poll on Nov. 3rd. (Loud applause.)

THE CANDIDATE SPEAKS.

Mr. R. R. Hall was cheered to the echo upon rising to speak and it was sometime before he could be heard. After the very enthusiastic reception tendered to Sir Wilfrid Laurier last Thursday when thousands were turned away from the rink and over six thousand were gathered in the rink, he thought that there was not the slightest danger of the Laurier Government being turned out of power, and he also thought that the long 20 years during which time a Conservative had represented West Peterborough, would come to a close on Nov. 3rd. It had evidently proved quite a shock to the Review when Mr. Hall had pointed out where improvements could be made in Peterborough and the county, and when he signified his intention of doing his utmost to have these improvements made, the Review accused him of making "promises" in order to secure votes. Improvements had been made in other places and why not in Peterborough? But Mr. Kendry during his eight years of office had been blind to the wants and necessities of the riding.

Mr. Hall spoke concerning the advantages to be derived from the Trent Valley Canal. The cost of heating to the consumers would be cut down from 15 to 20 thousand dollars a year. Manufacturers when considering the advisability of settling in Peterborough were always disappointed at the high price of coal which told against us severely in attracting manufacturers here and thus the working men were deprived of taking advantage of the improvements which might be made and which would be to their interests.

The completion of the canal would be advantageous in getting in raw material for our various manufacturing industries. The cutting of the freight rate even just a few cents on 100 lbs. would mean a saving of many thousands of dollars a year to the big industries here. We want to put our town in a position to compete with any town in existence and the completion of the canal would mean a great deal towards the furthering of this project. The workingmen in Peterborough were as skilled as anywhere on the continent, but the difficulty sometimes arose in the unfair conditions which handicapped us in comparison with other towns. Mr. Hall proposed to make promises of what he would try to do and it could be depended upon that as far as he was concerned they would be fulfilled. He felt perfectly satisfied as each day went by that the electors would return him as member because they know that he would make an honest effort to fulfil all his promises as a representative of the people should do.

Mr. Hall touched upon the question of public ownership which, he said, was not a new one. The Government had had an experience with the Intercolonial which ran some 720 miles out from Montreal and which had been running for the past 30 years including both Conservative and Liberal administrations. There had not been received from it one cent on the total cost and furthermore it had been going behind $70,000,000. Government owned roads could never be managed with the same efficiency and effectiveness as if controlled differently, for it was impossible to get the same activity and enthusiasm when working for the Government as would be the case when in the employ of capitalists where advancement depended on merit. Mr. Hall quoted the words of the late Sir John Macdonald in a speech delivered in 1881 in reference to the matter of Government ownership of railways as follows:—

"The Government has every right to use all their exertions in order to relieve themselves and the country of the obligation of building this road (the Canadian Pacific Railway) and of the still greater responsibility of running it. We see this in the Intercolonial and in every public work. Why, sir, it is actually impossible for the Government to run that railway satisfactorily. The men we put on the road, from the porter upwards, become civil servants. If one is put on from any cause whatever he is said to be a political hack, if he is removed, it is said his removal was on account of his political opinions. If a cow is killed on the road a motion is made in respect of it by the member of the House who has the owner's vote and support. The responsibility, the expense, the worry, and annoyance of a government having charge of such a work, are such, that, for these causes alone, it was considered advisable to get rid of the responsibility."

At the time of the construction of the C.P.R. the Government gave the Company $25,000,000 while the only financial aid given the G.T.P. is a guarantee of interest which will not cost the country anything; the Government also gave the company 25,000,000 acres of land without reservation and with exemption from taxation for 20 years. They also built two costly sections of the road from Lake Superior to Winnipeg and from Kamloops to the Pacific Coast, and made a present of this 600 miles of completed road to the company. How different is this from the present contract made by the Government. The advantages of the G.T.P. were everywhere recognized and even we in Peterborough would reap a benefit from it. Mr. R. Stuart of the Cereal Company, who came over from Chicago to attend the Laurier meeting, had said that he knew of no country where there were such opportunities for money making as in Canada. There was no country which had doubled its trade in the past eight years as Canada had done. Peterborough should be the Minneapolis of Canada, and we should do our best to improve our town so as to attract capitalists and manufacturers here. All the labouring class would reap the benefit. "That Trent Valley Canal will be completed before I return to you for re-election again, if energy and stocking to it can do it" said Mr. Hall, amid cheers. He was more than gratified with the work being done on his behalf and felt that after Nov. 3rd, he would have the opportunity and privilege of redeeming the promises made to the electors.

The meeting was concluded with the usual cheers for the King and Mr. Hall.

SECOND SERMON ON GAMBLING

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt Preached Against This Practice.

Reasons Why it is Dangerous and Demoralizing—A Harmful Indulgence.

Large congregations were present yesterday at both services in St. Luke's Church. At the morning service the rector referred to the death of the Bishop of Huron, Dr. Baldwin.

In the evening Rev. E. A. Langfeldt preached on "Gambling", from Proverbs XVIII. 20 "He that maketh haste to be rich shall not be innocent.

Referring to his former sermon on the subject he said that Christians can lay no claim to absolute ownership. At the most they are but trustees, stewards of property that belongs really to God. Therefore the sinfulness of gambling is evident. Turning to non-Christians and infidels we find that even they cannot defend the practice of gambling, but admit it to be a dangerous, demoralizing and degrading vice.

Gambling is a vice for the following reasons:—

1. It begets and keeps alive in its victim a love of gain. It is a dangerous passion for winning, without toil or trouble, large sums in a very short time. One has only to call to mind the innumerable crimes and atrocities committed every day just for the sake of gain, for plunder and for the satisfaction of handling hard cash, to admit this.

2. Gambling is dangerous because of the terrible fascination which it exercises over its victims, and by which it drags them on to results which they never anticipated. Gamblers will tell you that they were drawn on, further and further by a horrible fascination, by a power which was too strong for them, until their remained no chance no hope of recovery. And then there comes so often the desperate attempt at recovery by means of forging, embezzlement or what not; to be followed most surely by all the dismal after history of a felon's dock, of utter disgrace and penal servitude.

3. Gambling is dangerous because it creates and encourages a taste for unhealthy excitement. It is sometimes pleaded in defence of the practice, at least when small sums are played for, that it gives to a game a certain zest, and adds to it an excitement without which it would be altogether flat and insipid. This craving for excitement is unhealthy. The man who cannot take part in, and enjoy a game for its own sake, but must gamble over it, is not in a sound and healthy mental and moral condition.

4. Gambling is demoralising because it destroys that healthy independence which forbids a man to take that for which he gives no sort of equivalent in return. Men should earn all they have. Of course there are obvious exceptions, such as legacies, gifts and such like. Gambling tends to destroy that healthy tone of independence by which a man lays down for himself a general principle, that he will only take what he honestly earned; Earned by the sweat of his brow, by physical or mental labour, or when in return for what he receives, he has given a fair equivalent in money, in time, in effort of some kind or another.

But the gambler gives nothing. He simply makes haste to be rich. Gambling gives a man a positive distaste for and dislike of all work.

4. Gambling makes men rejoice at the losses of others. Will anyone pretend that a man can be better and not the worse for such rejoicing? Can it be otherwise than make him selfish, hard and cruel? No one has ever heard anyone give this practice a good name. No one has dared to say that gambling is a good thing. A practice, that once acquired, will make a man a better, a more respected, a more self-respecting man. I have talked with gamblers who would give much if they had never come under this terrible fascination.

What then are you going to do? There is much gambling going on in Peterborough, and you would be surprised if you heard of the places where gambling is practised, and the names of the men who do it in our midst. Are you going to make haste to be rich? God help you if you are. Your peace of mind will be gone; your credit, your good name will certainly be lost, Misery and trouble will be the sure result of such haste. But "the Blessing of the Lord," this indeed, "maketh rich, and He addeth no sorrow with it."

Rev. Langfeldt will preach next Sunday at the morning service on "Purity and Honesty, in private, public and national life." At the evening service on "Idolatry in the Christian Church, where is it?"

Senator Cox Writes in Reply to Col. Ward's Statements

Has no Interest in Trenton Route of Trent Canal—Col. Ward's Statements Disproved by Facts.

Senator Cox addresses the following open letter to Col. H. A. Ward, in answer to statements made by the latter in the Review of October 20th:

October 24 ,1904.

Dear, Col. Ward,—

May I ask you to do me the justice to correct the erroneous statements that have been made respecting the sale of the Nassau Mill property by the Canadian Bank of Commerce to the Government, and to the Canadian General Electric Company. You appear to be under the impression that a corrupt bargain has been made by the sale of this property. The following facts will, I am sure, fully satisfy you that you are entirely mistaken, and will lead you to give as much publicity to the correction as has been given to the misrepresentation.

In your letter to the Peterborough Review, under date October 19th, you state that the price realized for the property was $180,000, whereas the total price realized was only $42,000, of which the Government paid $20,000 and the General Electric Company $22,000. A careful reading of the registered document, from which you quote the price paid by the Electric Company as $160,000, will show it to have been $22,000. Because it provides for an expenditure by the General Electric Company of $78,000 in the betterment of the property, which amount was advanced as a loan by the bank; add to this the $22,000 paid for the property itself, and you have $100,000.00, which is the present cash value of twenty annual payments of $8,024.26. I might also say that the price includes a farm of 200 acres and other assets valued at $9,000.00 further reducing the price actually paid for the water power to $13,000.00. This will be confirmed by Mr. W. R. Brock, ex-M.P., President, and Mr. F. Nicholls, Vice-President of the General Electric Company. The amount paid by the Government, $20,000.00 was arrived at upon the recommendation of Mr. Geo. H. Pope, who was appointed by, and has for many years acted as valuator for the late Government, as well as for the present Government.

I venture to say that Mr. Kendry, the present Conservative candidate for West Peterborough (who knew the property well before the Government took possession of it) will confirm the statement that the price paid for it was quite within its value. The amount was arrived at in an honourable manner by the officers of the Government and the Bank, and did not in any way justify the unwarranted attack made upon me in connection with the transaction.

Let me also correct a misapprehension you are under as to certain water powers between Rice Lake and Trenton—owned by the Gilmour Company of Trenton—by saying that I have not, have never had, and have no intention of having, one dollar of interest in these properties.

I am not interested in the slightest degree, directly or indirectly, in the Trenton route or in any water privileges or lands along the route, and have not advocated it as against the other.

I am not in any way prejudiced against the Port Hope route, and when both routes are reported upon I shall favour the adoption of the one that offers the greatest advantage to the country and is best adapted to the trade of this important waterway.

Yours truly,
(Signed) GEO. A. COX.

COLONIAL LIBERTY

Interference With It Is Mischevious to the Empire.

BRITAIN IS HARD PRESSED

Command of the Sea Discussed At the Navy League, and Mr. J. S. Parkin Is Accused of Reckless Talk—Shadow of Monroe Doctrine Rests Over Canada—Australia Cited As a Case in Point.

London, Oct. 22.—(C.A.P.)—Referring to Right Hon. H. Asquith's opinion that the proposed conference will cause friction, Colonial Secretary Lyttelton, speaking at Dartford, said that nothing more pusillanimous had ever been omitted as an opinion—not even by the Radical party—than to say we were afraid of going into a conference with our colonies for fear of friction.

Mr. Asquith, at Inverness, said Britain was hard pressed in the race of industrial rivalry. We could not hold our own by folding our hands and living on the past.

Haldane's Opinion.

London, Oct. 22.—(C.A.P.)—Right Hon. R. B. Haldane, M.P., speaking at Dunfermline, said Mr. Chamberlain's scheme was positively mischievous to the Empire, based as it was upon interference with the liberty of the colonies. The latter part of his speech was mainly devoted to advocacy of the establishment of an Imperial Council.

Command of the Sea.

London, Oct. 22.—(C.A.P.)—At the Navy League yesterday Mr. Wyatt, replying to the toast of the United Empire, expressed his gratitude to the many eminent men in the colonies who had assisted him during his tour. It had been proved to the colonies that they were dependent upon the power of the sea. The shadow of the Monroe Doctrine was over Canada, and the Monroe Doctrine itself rested on the command of the sea.

Dr. Parkin, who also responded, said it was intensity of conviction that counted in this world, and they had a most remarkable instance of this in their envoy, Mr. Wyatt. Dwelling on the importance of teaching the value of sea power to the colonies, Dr. Parkin said if 25,000 German soldiers were landed on Western Australia the whole of Australia could not save the invaded territory without command of the sea.

The Morning Post, commenting on Mr. Reeve's and Parkin's speeches, says it supposes that if they had been talking as recklessly as they did last night not to fifty or a hundred eminently respectable ladies and gentlemen, but to a few thousand workers with votes, they might have been taken seriously and some one might have thought the nation wanted men of their stamp to manage its affairs.

From Waste Fish.

Ottawa, Oct. 22.—Professor Prince, Commissioner of Fisheries, has returned from visiting fish reduction works at Cape Charles, Virginia, Boston, Portland, Eastport and other points. The trip was undertaken for the purpose of gaining pointers in connection with similar works which the Government will establish. One of these will be at Canso, N.S., and two others at points yet to be selected. Dogfish, cod heads and fish waste generally will be treated at the works. Prof. Prince says the cost of the reduction and materials is about two or three dollars a ton, whereas the resultant product will bring $30 a ton. The plant for the three Canadian reduction works has already been shipped.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT

Catharine Hess Burned to Death in the City of Toronto.

HER HAIR CAUGHT ON FIRE

She Was Drying It Over a Coal Oil Stove and the Fire Spread to Her Clothing—She Lived Only a Few Hours Afterwards, But Did Not Reach the Hospital Before Passing.

Toronto, Oct. 24.—Catharine Hess, who lived at William Poultney's, 45 Gould street, was so badly burned yesterday afternoon that she died a few hours afterward.

No one knows the cause of the accident, which occurred about one o'clock. It is supposed that Miss Hess, whose room was on the second floor, was drying her hair over a coal oil heater. The hair caught fire, which was immediately communicated to her wrapper. She ran to the bathroom.

Mr. Poultney and his brother were in a room on the third-storey when they saw smoke issuing from the bathroom window. They ran down to the other floor and found Miss Hess a mass of flames. They wrapped her in quilts extinguishing the flames.

Dr. H. J. Hamilton was sent for, and everything possible done for the sufferer. At 5.30 it was decided to remove her to St. Michael's Hospital. She had just been placed on the ambulance cot when she expired.

Deceased was well-known in Toronto. It is thought she was born here, the family having lived in Lombard street at one time. She has no relatives living in the city. Her mother and two brothers died within the last five years. For the past 10 years she has been employed as forewoman at O'Brien's ladies' tailoring establishment. She was 36 years of age and had lived with the Poultney's for a number of years.

Mr. Poultney says he heard no screams. As deceased's mouth and throat were badly burned it is thought the flames choked her so that she could not make an outcry.

Coroner Johnston has issued a warrant for an inquest at the morgue to-day at 8 p.m.

Burned to Death.

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—Hilda Martin, 4 years of age, was burned to death on Saturday at the family home, Janeville. She was standing before the fire when a spark ignited her dress and a moment afterwards she was in flames. She lingered in terrible agony from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

His Jaw Was Broken.

Carberry, Man., Oct. 24.—Charles Watts, engineer for Dr. Swensorton's threshing outfit, had his jaw broken at MacKenzieville yesterday by a cylinder head blowing out. He was brought to town and the jaw set. Watts is doing as well as can be expected.

DEATH OF MR. J. A. DAVIDSON.

Prominent Resident of Guelph Passes Away On Sunday.

Guelph, Oct. 24.—John A. Davidson, so widely known in the newspaper fraternity of the province, died in Guelph Sunday as a result of a paralytic stroke of two weeks ago. From 1873 to 1898 he was the partner of the late James Innes in The Guelph Mercury. He learnt the business with The Streetsville Review and assisted to bring out The Standard, the first paper in Brampton.

From 1863 to 1871 he was foreman in The Guelph Herald, afterwards going to The Mercury in the same position. He was an ex-president of the Canadian Press Association. He served some years on the board of education and was one of the first board of trustees and one of the first class leaders of Dublin street Methodist Church.

He leaves a widow, a sister of the late James Innes, both of Vancouver, B.C. The funeral will take place on Tuesday at 3 o'clock. The trustee board of Dublin street Church will attend in a body. The board of education is also expected to attend.

Chief Thrown Into Jail.

Vancouver, Oct. 24.—Chief Zequid of the northern tribes of British Columbia Indians has been thrown into jail here to await his trial for refusing to allow his people to tell of a young girl who was murdered, her head cut off and $500 taken from her. The Indian maiden was keeping the money for her "buck," who was a very successful hunter. The murder took place at the Indian village of Varville, B. C., but no threats or hope of reward will induce the Indians to betray the slayer of the girl.

Denial By Dundonald.

London, Oct. 22.—Lord Dundonald, in an interview, states that The Toronto Globe's charge that he advocated conscription in Canada is utterly untrue. He states that he has always opposed conscription. He merely revised the old militia act by the request of the Minister, keeping the same principles and introducing no new obligation for adult citizens. He did not recommend a permanent corps of five thousand. He only gave power to enlist it, if it is required in future. The charge that he wished the abolition of the schools of instruction is absurd, as these formed an essential part of his scheme. A letter fully explaining these facts is now on its way to Canada.

A Decisive Vote.

Paris, Oct. 24.—By a decisive vote —325 to 277—the Chamber of Deputies Friday night approved of the Government's course in the matter of the rupture between France and the Vatican by the recall of Ambassador Nisard.

BUSINESS AND PATRIOTISM.

Why Not Place a Duty on Foreign Advertisements.

The Dominion Government promised that as soon as steel rails were being produced in Canada it would impose a duty of seven dollars a ton on imported rails. Rails are being produced at the Sault, and the Government's pledge has been fulfilled.

Foreign magazines which contain on an average seventy-five per cent. of advertisements now come into Canada free of duty. Will the Government agree that as soon as magazines are produced in Canada they will impose a similar duty on foreign Periodicals?

Seven dollars a ton on rails worth $28 a ton is equal to 25 per cent. This would mean a duty of two cents on every ten-cent magazine and five cents on every twenty-five cent magazine, assuming eight coats and twenty cents to be the wholesale prices.

Since it is thought right to impose $7 a ton duty on steel rails, it is equally right to impose a duty of two cents on a ten-cent and five cents on a twenty-five-cent magazine.

But there are greater reasons. Foreign magazines displace Canadian paper, Canadian printing, Canadian engraving and Canadian labor and cost the Canadian postoffice department hundreds of thousands of dollars annually for mail transmission and delivery, thus enabling foreign manufacturers to reach the fireside of many Canadian buyers and users of first importance and all at the expense of Canada and of Canadians.

Furthermore the presence in Canadian homes of these foreign products tends to injure Canadian patriotism and confidence, by fixing the minds of impressionable Canadians on the activities of the United States and other foreign fields.

Australia collects a duty of six cents a pound on all imported magazines containing more than fifteen per cent. of advertising. If Australia finds such a duty necessary, then the proximity of the United States to Canada makes it a greater necessity. —Canadian Magazine for October.

Tendencies of Thought.

Present tendencies of thought was the subject of a scholarly and eloquent address by Prof. Ten Broeke, Ph.D., on the occasion of the autumn convocation of McMaster University in Toronto. Avoiding the language of the schools, the lecturer made so interesting a survey of philosophical and religious thought in Germany, with lines running back to Kant, that he held the rapt attention to a large audience to his conclusion.

One of the manifestations of the spirit of the age, he began, was to be faithful to the whole experience, a desire to stand squarely on the actual facts of past and present experience. That arose primarily in the study of the natural sciences. Positivism had passed and systems of mathematics or natural laws had come to be regarded as symbols, methods of mapping out human knowledge. The result of physical science was to raise questions that could not be answered by physical science.

The lecturer spoke of the belief that faith passed knowledge and laid hold upon the unknown and spiritual. He sketched briefly the history of philosophy in the last century, emphasized the materialism of the latter portion of it and traced a transition as the work of Nitzschi, Ritschc and Hegel to the spiritual interpretation of life and a philosophical religion that found its highest expression in the experience of redemption.

THE SOURCE OF HEALTH

STRENGTH AND VITALITY IS THE FOOD SYSTEM.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

ENSURES PERFECT DIGESTION AND ASSIMILATION.

It matters little how much food you eat so long as the digestive system is not in condition to convert it into blood and nerve force.

When the nervous energy is consumed by disease or by excessive mental or physical exertion the nerves and muscles which control digestion are unable to do their work and the food is allowed to ferment and become a burden instead of a benefit to the system.

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD IS THE MOST RATIONAL TREATMENT FOR INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA THAT WAS EVER CONCEIVED.

By forming new blood and creating new nerve force it strengthens and invigorates the nerves and muscles which control the flow of gastric juices and the contracting motion of the stomach which is necessary to digestion.

It would be impossible for any treatment to go more directly to the cause of trouble.

While revitalizing and re-energizing the principal organ of digestion—the stomach—Dr. Chase's Nerve Food also sharpens the appetite, enlivens the action of the liver and has a gentle laxative effect on the bowels.

MRS. E. J. FORSYTH, 42 Elm street, Toronto, says:—"My trouble has been acute indigestion and severe attacks of headache, as well as nervousness, and at times spells of dizziness. After having thoroughly tested Dr. Chases' Nerve Food I can say that it has cured my stomach troubles, and, as a result, the other symptoms have also disappeared. I consider Dr. Chase's Nerve Food the best treatment for indigestion, as well as being a splendid general tonic."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

NEW ZEALAND SCENERY

NATURE HAS BEEN LAVISH IN GIFTS TO THE ISLAND COLONY.

Wonderful Beauties of a Country Where Man Has Done Much to Enhance the Enjoyment of Prodigal Natural Beauties—Snowclad Volcanoes—Lakes Lie on Mountain Tops—Anecdotal History and Mythological Traditions.

To no country in the world has nature been so prodigal of scenic gifts as to the Island of New Zealand, where man has done so much to enhance the enjoyment of prodigal natural bounties.

The south island boasts of a magnificent range, which includes the largest glacier outside the Arctic regions; fjords more wonderful than those of Norway, the unrivalled Otera and Buller gorges, the highest waterfall in the world and ice cold lakes. The north island prides itself on the largest geyser in the universe, marvellous boiling springs, hot lakes and extinct and active volcanoes, all in the Taupo zone, which gives its name to still another wonder, Lake Taupo, the island's inland sea.

Taupo Moana it is called by the Maoris, who have their principal strongholds close to its picturesque borders, and there are few localities so rich in general attractions as this lake, which is at an altitude of thirteen thousand feet above the sea level. It is twenty-five miles long by sixteen and one-half wide, and when a northwester blows across its depths of ninety fathoms the surface assumes the aspect of an angry sea.

The Maori Redoubt.

Taupo lies on the north shore of the lake, and for its chief attraction has an old Maori redoubt, situated on a high bank of the Waikato river and rich in memories of stirring events. Close by one frequently sees a Maori canoe paddled across the river, which here emerges from the clear lake and shapes its course in a rapid rush through rugged gorges and broad plains to the sea. The Waikato serves as a dividing line between the European settlement of Taupo town and the native village of Tapuae-Haruru on the heights, which in the war period of 1865-71 was fortified.

Looking across the lake toward the south the travelr can see at the back of Rotoairo the snowclad volcanoes of Tongariro, Ngauruhoe and Ruapehu. These peaks are invested with a drapery of ice and snow, and from their summits is a constant issue of sulphurous steam and smoke in clouds and spires. Until recently these mountains were held sacred by the Maoris, and on the altars of their snow capped craters and glacial recesses they offered homage to their deified ancestors.

Region Full of Interest.

The whole place teems with interest—history and mythological traditions of the tribal heroes. Every hill and glade, even the trees and flowers, have mystic association with demigods, elfs or demons, for the folk-lore of the Maoris is the richest in the world.

Half way across Taupo Moana is the forest-clad Island of Motutaiko, which in the past was the fortified stronghold of a mighty race, but which for many generations has been used as a tribal burying place.

On the northern shore, within a short distance of the township, is the extinct volcano of the Tauhara, rising into the air 8,600 feet, and now heavily wooded.

Clearly defined above all formations is a terrace which encircles the lake a hundred feet above the present level, showing that in olden times the waters of Taupo were that much higher than at the present day. The western shores of the lake are famed for the rhyolitic cliffs of Karangahape, which rise in a perpendicular precipice a thousand odd feet above sixty fathoms of water. There still exist many evidences that these cliffs were once used as a last refuge by natives fleeing from their enemies.

Region of Cave Dwellers.

Caves abound in Karangahape and all at one time or other served as living places for the Taupo natives, who were cave dwellers to a great extent. When giving evidence at the native land court of Taupo twenty years ago the old warrior Hitiri Te Paerata said:

"I was born in a cave at Kawakawa. At Waihaha there is a cave called Oruawaikaha belonging to two tribes. The chief and his father are buried there. At Karangahape Point is a cave which was used as a pa (fortress) and called Omumutu."

There are other interesting records of the same character, showing that these caves served as birth and death places and fortified abodes of the Maoris, who distinguished them by names, as they do houses and even trees.

Close to Karangahape cliffs is a native settlement, which numbers among its residents the old Chief Hitiri. Hitiri is a warrior of proud ancestry, the hero of many valiant battles. In 1864 he led the hopeless defence of Orakau pa, which fell to an overwhelming British force under General Cameron. Hitiri's father and other relations were killed, but he and his sister, who was wounded, escaped.

These sole survivors of the fight still entertain travelers with accounts of how they held the fort against tremendous odds, and finally succeeded in breaking through the line of military in their escape.

Taupo Lake.

An abiding charm of Taupo Lake is the diversity of its shores. Waterfalls, valleys, rapids, boiling springs and icy fountains lend variety to the western line, which is enhanced by fine stretches of primeval bush, in many places sloping down to the water.

In summer time the stately branches of the Christmas tree wave their gorgeous crimson above the clear blue waters of the lake. Along the eastern shore is a feast of flowers, all peculiar to the place. Groves of native evergreens are festooned with delicate lianas and in season beautified with the floss of the wild clematis. Then there is the yellow kowhai, which showers the lake and banks with a shawl of golden petals and which won the notice of Rudyard Kipling in a poem that recorded his visit to New Zealand.

Once a Volcano.

According to geographical data the lake of Taupo was once an immense volcano. A final touch of variety is lent to its remarkable surroundings by the stretches of pumice deposit which at intervals coat many miles of the country. This gray ejecta obtrudes its melancholy dullness on sylvan grove and forbidding cliff land alike, but seems to form an appropriate background for the picturesque Maori villages, where the dignified native pursues his mystic way in the heart of the thermal district, two hundred miles from the busy city of Auckland.

AS A PROPHET.

Sir Hugh Allan Says Trip From Victoria to Port Simpson Will Be the Most Popular in the World.

Pre-eminently interesting among the accounts of the recent trip of the Grand Trunk Pacific directors is that of Sir Hugh A. Allan, head of the Allan Steamship Company and only steamship expert on the directorate of the new railway, who went on the trip with a view of gathering information for the establishment by his company of an ocean and coast fleet in conjunction with the Grand Trunk Pacific.

"In the first place," said Sir Hugh Allan, "I must confess that I had no idea that there were such possibilities for both a coast and ocean service from Port Simpson or one of the adjoining harbors that will be chosen as the terminal of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

A Beautiful Trip.

"I am not optimistic when I say that the 500-mile trip from Victoria to Port Simpson is bound to become the most popular tourist trip in the world. I had seen many wonderful pieces of scenery and enjoyed most of the world's best-known tourist routes but nowhere have I seen anything that can compare with it. It is not a case of seeing one or two glaciers, but right along the trip the most beautiful snow-topped glaciers are ever in view, and all the while you are winding in and out of the most charming islands. Then there is always an opportunity of seeing large whales, something that is at any time worth a few days' trip.

Freight Possibilities.

"As regards the possibilities of freight traffic, the information that I have gathered show they are excellent both for a coast and ocean service. In the first place, the greater part of the salmon catch is gathered in up around the vicinity of Port Simpson and other likely ports, and a great part of this traffic can be diverted to the Grand Trunk Pacific. Besides, the halibut catch in the Skeena River, which is quite close to the proposed terminal, was this year almost double that of the famous Fraser River. There are also a number of other rivers, such as the Kitimat, all of which seems to be filled right up with fish. This traffic, as well as a great deal of the lumber trade, will, by following the most natural route, be brought to the Grand Trunk Pacific. A great deal might also be done in the whale trade, which so far has not been developed to any extent. If the whales are of the proper kind a tremendous business could be done.

"As regards the ocean traffic, the business done from Seattle, Vancouver, and Victoria is increasing so rapidly that with another transcontinental line in Canada and a Canadian fleet a much larger amount of Great Britain's trade to and from the Orient would be secured."

Splendid Harbor.

"What are the natural facilities of the harbors?"

"There are three or four naturally so splendidly equipped that they can be compared to the excellent port of Halifax. Right up into the harbors a depth of 50 fathoms can be secured, and the perfectly straight sides of the mountains leave little chance of any danger from rocks. There is certainly a splendid harbor at Port Simpson, but there is one almost equally as good lower down at Lima Rock and at a couple of other points."

"And the choice for the real terminal of the Grand Trunk Pacific?"

"That is a matter that will have to be decided rather from the land side than from the ocean side. As I said, a number are available, and the choice will depend on the pass in the Rocky Mountains through which it will be decided to run the Grand Trunk Pacific. Once the mountain pass is decided on the shortest and easiest route to the ocean will be taken, and at its end it will be found there is a good harbor close by."

Knox Church, Toronto.

Recently the trustees of Knox Church, Toronto, situated on the south side of Queen street, a little west of Yonge, have disposed of this historic property for commercial purposes for over $200,000. The size of the lot is 141 feet by 210 feet. This is an advance of $80,000 from an offer they received four years ago, and will enable them to build a new church between College and Bloor streets at a cost of $120,000.

Knox Church dates from 1844 and was the result of the disruption of the Scottish kirk. Rev. Dr. Burns of Paisley, Scotland, was the first pastor, filling the pastorate for eleven years until his appointment as professor of church history in Knox College. In 1847 the first building in which the congregation worshipped was destroyed by fire, after which the present imposing edifice was erected. The church was again damaged by fire a few years ago. Rev. Alexander Topp was appointed pastor in 1856. He was succeeded by Rev. Dr. Parsons, who was succeeded two or three years ago by Rev. A. B. Winchester.

Strange Myths of Thibetans.

Besides believing so fully in the powers of magic and necromancy, the Thibetans have numberless strange myths, one, the most curious, pertaining to the sun, moon and stars. The sun is believed to be an immense ball of yak-meat and fat, whereupon the spirits of departed ancestors are supposed to feast, the light being caused by its heated condition. The stars are portions of this immense feast which, dropping to earth, give birth to animals for the sustenance of suffering humanity. The moon is a lesser ball of similar texture as the sun, in use while the larger one is being replenished for the morrow. When sun or moon fails to appear in cloudy days and nights, it means that the deities are undergoing a period of fasting and religious abnegation. And the parched and sterile condition of bleak regions is ascribed to the fact that many thousand years ago the sun-ball slipped from the hands of its keepers, descended too near the earth, and, before being recaptured, scorched those parts with which it came in contact.

OUR VIKING QUEEN.

Alexandra Fit Mate for Monarch of Mistress of the Seas.

When the daughter of the King of Denmark came to English shores as a bride, Tennyson hailed her as one of a Viking race, and certainly both Queen Alexandra and all the members of the present Royal family love the sea. Any one who saw the youthful mother of the Prince of Wales for the first time would little associate her with "seafaring." And yet she finds the most congenial recreation yachting with her family in one of the numerous floating palaces, which are perpetually cruising about the seas. Princess Victoria, who has been very delicate at times, went off with her lady-in-waiting earlier in the season on a cruise along the British coast, and the Duke of York—Prince of Wales—is said never to be happier than when at sea, and his little sons are instructed in every branch of "sea lore." The Duchess of Fife does not spend so much of her time at sea as the other, but is a most expert angler, and is said to tramp long miles in pursuit of her favorite sport.

Queen Alexandra has never been a "sport," but she loves the sea, and always on her journeys to her native home takes the longest way round, that she may enjoy a holiday on the ocean. The King has ever delighted in yachting, and since his serious illnesses has always sought health and strength on a cruise in the Solent. One of a large firm of shipbuilders said the other day that this love of the sea in the Royal family had given a great impetus to the fashion among rich people for what to his trade meant good custom. "What the King does not know about the designing and sailing of ships is precious little, and the little sons of the Duke of York are already familiar with all the nautical terms used by yachtsmen." The Princess Henry of Battenburg and her children are forever taking short cruises along the British coast.

Australian Jokes.

Jennie—You are not married yet? Fannie—No, but I'm going to be. The young man who has been visiting me has been making inquiries behind my back if I know how to cook. —Melbourne Weekly Times.

"You say you won't marry me because I am bald, and because I make puns?" "Yes. If you were bald and didn't make puns, or if you made puns and were not bald, it would be different; but the fact that you are bald and still make puns convinces me that you are too old to reform." —Sydney Town and Country Journal.

"Your new maid appears to be rather refined." "Yes; she's a little out of the common. She never breaks anything but the costliest cut-glass and the choicest Dresden."—Melbourne Weekly Times.

What He Disliked.—"Do you like going to school, Johnny?" asked the visitor. "Yes, sir," answered the truthful urchin; "and I like coming home, too, but I don't like staying there between times."—Sydney Town and Country Journal.

Mistress—How is it, Mary, that whenever I enter the kitchen I always find a man there? Mary—I don't know, ma'am, unless it be them soft shoes ye wears.—Melbourne Weekly Times.

Outflanked.

Frederick the Great, the famous commander, sent to Dresden for Dr. Bayliss, an English physician, to introduce inoculation into his dominions. When the doctor arrived in Berlin the King did not forget to ask his favorite question:

"Well, doctor, how many have you despatched to the other world?"

"Not so many as you, sir," was the quick and witty retort.

The distracting headaches from which so many women suffer make life a daily purgatory. If men suffered with headache as women do, business would be almost at a standstill. Does not the fact that men do not suffer from these severe headaches suggest that there must be a womanly cause for them?

When the womanly organism is diseased, headache, backache, nervousness and sleeplessness are consequences which are sure to follow.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures headaches and other aches and pains by curing their cause. It establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It soothes pain and builds up the nerves. It transforms weak, sickly, nervous invalids into happy, healthy women. Thousands have testified to its marvelous merits.

"I took two bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and two of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and am feeling well," writes Mrs. Dan McKenzie, of Lowray Mines, Cape Breton Co., Nova Scotia. "I had uterine trouble, pain in the side and headache. After taking your medicines I got well. You may publish this or use it in any way you think best, as I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Pierce and his medicines."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

VARSITY WON FROM PETERBORO'

In an Interesting Game of Rugby on Saturday

The Score was 14-6—Varsity's Strong Back Division Won the Game—Locals put up Good Game.

About two hundred people saw the crack Varsity rugby football team, of Toronto, champions of Intercollegiate Union, defeat the locals at the Driving Park on Saturday afternoon, and those present certainly got their money's worth, as both teams put up a stubborn contest. The game throughout was replete with sensational runs and good punting. There was a stiff south-west wind blowing and the team kicking towards the north consequently had the advantage, but otherwise the day was an ideal one for rugby, and though coat-collars were turned heaven-ward, the onlookers enjoyed the play to the fullest extent.

Varsity had some of the well-known stars of the rugby world on their line-up, such as the locals' old reliable, McPherson, Lang, Jermyn, Kennedy, and several others, while "Casey" Baldwin was an interested spectator throughout the game from the side-line. Varsity outclassed the locals on the back division, while the Peterboroughs more than held their own on the wing line and frequently broke through. The following up of both wing lines was superb, while in scrimmage the teams were about even, though Hurtubise did move the bunch his way several times.

Chris Graham was playing quarter and showed the spectators that his little rest had not marred his ability to play the position as well as ever. Ford at centre half (during the first half) did some great kicking but was unfortunate several times in securing the passes and consequently had to hold the ball, whereas if he could have kicked, ground would have been gained. He was unfortunately injured and had to retire at half-time, Shaw taking his place at centre half, and Mulhern, a junior, took his place at back and put up a good game. Capt. Crowley at right half was in the game all the time and made some pretty runs around the ends, but was brought down before he got over the line. Rickey and Meagher played left half during the first and second half of the game respectively, and both did good work, the latter making the longest run of the day, going right through the whole Varsity line and secured a try, which Shaw failed to convert.

On the wing line the boys held their men and did some great tackling. Shaw is certainly a find, and held his own with the best on the field, his punting being a feature of the game.

It is needless to say much about the Varsity team as they are all "good ones", a poor player being hard to find on their line-up. Kennedy at centre half is playing a great game this year, and made some nice runs, but was tackled too effectively to do much damage. He is a good punter and is a heady player.

McPherson is as good as he ever was—which is nearly "nough sed." Mac worked in a few of his famous long runs and was easily the best punter on the field. McKay also put up a good game. Laing at back did not have much to do as the locals seldom got to his territory, but he was always there with the goods when necessary.

The line-up was as follows:—

Varsity.—Back, Laing; right half, McKay; centre, Kennedy; quarter, Nicholl; snap back, lash outside wings, Jermyn and Powers; middle wings, Bonnell and Ross; inside wings, Burwell and Davidson.

Peterborough.—Back, Ford, Mulhern; right half, Crowley; left half, Rickey and Meagher; centre half, Shaw; quarter, Graham; outside wings, Cameron and Gilbert; middle wings, Meagher and M. McDonald; inside wings, Hurtubise and Green; snap back, Burnham.

Varsity had the better of the play throughout the first half and secured a good lead. Two ties which were not converted, a kick over the dead line and a rouge gave the students 12 points, while the locals got one on a punt over the line.

In the second half, the locals did better securing a touch-down, which was not converted, while the Collegians got two points on a rouge and kick over the line, leaving the score 14-6.

The turnout of spectators was small on Saturday. The public is certainly not encouraging the team as it should. The boys were under a great expense in bringing the Varsity team down here on Saturday and there was not a sufficient crowd present to meet expenses.

RUGBY.

The Argonauts' victory over the Torontos on Saturday put a decidedly different complexion upon the rugby situation in this district and materially improved the position of the locals. The Peterboroughs have two games to play and a victory in both will mean the district championship. The boys must win from the Torontos here next Saturday to stay in the running. A victory for the locals in this game and a defeat for them in Toronto against the Argonauts will mean that the three teams will be tied. Should Peterborough lose to the Torontos, the result of the Argonauts-Peterborough game will be of no account in determining the championship which will go to the Torontos.

• • • •

The reversal of form shown by the Argos on Saturday should be an inspiration to the locals. Two weeks ago the Torontos put it all over the Argos as they did to the Peterboroughs a week ago and it would not be so surprising to see the locals turn the tables next week in much the same manner as the Scullers did on Saturday.

• • • •

The rugby boys will practise on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights and Thursday afternoon of this week in preparation for Saturday's game.

• • • •

It was cheering to the rugby enthusiast to see Chris Graham in the game again on Saturday. Chris is one of the best quarter-backs in the business and as a tackler cannot be beaten. He will greatly strengthen the team.

• • • •

The Tigers didn't do a thing to the Victorias on Saturday in Hamilton beating them by 50 to 2.

• • • •

Queens beat McGill in Kingston by 13-5 on Saturday. Harry Rogers, son of Mr. R. R. Rogers, of town, figured on McGill wing line.

• • • •

Toronto Telegram—As predicted some time ago, Peterborough is not likely to stay out of hockey. The loss of a couple of players to a good hockey town like Strattonville is a mere nothing. They grow hockey players down there, and always have them on hand.

"VELMA" WILLING TO RACE BLACK MACK

H. A. Cook Will run Matched Race with Elmhurst.

H. A. Cook, owner of the little pacing mare, Velma, writes to the Examiner as follows:—

"I am informed that the owners of the pacer, Black Mack, are desirous of making a match race with the little bay pacing mare Velma. I will match Velma against Black Mack for any amount—$100 to $500, mile heats, best 3 in 5 on any good half mile track at any time within 30 days or on the ice.

BURNS WON THE RACE.

Defeated Harrison on Saturday After noon in Fast Time.

Burns won the handicap five mile foot race from Harrison on Saturday afternoon in what proved to be a splendid contest. Harrison was given one minute handicap and when Burns started off, from the corner of George and Hunter streets the former was at the George Street church. Burns by splendid running caught Harrison at the half way post. Harrison set the pace on the return run and at the Y.M.C.A. both sprinted with Burns in the lead. Burns won by about 25 yards in a fine finish. The time of 29 minutes was good considering the very unfavourable condition of the roads. The race was for a cup presented by Mr. J. Kendry.

SPRINTING

Mr. G. R. Harrison challenges Mr. A. J. Burns to a five mile handicap road race to be run on the Lakefield road, finishing on the Driving Park track on Saturday, Oct. 29th, providing the roads are in fair condition.

• • •

At the Driving Park on Saturday afternoon Herman Davidson of the west end of the town defeated James Holland, a representative of the South end in a half mile foot race. Davidson won handily by about 100 yards. The race was witnessed by quite a large number of spectators. Davidson ran a splendid race and has all the earmarks of a comer. He has a nice stride with plenty of speed and durability and will be heard of again in the sprinting world.

BASEBALL

The Toronto Star of Saturday, contained a good half-tone cut of the Lindsay Baseball team, winners of the Midland League. The Star says that during the Midland League season, Lindsay scored 61 runs to their opponents' 30, winning 9 games and losing 2.

A Peterborough Merchant.

One of Peterborough's busiest merchants said the other day when giving his order for the "Stoddard Lectures," that he bought them as a safety valve from the fret and worry of his business. He said he didn't read much, hadn't time to read novels, and got too tired to read heavy literature, but that he could pick up a volume of "Stoddard," and begin on any one of the lectures and be interested right from the start, and sufficiently interested to forget the things that had been fretting him during the day; and at the same time he was not obliged to read the whole thirteen volumes through in order or even one of them. It was what he called a pick up book, and, as such, just the safety valve that he needed as a busy man.

TOOK PARIS GREEN TO END HER LIFE

Mrs. Anne Feitch Poisoned Herself in a Fit of Temporary Insanity.

Had Been in Good Health and Apparent Happiness—Died Within 6 Hours After Taking the Poison—No Inquest Necessary.

Mrs. Anne Feitch died at 12.30 o'clock last night as a result of taking a dose of paris green. The course of such a rash act can only be attributed to a fit of temporary insanity as the deceased woman had been living peaceably and apparently in happiness up to the hour of her taking the poison, which had fatal results. About six o'clock she left the house of her sister, Mrs. Koviliske, who lives at the corner of Dublin and Donegal sts. and with whom the deceased had been living and went to a friend's house on Downie street, where she was taken suddenly ill with strong symptoms of being poisoned. Medical aid was at once summoned, Dr. Greer being the attending physician. She was in an unconscious condition when he arrived. The ambulance conveyed her to Mrs. Koviliske's house, corner of Donegal and Dublin streets, and everything possible was done for her recovery, but all efforts were useless, she partly regained consciousness before her death, which occurred at 12.30 o'clock.

Paris Green was found in the house and it is the supposition that she took the poison before leaving the house and that its effects were not felt until she reached the house of her neighbor on Downie street.

Coroner Grey did not deem an inquest necessary.

The late Mrs. Feitch was born in England, where her parents and two sons are now living. Her husband predeceased her by several years. Her only relative in this country was Mrs. Koviliske, with whom she had been living. She came to Peterborough from England about two years ago.

The funeral will take place from the corner of Dublin and Donegal streets at eight o'clock to-morrow morning and proceed to St. Peter's Cathedral, thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

EPWORTH LEAGUE'S SPLENDID MEETING

George St. Young People Spend Delightful Literary Evening.

The Epworth League of George Street Church have earned the reputation of providing delightful Literary evenings, and that which took place last night added another to this series of interesting and profitable meetings. The subject for the evening was the "Poet Browning" taken by Miss Weir, B.A., of the Collegiate Institute staff. Miss Weir dealt with her most difficult subject in a delightful manner after a short sketch of the character and style of the poet Miss Weir read in most pleasing way a number of the shorter poems illustrative of the mind and character of the poet, and succeeded in creating in the minds of her hearers a desire to know more of the works of Browning.

Preceeding the lecture Miss Clara Belleghem was heard in a beautiful vocal solo given in her usual delightful manner, and at the conclusion of Miss Weir's talk, Miss Maude Crothers contributed the violin solo, the Intermezzo from the Cavalleria Rusticana in most pleasing style. Miss Wilhelmina Gumpright, and Miss Crothers acted as accompanists.

PRETTY CATHEDRAL WEDDING TO-DAY

Miss Ellen Devlin Married to Mr. Thos. McMurray.

A pretty wedding was that performed in St. Peter's Cathedral by Rev. Father Galvin, this morning, when Miss Ellen Devlin, daughter of Mr. Roger Devlin, was married to Mr. Thomas McMurray, Douro. The wedding march was played by Miss Doherty as the bridal party entered the Cathedral and during the ceremony a number of instrumental numbers were also played by Miss Doherty. The bride, who was very becomingly attired in white was attended by Miss Maggie McMartin, of Otonabee, while Mr. Francis Lahay, of Douro, assisted the groom. After the wedding the party drove to the residence of the bride's father, Otonabee, where a delightful wedding breakfast was served; after which the newly-married couple returned to town to their residence, Wescott street, where they will live in future.

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Mr. W. S. Hutchinson and Miss Margaret Storer, in Toronto.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. Alex. Storer, 337 Huron street, Toronto, on Wednesday, October 19th, when the Rev. Dr. McTavish of Central Presbyterian Church, married Miss Margaret Storer only daughter of Mr. J. Storer, of Durham street, Lindsay, to Mr. W. S. Hutchinson, of Peterborough. The bridesmaids were Miss Charlotte E. Hutchinson, sister of the groom and Miss Hattie Higginbotham, Lindsay. The bride was given away by her father. The groom was attended by Messrs. Arthur and Charles Storer. The flower girls, Misses Olive and Jean Storer, attired in cream silk and carried white carnations. The bride was attired in a seal brown travelling suit and the bridesmaids in crepe de chene with trimmings of chiffon. The groom's gift to the bride was a black marble clock, to the bridesmaids broaches Fleur de lis in pearls; to the maids of honour maple leaf pins in gold. The happy couple left on the 11.45 train for Niagara Falls. On returning they will take up residence in Lindsay.

Information.

The information in the Stoddard lectures is of the most practical and helpful character. If, when we meet our fellows in society, we would be, or even seem to be, well informed, we must know something about the world we live in, its society, its buildings, its people, its institutions, its art, its history, and its present life, and that is just the information these lectures give us. A man who has mastered what Mr. Stoddard tells us about Paris or Berlin will not feel ashamed to hear either of those cities mentioned in his presence. He knows, and he will know that he knows, as much about the subject under discussion as the other fellow, and perhaps a good deal more; for, as a man said to me the other day, "If I were to go to Europe I could bring back only what my mental tonnage was capable of freighting, but by reading Stoddard I can use all that he has brought back, which is infinitely more than I could bring."

SEVEN YEARS IN PENITENTIARY.

Judge Weller Imposes Heavy Sentence on Joe Thompson.

Convicted of Stealing and of Carrying a Dangerous Explosive—A Bad Record.

"You are sentenced to seven years in Kingston Penitentiary", was the verdict of His Honour Judge Weller at the County Judge's Criminal Court yesterday afternoon in the case of Joseph Thompson, alias Murphy.

Thompson was rather taken back at the lengthy period of sentence, but said not a word, evidently recognized that his conduct had been such as to deserve a heavy punishment.

It will be remembered that on September 16, a burglar entered the house of Mr. L. A. Bailey, Aylmer street, and after ransacking the place, putting on a suit of clothes and appropriating some small coins, he imbibed too freely of some whiskey, which was in the house for medicinal purposes and as he had previously been indulging in spirits, the effect was too great and he was found lying in an unconscious state. A loaded revolver and a bottle of nitro-glycerine with fuses and caps were found on his person.

He appeared before the judge on two charges, that of stealing and of carrying a dangerous explosive, nitro-glycerine. He had no one to defend him and the evidence was so conclusive that he was convicted on both charges.

Thompson is certainly a desperate character as his past record is greatly against him. He has twice been convicted of stealing, in 1899 for which he served a term of 18 months in Central Prison. Detective Blank, of Toronto, was present at yesterday's court and he stated that Thompson's character was not good and that he was under the eye of the police.

Thompson had practically no defence to make. He had no recollection of entering Bailey's house and believed he was taken there while drunk and that the suit of clothes had been put on him.

The judge combined the two sentences in one, making seven years the term for both.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For years I enjoyed the best of health and thought that I would always do so. I attended parties and receptions thinly clad, and would be suddenly chilled, but I did not think of the results. I caught a bad cold eighteen months ago while menstruating, and this caused inflammation of the womb and congested ovaries. I suffered excruciating pains and kept getting worse. My attention was called to your Vegetable Compound and the wonderful cures it had performed, and I made up my mind to try it for two months and see what it would do for me. Within one month I felt much better, and at the close of the second I was entirely well.

"I have advised a number of my lady friends to use it, and all express themselves as well satisfied with the results as I was."—MISS ROSE NORA HENNESSY, 410 S. Broadway, Lexington, Ky. — $5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

G. T. P. AND ITS BENEFIT.

The question now before the country is the wisdom of constructing a new transcontinental railway, to serve the growing needs of transportation, and to develop a new Canada, out of our now waste and inaccessible areas of forest, mining and wheat lands.

The issue is not government ownership and operation. While Sir Wilfrid Laurier says the Government must stand or fall upon the Grand Trunk Pacific, Mr. Borden has not committed himself or his party to a straight out, definite platform of government ownership. He has befogged the situation, as far as his efforts availed, by advising a quarter of a score of different schemes and plans. On the question of public ownership he has juggled with words, to give this impression to his hearers, but of definite, straight out declaration of government ownership and operation, who can find a word in all his speeches on the subject? The most he is doing is to kill the project which is of such urgent and great importance to the country.

In view of this it may be well to treat of one phase of the question, to show the immediate and concurrent advantages of its construction. Nobody denies the necessity of such a railway across the continent. Mr. Blair himself has strongly said so, and the Boards of Trade from Halifax to Calgary, have said the same thing. The only difference is as to the mode of doing the work, and we will have difference of opinion on that forever. If you wait until there is unanimity of opinion upon this point, we shall never have a railway. The only way to build the railway is to do it — to go to work vigorously, as the Government is doing.

Taking its desirability, and immense benefit to national growth and development, as granted, what are the advantages to the community concurrently with construction?

The Conservative papers have said that the construction of the road will not be of any benefit to the farmers and artisans of Ontario and Quebec—the work will not be worth to them as much as "the digging of a municipal drain." Now for a few facts. An expert authority has given an estimate:—

The road between Moncton and Winnipeg, 1875 miles long, will traverse a wooded region intersected by numerous streams and rivers. The cost of grading alone will probably reach in most parts $22,000 per mile. An engineer of high standing estimates that on a thirty mile stretch through average country, it would be necessary in order to complete the grading, within one year, to employ the following force: Foreman, 25; navvies, 200; teams, 55; locomotives, 4; steam shovels, 4.

It is not easy to calculate the quantities of food and other material that would be consumed. Much depends on the distance from the base of operations and on the nature of the country to be traversed. The following figures for timber are believed to be approximately accurate: Ties, (including sidings, at 2000 per mile,) 800,000; Culvert timber, 90,000 f.m. ft.; bridge timber, 2,400,00 ft. b.m.

This is for the stretch of 30 miles. The timber and ties will, of course, be procured from points adjacent to the line of railway and the work will furnish employment for a considerable number of men not included in the 200 navvies. The rails, bolts, etc., will be supplied from Canadian mills, each mile requiring about 120 tons of rails, or 3,600 tons for the 30 miles. Wages may be put down at $1.75 per day for each navvy with something extra for foreman. Teams will probably be paid $3 each per day. The cost of feeding men and horses is another heavy item. Perhaps $4 per week would be the minimum cost of boarding each man and the same for feeding each team. The farmers in the neighbourhood will supply the oats, hay, potatoes, mixed vegetables, fresh beef, pork, butter, etc., while those in the older parts will raise the produce transformed into canned stuff of various kinds.

The aggregate amount paid for these articles for each 30 miles will not fall far short of $85,000. The powder and other incidentals will also come to something, while the manufacture of the shovels, picks and other tools will give employment to a good many Canadian mills and mechanics. In addition to all this, there will be the clothing for the men, together with tobacco and other sundries, waggons and harness for the horses and what not.

As there will be over sixty 30-mile sections between Quebec and Winnipeg the reader will see that it would take a huge number of "municipal drains" to do as much for the farmer and manufacturer as the G. T.P. will do.

And the construction of this road will have an important bearing upon the success of a new Peterborough industry, now being launched to be ready for the demand the building of the transcontinental will create. Reference is made to the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company — shovels, spades, picks, etc., a new industry for Peterborough and the second one of its kind in Canada.

Some idea of the demand which the construction of the Transcontinental will create for the products of this industry may be formed from the fact that the existing railways of the country, nearly 20,000 miles, demand large supplies of shovels every year. The C.P.R. line which passes through the town requires and uses 1,200 shovels per hundred miles in track repair work every year. Multiply that by 20,000 the round number of miles of railway in operation and we have an approximate number of 240,000 shovels required every year. The prospects of the new shovel industry will therefor be bright, and they will be improved by the addition of nearly 4,000 miles representing a demand of nearly 50,000 more shovels per year.

And the new shovel factory, with its companion industry, will have the full home market to themselves. The promoters believe that the existing tariff, combined with the anti-dumping legislation, will secure them the market. This new industry, established under Liberal rule, which has seen the birth of so many new industries in Peterborough, and elsewhere, is it nothing to the work men and consumers? Its modest beginnings only forecast a necessarily large expansion in the years to come, and the new transcontinental railway will give it a big lift, and Peterborough is getting a direct benefit in the very beginning.

Not only will the construction of the line gives a stimulus to every industry in Canada, but its operation by connecting the broad network of the Grand Trunk with the Northwest, will develop a trade that will exercise a beneficial and stimulating influence upon every branch of manufacture and commerce. We want a larger home market, and we can only have it by the development and settlement of our new country, and we must do this by providing adequate transportation facilities, of which the Grand Trunk Pacific represents the most important.

LAURIER THE IDOL

Montreal's Loyal and Affectionate Greeting to Premier

FORMER EFFORTS OUTDONE

Thronging Crowds Everywhere Acclaim Him—An Immense Crowd at People Lined the Streets For Two Miles—10,000 At Sohmer Park—Thousands Stood Patiently Waiting to Hear Prime Minister.

Montreal, Oct. 25.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier last night invited Mr. Blair's friends to come out with the bombshell that he had heard they had threatened to throw into the Liberal camp. It had been said that the crash was to come in a few days. Well, he for one did not like insinuations—insinuations of scandalous revelations. It would be better for them to come out and give them to the public, so that they might be refuted. This challenge was made in the midst of great enthusiasm at a monster meeting held in the Monument National. The occasion was but one incident of a remarkable demonstration in which a vast multitude took part. It is impossible to estimate the number of citizens that turned out last evening to greet the Premier. The demonstration began when the Canada Atlantic train arrived from Ottawa with Sir Wilfrid aboard. An immense crowd of people surged in and around Bonaventure Station, lined the streets for two miles and increased to a greater concourse in the vicinity of the Monument National, and ended in a compact mass of ten thousand at Sohmer Park, with thousands of citizens and processionists in the streets outside unable to get within hearing distance of the Premier. The people of Ontario may form some idea of the esteem in which Sir Wilfrid is held by his fellow-countrymen by imagining a crowd standing en bloc from 8 until after 10 waiting patiently without any entertainment for his appearance. No seats were provided, for the structure is in the shape of a vast pavilion with entrances on all sides. Into this open space the people crowded, and although they had to stand for two hours before the Chairman took his seat, they remained there until the chief speaker had said his last word. Meantime a similar scene was progressing at the Monument National, a hall that seats a little more than two thousand. This accommodation was altogether inadequate for the great throng that had gathered in the streets, and, notwithstanding the two meetings, it is safe to say that not one-tenth of the number that turned out to greet the Premier were able to get near enough to hear his voice.

Sir Wilfrid's Speech.

Hon. Raymond Prefontaine was Chairman. He introduced the Premier, who received an ovation that lasted for some minutes on rising, in a few words.

Sir Wilfrid began by saying that after his tour of Ontario he did not think that the demonstrations there could be equalled, but he was forced to admit that he still had some friends in Montreal. (Applause.) Everywhere he had been well received, and that was the best evidence of the result on November 3. There was every reason for victory. There was no outlook for a change of Government, even if he added that he did not wish his hearers to think he was acting the prophet; he would leave that to Sir Charles Tupper, and the present leader of the Opposition. But it was needless for anyone to question the result. It could be felt on all sides. It was in the atmosphere, it was everywhere. Sir Wilfrid here reviewed the record of the Government and challenged anyone to find a trace of scandal. There was not a Canadian in the land who was not prouder to-day of being a Canadian than that same Canadian was in 1896. He did not mean to say that they could have more love for their country, but they were evidently all prouder of it. This applied as well to English-speaking as to French-speaking Canadians. The British preference had helped to bring this about, even if the Conservatives condemned it in Quebec and supported it in Ontario. Sir Wilfrid spoke of the difficulties that often beset him, but he was glad to say that the people of Canada had stood by him. "It is true," he added, "that my fellow-countrymen of the Province of Quebec have given me an almost unanimous support; but, thank God, I have never appealed to their prejudices. I look for a victory on November 3, and, although the task is sometimes hard, and I am no longer young, I shall, if the people so wish it, continue to do my duty. (Loud and continued applause.)

"I have heard it said," concluded Sir Wilfrid, "since coming to Montreal that a bomb is threatened to be thrown into the Liberal camp, and that revelations of a scandalous nature are promised. Well, I am not a lover of insinuations. I should say, give them to the public, so that they may be refuted. I here invite them to come out with their accusations at once."

2,000 At Alexandria.

Alexandria, Oct. 25.—Yesterday afternoon Sir Wilfrid Laurier addressed 3,000 people here. The town was gaily decorated, and the enthusiasm was of so fervent a character that victory for the Liberal candidate in this riding is insured. Sir Wilfrid touched on all the topics of the day in his trenchant and eloquent manner.

Mr. Blair's Statement.

Ottawa, Oct. 25.—Mr. Blair will probably retain his office as Chairman of the Railway Commission for the next couple of weeks, and is now devoting himself to the task of wiping off arrears. He does not wish to embarrass the Government, and has had no idea of doing so from the first. When shown the report that he intended to recall his resignation, Mr. Blair said: "I have not withdrawn my resignation as Chairman of the Railway Commission, nor do I intend to, and I have authorized no one to make a statement to that effect."

PARK STREET PASTOR'S RETURN

Rev. A. H. Brace Again Occupys His Own Pulpit.

Rev. A. H. Brace occupied his own pulpit in the Park Street Baptist Church Sunday after an absence of two weeks. Large congregations gathered to welcome him.

The last week was spent at the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec, which suggested the morning text, "They went everywhere Preaching the Word." He gave particulars of the year's work and many interesting incidents and facts, also the outline of a sermon preached on salvation of children and their reception into the fellowship of the church by pastor Bennet of Hamilton, whose sermon captivated the convention and was received with applause.

The outline was inspiring and helpful. Further echoes of the convention will be heard on Wednesday night.

TREATMENT OF PILES

Permanence of Cure the True Test

Many so-called pile remedies will afford the users slight temporary relief, and the majority of those afflicted do not expect more than this.

The average sufferer, after having tried every preparation recommended for the cure of piles, comes to the conclusion that there is no cure except by an operation, and rather than undergo this "last resort" he suffers on, resigned to the situation, so far as maybe. The attention of those interested is invited to the following experience.

"After ten years of suffering from blind, bleeding and protruding piles, and after using every remedy I could hear of without any benefit, I finally bought a fifty cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure, and used it with such good results I bought next a dollar box, which finished up the job. That was nearly six years ago, and as far as piles is concerned I am cured, and have never felt a symptom of them since.

"Many others have used this remedy by my advice, with the same results, and I always recommend it to suffers with piles." C. H. Potts, Burlington, Kans.

Testimony like this should convince the most skeptical the Pyramid Pile Cure not only cures, but cures to stay cured. It is in the form of a suppository, can be applied in the privacy of the home, directly to the parts affected, and does its work quickly and painlessly.

Druggists generally sell this famous remedy for fifty cents a package and sufferers are urged to buy a package now and give it a trial to-night. Accept no substitute.

A little book describing the causes and cure of piles is published by the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich. and same will be sent free to any address for the asking.

POLITICS IN A NUTSHELL.

Sir Richard Cartwright has returned to Ottawa from the West.

The Liberal candidate in Dorchester County, Que., against Mr. Morin, ex-M.P., will be Dr. Vaillancourt of St. Anselme.

The resignation of James Conmee as member of the Legislature for Fort Arthur has reached the hands of Speaker Charlton.

It is said that one Conservative and one Liberal will be allowed to be elected by acclamation in the Province of Quebec, J. B. Morin in Dorchester and Armand Lavergne in Montmagny.

Good Digestion.

If you can keep your digestive system in proper condition the body will be well nourished and you need have little fear of disease. By regulating the kidneys, liver and bowels Dr. Chase's Liver-Kidney Pills ensure a healthful condition of the organs of digestion and for this reason are indispensable as a family medicine.

Platonic Friendship.

"It is worse than wicked, it's vulgar," says Miss Hulda Friedorichs, "to pretend that friendship between a man and a woman must of necessity develop into an intrigue or a love affair. Men and women, whose interests in life centre round ever so many things of which what is generally called love may or may no longer be one, are just made to be good friends, the manly views on the one hand and the womanly views on the other making up the elements which go towards all that is best in friendship, and adding a sort of constant piquancy to intercourse which must naturally be lacking in intimate friendship between two people of the same sex, be they men or women."

LIVER COMPLAINT.

"Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills Cure All Liver Ills." Easy to Take. Always Effectual. They Cure in Nature's Way.

A celebrated English authority once said, "The liver is the direct cause of nine-tenths of the ills that flesh is heir to." It is the largest gland in the body, and naturally has a great deal of work to do, for the reason that through its cells and tissues the blood must pass many times every hour. Now suppose its functions should become impaired or interfered with. You know you would have pains or uneasiness in the right side, or a dull aching under the shoulder blade. The complexion would become sallow or yellowish, your appetite would be impaired, your bowels inactive, while headaches, dizziness and bad feelings would be your daily experience. In these cases relief that is speedy and full is always afforded by the use of Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills, which are a marvelous success in curing all forms of liver complaint, including biliousness and jaundice. Taken as directed they always restore an inactive and torpid liver to healthy action, regulate the bowels and cleanse the blood of impurities. A week's use of Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills by a bilious or constipated person will elevate the spirits and again make life really worth living. They are invaluable for all stomach and bowel troubles, and they always cure sick headache, constipation and biliousness in one night. 25 cents at all dealers.

BRITAIN TO RUSSIA

"Situation is One Which Does Not Brook Delay."

RUSSIA EXPRESSES REGRET

No Apology Yet, Pending Receipt of the Official Report of the Crazed Admiral Rojestvensky—Russian Ambassador Badly Treated—King Alludes to Attack As "An Unwarrantable Action."

London, Oct. 25.—Great Britain yesterday sent a long and urgent note to the Russian Government officially detailing the circumstances of the amazing and unexplained attack by the Russian Pacific squadron during the night of Oct. 21, on British fishing boats in the North Sea. The text of the note has not been given out, but it is officially stated from the Foreign Office that it contains the significant announcement "that the situation is one which in the opinion of His Majesty's Government does not brook delay."

Meanwhile the conservative public and press are remarkably undemonstrative. As usual, the jingo element demands war, and even in official quarters some go so far as to say that it may be necessary to stop the Pacific fleet, pending settlement of the whole affair, though this extreme measure, it is believed, will not be necessary. Everywhere there is evidence of the positive opinion that this is not the time for the usual diplomatic dilly-dallying, that there must be no delay, and no limit set by Russia to her apology, or the extent of compensation for sufferers by what King Edward himself terms "the unwarrantable action" of the Baltic squadron commanders.

Deep Resentment of People.

The deep resentment of the whole British public, however, was reflected by the incident at Victoria Station last night on the arrival of Count Benckendorff from the continent. The Count barely escaped assault from a crowd at the Victoria Station, which followed him almost to the Embassy. A special force of police was compelled to guard it all night. There is no attempt anywhere among men of responsibility to magnify the occurrence into a deliberate act of war; but in view of the present inability to find an explanation, there is being poured upon the heads of the officers of the squadron a flood of invective and insinuation, though incompetence first, and thereafter complete panic is the most generally accepted explanation.

Thus far no official word has been received from St. Petersburg as to the attitude of the Russian Government. The fact that it had been decided during the day to prepare a semi-official note expressing the regret of the Russian Government and its willingness to make full reparation so soon as the responsibility is fixed, was communicated by the Associated Press to Lord Lansdowne, and was the first information on the subject he had received from St. Petersburg.

Cause of Delay.

The absence during the day of Count Benckendorff, the Russian Ambassador, necessarily caused some delay; but the Russian charge d'affaires, who called at the Foreign Office on request by note from Lord Lansdowne, unofficially expressed deep regret and, as far as it was possible for him to go, gave assurance of speedy action by the Russian Government. Lord Lansdowne, in this interview, told M. Sansonoff, the charge d'affaires, that he desired to see Ambassador Benckendorff Tuesday morning. Lord Lansdowne asked M. Sansonoff if he could offer any explanation of the affair, and the latter replied that he only knew what appeared in the papers, and that he had not received any word up to that time from St. Petersburg. Lord Lansdowne gave no suggestion as to what might be done in the matter.

At the Russian Embassy it was stated "that the whole affair was so obviously a mistake, from whatever cause, that Russia's course was plainly dictated, namely, apology and ample compensation."

All eyes are now turned toward St. Petersburg, awaiting word from the Russian Government.

No Russian Apology Yet.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 25.—No official or unofficial Russian explanation of the unfortunate affair off Dogger Bank was forthcoming up to midnight, and the world must wait until to-day to hear Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky's version of the firing upon the British fishermen. Rojestvensky has communicated direct to the Emperor, but at 11.30 o'clock last night the Admiralty announced that it had not yet received a report. At the same hour the Foreign Office issued a statement, expressing the regrets of the Government for the deplorable incident, but explaining that no formal action is possible until Admiral Rojestvensky's official report of the affair has been received.

Deep Regret Expressed.

While no official action has been taken, the deepest regret is expressed in all quarters, and the purpose of the Government to make amends if Rojestvensky shall be found to have been in fault has been proclaimed in every Government department. Emperor Nicholas himself was greatly aggrieved when he heard the news while he was inspecting the cruiser Oleg at Cronstadt yesterday afternoon; and Foreign Minister Lamsdorff expressed to Ambassador Hardinge his deepest personal regrets.

The Russian Embassy at London has also been directed to convey similar expressions to the Government of Great Britain. It is felt that this is all that can possibly be done pending the receipt of Admiral Rojestvensky's statement.

That a horrible blunder has been committed is recognized and deplored everywhere and nowhere has an attempt been made to justify the firing upon innocent fishermen.

Gave Him a Chance.

It is felt that Rojestvensky is too good a man and officer to be summarily condemned. It is agreed that he is entitled to a hearing, but even the Admiralty repeatedly admits that it is at a loss to understand what explanation could justify such an apparently cold-blooded act as the attack is made to appear by foreign reports. It developed during the day that the Admiralty had strong reason to believe that an attempt would be made against the squadron during its passage through Great Belt or the English Channel. So specific was the information that even the present crisis has not diverted attention from the possibility of such an attack yet occurring.

The failure of the steam trawlers with their nets to obey the signals from the Russian warships or the nervousness of some officer who imagined that fishermen working with their nets in the water were laying mines may be responsible for the blunder. As soon as the facts are established it is certain that the Russian Government will voluntarily offer the fullest reparation.

Rojestvensky Crazy.

Paris, Oct. 25.—The Matin's Cherbourg correspondent reports that he interviewed the commander of the Russian torpedo flotilla which left that port Monday, who said that during Sunday night a wireless message from Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky had been received as follows:

"Redouble precautions and vigilance. Enemy signalled in channel."

Only One Trawler Sunk.

London, Oct. 25.—The actual casualties during the one-sided Russian bombardment of Dogger Bank can be correctly stated since the arrival at London last evening of the carrying ship Swift, reporting the safety of the missing trawlers. The Swift left the fleet at 10 a.m. on Oct. 23. Her captain says:

"The Russians gave not the slightest warning prior to the commencement of the firing. The admiral of the fishing fleet sent up a rocket warning them and then the firing commenced. He again sent up four green rockets, but this only seemed to increase the ferocity of the bombardment. The poor markmanship of the Russian gunners was the only thing that saved the entire fleet within range of the searchlights and guns. The Russians were only 150 yards from us at the time. The Swift was slightly damaged."

At the inquest at Hull yesterday it was stated that one vessel, the Crane, was sunk, and that four or five were more or less damaged.

In the statement of the coroner to the jury, that official said it was a question of very grave and possibly international importance; but it would be their duty to find who were the murderers of the dead men. After the identification of the bodies the inquest was adjourned to Nov. 2.

King Edward has sent to the Mayor of Hull $1,000 as his donation for the families of the victims of the North Sea firing.

Premier Balfour has telegraphed the Mayor of Hull as follows:

"Your telegram received. You may have full confidence in the Government's action."

Butchers At Cherbourg.

Cherbourg, France, Oct. 25.—The advance guard of the Russian second Pacific squadron, consisting of torpedo boats, is in the outer harbor. The main squadron is expected here, but it is not yet certain whether the warships will enter the harbor. The vessels which first arrived were not with the larger ships when the latter fired on the British fishing boats in the North Sea Saturday morning. Therefore it is not yet possible to obtain the Russian version of the affair.

Sympathy From the King.

London, Oct. 25.—The Mayor of Hull has telegraphed to Premier Balfour as follows:

"The greatest indignation prevails here at the unprecedented and wanton attack on the Hull fishing fleet by Russian warships, resulting in the loss of valuable lives. We appeal to the Government to take the speediest and strongest measures to ensure full redress and complete security against further Russian outrages."

The text of the King's message of sympathy to the Mayor of Hull was as follows:

"From Francis Knolly,

"Buckingham Palace, Oct. 24, 1904.

"To His Worship the Mayor of Hull,—The King commands me to say that he has heard with profound sorrow of the unwarrantable action which has been committed against the North Sea fishing fleet, and asks you to express the deepest sympathy of the Queen and His Majesty with the families of those who have suffered from this most lamentable occurrence. (Signed) "Knollys."

Charybdis Ordered.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 25.—The British cruiser Charybdis, Commodore Paget, received orders last night to be in readiness to proceed to England on a moment's notice. The training ship Calypso has been ordered to arrange for the mobilization of 500 men of the Newfoundland Naval Reserves. There is much excitement in naval circles here.

Mysterious Sinking.

London, Oct. 25.—The steamship Esperanza, which is due to sail from Barry with provisions for the Russian Baltic fleet, was found yesterday to be in a sinking condition, her hull having been pierced below the water line. The injury is not explained, but it must have been done yesterday, and it is suggested locally that it is the wanton action of some man employed about the ship in resentment of the North Sea incident.

They Get Out.

Cherbourg, Oct. 25.—Four Russian torpedo boats and a Russian transport sailed last evening. There is no longer any Russian vessels in this port.

Morley in Montreal.

Montreal, Que., Oct. 25.—Hon. John Morley arrived here last night from New York.

Many Mothers of a Like Opinion.

Mrs. Pilmer, of Cordova, Iowa, says: "One of my children was subject to croup of a severe type, and the giving of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy promptly, always brought relief. Many mothers in this neighbourhood think the same as I do about this remedy and want no other kind for their children." For sale by all druggists.

TIRED MOTHERS.

A little elbow leans upon your knee,
Your tired knee that has so much to bear;
A child's dear eyes are looking lovingly
From underneath a thatch of tangled hair.
Perhaps you do not heed the velvet touch
Of warm, moist fingers folding yours so tight;
You do not prize this blessing overmuch,
You almost are too tired to pray to-night.

But it is blessedness! A year ago
I did not see it as I do to-day,
We are so dull and thankless, and too slow
To catch the sunshine till it slips away;
And no wit seems surpassing strange to me
That, while I wore the badge of motherhood,
I did not kiss more oft and tenderly
The little child that brought me only good.

And if some night when you sit down to rest
You miss this elbow from your tired knee—
This restless curly head from off your breast,
This lisping tongue that chatters constantly—
If from your own the dimpled hands had slipped,
And ne'er would nestle on your palm again;
If the white feet into their grave had tripped,
I could not blame you for your heartache then.

I wonder so that mothers ever fret
At little children clinging to their gown,
Or that the footprints when the days are wet
Are ever black enough to make them frown.
If I could find a little muddy boot,
Or cap, or jacket, on my chamber floor,
If I could kiss a rosy restless foot,
And hear it patter in my house once more;

If I could mend a broken cart to-day,
To-morrow make a kite to reach the sky,
There is no woman in God's world could say
She was more blissfully content than I.
But ah! the dainty pillow next my own
Is never rumpled by a shining head,
My singing birdling from its nest has flown,
The little boy I used to kiss is dead.

—May Riley Smith.

Different Kinds of Days.

Five kinds of day are recognized, and it has been said that the word "day" has no real meaning without an adjective defining what kind of a day is meant. There is a civil day, the astronomical day, the apparent solar day, the mean solar day and the sidereal day. The civil day begins at the midnight preceding mean noon and consists of twenty-four hours counted after 12 o'clock. The astronomical day begins twelve hours after the civil day, or at the mean noon of the corresponding civil day. These hours are reckoned from 0 to 24. It will be seen, therefore, that while 10 hours 12 minutes Jan. 1 astronomical time is also 10 hours 12 minutes Jan. 1 civil time, yet 22 hours 12 minutes Jan. 1 astronomical time is also 10 hours 12 minutes a. m. Jan. 2 civil time. There are many anomalies growing out of this use of the civil day, and there are many arguments in favor of using the astronomical day. It is one of the reforms which undoubtedly will come some time.—London Standard.

A Sensitive Tenor.

Roger, the celebrated French tenor, was exceedingly proud of his profession and was apt to take offense at the least slight, whether intended or not. On one occasion he was engaged for the sum of £80 to sing at the house of a rich financier who thought it the correct thing to have the principal singers of the day at his house parties.

Roger sang his first song magnificently, but not the slightest attention was paid him, the guests talking their loudest. Presently the host thought that it was about time for another song and sent for Roger, but he could not be found and was seen no more. On the following day Mr. Plutus was surprised to receive from Roger notes to the amount of £80, with the following words:

"I have the honor to return the £80 which I received for singing at your party, and I beg to add £20 more to make up for having so greatly disturbed the conversation of your guests."—London Tit-Bits.

Wisdom That Comes With Age.

I well remember one case before a justice in which I acted as respondent's counsel in a criminal action and in which an older and well known attorney was my opponent. As I thought then and as I know now, the law and evidence were well in favor of my client, and at the close of the arguments I looked with great confidence for a prompt acquittal. Judge of my astonishment when my unfortunate client was found guilty and sentenced to thirty days in jail. I promptly entered an appeal and furnished sureties to prosecute the same. Before I left the courtroom the justice took occasion to take me aside and say, "Young man, I kinder thought ye were right, but I knowed Judge W. (naming my opponent) is a sight older'n you be and a sight better lawyer'n you be, and so of course I gin him judgment."—Judge Shute in Leslie's Monthly.

The Bird of Paradise.

Probably no famous bird has a smaller habitat than the bird of paradise, whose beautiful feathers are so highly prized in the millinery trade. No one knows why the varieties of this beautiful bird are confined to the island of New Guinea and the neighboring coasts of Australia. There are many other islands not far away where the conditions would seem to be equally favorable to their existence, but they are not found among them, and if we should ever see a hunter of the bird of paradise we would know that he was a native of New Guinea or the neighboring mainland of Australia or had visited those regions.

Tree Life.

Have you any idea what is the average length of a tree's life? Information gathered by the German forestry commission assigns to the pine tree 700 years as a maximum length of life, 625 years to the silver fir, 276 to the larch, 245 to the red beech, 210 to the aspen, 200 to the birch, 170 to the ash, 145 to the elder and 130 to the elm. The heart of the oak begins to rot at about the age of 300 years. Of the holly it is said there is a specimen aged 410 years in existence near Aschaffenburg, in Germany.

It is from books that wise men derive consolation in the troubles of life.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster Says Mr. Kendry Will do this if Elected to Represent West Peterborough.

Good Conservative Rally Last Night in Brock Street Rink When Ex-Finance Minister Spoke.

Mr. J. P. Downey, M. P. P. of West Wellington Also one of the Speakers--Mr. Kendry's Address to the Audience.

Last night the second Conservative rally in the Brock street rink, during this campaign, was held, and the attendance was fully equal to that on the occasion of the visit of Mr. R. L. Borden, about 1,500 persons being present.

The speakers last night were Mr. Geo. E. Foster, ex-Finance Minister, and Mr. J. P. Downey, M.P.P., for West Wellington.

Preceding the meeting the band of the 57th Regiment gave a half-hour's programme of music, concluding with "The Maple Leaf" as the speakers of the evening entered the rink.

Mr. Foster, who was the first speaker, after [illegible] made an entertaining address, and again proved his ability as a platform speaker. He dealt largely with the trade question and the G.T.P. Railway, which he condemned. The attendance had lessened materially when Mr. Downey arose to speak, and gradually became smaller until the close.

The chairman of the meeting was Mr. T. E. Bradburn and there were on the platform the following gentlemen:—

Messrs. T. E. Bradburn, chairman; Geo. E. Foster, J. P. Downey, M.P.P., Jas. Kendry, Col. Miller, Dr. Cougnlin, J. J. Lynch, W. S. Robinson, W. H. Hill, L. M. Hayes, H. Beal, G. W. Fitzgerald, R. Ruddy, T. B. Collins, Albert Matthews, Ottawa; G. J. Sherry, Norwood; R. E. Layfield, W. A. Brundrette, T. W. Wilson, A. P. Poussette, H. T. Strickland, G. W. Hatton, R. G. Cottrell, J. A. G. Goulet, E. J. Toker, J. B. Lamb, R. J. Todd, D. N. Watson, Listowel; J. C. Hyde, J. Kyle, John Watt, Wm. Croft,

HON GEO. E. FOSTER,
Ex-Finance Minister.

C. A. Laundervile, Harry Phelan, W. A. Kindred, R. J. Mulligan, and A. E. Bryson, Omemee; J. P. Palmer, J. W. Mackey, G. J. Tovey, Bert Watts, J. S. Jackson, A. H. Goodwin, T. Foster, R. E. Harding, F. H. Brittain, Ed. Green, Geo. Green, Robt. Vance, Durham; Chas. Akey, W. H. Moore, F. Weir, B. F. Ackerman, Hugh Waddell, Robt. Fair, Ald. Batten, Capt. A. Stalker, Orono; Rev. Dr. Crothers, Dr. Geo. Burnham, Dr. McNulty, Jas. Stevenson, Ex-M. P., Thos. Rutherford, and several others.

THE CHAIRMAN'S CONFIDENCE

Mr. T. E. Bradburn in opening the meeting said that it afforded him great pleasure to be before the electors at a public meeting again during the campaign, and also to welcome to Peterborough Mr. Geo. E. Foster, and Mr. Downey. Mr. Kendry, he said, was meeting with great success in his canvass, and the speaker believed that he would be elected by a larger majority than he had received in previous contests. The chairman then called upon who was well received, and who, upon rising to speak was presented with a handsome bouquet by little with a handsome bouquet by a little daughter of Mr. J. Isaacs.

Mr. Kendry dealt principally with local issues, and said that his opponent had charged that he had done nothing for the manufacturers of Peterborough. He would leave it to the electors to decide which had done the most for Peterborough himself or his opponent. He contended that he had been instrumental in bringing more industries to Peterborough than Mr. Hall. He did not wish to make personal charges, but thought that Mr. Hall looked out for No. 1. We had, said Mr. Kendry, Mr. Stratton making some charges, too, but he contended that the Liberals had not fulfilled the promises made in 1893.

Mr. Kendry said that he had always been the for manufacturers. The charge had been made that the Auburn Woollen Mills had not been properly managed and that this was the reason that the woollen industry was not prosperous. The woollen mills in Canada were equipped and managed as well as any mills in the United States or England. He defended the time occupied by his remarks with reference to the woollen industry by saying that it was a local question, and said that the preference was a one-sided one, and did not do justice to his industry, which, according to the speaker's opinion, was not dealt as fully with as the other industries.

Mr. Kendry characterized this as the finest meeting he had ever attended in Peterborough, and expressed his confidence as to the result of the election.

Mr. Kendry said that it had been stated that he had never made a speech on the Trent Valley Canal, but he could refer them to Mr. Foster who had heard him address parliament on the Trent Canal, and Hansard also recorded a speech made by him on the same subject.

MR. FOSTER'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Geo E. Foster was the next speaker and said that he should be home working in North Toronto, but if he had to go out there was no one for whom he would rather speak than his old friend, Mr. Kendry, whom he had heard speak very often of the Trent Valley Canal. Mr. Kendry had during his term as member of West Peterborough, served the riding well, and he believed that he would in the future served it equally as well as he had in the past.

The speaker dealing with general matters said that a Government had no right to come before the people and dangle before them the promise of public works just previous to an election. He charged the Liberal Government with having done this, and said that while in one hand they were waving the old flag, in the other had they were handing out appropriation. The pruning of the Trent Valley Canal was one of these and in Port Hope placards said "Vote for Aylesworth and the Trent Valley Canal," while at Trenton a similar placard said, "Vote for Lott and the Trent Valley Canal." "Were not the merits of the Port Hope route as strong before Mr. Aylesworth came into the field as since?" asked Mr. Foster, and quoted the Toronto News in condemnation of what the designated "degrading stuff."

APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. Foster then dealt with the appointment of members of parliament to office, which practice, he said, had the effect of destroying the independence of the members, and said that the Liberals while they protested against this practice while in opposition, since their accesion to power they had appointed 58 members to office. He asked his hearers if they recognised in Sir Wilfrid Laurier the Sir Wilfrid Laurier of seven years ago, and said that in 1891 his motto was not a British Preference, but it was unrestricted reciprocity with the United States, and discrimination against Great Britain. He asked what would have happened if in 1891 the Liberals had been elected to power, when he said they were in favour of making a reciprocity treaty with the United States. He thought that Sir Wilfrid was no wiser now than he was in 1891.

WHAT CAUSED THE PROSPERITY?

The Liberals, he said, were now referring to the general prosperity of the country, but in 1896 they spoke of these great industries as "robbers great, and robbers small." He thought that Canada was prosperous now in spite of the fact that the Liberals have been in power for eight years. That the industries to-day are as good as they are, and they are not as good as they might be, said Mr. Foster, is due to the fact that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had not dared to put into force the platform upon which he was elected. He believed that the prosperity was due to the fact that the National Policy was still largely in force. It had been impaired somewhat he thought, but its effect was still felt.

The ex-Finance Minister then referred to the trade of the country, and said that the mineral export constituted to a great extent the export trade of Canada, and said that the Liberals had done nothing to help the miners since they came into power. An increase had been made in the export of the products of the fisheries during the past eight years, but the speaker thought that the Liberals had done nothing to effect this increase, and the same statement was made in respect of the farming products. The present high prices of wheat and farm products was due to the operation of the great law of supply and demand, and this was the reason that the country was prosperous.

There is more work yet to be done, said Mr. Foster. Peterborough has her industries, but there might be more, had you the imports from the United States to Canada, which amounted to $150,000,000, the profits of which went to build up the United States and did not help to build up Canada. Of this amount he contended that $100,000,000 went out for manufactured goods, which should have been manufactured in Canada. If a policy could be inaugurated which would enable these manufactured goods to be made in Canada, that would be "adequate protection." The United States would not buy anything from Canada that they could possibly do without, and last year the the exports to the United States from Canada amounted to $68,000,000. The tariff wall around Canada was only half as high as that which protected the United States industries.

In 1896 the taxation of Canada was $5.46 per head, while at the present time it is $9.50 per head, The expenditure of the country in 1896, according to the speaker, was $8.14 per head, while in 1903 it was $12.15 per head. He claimed that the surplus of $58,660,000, which the Liberals had been able to show, had come out of the pockets of the people.

Mr. Foster said that in 1891 to 1894 the country passed through a period of depression, and he had taken off part of the duty on sugar, which, he said, had put money into the pockets of the people, but upon the return of good times he had replaced the duty.

THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC.

Mr. Foster next dealt with the transcontinental railway, and criticised what he termed the "new finance." The eastern section of the Grand Trunk Pacific, he said, would cost $112,000,000, which, he said, would havve to be paid by the Government. On the western section the Government guarantees the bonds to the extent of $13,000 per mile, while on the Mountain section the Government gives a bonus of the interest on the bonds.

Mr. Foster criticized the contract with the G.T.P., saying that while the line passed through Canadian soil from ocean to ocean there is no binding clause with a penalty attached to send the traffic through Canadian ports. Comparing the G. T. P. bill with Mr. Borden's plan, the speaker said that the people should own the public franchises, and the people should pay the other one-tenth of the cost and own the road, and advocated the Government ownership idea.

Mr. Foster closed his address by appealing to the electors to support Mr. Kendry, who, he said, was the representative of a party which in 1878 had enunciated a principle, and had given an unswerving adherence to it ever since that time.

AN M.P.P. SPEAKS.

Mr. J. P. Downey, who was the next speaker, said that he had anticipated a large meeting, but he had not expected such a great gathering as he saw, which, he said, was an augury of success for Mr. Kendry. The speaker paid a high tribute to Dr. Coughlan, who was an old associate of his, and had helped to redeem Wellington for the Conservative party. This is a notable campaign, said the speaker, notable for the faces that are missing from the Liberal party, and mentioned the names of J. Israel Tarte and A. G. Blair, who he said, had left the cabinet as a protest against the policy of the Liberal party.

Mr. Downey spoke on the G. T. P. Railway, and advanced the arguments of Mr. Borden and Mr. Foster.

The partnership that had always existed between the Federal and Ontario Governments was still in existence. Beyond the fact that the Premier of Ontario had declared that his assistance would be given to the Dominion, that Mr. Graham had been engaged in the Dominion campaign, they had the spectacle of the Jackson case to prove the connection between the two governments. The speaker then recited the alleged facts of the case.

After Mr. Downey's address the meeting closed with the usual cheers.

NEWSY LETTER FROM ALBERTA

Miss Alice Scott Writes to the Examiner About Northwest

Former Peterborough Lady's Impressions of the Great Prairies—The Blackfoot Indians Fast Becoming an Extinct Race.

The Examiner has been favoured with an interesting letter from Miss Alice Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Scott, who it will be remembered, went to the North West about one year ago, and is now engaged as a nurse in the Blackfoot Indian Hospital near Gleichen, Alta.

Miss Scott has many friends here, who will be glad to hear from her, and to learn that her noble work is not only appreciated by those for whom she labours, but is pleasant to herself. The letter follows:—

Four seasons have come and gone since I left Peterborough to make my home in Alberta and while comparing the climate here with that of Ontario, I have noticed how very different one is from the other. This year spring came early bringing with her all that is fresh and beautiful and grand. I know everybody looks forward to the calmness of spring, especially after a severe winter, but although I love our Ontario spring, yet there is such an appealing chord struck on the Alberta harp by the delightful hand of spring, that I must distinctly separate one from the other. In the crowded city or busy town, there is little besides the sky and trees, to gaze upon, while here, on the prairie one can look and look from mountain top to shining pool, from hill to plain and still the eye is not satisfied. We watch the river very closely, because being a mountain stream it often overflows its banks and creeps up sometimes to the hospital door, as we are not more than 1-2 mile apart. Nature supplies her own orchestra and everything works together in perfect harmony. The distant slash, slash of the Bow river, the gentle hissing of the wind through the trees, and the sweet, thrilling chirp, chirp of the meadow lark is music indeed, music which no man understands, nor which no man could compose.

Then comes summer clothed in her richest garments and many hues. I believe many people have an idea of the prairie as being a vast level stretch of land, unpleasing to the eye and full of loneliness. Well it is not that. Sloping hills rise up on all sides; little ponds spot the plains and pretty forests abound everywhere. Wild fowl rise out of the tall waving grass to fly away in terror and beautiful, gorgeous flowers pop up everywhere. I could could not begin to describe to you the fine scenery and splendid views with which we are so familiar, but I hope you will allow your imagination to fill in the gap.

Autumn follows quickly, eager to work out her appointed task and she does it well; for already the leaves have fallen and the bright green has turned to a foreign colour. In fact one would almost think that winter had appeared as we have had two snow storms this month, but it is not likely we will have any more snow until winter comes to stay. Although in winter the cold is very severe we do not have very much snow, hardly enough sometimes to cover the ground. Very seldom enough can be used and only twice a year fall of snow.

I have only given you a vague idea of the appearance of the prairie during the four seasons. Now I will endeavor to tell you something concerning the natives of this land with a few hints about their homes and customs.

The Blackfoot Indian, once so powerful, commanding and majestic, is now — alas, nothing but a remnant— a mere piece of a broken down tribe. And why? The white man came and robbed him of his birth-right, killed his Buffalo and scattered his people and even more, yes, brought with him disease and poverty. It is very sad to see this ancient race gradually diminishing, the victims of that loathsome disease, tuberculosis. 'Tis true, the men are lazy, but the fall has been too great, and now he doesn't care what happens to him or whither he goes. Some of the older Indians are very proud and will not acknowledge his superior, the white man. In the winter they dwell in small log huts, which, of course, adds much to their discomfort, but during the spring, summer and autumn they live in tepees. These are very picturesque, although sometimes they are hideous for the civilized eye to gaze upon, the sun and moon being painted in bright colours. Near by the heathen tepee is a tripod from which hangs the offerings to the Sun. Dances are common. We have become quite used to them and although we hear the dull, dull monotonous tone of the tom-tom, only a slight comment is made upon it.

More I could tell you but time is not at my disposal, but I hope you all know there is such a human being living in this fair Canada of ours, side by side with his brother the white man and partaking of the same wealth with him, "The Blackfoot Indian" or Sixikaikuun (Six-e-ki-koun).

Peterborough, October 24, 1904.

Editor of the Examiner:

The car has a terminus at Central Park and those residing north are at a disadvantage to make proper connections to arrive at their destination in time for work. I am referring to the Canadian General Electric Company. I trust the company will treat this with a little consideration and do their best to remedy the present situation. PROSPECTS LOOK BRIGHT IN ENNISMORE

Very Successful Meeting in Interests of Liberal Candidate Last Night.

Town Hall Crowded to the Doors to Hear Addresses on the Political Situation.

Speakers, Hon. J. R. Stratton, Mr. R. R. Hall and Mr. D. O'Connel Given a Splendid Reception and Attentive Hearing.

The electors of the township of Ennismore gathered in large numbers last evening in the town hall, Ennismore to hear addresses in the interests of the Liberal candidate of West Peterborough, and of the Laurier Government. The hall was crowded to overflowing, many having to stand throughout the meeting which was a most enthusiastic one. It was but another proof that the riding is for Laurier, and but another encouraging reception and promise of support for Mr. R. R. Hall. The speakers were Mr. Hall, Hon. J. R. Stratton and Mr. D. O'Connell. The speakers were given a most attentive and appreciative hearing, and the frequent outbursts of hearty applause were sufficient evidence that the large number of electors present were in perfect sympathy with the cause of the Liberal Government, and with the best interests of Mr. Hall.

The chairman was Mr. Wm. Crough, who made a few introductory remarks before calling upon the first speaker, Mr. D. O'Connell.

MR. D. O'CONNELL.

The country, said Mr. O'Connell, was again in the midst of a campaign when both parties were appealing to the electors for support. Mr. O'Connell wished to touch upon a few of the more important issues before the people to-day, which were matters requiring the greatest consideration of the people. The responsibility for good laws and prosperity depended on the intelligent and free exercise of the franchise by the people themselves. If the people were prosperous and happy it was largely dependent on those who had the welfare of the country in hand. The issues before the country to-day were worthy of every consideration. It was to be regretted that the electors were wont to look on these questions with too much levity, not considering how much their welfare was dependent upon the wise use of their franchise and upon the proper legislation of those at the head of the affairs of the country.

Contrary to opinions often expressed, there was a vast difference between the tariff advocated by the Liberal and Conservative parties in Canada. The Conservatives when in power advocated a high protection tariff which was to raise a revenue to defray the expenses of the carrying on the Government and which took money out of the pockets of the people and the consumer to give what the Conservatives call adequate protection to the consumers. Upon that issue the Liberals take a different stand. The Liberals recognised the fact that the prosperity of Canada depended, to a great extent, upon the prosperity of the manufacturers, and consequently they lowered the taxation and encouraged those industries who from the natural condition of the country, could be carried on with a profit to themselves and benefit to the Canadian people. With this dividing line between the parties, the Liberals took control in 1896. The Liberals recognised the fact that if industries and trade were to be carried on with success, there must be a stability in the tariff, and their first act was to reduce the tariff 12 or 15 per cent. on the general goods coming into the country with the desire to assist the consuming portion of the country and cut down the undue advantage which manufacturers were having.

The Liberal party was anxious to develop the trade of this country by every legitimate means. They wished to encourage trade with the United States wherever possible, recognizing the fact that with the great American market in such close proximity to us, there were offered many advantages to Canada. Negotiations were made and attempts made to carry out satisfactory trade relations, or these attempts failed and this failure proved beneficial to Canada, for our eyes were then turned across the sea to England. Canada desired to draw the trade relations with England closer every year, for our future success and progress depended to a large extent upon the close trade relation between England and Canada. At the time of the Queen's Jubilee there was decided upon by the Liberal Government, a policy in connection with trade with the Mother Country, and that was the British Preference, which meant that the duty on goods imported from Great Britain should be 33 1-3 per cent. less than that on goods from any other country. Before this Canada had tried to have the treaties between England, Germany and Belgium revoked as they were detrimental to Canada's trade, but when Sir Wilfrid showed that Canada was willing to give the preference to English goods, this generous and noble act stirred the heart of John Bull, and the people began to give that consideration to the affairs of Canada which its importance demanded. It was within the period of three or four months after Sir Wilfrid introduced the British preference that these treaties were revoked, as it was recognized that it was in the interests of not only Canada and England, but of the binding together of the whole empire. There was no better stroke of policy ever pursued by any government than this act of the Laurier Government. The trade began to increase wonderfully between England and Canada, and prosperity, as a result, was everywhere felt. In 1868, the year following Confederation, the total trade of Canada amounted to $131,000,000. During the next thirty years, the trade increased to $239,030,000. During the eighteen years of Conservative rule the trade increased $66,000,000, while after the Liberal party assumed power, and made the changes in the tariff for the best interests of the manufacturers and the farmers, the trade was increased with remarkable rapidity, and during the seven years of Liberal rule, the total trade increased from $239,000,000 to $467,000,000. During the Conservative rule the trade increased yearly $3,760,000, while under the Liberal rule it has increased $32,577,000 a year, or ten times as much as under Conservative administration. It has been said that the Liberal Government have had good luck and prosperous times. The speaker admitted this, but it was only reasonable to say that in the management of material affairs of a new country like Canada, with its vast territory, and unlimited resources, a great deal more depended on the wise and prudent administration of affairs, than on what was called good luck, and the prosperity of Canada during the past seven years was due far more to the wise administration of the Government than to any good luck.

In 1896 Mr. Kendry told the people of this riding, as a manufacturing man, that the difference of the two policies was such that a change would so affect the manufacturers, that many, including himself, would have to give up business, if the tariff was changed. But it was found that he, as well as all others, had enjoyed great prosperity, and he had not been able to fulfil the demands made upon his business; all other manufacturers were in the same position. In 1896 the exports of manufactured goods from Canada amounted to $19,365,000, and during the seven years of Liberal rule, they increased to $20,624,000. In 1896, the exports of animals amounted to $36,000,000, increasing to $69,000,000 under Liberal rule; the exports of agricultural produce increased during the same period from $14,000,000 to $44,000,000. This was not due to good luck, for though during the Liberal regime there were two periods of severe commercial depression in the European countries and one in the United States, nothing but prosperity was experienced in Canada.

Ennismore, he said, had experienced the same prosperity which has been so universal. The exports from the cheese factories in this section have greatly increased. Mr. O'Connell asked anyone in the audience to go back to 1896 and see if they were drawing the same money from the cheese factories then as they are at the present time. That one item of Canadian export alone — cheese — was sufficient to convince the farmer of the prosperity being enjoyed, but what could be said of cheese, could be said of all other exports. No sane man would wish to go back to his position in 1896, when everywhere a state of depression reigned.

In closing, Mr. O'Connell urged upon his hearers to consider these questions, and consider the general prosperity, and their own position in regard to the governmental changes, and to ask themselves if the affairs of the country had not been carried on in the best interests of each one present as individuals and for the best interests of the country at large. There was not the slightest doubt but that the Liberal party would be returned to power with an overwhelming majority, as the Canadian people had perfect confidence in their leader and in his colleagues. You have before you two candidates, one who will have to sit on the Opposition side, if returned, and the people of West Peterborough will be represented by a man opposed to the policy of the present Government,—and one who is a supporter of the Government having charge of the affairs of the country. If the people of this riding persist in returning a member opposed to the Government, what gratitude can they expect from the Government? It is not for the best interests of the riding that in the present state of affairs, when so many improvements are needed, to have an Opposition member. But there was not the slightest chance of Mr. Kendry being elected. Mr. Kendry had frequently stated previous to accepting the nomination that his own private affairs would not admit of his again representing the riding, and he went into the field simply to save the Conservatives from the disgrace of being unable to place a candidate in the field, as there was no other man to take his place. There was no hope of the Liberal party being turned out or of Mr. Kendry's election, and consequently Mr. O'Connell urged upon the electors to rally around Mr. Hall and give him a substantial majority.

MR. R. R. HALL.

Mr. Hall was heartily applauded upon rising to speak. He was greatly pleased to address the electors of Ennismore as a candidate for West Peterborough. He referred to the magnificent meeting held in Peterborough last week, when the people

SHELTER AND FOOD ARE NIL

Russian Losses Figured Out By the Japanese At 13,383—Nine Abandoned Russian Guns Captured—The Two Armies Are Now Separated By Less Than Four Miles—Fortifying Lamutung.

Mukden, Oct. 25.—(Via Pekin.)—The Russian forces on the left again crossed the Shakhe River on Oct. 21 and are now pushing forward towards the Japanese positions, entrenching as they advance. At the same time Russian batteries are continually bombarding the Japanese, who can be plainly seen, busily engaged in the making of trenches.

The Russian and Japanese armies are now separated by less than four miles and the whole field of operations of both armies can be plainly seen.

The question of fuel is becoming a serious one. The greater part of the Chinese corn has already been used for fuel and for fodder, while most of the houses in the Chinese villages have been destroyed and their wood used for fuel.

Without fuel and without shelter beyond that provided by tents it seems impossible for the armies to remain in the field during the increasing cold weather.

Nine Abandoned Guns.

Gen. Oku's Headquarters, Friday, Oct. 21, via Fusan, Oct. 25.—While clearing the field near Shakhe the Japanese found nine abandoned Russian guns.

Russian Losses.

Tokio, Oct. 25.—The Japanese headquarters here yesterday, without referring to the general situation in the vicinity of the Shakhe River, published the following report received the day before: Since the last telegram referring to the enemy's dead, the bodies left on the field have been increased to the following: Found by the right army, 5, 200; found by the left army, 5,603; found by the centre army, 2,580; total, 13,383. The number of prisoners captured totals 709.

Russian Prisoners 3,000.

New York, Oct. 25.—The Russian prisoners in Japan number 3,000, according to a Tokio despatch to The Times.

Both Sides Entrenching.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 25.—There was no news of immediate importance from the Far East last night. The indications are that both sides are heavily entrenching, though it is believed that General Kuropatkin will be ready for a forward move at an early moment, unless heavy Japanese reinforcements compel him to remain on the defensive.

Japs Fortify Village.

Harbin, Oct. 25.—A number of Japanese prisoners have been brought to this place. The Japanese are heavily fortifying the village of Lamuting.

It is reported that the Russians have buried 700 Japanese who were killed defending Lone Tree Hill.

It is snowing to-day.

HE FEELS LIKE ANOTHER MAN

Edward Rousseau, After two Years of Suffering, Used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Thousands of persons have had the same experience as Edward Rousseau, of Bruce Mines, Ont. Their stomachs have bothered them for years. They can find relief nowhere. They are just about hopeless. They should do as Mr. Rousseau did. Let him tell the story himself.

"For upwards of ten years," says Mr. Rousseau, "I have been a severe sufferer from Dyspepsia. I doctored almost continually and used almost everything I could hear of until I began the use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I have taken two boxes and words cannot express the great good they have done me, as I am now feeling like a new man better than I have felt for years. I think Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are the greatest medicine in existence and in any case I have proved that they cure when other medicine fails."

Shot While Boating.

Winnipeg, Oct. 25.—John Gowan and his little daughter went out in a steam launch at Westbourne on Saturday. The boat ran on to a submerged log, causing Mr. Gowan, who had a revolver in his hand, to shoot himself. His body and the child were found on Sunday by a searching party.

Lady Dilke Passes.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. For sale by all druggists.

GORED BY A BULL.

Wife Goes to Rescue of Aged Farmer and Is Injured Also.

Portage la Prairie, Oct. 25.—John Wienal, an aged farmer residing at Portage Creek, was gored by a vicious bull Sunday and probably fatally injured. He was passing through the enclosure where the animal was, when it attacked him, knocking him down and trampling and goring him. Five or six of his ribs were broken. Mrs. Wienal went to her husband's rescue with a spade. The bull then turned upon her and injured her severely before one of the neighbors could rush to her assistance. The neighbor had wisely armed himself with a gun and shot the infuriated animal, wounding it so severely as to cripple it. Slight hopes are entertained for the recovery of Mr. Wienal, who is 70 years of age.

HANDS UP!

Bank of Hamilton Clerks Robbed of $2,000 in Cash.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 25.—The Bank of Hamilton clerks were robbed of $2,000 in cash yesterday in going from Plum Coulee to Winkler Village. The bank is kept open on alternative days at these villages, and the bankers were returning from Plum Coulee with the day's proceeds when two armed masked men appeared from a clump of bushes and ordered "Hands up." The cash valise was demanded, and after securing it and taking out the valuables, the men escaped in a southerly direction. Police and detectives have left on their trail.

Sir Wilfrid's Opinion.

London, Oct. 25.—(C.A.P.)—Referring to The Chronicle's interview with Premier Laurier, June 15, 1897, The Manchester Guardian says Premier Laurier scouted the idea that concessions then given by Canada to England were of the nature of an "offer" in Chamberlain's sense. "We give England," said Laurier, "this preference, we ask nothing in return. Why do we give it? Out of gratitude, pure gratitude, to England, which has given us the greatest of all boons, the right to govern ourselves." It would be interesting, says The Guardian, to have Laurier's candid opinion about Balfour, who, while he aids Chamberlain's scheme, tries hard not to think himself a protectionist.

Thompson's Long Term.

Peterboro, Oct. 25.—Joseph Thompson, alias Murphy, who broke into the house of L. A. Halley, Aylmer street, about a month ago, ran across a bottle of whiskey and was found dead drunk in the kitchen when the family returned after an hour's absence, was yesterday afternoon sentenced to seven years' imprisonment in Kingston Penitentiary. Thompson has a bad record. A quantity of nitro-glycerine, several dynamite fuses and cartridges were found on him when he was arrested.

Sent to Penitentiary.

Winnipeg, Oct. 25.—Three years in the penitentiary was the sentence imposed yesterday by Magistrate McKicken on John Fraser Drummond, a young man who pleaded guilty to misappropriation of some $5,400 from the Manitoba Mortgage and Investment Co.

In the case of Melvin Bartlett, who appeared for sentence for having misappropriated the funds of the marriage license branch of the Department of Agriculture, George Patterson, acting for the Crown, asked for a remand of sentence till Nov. 14, pending the result of the investigation to be made by the commission into the affairs of the department in which Bartlett was employed.

Gen. Lake At Ottawa.

Ottawa, Oct. 25.—General Lake, who is to be chief-of-staff of the new Military Council, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon. He reached Montreal with his family by the Allan Line steamer Ionian. As has been stated already, Sir Frederick Borden asked the War Office for General Lake, and the request was granted. The general will start at once to get the new order of things under way. His salary will be $5,000. Lord Aylmer will be appointed inspector-general with a salary of $6,000.

Time to Quit.

Komoko, Ind., Oct. 25.—The body of a man who took arsenic and died here recently, has been identified as that of Verne Krall, who had lived at Zion City, Ill. In a letter found in one of his pockets, he says he belonged to Dowie's church the last two years. He adds: "This summer they got hold of my money in the bank and made me leave the church without a cent. I am going to quit."

Charged With Arson.

Guelph, Oct. 25.—High Constable Merewether arrested yesterday John Douglas, a tenant on Janet Carter's farm near this city, on three charges, arson, perjury and attempting to obtain money by fraud from the Galt Mutual Fire Insurance Co. The fire occurred on Aug. 18, when the barn was burned, under suspicious circumstances. The case was adjourned for a week.

Policeman's Serious State.

Hamilton, Oct. 25.—Saturday at noon Thomas Merritt was pacing the streets of the city wearing a policeman's uniform. Now he is occupying a cell at No. 3 police station, lying under the serious charge of shopbreaking and theft. He was appointed to the police force last March.

Served Under Buller.

Major-General Sir Frederick Stopford, who was appointed Director of Mounted Infantry Training at the War Office early in the year, has sailed for South Africa in the Saxon. The General—a half brother of the Earl of Courtown—has been through four heavy wars in Africa—Egypt and the Soudan in '82 and '85, Ashanti in '95, and the late Boer campaign, where he served as Military Secretary to Sir Redvers Buller, and won the K.C.M.G.

"They had a quarrel and sued each other."

The Revolutionizing of the Cracker

FOUR MEN BADLY HURT.

Big Pile of Rails Fell On Them and Their Injuries Are Varied and Serious

Duart, Oct. 25.—While engaged in sawing rails on the farm of Alex. McRitchie, near Clearville, Elgin County, yesterday morning, four men nearly lost their lives. A big pile of rails standing on end near the machine fell over, completely covering and jamming them to the ground. Mr. McRitchie, with the assistance of some neighbors, soon removed the pile of rails and found George Hendrie unconscious with his head badly cut and arms and shoulders ground almost to a pulp. Henry Scott, while conscious, was bleeding badly from a deep cut in the head, and had one leg broken in two places. John McFarlane was partially saved by two rails crossing, but his head was jammed down into the ground and he received a deep scalp wound which required several stitches. William J. Ferguson had a deep cut on the head, and was injured on the shoulder and back.

Head About to Burst From Severe Bilious Attack.

"I had a severe bilious attack and felt like my head was about to burst when I got hold of a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. I took a dose of them after supper and the next day felt like a new man and have been feeling happy ever since," says Mr. J. W. Smith of Juliff, Texas. For biliousness, stomach troubles and constipation these Tablets have no equal. Price 25 cents. For sale by all druggists.

Mrs. Gates Hangs Herself.

Hamilton, Oct. 25. — Yesterday morning Mrs. Gates, 65 years of age, wife of Joseph Gates, clerk in the customs house, went to a shed at the rear of her house, 52 Elgin street, and strung herself up to a beam with a stout rope. She was found about 10.15 by her daughter, Mrs. Morgan, but was quite dead. Despondency is given as the cause.

Struck By Small Boy.

Quebec, Oct. 25.—Rendered delirious from a severe gash in the head, caused by being struck with a large stone thrown by a 10-year-old lad named Fortin, a young woman named Machitiere, was removed to the Hotel Dieu Hospital Sunday night and is in a very precarious condition.

THE SOURCE OF HEALTH

STRENGTH AND VITALITY IS THE FOOD SYSTEM.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

ENSURES PERFECT DIGESTION AND ASSIMILATION.

It matters little how much food you eat so long as the digestive system is not in condition to convert it into blood and nerve force.

When the nervous energy is consumed by disease or by excessive mental or physical exertion the nerves and muscles which control digestion are unable to do their work and the food is allowed to ferment and become a burden instead of a benefit to the system.

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD IS THE MOST RATIONAL TREATMENT FOR INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA THAT WAS EVER CONCEIVED.

By forming new blood and creating new nerve force it strengthens and invigorates the nerves and muscles which control the flow of gastric juices and the contracting motion of the stomach which is necessary to digestion.

It would be impossible for any treatment to go more directly to the cause of trouble.

While revitalizing and re-energizing the principal organ of digestion—the stomach—Dr. Chase's Nerve Food also sharpens the appetite, enlivens the action of the liver and has a gentle laxative effect on the bowels.

MRS. E. J. FORSYTH, 63 Elm street, Toronto, says:—"My trouble has been acute indigestion and severe attacks of headache, as well as nervousness, and at times spells of dizziness. After having thoroughly tested Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I can say that it has cured my stomach trouble, and, as a result, the other symptoms have also disappeared. I consider Dr. Chase's Nerve Food the best treatment for indigestion, as well as being a splendid general tonic."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 1

THE SAND WASP

Ingenious Manner in Which This Insect Uses a Hammer.

The deliberate use of a tool by a little sand wasp might well be supposed to indicate reasoning power, says an exchange. A well known naturalist, Dr. Peckham, watched a wasp dig a hole in the earth and deposit therein an egg, together with a spider which she had stung into paralysis to feed the grub which should be hatched in due course. Then she filled up the hole with sand or earth and jammed it down with her head.

When at last the filling was level with the ground she brought a quantity of fine grains of dirt to the spot, picked up a small pebble in her mandibles and used it as a hammer in pounding them down with rapid strokes, thus making this spot as hard and firm as the surrounding surface. Before we could recover from our astonishment at this performance she had dropped her stone and was bringing more earth. In a moment we saw her pick up the pebble and again pound the earth into place with it. Once more the whole process was repeated, and then the little creatures flew away.

"The whole of this performance," writes Sir Herbert Maxwell in "Memories of the Months," "is so unexpected that even Dr. Peckham's high reputation as a scrupulous observer might fail to convince skeptics that he had not been deceived, but similar behavior on the part of a wasp of the same species has been recorded independently by Dr. Williston of Kansas university."

BARBAROUS ENGINES.

Man Traps and Spring Guns Once In Use in England.

We were reminded the other day of some of the incidents of country life of former years by the offering for sale at a London auction mart of a couple of man traps. These engines were once upon a time part of the chattels of well nigh every considerable landowner and every energetic gamekeeper. Another implement was the spring gun, which turned on a swivel and discharged itself as soon as one of the connecting wires was stumbled against, the muzzle of the gun turning in the direction of the trespasser as indicated by the wire, the guilty party generally receiving a coating of pitch if of nothing worse. The man traps sold the other day were probably the first some of the attendants at the sale ever saw and were of the old formidable pattern—that is to say, they resembled a glorified gin. They measured seventy-four inches long and were just about three feet in height, so that they would catch a poacher well above the knee, and once nipped there he would remain till his cries or the ordinary round of the keepers led at once to his release and capture. The spring gun gave its alarm, and watchers were speedily in attendance. There was something very barbarous about the use of these engines, which were not so very long ago quite common. In fact, people need not be very old to have seen boards bearing the legend, "Beware of man traps and spring guns."—London Field.

Her Opinion of Boys.

A little girl wrote the following essay on boys: "Boys are men that have not got as big as their papas, and girls are women that will be ladies by and by. When God looked at Adam he said to himself, 'Well, I think I can do better if I try again,' and he made Eve. Boys are a trouble. They wear out everything but soap. If I had my way the world would be girls and the rest dolls. My papa is so nice that I think he must have been a little girl when he was a little boy. Man was made, and on the seventh day he rested. Woman was then made, and he has never rested since."

Romance of a Statue.

The statue of Charles I. which now stands in London was sold to a brazier during the commonwealth with the understanding that it should be broken up. The buyer, however, saw a chance to make money and buried it instead. To cover his action he made a large number of bronze knives and forks, which were eagerly bought by both royalists and Puritans as souvenirs. When the monarchy was restored to power the statue was dug up again and bought by the government to be placed in its present position, where it has remained since 1674.

Striped Suit; Lively Walk.

Once in my callow days I accepted a wager that I could wear a prison suit and walk from Buffalo to Cleveland without serious molestation. It took me over four days to get thirty miles. I was arrested nine times, and at Dunkirk I came near being mobbed by a Sunday school picnic and was compelled to discard my uniform for citizen's clothes. Yet I was a free man and innocent of crime, and there was no law defining what I should wear so long as it was male attire.—Elbert Hubbard in Philistine.

Rusty.

A little three-year-old miss, while her mother was trying to get her to sleep, became interested in a peculiar noise and asked what it was.

"A cricket, dear," replied the mother.

"Well," remarked the little lady, "he ought to get himself oiled."

Reassuring a Visitor.

"I don't see why you didn't want me to say anything about Miss Mixley's age, mamma," said Tommy, looking at the guest. "She doesn't look nearly so old as grandfa—ouch! Who's that a-pinchin' me on the laig?"

Eccentric.

Grimes—My wife's the queerest woman that ever lived. Gorman—Yes; that's what people thought when she married you.

A noble heart, like the sun, showeth its greatest countenance at its lowest estate.—Sidney.

VIOLIN MOODS.

Little Things That Make an Instrument Lose Its Tone.

Some obscure but definite change takes place in the material of the body of a violin through the vibrations of the music produced, and it is very possible that some stages of this change are detrimental to the tone. The style of playing is said to influence the change, and rest checks it.

The maturing of a violin has been compared with the growth of a child who progressively increases in wisdom and stature, but has stages of weakness due to the irregular development of parts.

The tone of an instrument is also gravely influenced by the setting up of the movable parts, the sound post, the strings, the bridge and even the pegs.

Many instruments lose much of their power or sweetness if the sound post is altered a fractional amount from its best position and angle, if the bridge is inclined a little more or less or shifted or if the strings are not exactly suited to the violin. Some instruments prefer one pitch and others another, and all vary with the weather. In addition to this the best players have moods when they cannot play, and the instrument is often blamed for these.

Canada Likes U. S. Raisins.

Raisins are becoming an important feature of the United States export trade in fruit, the total number of pounds of raisins exported in 1903 being 4,250,000, while for the year just ended the total will be about 4,000,000 pounds. Canada is the largest foreign customer for this product, the total quantity exported to Canada last year being over 3,000,000 pounds. The principal port of shipment was San Francisco, from which about 1,500,000 pounds were sent; from Detroit, 750,000 pounds; from the district of North and South Dakota, 500,000 pounds, and from New York 250,000 pounds. These shipments from the eastern ports originate, of course, on the Pacific Coast. Of apricots, the total exports of which amounted last year to over 9,000,000 pounds, 6,750,000 pounds were exported from New York and about 2,000,000 from San Francisco.

Canadian Missionaries.

James MacKay, B.A., who has been designated for work in Neemuch, India, is the first foreign missionary to be sent out by a western church. He will be supported by the congregation of St. Stephen's Church, Winnipeg, where "Ralph Connor" is minister. Mr. MacKay is a native of Oxford County, and was a member of the Zorra congregation, which has given so many men to the ministry of the Presbyterian Church. Rev. G. C. Patterson, the present pastor, gave the address at the ordination of Mr. MacKay in Winnipeg. Miss Marion Oliver, M.D., is also under appointment for India, and will sail on the Bavarian for Liverpool, where she will join Miss Jessie Weir, who is visiting friends in England, and together they will sail for Bombay.

INFLAMMABLE AIR.

The Product Dr. Hales Distilled From Coal In 1726.

In the early days of the last century Sir Walter Scott, writing from London to a friend in Edinburgh, said, "There is a fool here who is trying to light the city with smoke." Sir Walter's "smoke" was not a human invention. Accumulations of gas from coal beds found their way to the surface and, being highly inflammable, attracted the attention of men who erected altars over them, and their perpetual fires were dedicated to the gods. For thousands of years the Chinese have speculated upon the meaning of the natural gas which has escaped abundantly from the earth in several provinces. In 1726 Dr. Hales informed chemists that by distilling a few grains of coal he had obtained an equal number of cubic inches of "inflammable air" and that if attempted on a large scale millions upon millions of cubic feet of that valuable substance could be made and conveyed unseen along the highways of the land and become the means for obtaining perpetual day. In 1813 Sir Walter's "smoke" was burned on Westminster bridge in London, and one year later the streets of St. Margarets, Westminster, enjoyed illumination from gas, it being the first parish contracting for such a luxury.

Reforming Convicts.

Brigadier Archibald, who is in charge of the Dominion ticket-of-leave system, was the guest of the Canadian Club in Toronto the other day and gave an interesting account of his work in dealing with prisoners. He stated that, notwithstanding the tide of immigration coming to Canada, the criminal statistics have varied slightly in the past ten years. Canadians have reason to congratulate themselves on the good government and good laws of their country.

The Brigadier made an appeal for the convict. He stated that in nine cases out of ten society rejects the man who has served a term in prison and drives him back.

During the first year of his work he had selected 150 men out of 700 coming out of prison, and all of them but four returned to lives of good citizens. During the last year more than 1,200 men had been helped back to settled lives.

The Brigadier strongly favored a suspended sentence for all men guilty of a first offence. They should be placed under the probationary officer, and reported on every month. In the State of Massachusetts it was found that 98 per cent. of that class were saved for right lives. He asked the business men and employers to assist in the work for men whom he could recommend.

Charlie's Parents.

While waiting one evening at my friend's house for him I was pleasantly entertained in the drawing room by his wife. Our conversation drifted to the use and abuse of tobacco, when Mrs. A. said:

"I am sorry to say that Charles smokes, and cigarettes too. I can smell it on his clothes. I wouldn't have his father know it for anything. He hates tobacco in all its forms."

Shortly after, Charles and his father having come in to dinner, I noticed Mrs. A. get up and carefully remove her son's coat to a peg on the hall rack quite distant from his father's. After dinner Mr. A. and I went to keep an engagement with a third friend. On our way home who should we pass but Charles smoking a cigarette.

My friend said: "I am so afraid that boy's mother will 'get on to' the fact that he smokes. She dislikes tobacco so, especially cigarettes. I know it would break her heart. Don't mention it, for goodness' sake."

Like a wise diplomat, I concluded not to interfere.

Honesty as a Policy.

A judge and a party of lawyers were discussing various maxims when one of the lawyers said:

"Well, judge, do you really believe honesty is the best policy?"

"I'll answer that question by a story," replied the judge. "When I was practicing law one day in the interests of a client I said to a man:

"'Do you own a large black dog with white spots?'

"He looked at me quizzically and then said:

"'Oh, no. That dog is merely a stray canine that occasionally strolls into my yard. You're the tax assessor, aren't you?'

"'No. I'm only a lawyer. I came to tell you that a client of mine had accidentally shot and killed the big dog and authorized me to pay the owner $25 damages. But as the animal has no owner, why, of course there's nothing to pay. Good morning.'"

NORTH MONAGHAN COUNCIL MEETING

The council of the Township of North Monaghan met in the Town Hall on Monday, Oct. 17th, at the hour of 7.30 p. m. All the members were present. The Reeve, Mr. J. Madill, presiding.

The minutes of the preceeding meeting were read and confirmed.

Accounts were presented as follows:—A. McDonald, material for culverts, $7.30; Mat. Clarke, contract for gravelling in 9 con., line, $4.00; John Tully on account for gravel, got in 1903, $13.20.

Communications were read from T. A. S. Hay, town engineer, stating a culvert at the juncture of McDonel street was broken down; E. M. Elliott, County Treasurer, stating that the commissioners to make the alterations in the County Council division, if any, were to meet in the Court House on Friday, October 28th, at 11 a. m. A plan and specifications of the proposed Cavan drain prepared by Mr. J. Bickner, was exhibited and read.

A petition of Mr. J. Holmes and 28 other ratepayers was presented and read. This petition complained of the condition of Lock street extension and asked for something to be done to make it a better road.

On motion of Messrs. Smith and Morrow the accounts of A. McDonald and M. Clarke were directed to be paid and the account of J. Tully was referred to the Reeve for investigation.

The Road Commissioner of Road Division No. 1 explained that having been notified of condition of the culvert at McDonel street by the clerk he had immediately constructed a new culvert and put the highway in a safe condition.

Moved by Messrs. Fowler and Morrow that a committee consisting of the whole council attend the session of the commissioner re alteration of County Council Divisions on October 28 in the interests of North Monaghan.—This was carried.

Moved by Messrs. Brown and Fowler that the matter complained of in the petition of J. Holmes and others be referred to a committee of the Reeve and Councillor Smith, who are hereby directed to investigate the complaint and report to this council.—This was carried.

Council then adjourned until the statutory meeting on December 15 at 1.30 p. m., unless sooner called by the Reeve.

INDIAN INVENTIVENESS.

Birch Bark Canoes and Snowshoes Its Best Productions.

That the North American Indian never rose to a high level of civilisation may be attributed to his lack of inventiveness as well as to his indolence and improvidence. He reared no enduring structures and constructed no instruments for the manufacture on anything but the smallest scale of articles of use and exchange. This seems at first glance like a satisfactory explanation of the undeveloped state of his civilisation.

It is nevertheless not true that the Indian lacked inventiveness. He has left at least two worthy monuments of his capacity for invention, although our own civilisation has converted them from articles of necessity into what are practically playthings.

These two evidences of the Indian genius are the birch bark canoe and the snowshoe. For beauty and utility, in the uses for which it was designed no product of the white man's art working with the same materials could have surpassed the Indian canoe. The snowshoe, as the Indian designed and made it, moreover, is a distinct work of art and, like the violin of the older masters, seems incapable of improvement.

It may be argued that these are articles of the simplest kind, but the genius that inspired their invention and construction is none the less worthy to rank with that which manifests itself in our own civilisation in works of an ampler but not more beautiful design.

John Bull and the Letter "H."

John Bull and the trouble he experiences with the letter "h" have been the occasion of many a witticism. There is the story of one Londoner who scolded another for pronouncing "hour," "heir" and "honor" correctly. "Why don't you haspirate your haitches, you higorant hass?" asked the critic. Among the traditions of the London bar is the story of one Sergeant Channell. He was arguing a case in which a vessel named the Helen was concerned. Every time the name cropped up Channell called her the Ellen. "Stop, stop!" said the judge at last. "How many vessels were there? I've got two in my notes, the Ellen and the Helen." At this point the attorney for the other side interrupted, giving Channell no chance. "There was only one vessel, m' lud," said he. "She was christened the Helen, but she lost her 'h' in the chops of the Channell."

Coddle Themselves Too Much.

Old people often make the mistake of coddling themselves too much, says a physician in What to Eat. Thus they cause a weakening of the vital forces before the advance of age has done so. Nature never intended that a man should be put into a hothouse at sixty and kept there as a delicate plant. Too much solicitude about the health of such a person may be the actual cause of death. The vitality of the person may be somewhat lessened at sixty, but the man or woman whose health has received a fair amount of attention is not by any means ready to be shelved at that age. All that is required is a little lessening of the burden of life and a little more care of the health.

Facts About Bath Brick.

Few would connect the common bath brick of our kitchens with a caprice of nature or would credit that there is but one spot on the entire globe where these scouring blocks can be manufactured. Yet so it is, for all bath bricks are made at Bridgewater, in Somersetshire, and there only, because the river Parret deposits for a distance of a few hundred yards only the peculiar compound of sand and slime of which they are composed. Nowhere else in the world is a similar compound to be found.—London Mail.

More Stoical Than Red Indians.

No red Indians were ever more callous to pain than the aborigines of Australia. In their tribal fights, which still occur frequently, the severest wounds are treated with indifference. Old Australian settlers are fond of telling a famous story of a tribal chief who walked sixty miles with a spear sticking clear through his body before he could get help to pull it out. They insist that the story is true.

PROSPECTS LOOK BRIGHT IN ENNISMORE

showed their support and enthusiasm for Sir Wilfrid Laurier. It showed that the people of Peterborough were for Laurier, who was certain to be re-elected to power on November 3rd next. When the people came to look at the question of politics, as a business proposition, they would see the necessity of returning the Liberal Government, which had brought the country to its present very prosperous condition.

Mr. Kendry had not been a representative of the people, for he had not looked after their wants or requirements. It might be said that he was in the Opposition to oppose the objects of the Government. But Government must have done something for the good of the country, and had the needs and requirements of Peterborough and the county been brought to the attention of the Government, we would have received our share of the improvements, but the Government knew nothing of our wants because the representative of the riding was silent.

Since receiving the nomination, Mr. Hall had seen that there were several improvements needed in the riding required, as well as better postal facilities in the town of Peterboro. There was but one wicket, while two wickets and a parcel delivery were absolutely necessary. Mr. Hall reported the existing conditions to the Postmaster-General and the Minister of Public Works, and succeeded in having $4,000 appropriated for these improvements.

A wharf at Burleigh was also an absolute necessity, as there was great danger of accidents, and even loss of life, under the present conditions. Mr. Hall was successful in having $1200 appropriated to construct a new wharf. New armouries were also required. A certain sum of money was being spent by the Government to encourage our young men and boys to join the militia and it was thought that Peterborough should receive its share of the expenditure, and an appropriation of $10,000 and $20,000 in the supplementary estimates was secured to purchase a site and go ahead with the erection of the building. The riding was not getting more than it was entitled to, but these were some of the advantages to be derived by having a representative on the Government side.

The completion of the Trent Valley Canal would mean a great commercial advantage for the people of West Peterborough. The Government had taken hold of the matter in a business like way, but at present it was closed at both ends, and Mr. Hall felt it was his duty to see that it was opened at both ends. It was for the best interests of the riding to have a representative as a member of the Laurier Government, which was bound to be sustained.

Mr. Hall referred to the advancement in the trade of the country which had gone forward with leaps and bounds. He spoke of the effect of the British Preference which stimulated the trade between Canada and Great Britain. There was another method of stimulating trade, however, and that was by the establishing of refrigerator cars, cold storage warehouses and cold storage chambers in the ocean steamers which meant that all perishable goods could be shipped to England and arrive there in a perfect condition. In 1896 only $1,000,000 of butter was shipped to England and that was not considered first-class butter. But in 1903 no less than $7,000,000 worth of butter was shipped to England and was used by the best class of people, and was pronounced "a little better than the best," when compared with that from other countries.

The Conservatives would say that Providence was with Laurier, but as Sir Wilfrid had said, "If Providence is with us why should the people be against us?" But more than Providence was needed in shipping butter and other such goods to other countries, and the establishing of cold storage was not an act of Providence. Cold storage was known during the time of the Conservatives, but their time was taken up in intriguing one with another and they did not consider questions which would be for the best interests of the country. The reforms of the Liberal party characterised all the different parts of the Government. In reference to cheese, the exports in 1896 amounted to $13,000,000, while in 1903 it had grown to $24,000,000, and it now landed on the English market in a perfect state. The exports of hams and bacon had, during the Liberal rule, increased from $4,400,000, to over $16,000,000. Eggs, poultry and other such produce also show startling increases, evidencing the great prosperity of the farming classes. This was the result of the prudent and wise administration of the Government, and went to explain why the people were, throughout the Dominion, in favour of Sir Wilfrid.

Mr. Hall showed how the trade of Canada had increased as a whole during the past 25 years. During the 18 years of Conservative rule the imports made but slight, if any, advancement, but under Liberal rule there was a steady and continuous growth. In 1896 the total imports into Canada were $118,000,000, while in 1903 they had grown to $241,000,000. Regarding exports, it was shown that the growth in this respect had been remarkable under the Liberal regime the figures being in 1896 $121,000,000, as compared with $225,000,000 in 1903. The total trade of Canada had increased very rapidly during the past seven years, being last $239,000,000 in 1896, while it was double that amount in 1903. No other country had such a record as this or could compare with Canada in reference to its increase of trade. We must give credit to the Government which had exercised brains, judgment and care in the administration of all departments in the best interests of the people generally. The high tariff of the Conservatives prevented these advancements being made, but the policy of the Liberals was a wise policy and one which would mean continued prosperity and success if pursued in the future, and it would be pursued if the country remained true to Sir Wilfrid, as he felt sure it would do. Mr. Hall showed the increase in the establishing of new railways which meant the opening up of new territories and the betterment of all in the vicinity of them. He also dwelt with other features of the policy of the Government which had met with such satisfactory results.

Sir Wilfrid had given perfect satisfaction during his eight years of power and why should he not be given a further chance to promote prosperity and happiness everywhere. The riding of West Peterborough should show their appreciation of the satisfactory administration of the Government by returning a member to that Government.

Mr. Hall had every confidence that the electors of West Peterborough would return him as member by a handsome majority. Since the last election the townships of Harvey, Galway and Cavendish had been added to this riding and he believed these would all give Liberal majorities. The prospects in the other districts were better than ever before and he would look upon Ennismore for a handsome majority and to return a member of the Government which was certain to be sustained.

HON. J. R. STRATTON.

Mr. Stratton was the next speaker. After he had congratulated the audience on its splendid proportions, he spoke of Mr. Hall as a man of undoubted ability, and great energy, and whose public, business and private career could be inquired into much more closely, and bear scrutiny far better than many of those who had adopted the policy of personal detraction. Mr. Stratton said that personally he had always discussed public questions. He would not prostitute the political platform, as the pulpit had been prostituted in Peterborough in this regard. It was not a question of the election of Mr. Hall or Mr. Kendry, from a personal point of view. The question was whether this riding should keep in power the present administration, under which every interest and every class had enjoyed, and was enjoying, prosperity. It was a question as to whether the constituency was satisfied with Mr. Kendry's services in the House, and not Mr. Kendry personally.

If Mr. Kendry, as he says, has not the time to attend to his private business and devote the needed attention to the wants of West Peterborough, wasn't it time for a change—to elect a representative who had the time, who had the will, who had the ability to attend to, and look after, the interests of West Peterborough? If Mr. Kendry could only spend a few days in Parliament during the session, if he acknowledges himself, that he could not, why should we not take him at his word and give him the opportunity he said he desired to attend to his own business? This was a question for the electors to consider. The question for the farmers of Ennismore to consider was not the personality of Mr. Hall or Mr. Kendry, but it was this: They remembered the conditions that prevailed in 1896; they remembered that their lands sold for $30 an acre; they knew to-day it was worth $50 an acre. They knew that mortgages on the farms in this and other townships, had been largely reduced, if not paid off altogether. They knew that there was not now one chattel mortage were there were three even ten years ago. They knew that barns had been built, silos erected, dwellings improved, cheese factories enlarged, butter factories established; that there had been a better market created for all the products of the farm, and the foundation of the country. The farmers as a class were infinitely more prosperous, contented and happy now than they were ten years ago. What had brought this about? Was it the Opposition, which Mr. Kendry supports,—or the Government which Mr. Hall now stands for? Eight years ago Sir Wilfrid Laurier asked to be given a chance; the chance was given and he has been able to bring about conditions unprecedented in the history of the country. (Cheers.) Mr. Kendry talked about protection for the woollen industry, and that alone. He was not sent to Ottawa to look after only his own business but the people's, and if he had only given one-tenth of the time, attention and effort to the people's affairs that he has given to his own personal interests, he would have established, what he does not now possess in the remotest degree, some slight claim upon the electors for re-election. The tariff was an important question, it had to be dealt with in the light in which it would affect the people at large. One man's raw product was another man's finished article. It was an easy matter to rant from a church pulpit, but it was a different matter to adjust a tariff that would do general justice to all interests concerned. The preferential tariff with Great Britain had done a great deal for Canada and to no class more than to the farmers, who by virtue o fthe preference had secured an enlarged demand for their produce in the best market in the world—the Old Country market, and the country might look forward to a continuation of the benefits of prosperity, progress and general advancement which had attended and followed the application of the Liberal tariff policy. The immigration policy of the Government had been marvellously strong and successful. Last year 130,000 was added to the population of Canada, largely composed of good, solid, Old Country stock, Englishmen, Irish and Scotch, the stock which has made the township of Ennismore and the other townships of the county, the constituents of the most thrifty, solid, law-abiding and progressive counties in any land. Ignorant men—wilfully ignorant—men of contracted purblind partisan ideas—"Tories" disguised in the clerical garb, may denounce the peopling of the North-west with Anglo-Saxon settlers such as are, and have been, coming in, but the people of Canada, and the people of the Mother Land, would resent an insult to their race, even when clothed with the authority of the pulpit, which dealt with "facts" that did not exist. Statistics show that of the 130,000 or more settlers brought into the country last year by the Liberal Government, 42,000 were from Great Britain and Ireland, and 50,000 Americans, all good Anglo-Saxon blood.

Mr. Stratton said, "Think of the possibilities of the development which will result from this alone! Think what it will mean to the manufacturing and producing interests of the country! Think what it will mean to the workmen of all classes and in all trades! Think what it will mean to every merchant and storekeeper! Think of the demands these settlers will make upon every factory in the older parts of Canada, and then think what justification Mr. Kendry, and his pastoral political colleague, have for denouncing the immigration policy of the Liberal Government. There were old men as well as young men who "should get at the truth." Mr. Stratton then dealt with the G. T. P. project, the expenditures, and the good results under Liberal rule, the surplus revenues which a prosperous country had brought under decreased taxation, and the decrease of the public debt under Liberal rule, and its increase under Conservative rule. He also dealt with the rapid growth and great prosperity of Peterborough under Liberal rule, and its improved condition as a market for the farmers, and closed with an appeal to the electors to elect a supporter of so good and prosperous a Government.

LAMENTED DEATH OF BARNEY CONWAY

Particulars of a Death Which was Announced Some Time Ago.

The announcement was made in the Examiner some weeks ago of the death of Barney Conway, a man, who until his removal to the Western States some years ago, was well known here.

The following particulars of his death are obtained from a newspaper published in the town in which his death occurred:

"The funeral of Barney Conway, of Overton, who died at that place on Tuesday, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from McDougald's undertaking parlours. The young man had been very ill for eight weeks preceding his death with typhoid fever, but there was something unusual about his case which baffled the skill of the attending physicians, and it was decided to hold a post-mortem examination. It was found that the cause of death was due, not to the typhoid fever, but to an inflammation of the lining of the heart, together with a clot of blood on one of the valves. This produced a peculiar sound about the heart which the physicians were at a loss to account for.

The deceased was employed by the Sierra Nevada Woodland Lumber Co. as head engineer of the donkey engine, and was considered one of the best men in their employ. He was a man of exemplary habits, and had many friends who will mourn his loss, and miss him from his accustomed place.

His long illness was spent in the company's hospital at Overton, where he was attended constantly by a professional nurse, and given the best of medical attention. But with such a condition of the heart existing it was impossible to save his life.

His relatives in Canada were notified of his demise, who requested he should be buried by a Catholic priest. Accordingly Father Gleeson, who was away, was notified, and reached here last night for the purpose of conducting the last rites.

Superintendent Bliss ran a special train from Overton, for the benefit of the many friends who wished to attend the funeral. Deceased was 38 years of age.

OBITUARY.

Death of James J. Gormaly Last Evening After a Lengering Illness.

Mr. James J. Gormaly, who has been in ill health for the past two years, passed away on Tuesday evening, at his late residence, 674 Reid street, aged 45 years. The deceased was up to a few years ago engaged with the Dickson Company, in whose employ he had been for twenty years. He was a man of sterling qualities and integrity, and held the respect of the entire community.

He leaves a sorrowing wife and four small children to mourn his demise, besides a mother living in town and three sisters, Mrs. W. J. Weatherhead, Toronto, Mrs. E. Hickey, Barrie, and Mrs. J. White, town.

The funeral will take place on Thursday morning at nine o'clock to St. Peter's cathedral, thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

BELIEVED FIRING WAS NOT MISTAKE

Russian Deliberately Fired Upon the Fishing Trawlers.

HAD NO ATTACK OF NERVES

Commander Full of Vodka and Champagne—Vagaries of Wild Marksmen—Minute Details of the Injuries Inflicted Upon the Trawlers—Demand for Speedy Action Demanded by London Papers

London, Oct. 26.—A despatch from Hull to The Times says that the correspondent as the result of his investigation, is of the opinion that the attack on the British trawlers by the Russian second Pacific squadron was a deliberate act, perpetrated with knowledge of its character.

Panic Story Discounted.

London, Oct. 26.—The Times' correspondent at Hull says the Russian attack on the fishing fleet was premeditated. The correspondent argues that the fact that the first ships of the squadron steamed calmly by "disposes of the fiction that the Russian officers had an attack of nerves," and then contends that it is ridiculous to suppose that Russian men-of-war, largely manned by Finns, could have mistaken the trawlers for anything but fishing boats.

"Besides," the correspondent says, "such excuses as have been advanced on behalf of the Russians do not even allege ignorance; they suggest some mistake or a menacing movement by the trawlers. Then the firing was from more than one ship and was commenced and stopped by orders."

The correspondent minutely details the injuries inflicted upon the trawlers, and asserts that "every shot was about 2½ in diameter at the point of entry, evidently bullets from machine guns, whilst the trawlers also were struck by a bursting shell, of which a skipper picked up fragments. The Moulmein had a hole six fifteen inches long and eight inches wide at the point of entry, evidently made by a shell. It is wonderful that the Moulmein and the Mino escaped the fate of the Crane, for the Russian gunners made first-rate practice and must be complimented on their marksmanship. At the same time one cannot swallow the yarn that they were paralyzed by terror or that darkness prevented them from distinguishing the vessels they were firing at."

Finally, the correspondent contends, "The whole affair is compatible with the idea of a drunken commander yielding to the temptation to have a little fun among British fishermen, who are nothing more than peasants in the eyes of a well-born Russian, and according to the ideas of a Russian officer, especially one under the influence of vodka or champagne, a few roubles would settle the killing of a poor brute of a peasant."

Speedy Action Is Demanded.

The morning papers display great patience over the delay of the Russian Government in according satisfaction for the Dogger Bank affair. The Emperor's communication, while it relieves the immediate tension, is held to be only a personal expression of regret, and it is argued that unless the Russian Government speedily follow suit a situation of the greatest danger will arise. Editorial articles demand that the second Pacific squadron must be stopped in its irresponsible career, for otherwise there is no safety for the shipping of any nationality.

Home Fleet Ready.

The Standard asks: "Is this ill-omened squadron, with its demoralized crews and incompetent officers, to continue its crazy career and become an intolerable nuisance and menace to the civilized world?" And with other papers declares that there will be work for the British navy unless Russia recalls or stops its fleet at some neutral port for investigation and punishment of the guilty parties. In this connection the greatest satisfaction is expressed at the unanimity of foreign expressions of opinion in support of Great Britain's attitude in the matter, and especially at German denunciation of the conduct of the Baltic fleet.

Public interest and even anxiety shows not the slightest sign of waning. The Russo-Japanese war is almost forgotten, and the papers are occupied almost exclusively with the North Sea affair. Not a public dinner or function of any kind but the speakers refer in unmeasured terms to the conduct of the Russian officers and urge the Government to be firm in its demand for satisfaction. So far the attitude of the Government meets with the complete approval of the public, who are greatly gratified with the instructions of the Admiralty for co-operation between the Mediterranean, Channel and home squadrons, should necessity arise.

Is It to Go On?

The home fleet, consisting of nine battleships and three cruisers, which had been stationed at Cromarty, left Tuesday night for the south to be in readiness for any necessary concentration. All leaves have been stopped in the navy, and in the unlikely event of the situation becoming so serious as to need it, a strong naval force could quickly be concentrated.

That a possibility of dangerous developments lurks in the protraction of the crisis is seen in the fact that the Russian correspondents of British papers are beginning to send rather inflammable despatches. For example, The Telegraph's St. Petersburg correspondent this morning says: "In military circles among the less responsible officers and in marine circles of almost all grades, the conviction prevails that sooner or later war with England is inevitable and that the present moment is as auspicious as any other."

Russians Are Glad.

The Standard's Moscow correspondent also asserts that "the majority of the Russian people find more or less satisfaction in the insult offered to England."

Coaling on a wholesale scale continues. Over a dozen steamers are now loading at Welsh ports for Russian account, evidently for the second Pacific squadron.

ON A CHARGE OF MURDER.

Jury Returns Verdict of Wilful Murder Against Mrs. Dee.

Ingersoll, Oct. 26.—Further evidence of a sensational nature was adduced at the inquest on the death of William Dee at Salford last night. The jury were out about three-quarters of an hour, and returned the following verdict: "Mrs. William Dee, otherwise called Lena Dee, on the 10th of October, in the year aforesaid, at her home in the County of Oxford, did feloniously, wilfully and of malice aforethought kill and murder her husband, William Dee, by administering strychnine as a poison." Mrs. Dee will be arraigned in the Police Court here to-day on the charge of murder.

Found Guilty.

St. Catharines, Oct. 26.—Albert Flood, who claims he was hurt by being thrown from a street car last week, was charged in the police court yesterday with creating a disturbance on a street car. He was found guilty and let go on suspended sentence. The conductor swore that Flood was abusive to a fellow passenger and he put him off. Flood ran after the car and tripped and fell on the track. He was unconscious when picked up.

BRUTAL MURDER IN WINNIPEG

Former Deseronto Lady Killed by Her Husband.

Robt. Taylor Kills His Wife With an Axe —No Apparent Motive for Crime.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Winnipeg, October 26th. — Early this morning Robert W. Taylor, a teamster who lived in the west end of the city, entered all the rooms of the inmates of his house, with a lamp and a bloody axe in his hands, and said that he had murdered his wife. On investigation Mrs. Taylor was found lying on a couch in her room fully dressed, with her head split open and quite dead. The murderer, who was sober, and apparently in his senses, was immediately arrested. He formerly belonged to Cameron, Ont. His wife's maiden name was Rathbur, and she came from Deseronto, Ont. No motive for the crime is known.

MR. R. R. HALL'S NOMINATION

His Papers Were Handed to Sheriff Hall This Afternoon.

Mr. Sheriff Hall, the returning officer for West Peterborough in the forthcoming election, this afternoon received the nomination paper of Mr. R. R. Hall, the Liberal candidate. Until the hour of going to press this was the only name placed in nomination. The time for nominations expires to-morrow at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Jas. Kendry in both of the public speeches that he has delivered in the present campaign in Peterborough, has referred to what he terms the "depressed condition of the iron industry" in Canada, and classes that industry with the Woollen and cotton industries.

The following paragraph, taken from the Sault Ste. Marie News, an independent journal, may be taken as an authoritative statement, and shows that Mr. Kendry's professed fears for the industry are groundless:—"A member of the executive Lake Superior Corporation says that the improvement shown in the iron market in Canada should be of great advantage to the company's foundry as better prices would be procured for all classes of iron. Orders have been placed to keep the foundry running full capacity for a number of months."

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Mrs. Dalton Ullyot and Mr. A. E. Coulthard This Morning.

A quiet wedding took place at 11 o'clock this morning at the residence of Mr. R. R. Hall, 218 McDonel street, when Mrs. Dalton Ullyott was married to Mr. A. E. Coulthard, formerly of Oshawa, now of Winnipeg. Rev. Dr. Torrance was the officiating clergyman. The groom is assistant manager of the Canadian Oil Company, and is well known in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Coulthard left on the 11.45 G.T.R. train this morning for Winnipeg.

PORTER PRESTON'S SUDDEN DEATH

Prominent Belmont Man Died Yesterday.

HEART FAILURE.

Foul Play at First Suspected—Cut on Face Lent Colour to This—Deceased a Prominent Man.

A sensation was caused in Havelock this morning by the report circulated there that Mr. Porter Preston, a prominent citizen of Belmont township, and a man known to nearly everyone in the county, had been found dead in the woods, with a bullet hole in his head.

The last part of the report proved to be untrue, although unfortunately, that part referring to his death was substantiated by facts, but his death, sad though it was, was not the result of foul play, as was suspected.

It appears that yesterday morning Mr. Preston, who is a farmer living not far from Havelock, went out into the woods for the purpose of doing some chopping. He did not return to the house for dinner, but nothing was thought of this at the house, but when tea time came and he still had not come home, alarm was felt, and a search was made for him.

He was found lying over a log quite dead, and had a small cut on his face, this cut was what first gave colour to the suspicion that he had been shot, but later medical examination showed that this was not the case, the cut having been made by falling on a sharp pile of wood. It was found that Mr. Preston had died from heart failure. Deceased had been apparently in his usual health when he left the house and was expecting threshers at his place to-day.

His death has caused a great shock to the community, where the deceased was a very prominent man, and one whom everyone respected. He was connected with municipal matters during his life time.

THE KEYSTONE OF PROSPERITY.

The despatches state that when Hon. Mr. Sifton, Minister of the Interior spoke at Calgary, N.W.T., he attracted a gathering of three thousand persons and that as many more were turned away unable to gain admittance. What does this signify?

Neither Mr. Sifton nor any other man on earth could have drawn such a crowd in 1896, because the people were not there. Those who were brought together the other day were brought there. If the question of the provincial allowance to the Territories per head had been settled, even two short years ago, it would have been done on a basis of 120,000 of population. Now there is a population of 500,000.

Every body in this eastern part of Canada realises that this great growth of population in the west, due to Mr. Sifton's energetic immigration policy, is the very keystone of the whole structure of prosperity now prevailing in the Dominion. The incoming settlers have brought in a great deal of goods, of stock, of household furniture and of farm implements, but they have also brought in innumerable wants, which the factories and merchants of older Canada must supply, and much of the activity in these Eastern Provinces is caused by the endeavour to supply these wants. It is a source not at all likely to fail.

Conservative writers and speakers are fond of sneering at the claim that Liberal administration has contributed to the prosperity of the country. Yet that this influx of population has been produced by the measures taken to bring it about can be shown as conclusively as any effect can be shown to proceed from its cause. The Conservative Government had the same "goods" to dispose of, but it could not even give them away. Mr. Sifton went deliberately to work to call the world's attention to his "goods," and the success which has crowned his efforts can neither be denied nor sneered away. It remains the greatest piece of administrative work this Dominion has ever seen, and it constitutes the backbone of the prosperity we are enjoying. The elector who votes for a Government candidate on the 3rd of November votes to reward faithful and able public service, and also votes to insure a continuance of it.

In this development Peterborough has its share of interest. Every new settler in the North-west creates a demand upon the factories and commerce of older Canada. He must have ploughs, hoes, spades, axes, saws, reapers, furniture, clothing, boots and shoes and the market he must come to is eastern Canada. Multiply this one settler a million times and you make the home market for our factories and merchants a million times more valuable.

Mr. Kendry, speaking at the Borden meeting, made it a charge against this Government that "they are bringing people into this country." He does not approve of Mr. Sifton's immigration policy which last year brought 130,000 people into the North-west. Mr. Kendry is wrong, he is short sighted. He made a demagogic appeal to the prejudices of Peterborough working men. But he over-reached himself. North-west settlers won't compete with Ontario or Peterborough labour, but they will work with it. They will give Peterborough and Ontario working men work, through the supplies they must buy in the east. If you will promise to vote for Mr. Kendry on a personal grounds, he will say Sifton's Immigration Policy is good as he says "The Laurier Government is all right."

COST OF THE RAILWAY.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in a recent address, quoted the figures of Mr. Collingwood Schreiber, the Government Engineer, with regard to the cost of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

The railway between Quebec and Moncton, will cost $25,000 per mile, and the railway between Quebec and Winnipeg, $28,000 per mile. Add twenty-five per cent. as Mr. Fielding has done, and the cost of the railway from Moncton to Quebec, 400 miles, will be $12,500,000, and for the 1,475 miles from Winnipeg to Quebec, $51,625,000. The interest on construction is estimated to be $7,031,975. So that the total capital of $64,125,000 and interest of $7,031,975, makes a total cost of $71,156,975.

Now, the cash interest upon that sum for seven years, is estimated by the officers of the Government to be worth $10,655,562. Upon the other side, in the mountain section, Mr. Barker, Conservative, of Hamilton, estimated it at $25,000 per mile. This makes a total cost of the mountain section of $26,882,000. The Government guarantees the interest on three-fourths of that amount, which is $20,160,000, and pays the interest for seven years, which represents a cash value of $8,177,794.

"Therefore," said Sir Wilfrid, 'the total cash value of the interest which you are going to pay for the two sections is $18,833,356. Thus, according to the contract which we have made, if the road is as well built, as we are sure it will be the total outlay of the Canadian people to secure this great enterprise from ocean to ocean will be a little more than thirteen millions. This will provide for the financial obligations of the Government, and if paid out of this year's surplus ,would leavve a balance of $3,000,000. Is there anything in all that to scare Canadians?"

Best of all, the new transcontinental road, will be an all-Canadian enterprise on Canadian soil, and serving a Canadian people, and a Canadian people only.

WHY CHANGE?

Who, except the strongest partisan, can see the slightest earthly reason for a change of Government?

Under the Liberal Government we hae a condition of prosperity, growth and advancement, unity of citizenship and hopefulness for the future that can't be improved—by the substitution of the present disorganized Opposition.

All classes and all interests are prosperous and thriving.

The farmers are prosperous.

Working men are busy.

Manufacturers are busy.

The only change that manufacturers want is an act of Parliament to lengthen a working day from 24 to 26 hours, and,

To water the stock of mechanics, so that they shall have two mechanics where we now have one.

For in no other way can some of them seen any prospect of keeping within sight of filling their orders.

Commerce is expanding.

National unity is growing.

Population is increasing.

The North-west is filling up.

Imperial bonds are strengthening.

There's a big surplus in the treasury.

Good times, in the highest and broadest sense, are an accompaniment of the rule of the Liberal Govment.

There is no reason for a change—there's no time for a change, the country is too busy looking after its business, which is so booming under a National policy.

The Conservatives of London have a higher sense of self-respect than those of North Toronto. The latter accepts Mr. Foster as a candidate and Mr. Montague is not an acceptable candidate for London—a local candidate with a good record is preferred. Why is this—both men are on a parity as good talkers and both carry the odour of the "nest of traitors." Why should one be taken and the other left?

LABOUR FINDS A GOOD DEMAND

Report to Labour Gazette of Conditions in Peterborough.

Nearly all Classes of Labour in Demand—A Satisfactory Report.

Another evidence of the fact that labour in Peterborough is in good demand and that the conditions are favourable to workmen is that furnished by the report of Mr. W. J. Johnston, the Peterborough correspondent to the Labour Gazette just published. It follows:—

During September outside activity has been very general. The new street car system is completed, the company has added several new cars to the equipment, and street car employees were very busy. The industrial exhibition was held on the 26th, 27th and 28th instant, and a good display of agricultural products was exhibited. Good progress is being made on the construction of the Young Women's Christian Association building, the corner stone of which was laid on September 8, and which will give employment to a large number of skilled mechanics. The Canadian Machine Telephone Company is engaged putting in its plant for the new telephone system. The Taylor Hall Co., is busy making cement brick, a new article used in place of ordinary brick. Outside labour of all classes was in good demand. Bricklayers and masons were exceptionally busy. Commercial activity was evidenced by the heavy importation of coal during the month. Banks reported business good, with money circulation heavy. The labour market was free from all unrest.

A bad fire occurred here in the compound department of the C. G. E. works. The loss will run into the thousands of dollars, fully covered by insurance. About twenty-five men were thrown out of employment.

Agriculture.—Harvesting is finished in this district; fall wheat sowing is also completed, and the farmers in general are very busy with fall ploughing and threshing. The yield of grain in all lines was good. Much interest was taken in the industrial fair, and produce of every kind from all over the district was shown by the farmers. The exhibits are very much above the average, and superior in number and quality to those of former years.

Lumbering.—The lumbering industry is very active. All the sawmills were running to their full capacity, and it is a difficult matter to get any stock ahead for winter use.

Manufacturing.—Industrial conditions in some shops were active, but most of the iron-workers shops were quiet. Woodworking industries were especially active. The Cereal Milling industry here was very busy, as were all the other grist mills, some of them running night and day to fill orders. The J. J. Turner Company, awning and tent manufacturers, have been exceptionally busy supplying goods for the exhibitions throughout the district. The Matthews pork packing establishment reported business very satisfactory in all branches. The Colonial Ice Company is doing an extensive business exporting goods throughout the Dominion.

Mining.—In some parts of the northern district mining is being strongly advocated by experts, as the ore beds are very rich.

Railroad construction and employment.—Extensive work continues to be done in street railway construction.

Condition of particular trades.

Building trades.—Bricklayers and masons were exceptionally busy, as were carpenters, joiners, painters and plasterers. Painters have pretty well caught up with the season's work, but were pretty busy. Plumbers and builders' labourers were busy. Gas and steam-fitters and stone-cutters were fairly busy.

Metal, engineering and shipbuilding trades.—Iron moulders, iron workers and helpers, find work fair. Steam engineers, electrical workers, linemen, blacksmiths, sheet metal workers, horseshoers and jewellers were busy. Machinists, brass workers and tool sharpeners found employment only fair. Coremakers, boilermakers, and bicycle workers were rather inactive.

Woodworking and furnishing trades.—Woodworkers in all lines were busily employed. Upholsterers, varnishers and polishers and gilders were fairly well employed, but pattern makers experienced a slackness of work.

Allied and printing trades.—These trades had only a fair month.

Clothing trades.—Journeymen tailors were busy, but garment workers were only fairly employed. Boot and shoe workers found employment satisfactory.

Food and tobacco preparation.—Bakers and confectioners had an active month. Butchers and meat cutters were also active, with ice handlers fairly busy. The cigar trade was steady.

Leather trades.—Leather workers were becoming busy on fall goods.

Miscellaneous.—Barbers, broom makers, clerks and stenographers, delivery employees, furriers, hotel and restaurant employees and laundry workers were busy.

Transport.—Railroad workers in all lines are getting back to a normal state. The summer season has closed, and railway transportation has been exceptionally heavy. Steamboat employees of all classes have been exceptionally busy up to the present. Street railway employees, cab and hackmen, carters, teamsters and expressmen were busily employed.

Unskilled labour.—This class of labour was fairly well employed.

District Notes.

All villages throughout the district report business in all lines good. Trade with farmers for their produce finds a ready market, and the supply in some cases cannot meet the demand. Prices were high. The Lakefield Cement Company, of Lakefield, is very busy; its cement finds a ready market. Saw and grist mills still continue very busy. General stores in villages were doing a good trade. The apple crop is a very fair one, and a number of buyers were busy picking with several men throughout the district. Current market quotations were as follows:— Wood, soft, $5 per cord, hard, $7 per cord; coal, $7 per ton; potatoes, per bag, 65 cents; apples, per bag, 50 to 60 cents; butter, 21 cents per pound; eggs, 18 to 20 cents per dozen; chickens, per pair, 50 to 75 cents; ducks, per pair, 80 to 90 cents. Cheese-making still continues very active; another large shipment was made this month. The farmers find this one of the best paying industries connected with their business. The root crop is especially good.

Workers Win Strike.

Glace Bay, N.S., Oct. 26.—The difficulty between machinists of the Dominion Iron & Steel Company and the management, with respect to the substitution of unskilled labor for experienced machinists in the shops of the company, has been settled, the management conceding the request of the men. Hereafter unskilled labor in the machine shops will be employed as helpers only.

JAPS LOST 15,879 MEN.

Costly Price of Shakhe River Battle Figured Up—Armies Are in Close Touch Again.

Tokio, Oct. 26.—Field Marshal Oyama reports that the Japanese total casualties were 15,879 officers and men at the battle of Shakhe River.

Armies Close.

Gen. Oku's Headquarters, Oct 26.—It is reported unofficially that the right army buried 3,500 Russian dead, the central army 1,500 and the left army about 5,000.

The armies average 600 yards apart, and at places only fifty yards separate them. The men are constantly in the trenches, and by placing their caps on their bayonets draw scores of bullets from their opponents.

The Russian artillery is searching the Japanese lines and skirmishes are almost continuous.

Oku's Casualty List.

Gen. Oku's Headquarters, Oct. 26.—The official report of the Japanese casualties from Oct. 10 to Oct. 22 is as follows:

Killed—Officers 46, men 823.

Wounded—Officers 213, men 5,340.

The first indications of winter are appearing. At night the thermometer shows several degrees below freezing point. Heavy clothing and overcoats have been issued to the men, who, apparently, are not affected. Elaborate preparations are being made to provide for the comfort of the troops during the winter months.

Kuropatkin Chief.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 26.—An Imperial ukase, dated Oct. 23, appoints Gen. Kuropatkin commander-in-chief of the Russian army.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

Every Business House in Hague, N.W.T., Wiped Out.

Rosthern, N.W.T., Oct. 26.—A disastrous fire visited Hague Village, north of here, Monday afternoon. The fire started in Leland Hotel, which was totally destroyed, some of the inmates having to jump from the windows. The flames quickly spread and destroyed almost every business house in the place. Among the losers are: Leland Hotel, Henry Fisher, proprietor, total loss $20,000; Canadian Territories Corporation Implement Agency, $3,000; L. P. Friesen, hardware, $9,000; T. E. McHaffy, general merchant, building $3,000; John Kehler, general merchant, $8,500; Henry Bowen, livery stable, $1,500. Mr. Fisher, proprietor of the hotel, lost $200 in cash and all his books. He had $5,000 insurance. Friesen had $5,000 insurance and others were fairly well insured.

Fire At Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Oct. 26.—The Winnipeg Casket Company's factory on Selkirk avenue was last night totally destroyed by fire. The loss is $30,000.

Found in Whirlpool.

Niagara Falls, Oct. 26.—At noon Monday the body of a woman was taken from the Whirlpool. The recovery of the body was made by Harvey Pinneo, who was assisted by a number of boys. The body was that of a woman probably 28 years of age. The remains were in an advanced state of decomposition, the features being unrecognizable and no hair being left upon the head. It is supposed the body is that of Mrs. Johnston, who was seen to pass over the American falls during the time the Knights Templars were in conclave over the river. This is probably the body that has been floating in the pool for some days past and which was supposed to be that of a man.

Father Twohey Dies.

Kingston, Oct. 26.—Rev. Father Twohey, parish priest at Trenton, died yesterday morning at Mount Clements, Mich., whither he had gone for treatment for inflammatory rheumatism and which was followed by typhoid fever. Deceased was born at Lindsay. It is likely the body will be brought here for burial in St. Mary's Cathedral.

The Lennie Case.

Toronto, Oct. 26.—Malcolm Lennie must stand trial on a charge of assaulting his wife with intent to kill, and P. C. Dodds, who made one arrest, will have to face the Police Commissioners because he neglected for five minutes to go to the woman's assistance after having been told of the occurrence.

Prong Pierces Her Brain.

Preston, Oct. 26.—Mary Sachs, aged 18, of Doon, met with a shockingly sudden death Monday evening. She fell from the steps at her mother's home, landing on an iron grate, a prong of which entered her eye, piercing the brain. Death resulted a few minutes after.

Fine Boat Is Lost.

Fort William, Oct. 26.—Steamship men of the great lakes are in grave doubt as to the fate of the steamer Rosemount, which left here with tows for Quebec and Minnedosa, laden with wheat, on the 17th, and is now many days overdue.

To Forward a Protest.

London, Oct. 26.—The Liverpool Chamber of Commerce has decided to forward a protest against the recent Dominion bill imposing a special duty on goods dumped into Canada, whether from Britain or elsewhere.

RARE SELF-CONTROL

Great Britain Exercises as a Nation a Pre-eminent Virtue.

DELAYS OF THE DIPLOMATS

Trying Situation Met With Confident Reason in Face of Excited Public Opinion—Colonial Secretary Says Firing On Fishers By Russian Baltic Fleet Was Result of Murderous Intention.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 26.—Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky's reasons for firing into the British fishing fleet remains as great a mystery as ever. The admiral's report of the affair had not been received. Emperor Nicholas has sent to King Edward a message conveying the profoundest regret for the unfortunate affair, coupled with assurances that the families of the victims should receive the fullest reparation. The British Government shows moderation in the note presented to Foreign Minister Lamsdorff yesterday. While it awaits explanation for an act which it characterizes in strong language as unjustifiable, deliberate and unhuman, it makes no threats, fixes no time limit for response and contains no demands, the note specifically states that Great Britain's demands are reserved, pending receipt of an explanation.

Diplomatic Delays.

London, Oct. 26.—The inevitable delays of diplomatic procedure appear to retard a complete and satisfactory settlement of the acute differences between Great Britain and Russia, arising from the deplorable North Sea affair. King Edward has received from Emperor Nicholas himself a cablegram, expressing the deepest regret and practical acknowledgement that Great Britain's peremptory note will meet with a reply conceding every demand for apology for the act of aggresion against the British flag, compensation for sufferers and punishment for the officers for what is everywhere conceded to have been a gigantic blunder, and the Russian Ambassador to the Court of St. James has expressed to Foreign Minister Lansdowne his sorrow and sympathy.

Prepared to Act.

These developments, which came late in the day, have allayed to some extent the deep resentment in the public mind, and the Admiralty last night gave evidence of its appreciation of the necessity of proving that it is prepared actively to support the position of the people of Great Britain and fulfill the expectation of the world, when it issued the following statement:

"On receipt on Oct. 24 of the news of the North Sea tragedy, preliminary orders for mutual support and co-operation were issued as a measure of precaution from the Admiralty to the channel, Mediterranean and home fleets."

Busy Day For Diplomacy.

The day has been one of the busiest in recent years in diplomatic circles here. The Russian Ambassador, who only reached London shortly before midnight, Monday, was an early caller at Lansdowne house and had a long interview with Lord Lansdowne, after which the Foreign Minister drove to Downing street and conferred with Premier Balfour and others, and for the rest of the day was occupied with a mass of matters pertaining to the affair. Almost momentarily the public expected some definite announcement of an official nature, but late this evening the Foreign Office announced that no further statement would be issued last night.

Benckendorff Absorbed.

Count Benckendorff, the Russian Ambassador, was occupied until late yesterday at the Embassy with a mass of cipher despatches, and it was announced that it would be physically impossible to prepare a formal reply in such a short time. While Great Britain is stirred to its depths there has not been the slightest evidence of a repetition of the rowdyism of Monday night, which is condemned on all sides.

Behind the Government.

The speeches of members of the Cabinet and of the House of Commons yesterday in different parts of the country voice the sentiments of Great Britain, and the spirit in which the utterances were met shows that for the moment party differences have been laid aside, and that the country is solidly behind the Government. Lord Selborne, at the Pilgrim's banquet last night, denounced the Dogger Bank affair in the most outspoken terms yet heard from a member of the Cabinet, as "an inexcusable outrage," and a "terrible blunder which would be impossible in either the British or the American navy." Colonial Secretary Lyttleton, too, in another place, spoke in plain terms, saying that "it was impossible to view the affair as other than the result of murderous intention or of wicked negligence."

The post-mortem examination of the bodies of the victims of the Dogger Bank affair was held yesterday at Hull. The proceedings were purely formal, and no official announcement was made; but it is stated positively that both of the dead men bore wounds inflicted both by machine guns and larger guns.

EMBARGO TOUCHES CANADA.

And Lord Onslow May Yet Be Taken At His Word.

London, Oct. 26.—(C.A.P.)—Referring to Lord Onslow's remarks at Buchlyvie, to the effect that the Government would not remit the cattle embargo in deference to British appeals, but might act differently if Canada showed strong feeling, The Glasgow Herald says that Crown Ministers nowadays permit themselves strange liberties in their references to Imperial affairs and suggests that he might find himself in an awkward position if the Dominion breeders jump at the chance of renewing their agitation. Scotch feeders will resent this and suggest the minister's first interest should be the British electors. At this crisis of the Empire, ministers should walk delicately.

ON THE SAFETY OF OVER EATING

The Rule of Choosing the Lesser of Two Evils Applies to the Way You Eat.

I want to know how a man is to know when he has had enough?

The Pilgrim Fathers, I believe, had a quaint saying to the effect that you should always rise from the table feeling as if you could eat some more.

But the question is, how much more?

Just when to stop?

That's the point.

The rule is wrong, because it's no rule at all.

It is inexact and unscientific.

It is lokely to lead to the dangerous habit of eating too little.

And eating too little—or digesting too little, which amounts to the same thing—is the cause of nine-tenths of—the diseases from which humanity suffers to-day.

What is disease?

It is simply uneven balance between waste and repair.

Some organ lacks strength to carry on the special work for which it was created.

Where shall it find the strength it lacks?

In drugs?

Ten thousand times, NO!

Better die than become a hopeless drug fiend.

No; in food.

"Bah," you say, "I eat a plenty of good food every day!"

True, dear friend; but you don't digest it.

And food, undigested, is mere poison.

So, to make food do you good, you must take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The great thing about Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is, that their action does not depend upon stimulative druggery.

They cannot create a habit.

They contain no ingredients to "pick you up," "tone up your nervous system" or furnish whip energy, by calling out your vital reserve force.

They create new strength, force and energy out of your food.

If taken starving they will do you no good at all.

So, eat to live, and live to eat, with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The curse of our present civilization is exhaustion.

And exhaustion, whether of brain, nerves, physical strength, or vital force, is caused by starvation.

Of two evils, it is better to overeat—and prevent indigestion with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets—than to rise from the table, not having eaten enough to repair the exhaustion of your vital forces.

For exhaustion or starvation leads to the most varied forms of sickness or disease, brought on by inability of the weakened vitality to counteract the disease—poisons and microbes.

Whereas the well-fed and well-nourished person, without ever feeling the worse for it, can expose himself to dangers, the mere thought of which would drive the weak, starving dyspeptic into a panic fit.

Good food, well digested, is the great secret of a healthful existence here on earth.

So eat heartily, every day, of the best food you can get, and regulate the working of your digestive machinery with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

As a result you will be astonished to find, how much stronger and livelier you feel, how much more and better work you can do, how much more pleasure you can get out of life, and how your old enemy, that chronic trouble, which has fastened upon your weak spot, wherever it is, will up and away, and ever after leave you in peace, health and comfort.

There's more truth than poetry in all this.

Try it once.

Child Drowns in Niagara.

Niagara Falls, Oct. 26.—Monday morning at 9 o'clock Officer Kelly discovered the body of a female babe floating in the river near the Maid-of-the-Mist landing. The tiny floater was secured and after notifying the proper authorities the body was removed to Undertaker Morse & Son's establishment at the south. The little one was wrapped in a bundle of clothing, and identification of its parents or the mystery of its death may be hard matters to establish. The police are investigating the case.

SWING OF VICTORY

Premier to Address Four More Meetings in Montreal.

SIR WILFRID IS STRENUOUS

Tuesday the Premier Spoke At Sherbrooke and Farnham—Get Your Money Back—Novel Circular Announcement re Mr. Borden's Acceptance of Party Funds—Get Your Money Back—Mr. Blair.

Montreal, Oct. 26.—The Premier has decided to deliver four more speeches in Montreal. On Thursday night, accompanied by Hon. Raymond Prefontaine and Hon. Lomer Gouin, he will address the French-speaking electors at St. Henri; then go to the arena and address Mr. L. A. Rivet's English-speaking supporters, and finally attend a mass meeting of Mr. Camille Piche's constituents in St. Mary's. Other speakers at these meetings will be Senator J. P. B. Casgrain, Senator Cloran, Senator Dandurand and local candidates.

Undeterred by these strenuous efforts, Sir Wilfrid will, on Friday evening, address a mass meeting of the English-speaking electors of the city at Windsor Hall. Besides the district Ministers, it is expected that Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. William Paterson, Minister of Customs, will speak. Vigorous preparations are under way to make the Windsor Hall meeting as striking a success as that of last night.

The Premier spoke yesterday afternoon at Sherbrooke, and at Farnham last evening. On Wednesday night he will speak at Valleyfield, and on Saturday at Three Rivers.

GET YOUR MONEY BACK.

Mr. Borden Lays Down Conditions On Which He Will Receive Contributions.

Montreal, Oct. 26.—The following statement was given out last night from Mr. Borden's campaign headquarters with a request for publication:

There has grown up in the public mind, and not without reason, the impression that campaign subscriptions mean something sinister and indeed, according to present usage, there is much to justify this feeling. At the same time the legitimate expenses of an election campaign are heavy and justifiable, and it is for defraying these outlays that subscriptions are received by both parties. The habit of taking campaign funds from almost any source has become a matter of some notoriety and, having this in mind, Mr. Borden has decided not to accept any contribution from anyone who would afterwards claim any special consideration on account of assistance granted at election time. The leader of the Conservative party has, therefore, issued the following:

To whom it may concern.—To avoid misunderstanding it has been thought best to distinctly declare that the Conservative party will receive subscriptions only from those who favor its general policy, that such subscriptions are not to be understood as creating claims to consideration for any interests likely to be affected by any special feature of that policy, and that no subscriptions are solicited from any such interest. Such a declaration is deemed desirable in order that the leader may have an absolutely free hand in framing his policy in the interest of the whole country upon the return of the party to power. If any subscriptions have been given in other spirit they will be returned on application to James Crathern, Treasurer, Montreal.

MR. BLAIR WILL NOT STUMP.

The Statement Emanating From St. John Pronounced Absurd.

Ottawa, Oct. 26.—The St. John Telegraph's statement that Mr. Blair will take the stump in 48 hours is pronounced absurd by Mr. Blair's friends. People here know, and Mr. Blair has frequently asserted, that he does not intend to re-enter politics.

GOOD CONCERT IN OPERA HOUSE

Three Talented Artists Heard in Delightful Programme

Harold Jarvis, Mrs. Shafor and Miss Helen Davies—Large Audience Present.

Harold Jarvis, the renowned robust tenor, is always certain of a warm welcome from the Peterborough music lovers and there was no exception to the rule when he appeared here last evening supported by two other artists in a concert in the opera house. There was a large audience which thoroughly enjoyed the really excellent programme which was presented and all regretted that we have not a suitable opera house to permit of such concerts being held more frequently. Every number on the programme was a delightful one and every selection was encored with a heartiness which testified to the sympathetic appreciation of the audience. It was in every way a delightful evening's entertainment.

Mr. Jarvis sang last evening with his usual fervor, deep expression, clear enunciation, purity of tone and breadth of power. His voice seemed more powerful than ever, but to those who have heard him for some years past, it seemed as though his voice, though still a grand one, was showing some signs of strain and was not quite as sweet, especially when he was singing fortissimo. But his charm of manner, magnetic personality, delicacy of expression, and sympathetic intrepretation of his numbers, combined with the very fine qualities of his voice, come upon the audience with irresistible force, and he is a favourite from the time he makes his appearance on the stage. Several of his numbers last evening were new to Peterborough audiences, while the others were old favourites which all were pleased to hear rendered by such a famous vocalist. His opening number was an aria, "The Penitent," by Van de Water. On his second appearance he sang Gramer "Stars May Forget," an exquisite number and which was beautifully sung. Mr. Jarvis was to have sung "Du bist meine Blume," by Mine. JAMES, who was to have played the accompaniment, but unfortunately Miss Moger was ill and Mr. Jarvis will sing the number on his next appearance in Peterborough. He said the selection was a great favourite not only in Canada, but in the United States also. By request he sang "Sing Me to Sleep." His last number was "Mary of Argyle." Mr. Jarvis was encored on every occasion.

Mrs. Helen Wyrick Shafor, elocutionist, will be welcomed back to Peterborough at any time. This talented lady created a most favourable impression with the audience last evening, when she demonstrated a really remarkable ability as an entertainer. She has a very pleasing, unaffected manner, an excellent voice and effective stage appearance. She was equally at home in dramatic, pathetic and humourous numbers, displaying a versatility and power of imitation to a high degree. Her first number "Laddie" was excellently given; and everyone in the audience was affected by the pathetic story. Her other numbers, of a humourous nature were, "The Hazing of Variant," "On the Train" and "An April Shower." Mrs. Shafor responded to encores on each appearance.

Peterborough's finest vocalist, Miss Helen Davies, scored a triumph last evening. This young lady appeared upon the programme twice and more than delighted her hearers by her beautiful singing. Her voice, of bell-like purity and sweetness, of great range and breadth of tone, was heard to excellent advantage in her selections, which were sung with artistic effect and warmth of expression. Her numbers were "I'm Alone," from Lily of Killarney, by Benedict, and "Villanelle," by Dell' Acque. For encores she sang "The Japanese Love Song" and "A Dream."

The concert was under the auspices of the Peterborough Lodge, No 111, I.O.O.F. who are to be congratulated upon securing such talented artists.

The stage presented a pretty appearance, being decorated in a tasteful manner. A Heintzman piano of exquisite tone was used for the occasion.

Miss Maude C. Bradley, of Brockville, director, and Prof. Davies were the accompanists.

The concert was a satisfactory success in every way—musical and social. It is understood that the committee of Peterborough Lodge of Oddfellows are very much pleased with the manner in which the tasteful arrangements in connection with the concert were negotiated and carried out by the manager of the concert company, who to their surprise, they found was a lady, Miss Maud Bradley, who also very cleverly gave the accompaniments of the evening. This shows that musical culture and the artistic temperament are not incompatible in a lady with business aptitude, the exercise of business common sense, and honourable implementing of business arrangements. The thanks of the public are due to the Oddfellows for their enterprise in providing the public with so excellent a musical treat.

PRACTICAL POINTERS OF PETERBORO'S PROGRESS

NUMBER FOUR

"Output of the Mills has been Largely Increased"—Shareholder in the Auburn Woollen Mills.

"I understand That the Mill Never had as Many Orders as at Present"—Shareholder in Auburn Woollen Mills.

The factory of the Auburn Woollen Mills Company, shown in the accompanying half-tone cut, is one with the sight of which nearly every Peterborough citizen is familiar, but some of the facts in connection with the operation of it are not as familiar. Mr. Kendry, the Conservative candidate for West Peterborough, is the General Manager of this Company, and in his addresses to the electors he has made statements repeatedly to the effect that the woollen industry in Canada had been ruined by the Liberals through their adoption of the Preferenor.

A prominent gentleman, a Conservative, and a share-holder of the Auburn Woollen Mills, was interviewed by the Examiner yesterday, and this question was put to him:—"What is the condition of the Auburn Woollen Mills to-day, as compared with that of 1896?" and his reply was a significant one. He said:—"Why there is simply no comparison. In 1896 the plant was old and the factory ill-equipped, while to-day it is as modern a mill as can be found. New machinery has been installed, and a complete new sprinkler system placed in the mill, and all this done, mind you, out of the profits of the company."

Mr. Kendry himself stated on Monday night that the mill was a modern one, and well equipped. So that at least on this one point Mr. Kendry and his shareholders are agreed, but upon other and equally essential points there is a wide variation of opinion. Mr. Kendry is not only at logger-heads with his party leader, but is apparently in the same position with those associated with him in the Auburn Mills, and those who are as deeply interested in their welfare as he is himself.

The Examiner's informant yesterday, said that the output of the mills had largely increased, and that if the management of the mills received more personal attention, they would pay satisfactory dividends. To use his own words, "How can a man expect to make a business pay, when he spends two weeks attending to it, and the next two weeks away?"

Conversation with another shareholder, and a man connected with the company, and therefore in a position to know of the working of the mills, gave additional information. The gentleman said, "I understand that the company never had more orders than it has at present, for this time of the year." He confirmed the former shareholder's statement with regard to the management of the mill, and said emphatically, that if it were properly managed, it would pay dividends.

That the woollen industry is in a satisfactory condition, was proven by the fact that Mr. Long, a life-long woollen man, and one of the largest shareholders of the Penman Manufacturing Company of Paris, a large woollen concern has purchased the mills of the Canada Woollen Company, at a good price, and is going to operate them.

The position of Mr. Kendry, with respect to his shareholders, is summed up in this sentence, uttered by the shareholder quoted above: "If Mr. Kendry would let politics alone and pay attention to his business, there would be no doubt of the mills paying."

MISCHIEVOUS BOYS CAUSE TROUBLE

"Resident" Writes Complaining of Conduct of Boys.

A Matter for the Intervention of Police. Bad Language of Boys is Disgusting

The Examiner has received a letter from a gentleman complaining of the misconduct of boys in the neighbourhood of Antrim and George streets. The complaint made by this gentleman is one which will apply equally as well to other parts of the town, and is a matter which should claim the attention of the police department. The letter follows:—

Peterborough, October 26, 1904.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I would like to call, through your columns, the attention of the Chief of Police to the daily and nightly going on of a gang of young toughs who frequent this neighborhood and make the corner of Antrim street, just by Mr. Edgcumb's store, their headquarters and rendezvous. Their rowdy and mischievous conduct have made them a perfect nuisance to the neighborhood for some time and it is high time that some of the police took a stroll up in this direction, in plain clothes and make an effort to bring these youngsters up to the Magistrate and up to time in the Reformatory. Only last night in the absence of our next door neighbors I found some of the youngsters were up to mischief on the roof of the house where repairs were being effected. Later on, on my return from town about 8.45 p. m. I watched some seven or eight of these lads, ranging from 10 to 14 years of age, nearly all of whom were armed with "pea-shooters" deliberately carrying on a continuous bombardment of the windows of some houses that stand not more than twelve or fifteen feet from the side of Antrim street down George. Of course, directly these hoodlums heard the inmates approaching they ran for it and from one of them I took away his pea-shooter. Again, when the electric cars first started running, a poor old lady, who was sitting in the open car got struck on the side of the head with the largest part of an apple, that was thrown at the passengers by some tough. This occurred near us at the corner of Water and Smith streets. When Sir Wilfrid Laurier visited the city a week ago, a number of young hoodlums were seated on the sills of the store windows between Hunter and Brock streets on George street and amused themselves firing peas at the passers by, but mainly at the young women and girls. Apart from the stinging pain on the face caused by the peas there is the imminent danger of having one's eyes put out. In such an eventuality, if the delinquent were not at once detected would it not be fair to assume that the city would be held liable for damages, owing to the police failing to maintain proper order?

Before closing this letter I would like to direct your attention to another important matter, and that is the immense deal of foul language, interlarded with blasphemy, used by so many of the youngsters on the streets—language offensive enough to the ears of refined, grown-up people, but evidently harmful to children of a tender age. Is it that the police are deaf that they do not put a stop to the coarse language referred to and make a summary example of the offenders? It seems to me that if after conviction some of them were treated to a good round dozen of the rattan (not whip, it does not hurt enough) and then afterwards sent to the Reformatory for as long a time as the law would permit of, it might have a salutary effect on the balance of the rowdy youngsters of Peterborough, whose name is "Legion."

In conclusion let me express a hope that some of the members of the police force will be detailed off at an early date to make surprise visits in plain clothes to our neighborhood and that they will, with time, patience and energy, succeed in ridding us of the constant nuisance I complain of or in lodging the culprits in the lock up to be dealt with according to law.

Perhaps the missionary society would take a hand in too and help us to rid this neighborhood of the young rowdies. The Society might ship them off to the cannibalistic natives of New Guinea or the Dyaks or Head-hunters of Borneo, but, I am afraid, what would be our gain would be their (the savages') loss.

Apologizing for taking up so much of your space and soliciting your assistance.

ROYAL TEMPLAR'S INTERESTING MEETING

Regular Meeting Last Night was Very Successful.

The regular meeting of the Royal Templars of Temperance was held on Tuesday evening, October 25th, in their hall on George street, when a large number of members assembled. Considerable business was transacted and many new members were initiated. The outlook for the coming winter is very encouraging.

Rev. Mr. Brace of the Park street church gave an eloquent address on the evils of intemperance, and the importance of abstaining from strong drink. The evening was very profitably and enjoyably spent. Many should assist this and help the good cause along.

OBITUARY.

Death of Lewis George McGregor at the Age of 18 Years.

The death occurred at his home yesterday, after six weeks illness, of Lewis George McGregor, a son of Mr. W. C. McGregor, of Ashburnham, at the age of 18 years and 3 months. Deceased has been ailing for a number of years, an accident in childhood having rendered him a cripple.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the family residence to the Little Lake cemetery, where interment will take place.

The Stoddard Lectures.

We published a few days ago a review of the Stoddard Lectures. These lectures were delivered a few years ago in all parts of the country, and were among the most popular ever offered to the public. They are now offered in book form by Balch Brothers, of Boston. The edition is a superb one, profusely illustrated with the finest of half tone engravings, while the descriptions are accurate, interesting and entertaining. It would be hard to find a better set of books for the home, for they contain a great amount of valuable information in a form easily accessible and most attractive to the reader. If there are children in the family, these books will be to them a source of amusement and instruction, delightful, constant and helpful. One might buy for his children a large library of travel at much cost, and yet not secure for them anything like the enjoyment and profit which these thirteen volumes offer.

The firm of Balch Brothers is an old and reliable publishing house and all who have dealings with it or its accredited agents will be sure of fair and honourable treatment and will and honorable treatment and will refor the sale of these lectures will be in Peterborough for the next few weeks, and all will have a desirable opportunity to examine and purchase this set of books. We are sure that all who purchase will find in these lectures a constant source of profit and pleasure.

ANOTHER LIE NAILED.

An absurd and maliciously false rumour is being circulated to the effect that Mr. Hall hired persons to interrupt Mr. Kendry's Monday night's meeting.

There was interruption at the meeting, it is true, but neither the Liberal party, nor any one in their interests, had anything to do with it.

Some man, said to be artificially exhilarated, interrupted Mr. Foster, but whether it was friendly, but maudlin endorsation, or hostile comment, is not very well known.

Mr. Kendry was a little premature, and not quite fair, in saying, as he did — "I have been watching that door, and this man is one of Tooley's gang, sent here to break up this meeting."

Mr. Kendry, if he spoke deliberately, spoke what he did not know — what had not the slightest foundation, in fact—and he owes an apology to the Liberals, whom he falsely charged with inciting disorderly conduct at a public meeting.

The man who made the interruption, is an elector of Peterborough, whose name is marked in the canvassing books of the Liberal organisation, as a hostile vote, and therefore a supporter of Mr. Kendry.

Mr. Kendry's impulsive anxiety to slander the Liberals, and score a party point in his own favour, has plunged him into hot water.

It led him to publicly abuse and revile one of his own supporters, whose zeal was greater than his discretion. Mr. Foster had the satisfaction of wasting his cheap and nasty slurs upon one of Mr. Kendry's friends, and Mr. Kendry had the satisfaction of having one of his accredited supporters ignominously nabbed by a policeman, and ejected for interrupting his own meeting.

KEEPING PROMISES.

If Mr. Kendry doesn't keep his promises to the electors any better than he did to his audience on Monday night, he will keep up his old reputation.

On Monday night he promised at least a dozen times that he wouldn't take up any more time of the meeting and still he kept on making more promises to quit, and let the people hear Mr. Foster. Mr. Kendry is not a quitter when he gets on the stump, but he has never shown any burning and habitual desire to air his eloquence in Parliament in the interests of his constituents. He can talk fast enough when his own interests are concerned on the platform, or in the House when he advocates his personal interests as involved in the woollen industry.

He doesn't burn much midnight oil in the halls of legislation working for the constituents he fails to represent. Yet he has the assurance to say that Sir Wilfrid Laurier has never kept a promise. Mr. Kendry has made hundreds of promises at two elections that he would look after the interests of West Peterborough. Has he done it? The electors and people say "no," and will say it a good deal harder on Nov. 3rd.

MR. KENDRY'S WAY.

Mr. Kendry, the Conservative candidate in this campaign, turns many sharp corners. He seems to be willing to strike any attitude that promises success, no matter how inconstant. He disagrees with his leader on the British preference, and as to the merits of the Laurier Government. He denounces the Government publicly, but privately approves of it—when he thinks he sees a chance to win a vote.

In canvassing the employees of the Electric Works on Monday, Mr. Kendry solicited a young man's vote, and met with a refusal. The young man said he would vote for the Laurier Government. Mr. Kendry's reply was, "The Laurier Government is all right, but this is a personal contest between me and Mr. Hall."

Thus the Conservative candidate admitted, to win the favour of an elector, that "the Liberal Government is all right," thinking, doubtless, that he would thereby have a better chance to gain his point on a personal appeal.

It's no wonder, when the candidate who publicly announces the "splendid success" he is receiving in his canvas, is so hard pressed for argument, that the local Conservatives feel justified in pursuing a policy of personal detraction and slander to further their cause.

If Mr. Kendry admits that the "Laurier Government is all right," and urges his personal claims, he gives his whole case away. Whatever poor shreds of merit the policy of his party might afford, he hasn't a foot to stand upon in the event of a personal appeal, that is, in a representative capacity. He has been the nominal representative of the riding for eight years, and he knows, and his friends know, that even their friendly prejudice can find no room for commendation, but abundant space for condemnation.

While it augurs a robust assurance on Mr. Kendry's part to make an appeal for support, on the merits of the Opposition policy, it is nothing short of super-sublimed cheek for him to make a similar appeal, on the grounds of personal merit as a representative.

Mr. Kendry admits this himself. He, at first, declined the nomination, because he could not, at the same time, attend to his private business, and be a representative. Has he neglected his private business? Apparently not, therefore he must have done scant justice to his duties as a representative.

Are the demands of his business any less exacting to-day than they were a month ago? If he is sent to Parliament will he be any less a representative lay figure than he has been for the past eight years?

If Mr. Kendry were on the right side of politics, and went to Parliament with a determination to do what he would do, for the town and county, he might have some claim to election.

What Peterborough needs at the present time is a live and alert representative. If he is on the Government side all the better. The representation of a business centre, like West Peterborough, is a pure matter of business, not of sentiment. Business men recognize this, and feel it, even if they do not give it expression.

If Peterborough, and West Peterborough, wanted a merely ornamental member there are many that might fill the bill better than either Mr. Kendry or Mr. Hall. But Peterborough has needs to be looked after and wants that need pressing upon the Government.

"The Laurier Government is all right," as Mr. Kendry admits. Under its regime, Peterborough has prospered, and is prospering, and it would not be good business to imperil the prosperity we enjoy. It is not a question between Mr. Kendry and Mr. Hall, except in regard to their respective relations to the Government, it is the question of holding on to our prosperity, and appointing an agent who has not so much private business to look after that he will neglect ours. Our business, our interests, are the things to be sought. We have good government and prosperity. Let us keep them.

Keep both hands on the full dinner pail.

STOVE TALK NO. 6.

Why the "Happy Thought" Burns Less Coal Than any Other Range.

1. The fire pot in the "Happy Thought" is entirely different to any other range. It is deeper and narrower, and twenty years of use has proved that this feature alone will save many tons of coal.

2. The Duplex Grates, from the original patterns of the inventor, distributes the draft equally over the entire grate surface. No dead corners.

3. The peculiar flue construction is the result of fifty years of careful study, and that the proportions are absolutely correct is proved by the fact that the Happy Thought bakes with a smaller fire than is possible with any other range.

THE COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER.

The general election is pretty well advanced, and we have not yet heard very much from the obliquitous commercial traveller whose opportunities for observing the general feeling are excellent. Yesterday the Examiner met one of these gentlemen who has been for years on the road and financially interested in the house he represents, and asked his opinion of the outlook. His answer was brief and pointed: "I think the Laurier Government will be returned, but by a somewhat reduced majority."

What are your reasons? "Everything is going on all right and there is no cause and no general demand for a change. I am an old time Conservative and when I went into business eight years ago it was with some misgivings, but I trusted to Sir Wilfrid's word that he would not do anything to injure the industrial interests of the country and he has kept his word in that as in other respects, and I shan't be sorry to see him returned to power. Besides he has got the best brains of the country in his Cabinet and the country's business is being well done. Our business has shared in the general prosperity and I am satisfied with the result, as I believe the bulk of the business men of the country are."

This tells the whole story. The whole country—every industry is prospering and as Sir Wilfrid said in Peterborough, "There is no cause for a change, and there will be no change."

THE TRIO OF SEA KINGS

THREE NOTED AND MUCH-TALKED-OF ENGLISH SWIMMERS.

These British Aquatic Champions Attempted to Swim Across the English Channel —Their Exploits in the Water Since Their Names Became Household Words in Emulating Captain Webb's Deed of Years Ago.

The entire world at home and abroad has been aroused of late by accounts of the attempts of a trio of noted British aquatic champions to swim across the English Channel.

Not one man succeeded, but each made a gallant fight, only to be overcome by a very swift tide and by the unusual coldness of the water.

Montague Holbein, John Haggerty and G. N. Greasley were the contestants. Each man was backed by a prominent London newspaper.

Montague Holbein is a swimmer by accident. He was formerly a very successful cyclist, winning many prizes. One day, however, he had a smash and injured his leg. The doctor recommended swimming.

Holbein accordingly swam, and, being a man who does not do things by halves, he swam for hours at a time. In fact, he swam so long and so well that his friends pronounced him a marvel. That's how he come to try to equal Captain Webb's truly stupendous achievement of swimming the English Channel.

His name is now a household word wherever men talk of brave deeds by flood or field.

The man himself is a splendid fellow, with a magnificent physique to support his bold spirit. He has unusual powers of resisting the cold resulting from long immersion. His temperature is seldom anything but normal after a protracted swim. It is interesting to know that he can also bear immersion in very hot water. A bath heated to 125 degrees causes him no inconvenience, while it would raise blisters on most people.

He takes long walks and swims during training, eats less vegetable food than usual and drinks no spirits. He has always been a non-smoker. During the swim Holbein believes in taking nourishment every half hour. He employs a long, steady back stroke of his own invention, in which the hands are used, and strikes about twenty-two to the minute.

John Haggerty was selected by a London newspaper out of 3,000 applicants to swim the English Channel. His qualifications are naturally beyond the ordinary. He is forty-two years of age and since he began swimming, thirty-two years ago, has carried off 350 prizes.

When but ten he won the boy championship of his native town, Stalybridge, and fifteen years later he retired champion of England after he had met all the great swimmers of his day. He is a man of extraordinary physical strength and gifted with unusual power of endurance.

G. N. Greasley has won most things a swimmer can win, but he craves for fresh laurels and is going to make another effort to cross the Channel in the only way that appeals to the ambitious swimmer.

There is not space here to enumerate all his triumphs. It may, however, be stated that he was for five years champion of the Leicester Swimming Club of England. He has broken the records for the mile and half mile and has been champion of all England. One of his most striking victories was gained at the Paris Exhibition of 1900. The distance was 4,000 metres, and the crack swimmers of the world were arrayed against him. Greasley swam in most sensational style and won a splendid race amid the enthusiastic plaudits of a huge crowd, his fellow-countrymen being naturally much elated.

The poor in spirit are rich in possibilities.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the city market were 55 carloads, composed of 542 cattle, 902 hogs, 1428 sheep and lambs, with 54 calves and 9 horses.

There were no loads of exporters offered. A few picked steers and an odd cow, selected from amongst the loads of butcher cattle, with a few export bulls, were offered. Export cows were sold at $3.25 to $3.50 and export bulls at $3.50 to $4 per cwt.

The bulk of the butchers' cattle offered were of the common to medium classes, but there were a few picked lots of heifers of good to choice quality, which sold at lower prices than at any time this season. Picked lots of choice heifers sold at $4.25 to $4.35; loads of good, $3.85 to $4.15; fair to good, $3.60 to $3.80; cows, $2.50 to $3.25 per cwt.

Short-keep feeders, 1200 lbs. each, sold at $4 per cwt.; feeders, 900 to 1050 lbs. each, sold all the way from $3 to $3.60 per cwt.; distillery bulls sold from $2.40 to $2.75 and $2.85 per cwt.; canners' bulls sold at $1.50 to $1.75 per cwt.

Stockers, 450 to 700 lbs. each, sold at $2.25 to $2.75 per cwt.

About 20 or 25 milch cows and springers sold all the way from $30 to $60 each. The demand for choice quality cows is good.

Prices for veal calves remain fairly steady at $3.50 to $5.25 per cwt.

The run of sheep and lambs was not large, and prices remained fairly steady. Export ewes, $3.40 to $3.50; bucks, $2.90 to $2.75; cull sheep, $2 to $3.00 each.

The run of hogs was not large, about 500, which sold at $5 per cwt. for selects and $4.75 for lights and fats, as reported in The World on Saturday last.

Threshing Nearing Completion.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 26.—The Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern Railway crop bulletin, issued yesterday, report the near approach of the completion of threshing, despite the unfavorable weather. The further figures given on the yield of wheat per acre, show averages of nearly 20 bushels generally. The prevailing quality of wheat is No. 2 Northern, with grades running in isolated instances to No. 3 and No. 4. Northern.

PRETTY BOX CHAIR.

One That May Be Made at Home With but Little Outlay.

The box chair shown in the accompanying illustration can be easily made at home from a box, two square sticks for the uprights and a board back, over which leather or fabric can be drawn and nailed. The under part can be used for books or papers. The back and seat should be padded, then covered with leather or fabric. If leather is used the ornament on the back can be drawn on with a hot point or tinted and painted with thin oil paints. If the covering is of denim the wreath and ribbons may be embroidered with linen floss or cut from other fabrics of a different color, then applied.

The drapery may be of some thin goods that will hang well, and to be effective it must be gathered and tacked around the top edge of the box, over which a band of leather or gimp is stretched and nailed in place with large headed upholsterers' tacks about three-fourths of an inch in diameter. The back covering is secured with the large headed tacks also, which would look well if treated to a coat of the black preparation. Arms may be added to a chair of this design by inserting two upright sticks and arranging arms to cap them and extend back to the rear uprights, as shown in Fig. 2.—Woman's Home Companion.

Take Things Quietly.

Every one has a welcome for the person who has good sense to take things quietly. The person who can go without her dinner and not advertise the fact, who can lose her purse and keep her temper, who makes light of a heavy weight and can wear a shoe that pinches without any one being the wiser, who does not magnify the splinter in her finger into a stick of timber nor the mote in her neighbor's eye into a beam, who swallows bitter words without leaving the taste in other people's mouths, who can give up her own way without giving up the ghost, who can have a thorn in the flesh and yet not prick all her friends with it—such a one surely carries a passport into the good graces of mankind.

Betty's Jumbles.

The following recipe is quite famous in a Pennsylvania town, where an old negro cook makes what are known and delighted in as "Betty's jumbles." They are made with one pound each of butter and sugar, two pounds of flour, three eggs, nine teaspoonfuls of orange juice, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder and salt to taste. Handle lightly, roll rather thin and sprinkle with granulated sugar before baking in a quick oven. They will keep—if locked up—for several months.—Harper's Bazar.

National Campaign Funds.

During national campaigns the books of the treasurer and manager are kept in a peculiar way. Instead of entering accounts by name each account is given a number and is thus carried throughout the campaign. The key to this legendary system is known only to two or three trusted men, and the accountants who keep the books have not the slightest knowledge of what state committee or other organization or individual stands behind the number. After the campaign is over the books are burned, and all the records, except possibly some private memoranda kept by the manager, are wiped out of existence. Such a thing as the auditing of campaign expenditures was never known and probably never will be known so far as national campaigns are concerned. Everything is trusted to the honor of the responsible men, and I have never heard that any of the managers of a national campaign were suspected of betrayal of their trust in any way.—Walter Wellman in Success.

CROSSING THE BAR.

Almost All Deaths Are Practically Without Physical Pain.

Death nearly always ensues from cessation of the heart's action, whatever it may be that causes it to stop. Almost the only exception to this rule is in the case of poisoning with prussic acid, where the whole body becomes dead before the heart ceases to beat.

It is scientifically certain that almost all deaths, even those that are seemingly most agonizing, are practically without pain. The fear of extinction may cause mental agitation amounting to pain while consciousness exists, but that is quite another thing. In death by burning pain ceases at an early stage by suffocation, while a man killed by a gunshot wound probably does not know that he has been hit, the action of the bullet being more rapid than the message to the brain announcing it. For this reason wounded men sometimes drop without knowing why.

In chest diseases pain is relieved by suffocation at the death moment, and in fevers the nervous system becomes depressed to such utter apathy as to induce quite a painless end.

He Could Write.

Edmond Rostand, the great French writer, was on one occasion the hero of an amusing episode. During a visit to a friend in the country M. Rostand was requested to accompany him to the mairie in order to register the friend's newborn infant. The adjunct of the mairie, a conscientious little man, booked the infant and then turned to M. Rostand as the first witness. "Your name, sir?" "Edmond Rostand." "Your vocation?" "Man of letters and member of the French academy." "Very well," replied the official. "You have to sign your name. Can you write? If not you may make a cross."

It Came Pretty Slow.

A young man once took a sack of corn to an old fashioned mill to have it ground into meal. The mill was fearfully slow, only a tiny stream of meal trickling out. At last the young man became impatient and complained to the miller. "Do you know," he said, "I could eat that meal faster than your old mill can grind it." "Yes," replied the miller, "but how long could you keep on eating it?" "Until I starved," was the conclusive answer of the young man.

Curious.

"There's one curious thing about discovering places," said Johnny. "Take Bermuda, for instance. It was discovered by a man named Bermudes. How he happened to stumble on a place with a name just like his beats me."

The Realization.

"Hear you've been speculating, old man. What did you realize?"

"I realized that I was a blamed fool," replied the other man sorely.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

Are Lastingly Beneficial—Removing the Cause of Disease.

The symptoms of dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, kidney disease and rheumatism point to the presence of poisonous matter in the system.

The first thing Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills do is to thoroughly cleanse the system of this waste matter by causing free action of the kidneys, liver and bowels.

This result is not brought about in a harsh and irritating way, but in naturally and thoroughly accomplished.

The flow of bile from the liver aids digestion and ensures continued regular action of the bowels; the free action of the kidneys removes the uric acid, which would otherwise cause rheumatism or stone in the bladder.

Digestion, assimilation and the removal of waste matter are carried out without pain or discomfort, and there is no foothold for contagious or other disease.

There is no other preparation possessing this unique and combined action, and none which can possibly reach such complicated diseases as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. C. F. Immel, shoemaker, Western Hill, St. Catharines, Ont., states: "I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills regularly for some time and consider that they are unsurpassed for torpid liver, defective circulation, indigestion, headache and constipation, as these were my troubles. I used many remedies, but got no relief until I tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and a few boxes of this preparation have entirely cured me. I am not in the habit of endorsing any medicine, but in this case I cannot speak too highly in praise of Dr. Chase's Pills for what they have done for me."

Charles J. Glidden, who is making a tour of the world in an automobile, writes to a Boston newspaper a story of his trip on the railroad tracks from Minneapolis to Vancouver. He arrived at the latter place September 18. In part the traveler says:

The automobile, a twenty-four horse power touring car, was transformed from a road vehicle to a railway carriage by removing the rubber tired wheels and substituting steel rimmed flanged wheels, suitable to run upon the tracks, and by locking the steering device. The car, with four passengers and baggage, weighed five thousand pounds, including the wheels, which weighed one thousand three hundred pounds.

Very little encouragement was given when I first suggested the idea of driving a road vehicle upon the tracks of a railroad. Officials of the railways companies, experienced automobilists and friends said it was impracticable, and that an experiment would result in disaster.

Colonel Thomas Lowry, president of the Soo Pacific line, however, thought differently, and granted my request for the use of his road from

MR. AND MRS. C. J. GLIDDEN.

Minneapolis to Portal. Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific road, did likewise, and this route to the Pacific was chosen. The two roads not only afforded opportunity for testing the working of the motor car on prairie levels, mountain grades and curves, but opened up 600 miles of unequalled science beauty.

Riding upon the smooth rails in the open, with an unobstructed view at a rate of speed warranted by conditions of grade and curve, was luxurious, not tiresome and without responsibility regarding right of way, requiring only close watch at level highways crossings.

The wheels required considerable work in fitting and adjusting them to the new conditions. A test of 100 miles did not quite bring perfection from a mechanical standpoint, but perseverance, after 800 miles' running on the tracks, conquered the mechanical difficulties, correcting the error that caused the boxes to heat.

After this fault was remedied, the entire journey was made without a moment's delay. We were always on hand at the meeting points, following accurately the schedule laid down from time to time by train despatchers of the several divisions.

Some anxiety was felt as to our welfare by the railroad people, and close watch was kept upon all our movements.

The train despatchers, under orders from their chiefs, moved us along at the desired speed, enabling us to make at night places having best hotels. At meeting points of trains we had time to take a siding, but in many cases we found that the trains had taken a siding before our arrival, thereby giving us a clear track and preventing a stop.

We were not restricted as to speed and found thirty-five to forty miles an hour easy and comfortable and devoid of rocking motion. For one mile we attained a speed equal to sixty miles an hour.

Our average speed was thirty miles an hour over plain and mountain. The speed of Pacific Coast trains for the last one thousand miles run per hour is as follows:

Union Pacific Overland Limited, thirty-one.

Southern Pacific Sunset Limited, thirty.

Canadian Pacific Imperial Limited, twenty-eight and a half.

Great Northern Pacific Limited, twenty-seven and three-quarters.

Northern Pacific Limited, twenty-seven and three-quarters.

Santa Fe Limited, twenty-five.

With a clear track I am satisfied my car would have averaged forty miles an hour, and with cars constructed on lines for speed a much higher average.

Departure was fixed for September 4, from the "Soo" Station, Minneapolis. Stations along the line were notified of our coming.

The car was equipped with a red flag, red and white lantern, torpedoes, fireworks and other paraphernalia used in railroading. Joseph E. Horne was selected to take charge of the "limited," under whose orders I was to govern the movement of the car, he receiving instructions from time to time from train despatchers.

At the appointed time the car was backed down from the shops to the station, and we took up a position ready to follow the express. The passenger list included Mrs. William Donaldson, William H. Eustis, T. A. Fogue, Mr. Horne, Mrs. Glidden, Mr. Thomas, my engineer and myself.

Big Mogul No. 508, drawing nine cars, pulled out and we followed. A crowd, including railroad officials, employes and friends, gave us a hearty cheer, which was taken up by persons all along the line to the end of the yard. The weather was delightful, cool and bracing, after a week's drizzling rain.

At the end of the yard we halted at a station called Camden Junction and received the first train order ever issued to a motor car, carrying passengers, which read as follows:

"Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railway. Telegraphic train order No. 108. From Minneapolis, September 4, 1904. Received at Camden Place. Horne with automobile will run extra from Camden Place to Glenwood. Will meet train 4. Hepburn, conductor, at Hemel, and stock extra, Koop, conductor, at Eden Valley. Answer. W. A. B. 18 Horne special. Correct. 10.32. W. A. B."

"Now we are off," said Mr. Horne. On went the spark and the driving wheels slipped on the rail, finally taking hold, when we rapidly moved away. We were soon in the open and chasing the express. There was a slight tremble in the car, a little noise from the clash of the wheels on the steel rails, but the manner in which we glided along made us dumb to sounds and gave an opportunity to notice everything we passed far and near.

"Let her move a little faster if you wish," said my conductor.

We were then going about thirty miles an hour. A slight pressure on the accelerator and we bounded ahead at a fifty mile gait, and caught sight of the express.

Five hundred and fifty miles from Minneapolis we found ourselves on the track of the Canadian Pacific road, 168 miles south of the main line at Moose Jaw in Assiniboia.

West of Moose Jaw to Calgary for 500 miles is a broad, rolling prairie over which the wind at times blows a gale. One day we forced our way through the gale, which was so strong that the speed was reduced to a maximum of thirty miles an hour. Trains were all delayed that day by the high winds. The traffic was heavy, and nineteen orders were required to move us along, although but ninety-seven were issued on the entire drive to the Pacific.

West of Calgary the grand scenery began and continued for 600 miles.

It was at Laggan, in the Rockies, the station for Lake Louise, that Conductor Forrest assumed control of the "motor car limited." He had charge of the Duke of York's train years ago and has made many special runs through the mountains, but said his ride on my car excelled in fascination any previous trip he has made during his eighteen years of service.

Not the least difficulty was experienced going up and down hill, and the drop from Hector to Field of 1,140 feet in seven miles was taken without the use of brakes, the momentum of the car being checked by the cylinder compression.

Wise railroad men thought it best for us to follow a passenger train closely, which we did within twenty feet, as on a frosty rail our wheels might skid beyond the usefulness of compression or brakes.

Our running time down the plain between the Rocky Mountains and the Selkirks, and up to the summit of the Selkirks from Field to Glacier, was two hours better than the Imperial Limited. The speed made climbing the mountain dumb-founded train despatchers and employes of the road.

Once when we were given a position behind an express the train despatcher, obeying a rule of the road that nothing should follow a passenger train within twenty minutes, held us, but in a run of fifty miles we overtook the express and stopped at our destination on their schedule time.

West of Medicine Hat we passed many Indian villages. The Indians turned out in large numbers, smiled and saluted as we came near them. On our arrival at Vancouver two thousand persons lined the station platform, loudly cheering as we came to a stop.

Even Sarah Grand!

Speaking of her early attempts at literature, Sarah Grand says she "suffered terribly from want of encouragement." Heaven help us! What woman has not in whatever line of enterprise she has undertaken? The cutting, chilling, sneering, ill-natured discouragement, oftentimes even from one's own parents, stabs like cold steel. A woman never gets over it, even when she is too strong and brave to be downed and goes on and achieves in spite of her family. But many a woman who otherwise would have made for herself a noble career has had all the aspiration crushed out of her by the sneers of father, husband or brother. Heaven help them, too, for they will have it to answer for!

King Edward's Books.

King Edward was never a bookworm, but he has always been fond of history, and has quite a fine collection of volumes at Sandringham dealing with the Crimean expedition and the campaigns of Nelson and Wellington. Books on farming, sport, and other pursuits also appealed to him before the cares of State wholly monopolised his time. When he was Prince of Wales he was a considerable novel reader.

Improving the Time.

Little Bobbie left his mother's lap and climbed up on his father's knee.

"Do you love papa more than mamma?" asked Aunt Kate.

"No," replied the youngster. "But mamma and I are both going to heaven, and grandma says papa won't if he don't stop smoking in the parlor, so I'm going to see all of him I can now."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

The Only Cure.

Binks—I wish they would cut out these ballad singers at the vaudeville. They make me tired. Jinks—Well, you might get somebody to remove their noses. Then they wouldn't have anything to sing through.

We advise everybody to use Sunlight Soap—it makes child's play of work.

SUNLIGHT SOAP

We have used "Sunlight Soap," and we want to tell you that it is the best soap made, that's why we are writing. We found out that the Sunlight way is the best way to wash with "Sunlight Soap." At first we used to wash with Sunlight Soap in the old way as we did with common soap, but after we washed according to directions printed on the package, we would never wash the old way again. We first soap the articles, leave them to soak and then rub out lightly on the wash board. Not much to do and it makes the clothes white as snow.

SECRET INK.

Writing Which May Be Made Invisible or Visible at Will.

There are several ways in which two persons can correspond with each other unknown to even the people before whose eyes the very letter is held. Ovid taught young women when writing to their lovers they should use new milk as ink. This when dried is invisible, but by scattering coal dust or soot upon the paper the writing becomes legible. Ansonius adopted this method when writing to Paulinus.

Diluted sulphuric acid, lemon juice, solutions of nitrate and chloride of cobalt or of chloride of copper write colorless, but on being heated the characters written with the first two become black or brown and the latter green. When the paper becomes cool the writing disappears and leaves the paper blank again. Saltpeter dissolved in water and equal parts of sulphate of copper and sal ammoniac dissolved in water are two good invisible inks.

There are also some inks which are invisible when dry, but visible when moistened with another liquid. Thus a solution of muriate of antimony washed with tincture of galls becomes yellow, green vitriol ink washed with the same solution turns black, nitrate of cobalt washed with oxalic acid turns blue, arseniate of potash with nitrate of copper green, solution of gold with muriate of tin purple.

Gambetta's Table.

There is a curious story told of the table at which Gambetta wrote. A previous owner, General Lahitte, minister for foreign affairs in 1849, dismissed his confidential servant because he believed he had stolen a large sum of money in 1,000 franc bank notes. Years afterward, when the table had to be repaired, the joiner employed for the work found the missing bundle of bank notes between the mahogany board of the table and the drawers below. They had lain there unnoticed for fourteen years. Unfortunately the story does not go on to say that the poor servant and his mistaken master were alive at the time of the discovery and that the one's character was cleared and the other's confidence restored.

Kaiser's Snub of the Bismarcks.

The marriage of Count Herbert Bismarck and the Countess Hoyos took place at Vienna, and it was on this occasion that the kaiser took a step which was one of the falsest steps of his life, a step equivalent to the malevolent boycotting of the Bismarcks. By order of his majesty Count Caprivi, the new chancellor, wrote to Prince Reuss, German ambassador at Vienna: "Should the prince (ex-chancellor) or his family make any approach to you pray confine yourself to conventional forms of courtesy. Caprivi is also to be observed by the staff of the embassy. I may add that his majesty will take no notice of the wedding."—London Chronicle.

The Talismanic Moonstone.

The remarkable peculiarity of the moonstone is that, while in all other gems internal seams are called flaws and detract from their value, in the moonstone they are called "magic mirrors, because those favored mortals who are gifted with the illumination of the astral light can by its aid read on those surfaces of milky white the reflections of the past and the promises of the future."

"Love lightens labor," the saying runs, and in a sense it is true. But even love cannot lighten labor or make it easy for the woman who is in constant suffering from inflammation, bearing-down pains or other womanly diseases. The one thing that can make work easy for women is sound health, and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the thing that will give sound health to sick women.

Dr. Pierce has so much faith in his "Prescription" that he offers to pay $500 in legal money of the United States for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which he cannot cure. All he asks is a fair and reasonable trial of his means of cure.

"I suffered from female weakness for five months," writes Miss Belle Hedrick, of Nye, Putnam Co., W. Va. "I was treated by a good physician but he never seemed to do me any good. I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce for advice, which I received, telling me to take his 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' When I had used the medicines a month, my health was much improved. It has continued to improve until now I can work at almost all kinds of housework. I had scarcely any appetite, but it is all right now. Have gained several pounds in weight. Dr. Pierce's medicines have done wonderfully well here. I would advise all who suffer from chronic disease to write to Dr. Pierce."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the paper-covered book, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

REGULAR MEETING OF CHEESE BOARD

October Cheese Sold at 9⅛ Cents This Morning.

Thirty-seven Factories Boarded—Bidding was Brisk—Adjournment for Two Weeks.

The regular meeting of the Peterborough cheese board was held this morning in the Ontario Bank board room. There were present Messrs. Whitton, Kerr, Fitzgerald, Rollins, Wrighton, Gillespie. Thirty-seven factories boarded 4600 cheese as follows:

Keene	200
Warminster	140
Shearer
Central Smith	120
Villiers	120
Westwood	250
Oakdale	150
Missing Link	100
Daisy D.	60
Lakefield	130
Pine Grove	120
Warsaw	120
Peterborough	75
Otonabee Union	60
Maple Leaf	130
Myrtle	157
Ormonde	175
Young's Point	75
Lang	140
Fraserville	100
Indian River	145
North Dummer	55
East Emily	110
Trewern	140
Ballyduff	50
Benefort	145
Cedardale	65
Stony Lake	47
Cavanville	180
Mount Pleasant	80
Brickley	85
Shamrock	55
Fleetwood	185
Oakleaf	30
Dartford	100
Percy	150
Buckhorn	110

A message was received from Mr. Cook to the effect that his train had been delayed, and that he could not arrive until one o'clock, consequently a few of the factories did not accept the offers made but will sell to Mr. Cook off the Board.

The bidding opened briskly. Mr. Fitzgerald offered 8 1-2, and Mr. Kerr 9, which was raised by Mr. Fitzgerald to 9 1-16; Mr. Whitton went 9 1-8. The latter took Benefort, Westwood, Villiers, Ormonde, Indian River, Maple Leaf, Warminster, Norwood, Brickley, Shamrock, Percy, Dartford, Cavanville, Mount Pleasant, Ballyduff, Keene, Shearer, Warsaw, Lang, East Emily, Central Smith, North Smith. Those refusing were Myrtle, Lakefield, Oakdale, Fraserville, and Fleetwood.

Mr. Whitton offered 9 1-16 for further selections. Mr. Rollins raised to 9 1-8, and took Pine Grove, Young's Point, North Dummer, Stony Lake, Oakleaf, Oakdale, Daisy D., Trewern. Lakefield refused.

Mr. Fitzgerald offered 9 1-16, and Mr. Whitton at 9 1-8 took Peterborough and Fleetwood.

At 9 1-16 Mr. Fitzgerald called Buckhorn, Fleetwood, Lakefield, Fraserville, Cedardale, all refusing.

Mr. F. E. Ferguson spoke concerning the uniformity of cloning the factories. He said the cheese made after October was principally fodder cheese and not up to the former standard, and had the effect of lowering the quality of the cheese on the English market. He thought it would be in the best interests of all to close the factories at the end of October.

Mr. Fitzgerald and Mr. Kerr both spoke in favour of the idea.

A motion was made by Mr. Ferguson, seconded by Mr. Kerr that no cheese be made between the 1st of November and the 1st of May. The motion was carried.

The factories unsold were Buckhorn, Fraserville, Missing Link, Myrtle, Lakefield, Cedardale, Otonabee Union.

The board adjourned for two weeks.

A case of non-support was enlarged until Friday.

B. Revoy was charged with driving a cart without a license. He was fined $5 and $3.40 costs, the fine to go towards taking out a license, should he decide to do so.

The case of L. Tyrell, a man of about 60 years of age, charged with indecent assault upon two little girls was enlarged until Monday.

SATURDAYS GAME WILL BE A CORKER

Championship of the District will be Decided Here.

Saturday's rugby game between the Torontos and Peterboroughs will practically decide the championship of this district. A win for the Queen City team gives them the honours, while if the locals win, they will be leading and a win from the Argonauts on the following week will mean the district championship. The local team will be the strongest that has been placed on the field this year. The back division which so far has been the weak spot, will be rearranged and much strengthened as a result. The boys expect to show a complete reversal of form from their showing in Toronto a week ago and are confident of making a creditable showing. They were certainly off off colour in the last game, but with everyone on his mettle and the district championship hanging on the result, the Peterboroughs can be relied upon to do their very prettiest. There should be a record crowd to see the best game of the year.

WRESTLING

A wrestling class will be formed at the Y.M.C.A. to be held Saturday afternoon from then until four o'clock. The science of wrestling is something that is coveted by many young men. There is no form of exercise that gives such complete and quick development as wrestling, and there is nothing that tends to build up the vital organs and thus insure health as does wrestling.

The work will start from the very first. The holds and the breaks will be taught and then a short time will be given to individual bouts.

Only senior members of the Association may join this class.

RUGBY.

The Peterboros will practice this evening and at four o'clock to-morrow afternoon on the T. A. S. grounds.

• • • •

The Torontos are evidently bound to do something desperate here Saturday, The Globe says:—

There will be a great shake up in the back division of the Torontos for next Saturday's game with Peterborough in that town. All the old players available are to be in the game. Irvie Ardagh is to take the place of Trow, who made such a sorry mess at right half at last Saturday's contest. Ardagh's well-known speed, good punting and catching will prove themselves to be of the greatest assistance to the team. Another change on the half-back line is the appearance of Earl Gibson, formerly of the Varsity team, who played a beautiful game at left half two seasons ago. This pair, with the fast Len Morrison, who proved himself so valuable last spring after Housser was laid out, ought to work out in very good style. Either Housser or Jack Hynes the captain of the team, who has been laid up with a broken wrist, will fill the place at full-back. Roy Clarke, who has filled the place very acceptably up to the present time, had one of the small bones in his kicking foot fractured and will be out of the game for the remainder of the year.

SPRINTING

Dave Belland wishes to run his half mile race with Burns on Saturday, before the latter's race with Harrison.

HANDSOME CUP FOR HAVELOCK SHOTS

"Stratton Challenge Cup" A Beautiful Trophy.

The silver cup which Hon. J. R. Stratton has donated the Havelock Civilian Rifle Association, for competition among the members of the Association, has arrived, and is now on view at W. A. Sanderson & Co's jewelry store, through which firm it was purchased, and by whom the design was prepared.

The cup is one of the most handsome trophies ever seen in Peterborough, and stands twenty-two inches high, with an eight inch base. The design is a new one, and makes a decidedly handsome cup. Upon the bowl of the cup is engraved the inscription, "Stratton Challenge Cup, presented by Hon. J. R. Stratton to the Havelock Civilian Rifle Association, 1904." Beneath the bowl are two military rifles, one on either side, supporting it with a target between the two rifles. Upon the base is a silver shield for the names of the respective winners. The cup is to be the absolute property of the Association, but is to be put up for yearly competition, and must be won three years in succession by one person before it becomes his personal property.

It is a credit to the association, and to the designer, and should have the effect of greatly stimulating the interest in shooting among the members of the Havelock Association, the members of which are already enthusiastic sportsmen.

VERY PRETTY HOUSE WEDDING

Miss Jennie T. Hartley Married to Mr. Ernest Ainley This Afternoon.

At one o'clock this afternoon the residence of Mr. J. J. Hartley, 234 Antrim street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Miss Jennie T. Hartley, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hartley was made the bride of Mr. Ernest Ainley, of North Patterson, New Jersey.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Crothers in the presence of about twenty-five guests. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Laura Hartley, while Mr. Robert Montgomery was the groomsman.

The bride was very handsomely attired in gray taffeta silk over taffeta trimmed with white silk Battenburg tissue with velvet and steel buttons. She wore the conventional bridal veil with forget-me-nots. She carried a beautiful bouquet of white roses. Her sister was gowned in white voile, with applique trimmings, and carried pink roses. The bride was given away by her father, and Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Nettie Syers.

The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl crescent; to the bridesmaid, a diamond ring, and to the groomsman a diamond stick pin.

The bride was the recipient of many very beautiful presents as evidence of her popularity with a large circle of friends.

A delightful wedding dejeuner was served after the ceremony, Mr. H. Long being the caterer. The parlour and dining room were very tastefully decorated with plants and flowers.

Among the guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Ainley, the groom's parents, of North Patterson, N.J., Mr. and Mrs. Potterfield, of Chickerby Falls, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. J. Clark, of Grand Coulee, Assa., Miss Addie Surplice, Toronto, Misses L. and M. Ainley of Millbrook, Mrs. and Miss Dyer, Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. McFarlane, Keene, Miss Minnie Peel, of Bethany, Miss Minnie Stabler, of Lakefield.

Mr. and Mrs. Ainley left on the 5.10 C. P. R. train for North Patterson, where they will reside in future.

ST. JOHN'S YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY

Very Successful Meeting was Held on Monday Evening.

The first open meeting of St. John's Young People's Society, was held on Monday evening in the school house, and the society most certainly made a favourable start.

There was a large attendance of the younger members of the congregation, despite the counter attractions. The room was tastefully decorated, mainly through the efforts of Mr. Charles Devereux, the material being kindly supplied by Mr. Kingscote.

The guests were received by the officers of the society, and introduction cards were alloted to each, by means of which everyone was introduced before the evening was over.

A splendid programme was rendered and was very highly enjoyed by all present. Vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. K. Eardley-Wilmot, Miss D. Sewers, Miss R. Dawson, Mr. Oy Devereux, and Halpany's orchestra also gave several numbers.

After the programme, the president, Mr. J. Pattr, gave a short address, setting forth the objects and aims of the society as being for social, literary and religious development. The society was intended to be a bond and stimulus between all the young people of the congregation.

Mr. Thomas Dawson, secretary, read the constitution of the society, and many new names were added to the roll.

Rev. J. C. Davidson gave expression to the pleasure he felt at the formation of the society, which, he believed, would have a most successful career. The young people would now have an opportunity, not only for usefulness but for fellowship and social enjoyment.

Mr. W. H. Cluxton, church warden added a few remarks, appealing to the young people for their support in church work, and hoping to see the names of all on the church books, and that they would become stock holders in the church. This was an age of advancement, and now that a forward movement had been inaugurated in the congregation, everyone should join and see that it was made a reality. At present the prospects for the society were of the highest.

The meetings will be held fortnightly, the next one being addressed by Mr. J. D. Burnham.

BRITAIN'S TONE IS BELLICOSE

British People Angered Over Delay in the Apology of Russia.

Extraordinary Explanation by the Russian Admiral, Which, However, Does Not Explain—Has a Time Limit Been Set for Reply?

London, Oct. 27.—At three o'clock this morning there is no sign when Admiral Rojestvensky's report will be made public, but if unofficial reports should turn out to reflect the admiral's official report, it is evident the Russian officers made an extraordinary blunder in mistaking trawlers for torpedo boats and fired on their phantom foes.

The newspapers this morning evince more heat and impatience than heretofore at Russia's delay, which is considered absolutely indefensible in the present circumstances.

Tension Increases.

Tension increases as time passes without a definite settlement of the situation created by the Russian blunder in the North Sea. Ambassador Benckendorff's tentative communication to Foreign Minister Lansdowne yesterday and the fact that it was regarded as unsatisfactory, only serves to inflame the public mind; and while official circles are giving out intimations that it is their confident belief the whole matter will be satisfactorily arranged, it is now quite evident that only a short time will be allowed Russia in which to give final and complete assurances of her intention to comply with any and all demands that Great Britain may make within reason.

Admiralty Not Idle.

The arrival of Admiral Rojestvensky at Vigo and the certainty that he is in direct communication with his Government resolves at once the possibility of any delay on account of the inability of Russia to get his side of the occurrences of the night of Oct. 21. With this official version before the Russian Government, together with the official statement of the members of the fishing fleet, it is unlikely that the British public or the British Government will allow another 24 hours to pass quietly without receiving a quick answer. Meanwhile the Admiralty is not idle.

Navy Grows Active.

Reports from all naval stations show that a tremendous state of activity exists. This is especially true of Gibraltar, from which place it is announced that some of the best of Great Britain's war vessels are under orders to proceed in the direction of the Russian second Pacific squadron, and that all the ships of the British Channel fleet are ready to go to sea at a moment's notice. Hitherto there has been no indication that a time limit has been set by Great Britain for Russia's reply to her demands, but the fact that three battleships and three cruisers are under orders for the morning of Oct. 28, is construed in some quarters to mean that Great Britain will not wait longer than that date before unleashing her sea dogs, while it is also evident that the Russian cruisers and smaller boats of the squadron may find difficulty in passing the gateway to the east, unless the crisis is completely over by the time they reach the entrance of the Mediterranean.

Everything Arranged.

Information has reached the Associated Press from an authoritative source that puts a brighter light upon the situation. It is understood that practically everything has been decided upon to the satisfaction of Count Lamsdorff, the Russian Foreign Minister, except the question of the punishment of the offending officers of the second Pacific squadron. It is further understood that Great Britain is not demanding final and formal written undertakings before announcing that she is satisfied, but that an undertaking in general terms on the part of Russia will be accepted as sufficient guarantee for an official announcement that the crisis has passed.

Colonial Secretary Lyttelton, speaking at Leamington last night, said he had no further information to disclose, but he had no doubt Russia would make full reparation and punish the offenders.

Reflect Grave Situation.

All the public utterances of ministers and influential men reflect the gravity of the crisis, but also confidence that Russia will give the required satisfaction. Premier Balfour will make a speech at Southampton on Friday, which is awaited with intense interest. Lord Selborne, first Lord of Admiralty, left London late last night for Portsmouth to give his personal attention to naval preparations there.

While the good faith of the Russian Government, in its efforts to probe the affair is not questioned, it is evident from British enquiries at the Foreign Office and Admiralty on Wednesday that while no time limit for a response to the British note has been fixed, King Edward's Government is neither in a humor nor a position to brook unreasonable delay. It is realized here that each day's delay will render the temper of the people of both countries more uncertain. The hope is expressed at the Admiralty that the report may be received to-day.

Admiral Reported.

The arrival here of the Russian battleships Emperor Alexander III., Borodino, Orel and Kniaz Soevaroff, and the transport Anadul, which have anchored in this port, has caused considerable excitement. The commander of the port immediately boarded the Russian flagship and informed Admiral Rojestvensky that the Spanish Government could not permit the warships to coal within the port. Admiral Rojestvensky replied that his vessels needed repairs, and that for that reason he had separated from the remainder of his squadron. The commander of the port promised to inform the Spanish Government of the admiral's statement and communicate the Government's reply as soon as it was received.

German Coalers Alongside.

In spite of this five German coalers anchored in port alongside the battleships, whereupon the commander of the port sent an aide-de-camp to beg Admiral Rojestvensky not to violate Spanish neutrality, and he also ordered the commanding officer of the Spanish cruiser Estramadura to notify the colliers that they must obey the port authorities. Eventually Admiral Rojestvensky promised that he would not coal in Spanish waters, at the same time begging the commander of the port to obtain the government's permission for each warship to take on 400 tons of coal with which to reach Tangier. Shortly afterwards three colliers sailed for Tangier, but two remained alongside the Russian warships.

As far as can be seen, the crews of the battleships are very uneasy. Sentinels are closely watching every movement within the harbor. All four of the warships seem to be cleared for action.

It is learned that three other Russian warships have anchored in Arosa Bay. The Government has refused them permission to coal in Spanish waters.

The Spanish warships Marques de la Victoria and Vasco Nunez de Balboa are keeping watch along the coast.

The authorities have ordered that all fishing boats shall fly the national flag, in order to avoid a repetition of the Dogger Bank incident.

The Press Bellicose.

London, Oct. 27.—The tone of the London press is notably more bellicose to-day than it has been at any period of the existing crisis.

The tone of comparative moderation and calmness hitherto shown by the press of London is observed to be yielding to one of an outspoken bellicose nature. The Daily Mail editorially speaks of war threatening and gives in scare headlines, "Ultimatum to Russia Expires This Afternoon," etc. Without going to these lengths, nearly all the other papers are discussing the possibilities of war should the war party in St. Petersburg be able to influence the Emperor and Government into determination to shield the officers of the second Pacific squadron.

The unofficial explanation of Admiral Rojestvensky telegraphed from Vigo is stigmatised by The Morning Post and other papers as apparently that of a lunatic, whose continuance in a position of responsibility is a menace to every vessel that navigates the sea.

The Daily Telegraph, representing the Government view, says: "There is no doubt whatever of the Government's seriousness. No responsible Ministers would order a fleet athwart the path of the vessels of a foreign power without recognizing the responsibility of such a grave step; yet this is what His Majesty's Government has done with its eyes wide open."

An equally bellicose tone characterized the British correspondent's despatches from St. Petersburg.

Lord Rosebery, in sending a cheque for $500 for the sufferers, describes the North Sea affair as "an unspeakable outrage."

The Morning Post's Copenhagen correspondent gives the report that the captain of a British steamer, after passing the second Pacific squadron Friday night in the North Sea, saw two miles away a two-funneled steamer in distress, which apparently sank before he was able to reach her. It is suggested that the steamer had been attacked by the second Pacific squadron.

URGENT ORDERS TO MEDITERANEAN FLEET

Belief That Russian Squadron Will not be Allowed to Pass Gibraltar.

Division of the British Squadron at Fiume, Hungary, Ordered to Join with Pola Division.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Fiume, Hungary, Oct. 27. — The division of the British Mediterranean squadron now here has received urgent orders from the Admiralty to unite with the division anchored at Pola, Austria, and to continue its voyage eastward.

TO BLOCK SQUADRON.

London, Oct. 27.—While no time limit for the receipt of Russia's reply has been fixed, it is generally understood to-day that the route of the Russian squadron past Gibraltar will be barred by the channel squadron, commanded by Vice Admiral Lord Charles Beresford.

PHANTOMS HAUNT ROJESTVENSKY.

Admiral Says He Saw Ships Among His Battleships.

Vigo, Spain, Oct. 27.—The Associated Press has succeeded in obtaining an interview with Admiral Rojestvensky, who expressed great regret over the North Sea incident. The admiral stated that the unfortunate occurrence was purely accidental. The weather, the night in question, was rather hazy. About 1 a.m. two torpedo boats, which the Russians supposed to be Japanese craft, suddenly appeared between the two divisions of the squadron and seemed to discharge torpedoes. The Russians immediately opened fire. They saw no fishermen and were not aware that any damage had been done. Evidently, the admiral said, the fishermen had shown no lights. The admiral reported that he greatly regretted that any injury had been done the fishermen, and added that he had no doubt the Russian Government would make ample recompense.

Purely Crazy.

The arrival here of the Russian battleships Emperor Alexander III., Borodino, Orel and Kniaz Soevaroff, and the transport Anadul, which have anchored in this port, has caused considerable excitement. The commander of the port immediately boarded the Russian flagship and informed Admiral Rojestvensky that the Spanish Government could not permit the warships to coal within the port. RECKLESS EQUINE RAILWAY WRECK.

Runaway Horses Make Closed Gates "Gates Ajar."

Frightened Team of Horses Did Considerable Damage to G.T.R. Gates on Simcoe Street This Morning.

A most exciting runaway occurred this morning about eleven o'clock, and did considerable damage to property. Mr. W. Meldrum's spirited team of horses was standing attached to a delivery waggon, in a lane at the west side of the mill on Simcoe street. The horses became frightened at the noise of a shunting engine, dashed out of the lane, and went east on Simcoe street. The G.T.R. railway gates were down at the time, and before the gateman had time to raise them, the wildly excited horses were within a few feet of them. He managed to raise the first gates a short distance, but one of them was struck and badly bent, the iron work being loosened from its holdings. The eastern gates, however, could not be raised at all in time, and the horses plunged into them, breaking one of them cleanly at the holding. The animals dashed down the street, and although several men tried to stop them, all efforts were useless. Several vehicles had very narrow escapes and one, entering Cavanagh's Hotel yards was struck, and the horse attached to it was hurled to the sidewalk. Another was struck near George street but was not injured. The horses continued on their mad flight until reaching the foot of Simcoe street, where they turned and completely encircled the new mill being constructed there, and were finally captured. The harness was badly broken but the wagon escaped with but little injury.

The gateman at the Simcoe street crossing will have to resort to his old method of flagging the passers-by for the next few days.

This is the second time that these gates have suffered through a runaway.

SENSATIONAL STORY OF VICE-ADMIRAL.

Russian Admiral Says That He was Attacked by Torpedo Boats.

Fired in Self-Defense and Hit Trawlers by Mistake—Rojestvensky's Improbable Story.

(Special to the Examiner.)

St. Petersburg, Oct. 27.—Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's explanation of the trawlers incident is fully as sensational as the news of the firing upon the fishing fleet, which set all England aflame. He declared he was attacked in the darkness by two torpedo boats which came upon the squadron from the direction of the fishing fleet. He opened fire and believes he sank one of the torpedo boats, the other making off for cover among the fishermen. He soon as he noticed the fishermen Admiral Rojestvensky ceased firing. He proceeded on his way without leaving any vessels behind, and says he believes that the vessel which the fishermen reported remained on the scene for six hours without offering succor to the drowning men, was the other torpedo boat either waiting for her consort or repairing damages inflicted by the fire of his ships.

A LAND OF PROMISE.

The National Magazine has, in the November number, a splendid article on "Empire Building in North-western Canada." This sketch is largely historical, and traces the development of our country since the organization of the Hudson's Bay Company, by Prince Rupert, first cousin of Charles II, in 1670. The letter press is profusely illustrated, and contains the pictures of many men who have been connected with Canadian affairs, including the officers of the Hudson's Bay Company, the railway builders, and the leaders in political life.

Reference is made to the rapid and extraordinary growth of recent years, as indicated in the report of the minister of the interior. In 1897, the first year of his charge, the number of homestead entries was but 2,054, while during the past year they reached the enormous total of 31,283. The land thus disposed of covered more than 5,800,000 acres, and there were beside some four and a quarter millions of acres privately sold. The movement of population into Canada has, in the seven years of Mr. Sifton's administration, increased eight-fold, from 16,000 immigrants in 1897 to 67,379 in 1903 and not less than 128,000 for the twelve months of 1903. These 128,000 settlers cost the Dominion Government in their getting but $5.62 each, a surprisingly good investment, for the late ex-Minister of the interior, Thomas Mayne Daly, has declared that every new settler is worth $1,000 to the country.

Then the National Magazine makes a prediction. "With an ever-increasing deluge of immigration over it, and depositing its alluvium of industrious humanity on a kindly soil," it says, "with an administration of governmental affairs liberal, intelligent and secure; with transportation facilities capably carrying the present products of the now settled areas, a coterie of resolute and energetic railway financiers, sanguine of the future, are, with commensurate government aid, preparing to solve the great problem of the developing of the enormous areas of the further north, richly dowered but now inaccessible, by the construction of a second transcontinental railway, the Grand Trunk Pacific."

Finally it is declared that the Rupert's Land of to-day cannot but further develop into a Rupert's Land of to-morrow, which will attain to the utmost purport of the legend blazoned across the Canadian arch at the recent coronation of King Edward VII, "Canada, the Granary of the Empire." Such is the tribute of an independent critic, and one who has been impressed with the present position and promising future of this our country.

A HIGH AURHORITY.

The Westminster Gazette of London, England, commenting on the record of the Canadian Liberal party for eight years, says that, "under Sir Wilfrid Laurier's regime, the total commerce of Canada has increased, the tariff has been reformed so as to help all classes, agricultural, manufacturing and consuming, immigration has been steadfastly and wisely fostered, and by the new refrigerator scheme the farmer is enabled to dispose of his produce in other countries in good condition, and consequently for a better price. The credit of Canada has never stood higher than it now does." Canada couldn't get such certificates of character from the British press in the palmy days of Conservative rule.

A SIGNIFICANT SILENCE.

With good reason Liberal campaigners point to the significant fact that Mr. Borden in all his speeches has been very careful not to commit himself to the policy of Government operation of the Transcontinental Railway. He has espoused the cause of Government ownership of the whole road, but if his party is returned to power he will take office absolutely unpledged, so far as the operation of the road by the Government is concerned.

That Mr. Borden does not favour Government operation of the road, is probable—nay, almost certain. Sir Mackenzie Bowell, speaking at Mr. Borden's meeting at Picton, vigorously opposed Government operation, while endorsing the Opposition leader's plan of having the road built and owned by the Government — and Mr. Borden said nothing to indicate that he dissented from Sir Mackenzie Bowell's opinion.

It may be taken for granted, then, that the Opposition leader, if he were to become leader, would, upon the completion of the Transcontinental Railway, lease it to an operating company. Perhaps that would be the safest plan — if the conditions of the lease were satisfactory. Then why maintain silence on this important feature of his policy? If Mr. Borden thinks that it is politic to do so, that it will strengthen his present position to keep the people in ignorance of what he proposes to do with the railway after it is built — he is justified in keeping mum on the subject. But the trouble is that his opponents are not keeping mum on the subject, but are saying some things which are very much to the point. One of these things is that if Mr. Borden had the power, he would lease the new transcontinental road to the C.P.R.

If that were true, it would of itself be sufficient to damn Mr. Borden's whole railway policy. The great West needs a competitive railway system, and the leasing of another transcontinental railway line to the C.P.R., would be mere doubling the monopoly power and privileges of the C.P.R.

Frankly, we don't believe that Mr. Borden would take a course so utterly stupid and disastrous to the interests of the West. But his enemies are hinting that that is what he has in mind; and it is very doubtful if silence on the subject is the best policy for him at present. — Hamilton Herald, Independent.

MR. BLAIR'S MANY "SITS."

Hon. Mr. Blair is a sphynx. He is a puzzle to his new found political friends, who show their good feeling by finding him a new position every day—the last being that of manager of the Vanderbilt railway interests. Nobody has been able to confirm the rumour that he is to take charge of the Beet Sugar Company, whose bonds Mr. Kendry thought it would be a safe thing to guarantee, though the gentlemen managing it, the same practically, who are managing the campaign, have developed it into a costly hole in the ground, where not a few people, including widows and orphans, have lost their money.

A trial was held to-day in the town hall in connection with a fight that occurred in the west end, M. Post and J. Little being the participants. The Magistrate fined Post $10 and Little, $5, and costs.

The disturbances, which have become so common at the west end of the town, have caused a lot of comment, and the people are wondering when this sort of thing is going to be put a stop to, as it is not only keeping people up at night, but also makes it very annoying for young ladies who are continually passing up and down. The fight the other morning necessitated a young lady on her way to work to take the railway track as she was afraid to pass the hotel. The night before the Post and Little mix up something of the same kind occurred, but that time the person had the pleasure of breaking all the windows that he could hit in the hotel with stones. In doing this the culprit hit a man who was standing inside, cutting his face badly.

"My wife and myself have used Dodd's Kidney Pills and have found them a big benefit to our health. We had La Grippe two winters and were exposed to much frost and cold. CALM BEFORE STORM

No Fighting of Importance By Russ and Jap Since Oct. 25.

READY TO RESUME STRUGGLE

Proximity of the Two Armies Makes It Impossible For Them to Much Longer Forego Renewed Clash of Arms At Early Date—Japs to Pay Dearly For Port Arthur.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 27.—General Kuropatkin telegraphs that there was no fighting of importance Oct. 25. He adds:

"A desultory artillery fire was maintained all day long upon the front of our right flank by both the enemy and ourselves.

"On the night of Oct. 24 the Russian volunteer sharpshooters ambushed advancing Japanese outposts and forced them to retire southward. Another detachment recovered a Russian gun carriage."

Ready to Resume Fighting

Mukden, Oct. 27.—There was no incident of importance Tuesday. Both armies are resting and preparing to resume the slaughter.

There is a rumor among the Chinese at Mukden that the Japanese are ready to attack.

Battle Soon to Be Renewed.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 27.—The quiet now prevailing at the theatre of war is considered to be only the calm before a storm. There is every indication of the imminence of the resumption of fighting on a large scale, as the proximity of the two armies makes it impossible for them to much longer defer a renewal of the battle.

Field Marshal Oyama is reported to be fortifying his whole line south of the Sha River, showing that he is preparing to meet the Russian onset. Not a ray of light as yet has been shed upon Kuropatkin's plans.

Authorship Traced.

Viceroy Alexieff's order of the day announcing Kuropatkin's appointment to the troops is in the same grandiose vein as Kuropatkin's order of Oct. 3, and is regarded as having definitely established the authorship of that ill-starred document. While Alexieff takes particular pains in turning over the supreme command of the land forces to Kuropatkin to inform the soldiers and the world of the marks of Imperial confidence reposed in him and to announce that he will remain as Viceroy, the order is considered as virtually his farewell address, and that it will soon be followed by his return to St. Petersburg. His elimination as a factor of the military situation has caused a sigh of relief.

Japs Must Sacrifice Many Men.

London, Oct. 27.—Under date of Oct. 23, the Port Arthur corresponden of The Daily Telegraph, describing the defences of that place, says the Japanese will achieve a wonderful success if they can capture the fortress with a loss under 30,000 men, for the garrison, though worn down and few in numbers, can hold their strong defences with no great daily casualties from the bombardment of the heaviest ordnance, and that the Japanese must sacrifice great numbers to gain even the advanced defences, which are as strong as forts. This despatch reached The Daily Telegraph by way of Yinkow.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. For sale by all druggists.

Mrs. Hawes Took Rough on Rats.

Toronto, Oct. 27.—Mrs. Sarah Jane Hawes, who has had more than her share of this world's troubles, is dead, from a dose of "rough on rats." She took the stuff Tuesday, but subsequently repented, and used an emetic, after which she felt better and was able to attend to her regular duties. Later, however, she died from its effects. Mrs. Hawes was 36 years of age. She has five children, the eldest being 14. Nine years ago her husband deserted her. An inquest will be held.

Healer Preceded Death.

Calgary, Oct. 27.—Inspector Worsley returned from Olds Tuesday, where a post-mortem was held on the body of a man named Newsome, who died a week ago. Newsome was convalescent from typhoid and dismissing his medical practitioner he called in Fyke, a magnetic healer, who burnt powder, gave other treatment and declared him well. Newsome took a full meal and died shortly afterwards. A warrant is out for the arrest of Fyke, who cannot be found.

Yankee Sculptor Dead.

Florence, Italy, Oct. 27.—Longworth Powers, the famous sculptor, is dead.

Don't Trust to Luck.

Even if there is such a thing as luck you cannot afford to trust to it in case of sickness. You know by the experience of others that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food actually forms new blood and tissue and revitalizes the nerves and by using it regularly you can be certain that your system is being built up and that weakness and disease are being overcome.

YANKEES WON'T HAVE THEM.

Wealthy Gypsies Refused Entrance Into the United States.

Montreal, Oct. 27.—Twenty Roumanian gypsies were up before Judge Fortier yesterday morning under a writ of habeas corpus. They had tried to enter the States but were deported, and then came to Canada. They were detained on the Ionian under orders from England, under the "undesirable immigration" law. The party are said to have $20,000 in Boston, and are not apparently diseased. On the argument, P. Ryan, for the Department of the Interior, opposed the writ of habeas corpus, claiming that the people were gypsies of notorious character, who lived by fortune-telling and roguery. This the people denied. Their queen came down from Boston in an effort to release them, but the case was enlarged until to-day, pending word from the department. The judge ordered the women and children to be released under $1,000 cash bail. The queen at once produced $500 in American eagles, but the party had not the cash to make up the balance, and will have to remain on the Ionian until to-day.

TREATMENT OF PILES

Permanence of Cure the True Test

Many so-called pile remedies will afford the users slight temporary relief, and the majority of those afflicted do not expect more than this.

The average sufferer, after having tried every preparation recommended for the cure of piles, comes to the conclusion that there is no cure except by an operation, and rather than undergo this "last resort" he suffers on, resigned to the situation, so far as maybe. The attention of those interested is invited to the following experience.

"After ten years of suffering from blind, bleeding and protruding piles, and after using every remedy I could hear of without any benefit, I finally bought a fifty cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure, and used it with such good results I bought next a dollar box, which finished up the job. That was nearly six years ago, and as far as piles is concerned I am cured, and have never felt a symptom of them since.

"Many others have used this remedy by my advice, with the same results, and I always recommend it to suffers with piles." C. H. Potts, Burlington, Kans.

Testimony like this should convince the most skeptical the Pyramid Pile Cure not only cures, but cures to stay cured. It is in the form of a suppository, can be applied in the privacy of the home, directly to the parts affected, and does its work quickly and painlessly.

Druggists generally sell this famous remedy for fifty cents a package and sufferers are urged to buy a package now and give it a trial to-night. Accept no substitute.

A little book describing the causes and cure of piles is published by the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich. and same will be sent free to any address for the asking.

Found Shot Through the Head.

Medicine Hat, Man., Oct. 26.—Russell Crowe, aged 20, was found in a stable between 8 and 9 o'clock yesterday morning, shot through the head. The bullet had entered over the eye and passed out through the back of the head. No motive can be given for the sad act. He came here from Nova Scotia one year ago, and was employed with L. B. Cochrane & Son as grocery delivery man. Crowe is still alive, but cannot recover.

Killed By a Falling Brick.

Toronto, Oct. 26.—Leo Gelber, was brought home dead to his house at 84 Armory street last night. He was struck on the head by a falling brick at his place of business. The medical men say his skull was fractured, and that there was a hemorrhage of the brain. Gelber leaves a widow and three small children. He was 32 years of age. An inquest will be held.

Lost One of His Hands.

Parry Sound, Oct. 26.—On Saturday a serious accident happened to Russell McLennan, a ten-year-old son of Malcolm McLennan, of this town, by which he lost his left hand. The little fellow had been rummaging in a drawer in the house, and found a dynamite exploder or cap. He tried to extract the cap and an explosion followed.

THE PEMIER'S TOUR

Great Ovations to Sir Wilfrid at Megog and Valleyfield.

COTTON MEN HEARD FROM

Will Support the Liberals—No Quarrel With the Tariff—Sir Wilfrid Laurier Settles the Trouble in Wright County By Accepting the Nomination—Premier Will Also Contest Quebec East.

Montreal, Oct. 27.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier spent a few hours here yesterday afternoon, following a splendid meeting at Magog, and last night addressed a rousing gathering at Valleyfield in favor of Mr. G. M. Loy, the Liberal candidate in Beauharnois, who is opposing Mr. J. G. H. Bergeron, the Conservative, who so often failed to carry St. James' division of Montreal. It now looks as if Mr. Bergeron will meet the same fate in Beauharnois.

The Premier's tour of the eastern Provinces began on Tuesday, with an overflow meeting at Farnham. He was accompanied by Hon. Sydney Fisher and Hon. L. P. Brodeur. The town hall, which holds about 1,500 people, was packed, and a like number were accommodated at the overflow meeting, a thing that previously was unknown in that town.

On Wednesday afternoon at Sherbrooke, a lively manufacturing city, great enthusiasm was shown. A keen contest is on there between C. C. Knight, Liberal, and D. A. Worthington, Conservative. It had been said that a large audience could not be got together in the afternoon, but Sir Wilfrid set aside that claim by attracting great numbers from all parts of the country notwithstanding a heavy rain.

A procession was formed at the station, which escorted the Premier in the midst of the greatest enthusiasm to the theatre, where a rousing meeting was held, Sir Wilfrid being cheered heartily.

A similarly demonstrative crowd gathered to receive the Premier at Magog yesterday and at Valleyfield last night. Everywhere the greatest enthusiasm has prevailed.

At Valleyfield.

Valleyfield, Oct. 27.—One of the largest meetings ever held in Beauharnois county was held here last night in honor of the visit of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. More than five thousand people heard the Premier's speech and the applause was generous and unmistakable. A feature in connection with the presence of Sir Wilfrid here was an announcement by the local manager of the Montreal Cotton Mills. Mr. Ward said that in view of the Government's promises to inquire into the condition of the cotton industry it would not be advisable for them to oppose the Liberal candidate. He admitted that the present difficulty at the cotton mills at Valleyfield were not due to the Liberal policy.

The Premier Will Run in Wright.

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier will run in Wright County as well as in Quebec East. That decision was reached yesterday. There were three aspirants for the nomination, Messrs. E. B. Devlin, Goyette and Barrett. Each was bent upon running. Neither would retire in favor of the other. When there is a sure thing in sight there are lots of candidates; it is not always so in a forlorn hope. However, the three gentlemen agreed to withdraw if the Prime Minister would enter the field. This Sir Wilfrid has consented to do, and he will be placed in nomination for Wright County.

To get that appetizing, brown appearance and outside crispyness on roasts of lamb, beef, etc.—to keep their goodness in them they must be basted. LATEST SPORTING NEWS.

The rugby boys had a good practice last evening in preparation for Saturday's big game. The locals fully recognise the importance of this match and are confident of turning the tables. The boys are in the pink of condition, and though the Toronto claim to be strengthened on the back division, the Peterboros are confident of turning the tables on them. It will likely be the last home game here this year and the public should turn out in large numbers and encourage the boys. The expenses of the club are heavy and the team is deserving of support.

The rugby team had a good practice on the T. A. S. grounds this afternoon in final preparation for Saturday's game.

Rev. A. F. Barr will likely be referee for Saturday's game with R. F. McWilliams as umpire.

Harold Beatty, last year's star half back of the Varsity team is expected to return to college and will figure on the students' team in the remaining games. Baldwin is also in condition again which means that the Varsity back division will be the same as last year's. If this is the case, the Intercollegiate championship will likely be held in Toronto for another year.

MURRAY STREET CHOOSES PASTOR.

Rev. Freeman J. Scott Selected Last Night.

A Preacher Highly Recommended—Will Probably Take Charge November 1st.

Last night the quarterly business meeting of the Murray street Baptist Church was held, and was more than usually largely attended. The principal business of the meeting was to elect a pastor. The report of the Pulpit Committee was presented, and recommended that Rev. Freeman J. Scott, of Sparta, be chosen as the new pastor. This report was adopted by unanimous consent of those present. Rev. Mr. Scott, it will be remembered was here preaching a few weeks ago, and his sermons then were much enjoyed by the congregation. He is a good pulpit speaker and comes highly recommended.

An effort will be made to have the new pastor here to take up his duties on November 1st. He has not yet accepted the appointment, but it is expected that his acceptance will be received in a few days.

Rev. Mr. Scott was born in Sparta, Elgin County, and after attending public and high school there he went to McMaster University from which he graduated in Arts in 1899. He then went to the North-west, where he worked for three years and returned in 1902 to McMaster where he took his theology course, graduating in Theology in May last. While taking this course he was pastor of the Second Markham Baptist Church, and only recently resigned his pastorate there.

Chancellor Wallace, of McMaster, speaks of Mr. Scott as "A scholar of ability, and accuracy, a speaker of fluency, force and power, a man of balanced and cool judgment, with a strong and attractive personality. He was influential and popular among his fellow-students, which is to say, that he is manly. He is sympathetic. I believe him to have in him elements of growth, and that he would perform strong service for the Murray street church. I regard him as one of our ablest and best equipped young men."

It will thus be seen that the new pastor comes with high recommendations and it is believed that he will in every way prove an able successor to Rev. Mr. Bastow.

It was also decided last night that the new Hymnal would be used commencing with the first Sunday in December.

An effort will also be made to clear off the small debt against the church, incurred in making the improvements. They would like to clear off this small debt with the advent of the new pastor.

TWENTY DOLLARS FOR WORTHY OBJECT

North Harvey and Bobcaygeon Give $20.00 to Children's Aid Society.

The Children's Aid Society of Peterborough, are deeply indebted to their friends in North Harvey and Bobcaygeon, who have forwarded through Mrs. N. Crowe, the sum of $20.00, which will enable the society to do useful work during the coming winter.

The officers of the society point out to their friends that they can, when occasion demands it, give temporary shelter to children during times of trouble and sickness in the family. There have been several occasions when children have been taken into the Shelter and cared for during the absence of the mother while in the hospital, the children being restored to their parents as soon as their own home is prepared to receive them. In this way mothers have been relieved of great anxiety during periods of illness, feeling that the children were in good hands.

The society is always ready to afford shelter and assistance to any child who requires it, no matter what the cause may be, and remittances, such as the one referred to, are of great encouragement to the management as they testify to the approval and support of the charitable people of the county.

STOVE TALK NO. 6.

Why the "Happy Thought" Burns Less Coal Than any Other Range.

1. The fire pot in the "Happy Thought" is entirely different to any other range. It is deeper and narrower, and twenty years of use has proved that this feature alone will save many tons of coal.

2. The Duplex Grates, from the original patterns of the inventor, distributes the draft equally over the entire grate surface. No dead corners.

3. The peculiar flue construction is the result of fifty years of careful study, and that the proportions are absolutely correct is proved by the fact that the Happy Thought bakes with a smaller fire than is possible with any other range.

FOUR MONTHS IN SURVEYING.

Cameron Survey Party Have Returned Home.

Two Townships in Far North Were Surveyed—A Party of Sixteen, Seven of Which Were Local Men.

The Cameron Government Survey Party, which has been surveying in Northern Ontario for the past four months, has returned home. This is the second trip which has been made by the party, the personnel of which was changed somewhat this year from that which went out last year. In the party of sixteen which were surveying, were seven from Peterborough, Messrs. A. J. Cameron, R. Tivey, J. Cameron, R. Powell, J. Judd, H. Carlyle, and F. Dumble.

The local party left for the north about the middle of June, in company with a cook from Campbellford, and an assistant surveyor from Cornwall. They went to Mattawa, where they were joined by three others, and proceeded to Temiscaming by train, and from there to New Liskeard by canoe. Two more joined the party here. A short stop was made here, after which the party proceeded to North Temiscaming, which was reached on June 20th. The journey was made with one Klondyke 20 foot canoe and two 19-foot canoes. A sixteen mile portage was made on foot after leaving North Temiscaming, and after arriving at Klock's farm, a number of lakes and rivers were passed, Quinze Lake, Barrier Lake, Lonely River, Long Lake, Snake creek, Island Lake, Abitibi River and Lake. The party encamped at the junction of the Abitibi and Black Rivers, where two others joined the party. The trip was made in sixteen days. The weather was quite stormy at times and the waters difficult to navigate. The rivers were full of rapids, only a portion of them could be navigated, and them only with considerable difficulty.

Two townships, Clergue and Teefy, were surveyed this summer. The work was quite difficult, and it took the members of the party some time to become accustomed to the unfavourable conditions of the weather and of the land on which they worked. The land was mostly wooded, although in Clergue there was considerable swampy land. The walking was very disagreeable, being over fallen logs and stumps, and the morning walk to work, which was often three or four miles, was somewhat wearying. Three of the party, including Dumble, had to return in about one month's time, because of illness, and another Carlyle, was the victim of an accident, and had also to return. The rest of the party enjoyed good health most of the time.

The district where the surveying was done was entirely devoid of inhabitants, it being many miles from any form of civilization.

The party did considerable shooting when the oppertunity afforded, partridge being the chief victims of their rifles. On the first trip a quantity of moose meat was bought from some Indians, but none of the animals were shot by the party, in whose vicinity the moose were seldom seen.

The party left for home on October 14th, the return trip being made in eight days, the whole party of 12 travelling in one large 32-foot war canoe. The weather on the return trip was very agreeable and favourable to making fast time. The distance from Black River to Klock's farm is about 200 miles, which distance was traversed in canoes.

All the local members of the party arrived home last week.

TOLD OF WORK IN SOUTH AMERICA

Miss L. Thomas, a Returned Missionary, at St. Luke's Church.

Very Interesting Address on Missionary Work in Chili—A Large Attendance.

There was a large attendance at the regular weeknight service at St. Luke's Church last evening when Miss Louy Thomas, a South American missionary, who is home on furlough gave a most interesting address on the work with which she has been connected in that country.

Miss Thomas left her home in Toronto in 1897 to undertake missionary work in South America. This country was called the "Neglected Country" and it was well named for from the missionary point of view it was neglected. In comparison with other countries it had but very few missionaries as people seldom thought of the South America as a part of the great mission field. This was partly because it was the opinion of many that the people were all Roman Catholics, but while there are many of these, there are large numbers of heathen tribes, who know nothing of the gospel, but are savage, and uncivilized.

The missionary work is divided into four classes (a) among the heathen; (b) evangelising the Roman Catholics who are much different from those in this country; (c) establishing Chaplaincies for the English speaking people; (d) the work among the sea men. It was in the first class of work that Miss Thomas was engaged. She was stationed at Quepe in Chili and worked among the Araucanian or Mapuche Indians as they were called. These were the original inhabitants of the country and though the work was carried on chiefly with these, efforts were also made to Christianize the Chilians.

The work is under the supervision of the Anglican Missionary society of England, but Miss Thomas was sent out by Canadian society. The work is carried on in school's which the Indians attend in order to learn Spanish and the opportunity thus afforded is taken advantage of in teaching the gospel. These industrial schools are for girls and boys whose ages range from eight to thirty years. The school plan is considered the most effective because the inhabitants of the country are scattered and it is difficult to reach them and it is the hope that those who are converted in the schools will go back to their homes and tell of the gospel and in many cases this has been done with encouraging results. The boys' school was started in 1897, but only last year was the girls' department commenced.

When Miss Thomas arrived in Quepe in October, 1897, there was but one school in existence and that had but four boy pupils. The school opened in April and continued until December when it was closed for three months' summer holiday, as the seasons there are the reverse to those in this country. In the second year the attendance increased to ten and the missionaries' prayer was that God would still grant an increase and it was hoped that a total of at least thirty would be reached after a few years. These hopes were more than realized and last year there were 117 on the roll. This year, however, the attendance had dropped somewhat, being about 70. The accommodation was at first very inadequate. The school was simply an Indian house or "ruca" as it is called, a thatched building, not weather proof, and with a very small school room. A grant from England was finally secured and a more modern and convenient building was completed by the year 1902, which greatly added to the success of the work.

All the lessons are taught in Spanish. Beside the regular routine of school study, the boys are taught to work at carpentering, agriculture, gardening, etc. However, the boys are not taught trades such as would take them to the towns, for the influences of the towns are very bad in that country, but they are taught what will be of use to them in the betterment of their own homes. The girls are taught housework. But the main object is to teach the gospel and every morning a half hour is spent in the study of the Bible, as well as a short period at noon and on Sunday. Many of the pupils have become converted and are exerting a telling influence with their relatives, while others show practically no concern about religious affairs and in the study of God's book. The speaker gave several illustrations of how the gospel was spread by the work of the boys who had become converted.

There was much sickness in that land especially in the winter time, when colds were very prevalent and serious illness often resulted. Consequently there was great need for a physician who would be of great value in promoting the work there. There had been two deaths at the school and as both these who died had come from the same place, no more boys were sent from this locality as the Indians who are very suspicious thought that the missionaries were killing their children. The only "doctors" there are female whose two chief means of curing the sick are by beating drums for several hours at the bedside of the sick, in order to drive away the evil spirit or of burning the flesh of the patient with a red-hot iron with the hope of accomplishing the same purpose. The Indians use some herbs for the benefit of the sick and they sometimes prove effective remedies.

Though the work there is somewhat slow, the results are being felt and there is no doubt but that workers are needed as badly in South America as in any other country.

Miss Thomas speaks this evening at All Saints' Church.

Returning Officer.

SOME FOSTER FALLACIES.

Mr. Foster put a point that the unthinking applauded the other night, when he summoned the housewife to prove that the price of every household requisite was higher now than it was eight years ago.

Mr. Foster did not ask the housewife to prove that if household articles were higher in price now than eight years ago, the wages her husband brought home now had increased in far larger ratio than the prices of goods — that not only were wages higher, but that work was more plentiful. Mr. Foster can't fool the people with his statistical hard times. Who wouldn't prefer high price goods, with plenty of wages to buy them, to low price goods, with no wages to buy them?

Mr. Foster told his credulous Conservative hearers that the Liberal Government had robbed them by oppressive taxes, that had resulted in surpluses — a special abomination to Mr. Foster. Another case of suggestio falsi and suppressio veri.

Mr. Foster did not tell his hearers the whole truth, thereby suggesting falsehood. He did not tell them what is a fact, that the revenue raised by the Liberal Government, resulting in surpluses, was collected on a rate of tariff taxation 13 per cent less than that which prevailed when Mr. Foster was conducting his deficit-making industry.

Mr. Foster did not tell his hearers that under the rate of customs taxation he imposed, the aggregate surpluses of the Liberal Government, of 57 millions, would have been swollen to 74 millions, that, is, if the people had purchased as many goods.

Under the administration of the Liberals — every class of people — the farmer, the manufacturer, the mechanic, the labourer — were, and are, more prosperous. Times were good — as they are now—wages were high, work was plentiful, and everybody had more money to spend, therefore the people bought more goods—the merchants had to import more, and the people, under a lower rate of taxation, paid more into the revenue. Mothers and children were better clothed and fed, homes were happier.

Mr. Foster said in the rink on Monday night that the country "had prospered in spite of the Liberal tariff." Well, admit that. It is equally true that the country stagnated in every department of human activity, and in every interest, in spite of the Foster tariff.

Mr. Foster, and those for whom he speaks, may prate and preach and prevaricate and prostitute plain facts as they like, but the outstanding fact remains that under the Conservative tariff — and under Conservative administration, we had bad times, idle factories, scarce employment, low wages, low prices for the farm, failing revenues, increasing debt, big deficits, trade dullness, and generally blue ruin conditions.

Under the Liberal Government we have had rampant prosperity all along the line, abounding revenue, decreased debt, with splendidly increased expenditure, for needed and productive public services, high wages, plenty of employment, and a general condition of splendid growth, progress, prosperity and popular contentment and happiness.

Will the electors of Canada change the Good Times Government for the Dull Times Government, will they exchange prosperity and progress for stagnation and depression? We have prosperity—let us keep it.

Keep both hands on the full dinner pail.

Keep both hands on a Good Times Government.

EQUALLY GOOD SERVICE.

Mr. Foster in his eulogy of Mr. Kendry at the meeting on Monday night said, "You have had him (Mr. Kendry) as your 'representative' before and he has done you good service. (Applause.) If you take him again he will do you equally good service."

The people of Peterborough who have suffered the benefit of Mr. Kendry's former "service" will have some difficulty in swallowing the first part of Mr. Foster's panygaric, but will heartily agree with the latter part—"equally good service." Mr. Kendry has practically done West Peterborough no service and he won't have to lie awake nights very much to do "equally good service."

PRETTY WEDDING WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

Nuptials of Miss Evelyn Weir and Mr. James McDonald.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at five o'clock yesterday afternoon at "Lakeview," Norwood Road, the residence of Mr. Francis Weir, when his youngest daughter, Mary Evelyn, was made the bride of Mr. James McDonald, of town. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. G. Lewis in the presence of about sixty guests. The bride was attended by Miss Mabel Tully, of Midland, while the groomsman, was Dr. Scott, of London.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white louseine silk trimmed with pink applique and ribbon and carried a handsome bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid was becomingly attired in pale blue silk organdie with berths and trimmings of lace and wore a hat to match. Her bouquet was also of chrysanthemums.

The bride was given away by her father and Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Lizzie Scott.

The parlour and dining room, where a delightful wedding breakfast was served at the conclusion of the ceremony, were tastefully decorated with white chrysanthemums and plants.

The bride was very kindly remembered by a large circle of friends who sent a host of beautiful presents.

Guests were present from Galt, Glen Morris, Branchton, Hamilton, Niagara Falls, N. Y., Midland, London, Norwood and other places.

Mr. and Mrs. McDonald left on the nine o'clock G. T. R. train for Niagara Falls, Buffalo and upon returning will reside at 263 Charlotte street.

VESUVIUS AGAIN UGLY

THE FAMOUS VOLCANO A SCENE OF AWFUL MAGNIFICENCE.

History of the Famous Burning Mountain of Italy—The Destruction of Herculaneum and Pompeii—Its Appearance Before 79 A.D., When the Great Eruption Took Place—The Volcano As It Now Appears.

The most wonderful sight in Europe at the present time is the eruption of Vesuvius. That famous volcano is furnishing entertainment for a great many tourists, and the desire to see the remarkable spectacle presented has drawn some venturesome travelers into danger. The Italian Government has been compelled to take a hand in restraining such sight-seers from going too near the angry monster, whose sudden outburst almost 2,000 years ago overwhelmed two cities in ruins and death.

The comparative quietude of the volcano in recent years has led many to suppose that no special danger existed in its vicinity, and tourists have gone close to its crater, while the peasantry have peopled to some extent its lava strewn sides. The mountain is about thirty miles in circumference. A railway conveys tourists from the base of the cinder cone to the summit near the edge of the crater. Lava flowing from the crater has now melted away the metal of this railway and destroyed the upper station and the huts in which the guides lived. The peasants in the vicinity of the burning mountain have left their homes and are camped in the open air.

It was in 79 A. D. that the great eruption took place which overwhelmed and buried the cities of Herculaneum and Pompeii. Before this eruption Vesuvius had the appearance of a truncated mountain. There was a deep depression in its summit, and its sides were forest clad. The eruption began suddenly with the formation over the mountain of a huge black cloud, followed by an explosion, in which the top of the volcano was blown off, accompanied by showers of ashes, lapilli and mud. Pompeii was buried under ashes, and Herculaneum was covered with mud.

The cloud from the mountain shot up like a pillar and spread out on all sides. Thunder and awful flashes of lightning proceeded from it. The cloud was also lit up with a ruddy glow, as though from a burning furnace beneath. Explosion succeeded explosion in the mountain, a succession of earthquakes transpired, the land rocked, and the sea flowed back and forth in strange tides. The inhabitants of the doomed cities had not heeded the warnings the mountain had given, and when they realized their danger escape was cut off. The elder Pliny, who was in command of the Roman fleet at Misenum, sailed to the scene in the hope of aiding the distracted inhabitants, but when he landed at the foot of the mountain he was suffocated by the vapors escaping from it, just as the inhabitants of the city at the foot of Mont Pelee were suffocated by its gases on its terrible eruption but a short time ago.

The description of this eruption of Vesuvius given in Bulwer's famous novel, "The Last Days of Pompeii," is one of the strongest pieces of descriptive writing in English literature. Though the historic eruption occurred more than eighteen centuries ago Vesuvius has maintained its activity ever since, with intervals of comparative quiet. In these intervals those living in the vicinity have sometimes grown careless of danger. Towns were often destroyed and lives lost in succeeding eruptions, but never afterward on so great a scale as in 79 A.D. Almost every century has witnessed a number of eruptions, and in 472 ashes from Vesuvius were carried as far eastward as Constantinople. In the eruption of 1822 the mountain lost about 900 feet of its height, but this has been mostly restored since by the deposits of ashes and lava and stone. There were many eruptions during the nineteenth century, one of the most violent being that of 1872.

The demonstrations the mountain is now making cause old residents of the vicinity to fear that some more fearful outburst than any now living have witnessed may be in prospect. An observatory has been established near the volcano. The director reports that during one day recently his instruments registered no fewer than 1,844 explosions. These explosions sound from a distance like the intermittent roar of a great battle. The force of the explosions is such as to hurl great red-hot stones to a height of 16,000 feet, and the noise when they crash against the sides of the mountain in their fall and tear their way over the ashes and lava is deafening. One stone found about a mile from the crater weighed two tons. All vegetation within a mile of the volcano's crater has disappeared.

Man's horizon depends on his heart.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Peterboro, Oct. 26.—The regular meeting of the Peterboro cheese board was held here this morning. The buyers present were Messrs. Whitton, Kerr, Gilleapie, Fitzgerald, Wrighton, Rollins. Thirty-seven factories boarded 4600 boxes of cheese. The bidding opened at 9⅛c and was raised to 9⅛c, at which price all the factories but seven were sold. Mr. Whitton bought 2900 boxes and Mr. Rollins the balance. Upon motion it was agreed that no factories should make cheese between Nov. 1 and May 1, as it was the opinion that the cheese made in this period was of an inferior nature. The board adjourned for two weeks.

The Board's order, it must be understood, does not go into effect immediately. It will be submitted to each of the interested parties, and if they have any reasonable objection to urge, or modification to suggest, the board will take it into consideration.

THE EARTH'S INTERIOR.

A French Scientist's Theory, Explaining Earthquakes and Volcanoes.

The beginning of the present century, says The Literary Digest, has been marked by an unusual number of volcanic and seismic catastrophies, which have excited fresh interest both among geologists and the general public in the long vexed problem of the condition of the earth's interior. In a recent study of various hypotheses M. Prinz, a French authority, concludes that none of them is quite satisfactory, and he advances one of his own which is abstracted in Cosmos, March 26. According to Prinz's ideas, the globe is made up of concentric zones or envelopes, distinguished by their different physical states dependent on temperature and pressure. The writer says:

SECTION OF EARTH'S INTERIOR, SHOWING SEVEN ZONES OF MATTER.

"The globe is made up of concentric layers to the number of seven, which pass insensibly one into another in the following conditions:

"First.—The external solid zone, incompletely rigid, since the horizontal pendulum shows that it still possesses a certain degree of deformability.

"Second.—The zone of latent plasticity, in which pressures are transmitted in all directions. When they diminish the mass becomes solid in the usual signification of the word. Changes of weight arising from the incessant motion of superincumbent masses may consequently react on the state of this zone.

"Third.—The plastic zone, which immediately follows the preceding, but the matter constituting it can not feed volcanoes through openings or flues, as conduits can not keep open in the zone of latent plasticity.

"Fourth.—The liquid zone, which succeeds the above, passing insensibly into it.

"Fifth.—The zone of ordinary gases, susceptible of liquefaction under increased pressure.

"Sixth.—The zone of gases in the supercritical state. The critical temperatures of bodies being very different, certain of them are in this state, while others have not yet reached it.

"Seventh.—The central sphere, made up of a monatomic gas. The individuality of the various gases has disappeared, giving place to a perfectly homogeneous mass of very high temperature and of considerable specific gravity.

"This way of understanding the arrangement of the interior parts of the earth, although it accords with the idea of increase of temperature with depth, scarcely corresponds with current conceptions of volcanic action. It, even tends to strengthen the doubts cast by some writers on the validity of the theory that attributes mountain-folds to a contraction of the nucleus.

"The existence of the plastic zone is opposed to the free communication of the central fluid parts with the exterior. A glance at the accompanying diagram will show the frightful consequences of such connection. The intermittence of volcanoes, their complete extinction, their localization by groups, their occasional isolation, the slight relative importance of their products, are all so many reasons that lead us to consider them as dependent upon some local cause near the surface."

Shrewd Druggists.

"The cocaine fiend is more of a nuisance than the man who wants to be straightened up after a jag," said a druggist. "A 'coke fiend' would barter his shoes and his shirt for a bit of the [illegible] killer, and he works all sorts [illegible] of schemed to get the stuff.

"Not long ago a chap entered the store while I was [illegible]sy," said my friend the druggist, "and [illegible] me for a bunch of prescription blanks for Dr. Blank, whose office is only a square away. It was a moment of preoccupation on my part, and I handed out a pad of blanks. In a couple of days the same chap returned with a prescription for cocaine, signed by the same physician. He didn't get it. I happened to know the signature of the physician, and it was not done well on this particular prescription.

"More than a prescription is necessary to fool a druggist. It looks easy to copy a form from one piece of paper to another, but not one person in ten who does not know the medicine can do it successfully. We can spot a forger more easily than a bank cashier. There's always something missing when an amateur writes a prescription."

CONTROL of BRONCHITIS

Is Undoubtedly Possessed by the Well-known Family Medicine.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine

Turpentine is considered a specific for bronchitis.

The difficulty has been in the administration of turpentine so as to reach the irritated and inflamed parts and not be disagreeable to the patient.

Not only has the trouble been overcome by Dr. Chase in his Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, but he has also combined with turpentine two or three ingredients of almost equal power in soothing and healing the diseased parts and overcoming bronchitis and other dangerous ailments of the bronchial tubes and lungs.

By a secret process these elements of unquestioned medicinal power have been combined in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine so as to be pleasant to the taste and suitable for children and adults alike.

This remarkable success of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for bronchitis, asthma, croup and whooping cough is sufficient evidence that it is effective in ordinary coughs and colds.

MRS. RICHMOND WITHROW, Shubenacadie, Hants Co., N.S., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine with good success. My second daughter was troubled with bronchitis from the age of three weeks. Oftentimes I thought she would choke to death. The several remedies we got did not seem to be of much use, but the first dose of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine brought relief and further treatment made a thorough cure. This trouble used to come back from time to time, but the cure is now permanent. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has saved us many doctor's bills, and I would not be without it in the house for many times its cost."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle.

HOUSEHOLD ACCOUNTS.

Just One Book and a Little Care Will Be a Great Aid.

Keeping accounts is as worth while to the woman who is trying hard to get along on "next to nothing" as to the woman who, like the westerner, scorns pennies.

Not accounts as business men keep them, with a wearisome amount of detail and "posting" from book to book until the matter of finding out where you actually stand financially becomes a hopeless task, but simple ways, with no secret, baffling methods of doing what no self respecting figures should do—seeming, if not actually doing it, to lie.

Have just one book—rather thick—that will do for everything. Turn the front part into a cash account. Open the book out flat. Write down your allowance or whatever money you get on the left hand page. Write down on the right hand page what you've paid the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker—everything, even to a postage stamp.

Then, as often as you've time, once a week anyway, whether your allowance is weekly, monthly or daily, balance. And balancing is nothing harder than subtracting the total of the money you've spent from the total of the money you've received. The difference is what you should have in cash.

That is the only book you need if everything you buy is paid for as you get it. If you have accounts, keep a record in the back of your book of each man from whom you buy and make for yourself an unbreakable rule to put down everything you order from him as soon as it comes home. Then, when you compare your bills with your book, if there should be discrepancies, if it comes out a difference of dollars or cents, there's been some error on the part of the man who's sold you goods, and it is easy to straighten out.

That protects you against errors and results in an actual saving of money.—Exchange.

Pandora Range

Meals on Time.

If a dinner should be cooked with a light fire by a certain hour you can use a light fire and absolutely depend upon the Pandora to cook it by that time—no need to waste fuel to keep up a hot fire "just to make sure." And the same accuracy can be depended upon if a strong fire is necessary.

The hot-air flues force all the heat around the oven twice and directly under every pot-hole, which means that every atom of heat is used for cooking and only the smoke goes up the chimney.

The Pandora range is entirely new and is equipped with every latest feature for easy management, quick cooking, fuel economy and for lessening kitchen troubles generally.

THE MOUTH AND LIPS.

Disfigurements Which Every Woman May Remedy For Herself.

These are several slight disfigurements of the mouth which every woman may remedy for herself if she will. Those who use preparations to whiten the skin and who at the same time wish to prevent the growth of superfluous hair will omit to apply the preparation in the vicinity of the lips. Presently, however, they will notice that this omission makes a dark shade around the mouth. For such a mark a fresh lemon squeezed into a small quantity of glycerin and applied around the mouth will prove efficient.

Unfortunately too many women complain of a growth of hair on their mouths, which is fatal to beauty from the American standpoint. It is pleasant to know that electrolysis has been brought to such perfection and can now be performed so cheaply that it is within the reach of most women. Moles, too, in the vicinity of the mouth may be removed without pain by the electric needle.

Glycerin is very useful as a lip salve, counteracting either winter chapping or summer dryness. As a rule the lips receive too little cleansing, in so far as when washing one instinctively purses them together to exclude the entrance of soapsuds and also because they are naturally too tender to receive much friction with the towel. As a result dryness and splitting of the surface of the lips, which are so unbecoming, are really natural efforts of the lips to get rid of effete skin, even as all over the body dead skin peels away at intervals. Glycerin rubbed into the lips until its stickiness be absorbed is under such circumstances an excellent remedy.—American Queen.

MISS ROSALIE LOEW.

She Is One of the Ablest Women Lawyers in the Country.

Rosalie Loew of New York is recognized as one of the ablest women lawyers in the country. She entered the legal profession when women first made their appearance in this work. To her fell the lot of making her way through a sea of prejudice and filling this field of dragons' teeth.

"Yes, at first it was difficult," said Miss Loew in answer to the reporter; "but, being suited to the work, I soon mastered what might seem impossibilities to women who were not meant for this especial work.

"When it comes to a matter of selecting a vocation in life law is an unknown quantity. For instance, many women who have come to me seemingly fitted for the work have been utter failures. This was not due to a lack of interest on their part, but they were not fitted for the work. Many a woman with a naturally alert, inquiring mind might not have the knack of retaining much of what she saw or heard. Again, most women are very impressionable and are affected by the personality of their clients. This is a fatal quality. Nearly every woman relies on her manner to carry her through in her work. Certainly personality has a great deal to do with either success or failure, but superfluous mannerism, affectation, has no quarter in the practice of law. It is the mental, not the physical, quality that tells.

"A woman may study hard and conscientiously, but this will not make her a good lawyer. She must be born as well as made for the profession. The way of the law for the lawyer is not more paved with roses than it is for the offender. For instance, nearly every man in the profession is prejudiced against women entering the field. They in many cases believe that women are unbusinesslike and frivolous, but once you convince these men that you are in the courtroom for business and can do good work they are your greatest aid.

"Unless a young woman is pretty positive that she can stand a life of hard work she should not select the law as a profession, and every woman should, in choosing her work, be careful in executing it that she may not by her thoughtlessness or carelessness establish for women workers a reputation for being unreliable."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Becoming Colors.

Simplicity in color is a matter of more importance than many women realize. Elaborateness of color is equally important, for, after all, simplicity is made for some people and the elaborate for others. Curious it is that this obvious fact is slow of recognition. It has been said that there is probably greater evidence of lack of taste in the choice of colors than in all the styles and fabrics the world concocts. Women do not sufficiently study themselves. If they did there would not be such diversity of opinion regarding their judgment of the suitableness of color and that of the judgment of the real artist. Six times out of seven the man or woman whose profession is painting will select as the proper color for a woman friend a shade she had previously thought out of the question for her. An eye for color is a matter of education. Nearly every woman has experienced growth in herself. While her choice as a girl of fifteen may have been reasonably good, at twenty she may select something which at fifteen seemed woefully quiet or woefully loud. At twenty-five she has developed her capacity for selection and, having learned to trust her judgment, has become a law unto herself.

On the other hand, the large majority of women have not thus carefully educated themselves. To them the advice of some artist as to what colors suit their style would have a distinct commercial value. Why should not a "color specialist" have a considerable and well merited vogue? He or she need not necessarily be an artist, but some person whose eyes are trained, whose taste is unquestioned, and who has leisure to study what colors will suit various types of women.

What Physical Culture Can Do.

A feminine league of physical culture has been started in Paris by a woman who says that she has learned from her own experience the need of athletics for women as well as for men. She was brought up to consider that all outdoor sports were unwomanly. She married a man of feeble constitution and has two children, both weakly. Finally she fell ill herself and was pronounced by a doctor to be going into a rapid decline. Having made up her mind she was dying, she went to spend the few months she thought she had to live in the country. There, however, instead of lying down to die, she took it into her head to force herself to walk, to bathe and to go in for violent exercise. After a year or so she was another woman, and when on returning to Paris she went to see her doctor he did not know her and told her, when she related her experience to him, that the physician who pronounced her case to be hopeless was a fool. Then she told him that if that were so the fool and he were the same person, and he did not like it. Now, thanks to constant exercise, the woman says that at fifty-three she is a strong woman after having been almost an invalid for five and twenty to thirty years. Her own experience induced her to start the league in question and to open a school of physical culture. She is a passionate believer in athletics for women, and her ambition is to win every French mother over to her views.

The strongest castle could be reduced by siege if the garrison could be starved out. The strongest body has to give up the fight when starvation weakens
it. There are more deaths from starvation than the world dreams of. When the stomach is diseased and the food eaten is not digested and assimilated, then the strength of the body begins to fail because of lack of nutriment, and the weak body falls an easy victim to the microbes of disease.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores physical strength in the only possible way, by enabling the assimilation of the nutrition contained in food.

"I was sick for over three years with a complication of stomach troubles," writes Mr. John H. Cannon, residing at 2942 Arch St., Chicago, Illinois. "Had tried every good physician I knew of, as well as many patent medicines, but received only temporary relief. One day a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I immediately procured some and began its use. Commenced to gain the first week, and after I had taken only one bottle I could eat as well as any one without experiencing ill effects. I took five bottles, and to-day am happy to announce that I am as well and healthy as any one could be. I owe it all to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains. You lose. Therefore, accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

To Build Robust Health

start at the foundation of life and health. Assist your organs to do their work properly. Food and drink cannot nourish if your liver is not working right. A Girl's Savings.

Of course some girls are silly enough to feel that because they cannot save dollars it is not worth while to save at all. But this is quite a mistake. "A penny saved is a penny earned," and any girl acting on that principle will be astonished at the dollars in her possession after awhile. So let those who hitherto have not considered the subject of saving be advised and start at once. Don't excuse yourself by saying you cannot spare even a penny, because "where there's a will there's a way," and by denying yourself sweets or some little frippery in the way of ribbons or laces, or, better still, by saving the car fare and benefiting your health by walking, you will find you can easily spare more than a penny in the week. Then in time you will come to look upon the pennies saved as part and parcel of your monetary outlay, and they will appear as important at the week end as rent, food or clothing.

Feather Pillows.

In order to clean pillows of down or feathers, put the contents into a bag of thin muslin—or, preferably, mosquito netting—and wash in a tub of strong white soapsuds to which a little ammonia has been added. Jump the bag up and down for about ten minutes and rub with the hands, then rinse twice in pure hot water and hang up to dry in the sun or near a heater. Do not squeeze, but when thoroughly dry put the whole thing in a thick bag and beat with a wicker beater for five or ten minutes until the feathers are soft and fluffy, as they are when new.

Banana Whip.

A very delicious dessert is banana whip. Press six ripe bananas through a ricer and mix with a syrup made with two-thirds of a cup of sugar melted in a double boiler, with the juice of a lemon. Flavor with vanilla and a tiny pinch of salt. Beat a pint of cream, and beat gradually into this the banana mixture. Set aside to become thoroughly chilled. Pile high in tall glasses or in a glass dish lined with sliced bananas if desired. Pistache nuts chopped fine are an addition. This makes a good filling for a charlotte russe.

Tea Table Covers.

Tea table covers grow more and more ingenious and are often marvels of beauty. One of the latest is round and made of heavy linen, with an exceedingly deep border of Russian lace combined with cluny in a most novel and fascinating manner. The deep ecru of the Russian braid with the white of the cluny makes a fine and showy contrast, and the two are combined so perfectly as to make one harmonious whole.

Keeping the Gas Range Clean.

Many a gas range that bakes and is generally tiresome would be improved if once or twice a week the burners were removed, turned upside down and gently tapped, to remove particles of food or dust. The tiny apertures should be cleansed by having the point of a hatpin run through them, and the whole should be kept clean by frequent rubbing and scourings with hot suds.

The Wife Unwise.

No woman is more unwise than the wife who talks to others about her husband's faults. Perhaps others will not see what the wife sees. Others are far more forgiving if they do see. They don't care much what another woman's husband is doing. The wife should be ashamed to publish her husband's imperfections.

Wifely Concessions.

Advice is often too good to be taken, but a very agreeable variety was once given by James Russell Lowell to a young woman about to be married:

"Always give your husband—your own way."

An ever ready glue pot is a most useful piece of property. It is easily prepared by putting naphtha in a wide mouthed bottle and dissolving shellac in it.

A healing ointment for all skin eruptions is made by mixing thoroughly one part of bismuth to three parts of white vaseline.

The best thing to whiten red hands is lemon juice. Rub a little in every time after washing.

A piece of cheesecloth makes a good duster for the piano.

Old Hickory.

Many explanations have been given as to the sobriquet "Old Hickory" as applied to Andrew Jackson. There is an older explanation than that suggested by James Parton in his life of Jackson—that the title was evolved from progressive adjectives, starting with "tough" as applied to his endurance as a walker. In the early days of Tennessee's statehood Jackson, then a major general of volunteers, raised a body of troops to put down a formidable rising of the Creek Indians. During the campaign there was much suffering from lack of food, and it is related that Jackson received his popular sobriquet of "Old Hickory" from his subsisting on hickory nuts, with the purpose of inspiring his men with renewed fortitude by his example, the title also being a fitting one for the "tough" peculiarities of his temperament.

Took Him For a Sheriff.

In his young days, when the late John Coleman was an architect's assistant, but already had aspirations toward the drama, he obtained through a chance business connection an introduction to Charles Mathews. Before the interview a little incident took place which throws a striking light upon the public favorite's precarious position. Mathews had just handed his wife from her carriage and was entering the Haymarket when the young man came up. "His back was turned to me; so, approaching timidly, I touched him upon the arm," says Coleman in telling of the incident. "Turning round like a shot, he inquired, 'At whose suit?'"

SPLENDID MEETING AT HALL'S BRIDGE.

Mr. R. R. Hall's Success is Becoming More and More Assured—Good Addresses Tuesday Night.

Mr. A. E. Kennedy, the Chairman, Endorsed Mr. Hall's Candidature and Prophecied Success.

Expenditure of the Country, Though Increased, is Fully Warranted—Hon. J. R. Stratton's Address.

Mr. R. R. Hall's candidature received a good impetus on Tuesday night when that gentleman addressed a meeting of the electors at Hall's Bridge.

This meeting was one of the most successful of all the country meetings that have been held and the result will most certainly be felt on polling day. Mr. Hall is meeting with splendid encouragement in the northern parts of the riding, and on the evening of Nov. 3rd, it will be seen that they have done their duty.

The meeting was held in the Orange Hall, which was well filled, and an enthusiasm manifested which practically assures Mr. Hall's election.

THE CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS.

Mr. A. E. Kennedy, of Selwyn, was chairman of the meeting, and in opening it he gave a short address in which he congratulated the Liberals of West Peterborough upon having such an energetic and capable young man as their standard bearer, in this election. Mr. Hall had entered into the campaign in a way which practically assures his election. In Smith and Harvey the vote for Hall would be very large. Mr. Kennedy said that he had nothing against Mr. Kendry as a private gentleman, but he had not proved himself a capable or satisfactory representative of West Peterborough, and had not shown that interest in the welfare of the county and country which he should have evidenced as a representative of this riding.

The farmers are the foundation of the country, but he could not see that Mr. Kendry had looked much farther than his own immediate business interests during his terms in Parliament, and thought that it was time there was a change in the representation of West Peterborough in the Dominion House.

THE PROVINCIAL SECRETARY.

Hon. J. R. Stratton was the next speaker and gave a splendid address. He was accorded a good reception, and his address was one which found a ready response from his hearers.

He spoke of the great prosperity of the country in every department. The industries which in 1896 were languishing for want of orders, to-day are busy, and in almost every case, enlargements have been made to the factories, and in many instances new factories entirely have been required. This gratifying state of affairs is prevalent, not only in Ontario, but throughout the whole Dominion, and this is practically a new Canada to what it was in 1896. The Canada of 1896 would hardly be recognized by people who look upon the new Canada that has grown up under a Liberal Administration. Why that year there was a conditionne of discouragement; the people were dissatisfied with their condition under the Conservatives alleged they gave them as a result of their policy. It must be said that the conditions in 1896 were not satisfactory; some progress indeed had been made, but it was small. In 1896 the people of Canada had deposits to the extent of $183,000,000 in the savings banks and chartered banks, while in 1904 they have $423,000,000.

But, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier promised, it is not necessary to quote figures to prove that the country is prosperous. Everyone can tell that by feeling in his pockets. If the people wished a continuance of this prosperity, they should elect Liberal candidates, who would support Sir Wilfrid Laurier in his efforts to give Canada good government.

The Liberal candidate in West Peterborough, Mr. Hall, was a man who would prove an energetic representative, and would give his time to serve the interests of his constituents.

The prospects for his election were excellent, and he urged the workers to abate no efforts to make his election secure.

The candidate's address, which followed, was well received, and it was a masterly effort, dealing not only with local issues, which he dealt with in a thoroughly satisfactory manner, but also with the larger national issues in which also he showed that he had a good grasp of the public questions of the day.

Mr. Hall in his address expressed his pleasure at seeing so many electors present, manifesting as it did an intelligent interest in the affairs of the country. The Liberals welcomed the thoughtful electors, for they knew that if the issues were intelligently considered, it would be found that no fault could be found with the administration of the affairs of the country during the eight years of Liberal rule, and he was satisfied that it would be found that the people were entirely satisfied with the way the country had been governed by the Liberals, and would return them to power for another term.

It was time, thought Mr. Hall, that West Peterborough was represented by a Government supporter. It was certain that the Liberals would be sustained, and that the Conservatives would again be in Opposition, consequently it would be decidedly to the advantage of West Peterborough to have a Government supporter as its representative in the House of Commons. In the past the riding had not been represented in a way that had been to the advantage of the constituency, and public works which were needed had not been secured, because of the fact that their need had not been brought to the attention of the Government.

Mr. Hall then turned to the discussion of the larger questions of national importance. The Conservatives had, he said, attacked the Government because of the increased expenditure during the last eight years.

The Liberals admitted that there had been increased expenditure, but the increase had been warranted and necessary, and for it good value had been given. The Opposition's cry against the expenditure was not consistent, as is pointed out in a speech delivered by Hon. Mr. Fielding on October 21st, 1903, when he said

"Hon. gentlemen opposite know that I am calling their attention to a simple truth when I say that in nine cases out of ten, when they rise to discuss some public expenditure, it is for the purpose of asking that the Government do something on a more liberal scale than we have been doing in the past. We ask them as we have done in the past, to point to anything that is wasteful or extravagant. They cannot do it. Usually the Public Accounts Committee is the body that investigates these things. I venture to say that never in the history of the Dominion was there such a farce as the meetings of the Public Accounts Committee during the present session. We could not get the hon. gentlemen, (Opposition) to attend. They used to come and introduce a motion that somebody be summoned, they would give notice that they intended to move to enquire into something, but when the time came for them to make the motion, they would not be there, for they had not called the witness, or something else would happen, and really the thing became laughable in the end. The Public Accounts Committee adjourned, and there was practically no enquiry into the public accounts of the past year. Why? Not because hon. gentlemen opposite were not able, not because they were too generous to avoid an enquiry into the expenditures of the Government but simply and solely because they found there was no ground for attacking the expenditures."

It might be justifiable, said Mr. Hall, to leave the Liberal case at that. The fact that the Opposition, who are in the best position to criticise, and whose duty, indeed, it is to criticise the finances, have been unable to prove, any wrong doing, is pretty strong testimony in behalf of the Government. But while the Conservatives have been unable to prove wrong doing or extravagance, they have indulged in their usual wild talk, and their press has been filled with the most extravagant statements on general lines, with the intention of misleading the people. As was previously stated, the Conservatives seem utterly unable, politically, to grasp the immense change that has come over the face of Canada in the last seven years, and all their statements respecting the finances are based upon Canada as it was in their time.

Mr. Hall said that it would be impossible in the short time at the disposal to go into the details of the expenditure to show that it had been wisely made, but enough could be said to prove that the increase in the expenditure had been warranted and that even with the increase the revenue had not been decreased but that it had also increased, and even in greater proportions than the expenditure.

The ordinary annual expenditure had been increased in 1903 by $18,538,897, over 1895. It could be shown, however, that a large portion of the increase was brought about, and absolutely necessitated by increased business; that a large portion of it was counterbalanced by increased revenue; that a considerable portion of it was due to increase of population and to the development of new territory; that some of it was due to increase in the price of supplies and labour, and that on the whole an ample return or benefit has been received or has accrued for every dollar expended.

THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

This is true in the case of the Post Office Department. There has been an increase in the expenditure in this department of $511,591 over 1895, and the sole reason for this increase was the increase in business, which is proven by the expansion of revenue, the large increase in the volume of mail matter handled, the increase in the number of post offices and the development of the postal facilities generally. Against the half million dollars of increase in expenditure there has been an increase in revenue of $1,605,943, and the surplus announced at the last session of Parliament was $224,702 over all expenses, and this after the postage on letters had been reduced by one-third.

THE CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

The same gratifying state of affairs exists in the Customs Department. While there has been an increase in expenditure over 1895 of $311,996, the increase in revenue has been for the same period $19,228,695, and while in 1896 it cost $6.13 to collect every $100 of duty, it cost, last year only $3.31.

THE INTERCOLONIAL.

About one fourth of the increased expenditure, Mr. Hall pointed out, was represented by increased operating expenses of the Intercolonial Railway, due to the doubling up of traffic and business generally. In 1896 the operating expenses were $2,936,902, whereas in 1903 they had reached $6,196,653. The increased earnings, however, more than compensated the country, for the revenue in 1903 was $9,263,905, in excess of that of 1895. In 1903 the road showed a surplus of $127,670.

Another item of expenditure, in 1903, for which there was no corresponding expenditure in 1896, was that for the government of the Yukon. In 1903 this cost $732,926. But this expense has been necessary, and no one dares to condemn it. Since the gold rush began, about eight and a half million dollars have been spent on ordinary account, but in return there has been revenue from the district of about nine and a half millions.

Mr. Hall pointed out the other departments in which there had been increased expenditures, and showed that in every case the increase was warranted and necessary, and that the country, as a whole, had greatly benefitted by this increase.

Mr. Hall's address was one which carried conviction with it, and at its close he expressed his confidence in the result of the polling on November 3rd. The audience answered with a cheer which indicated that at least Hall's Bridge would do its share in bringing about this result.

THE ADMIRAL TELLS HIS SIDE

Rojestvensky Tells the Tale of How He Fired at the Fishermen in the North Sea.

Why Did He Wait Four Days Before Reporting?--One of the Things That Russian Admiralty Cannot Explain.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 28.—Admiral Rojestvensky's explanation of the trawler incident is fully as sensational as the news of the firing upon the fishing fleet, which set all England aflame.

He declares he was attacked in the dark by torpedo boats which came upon the squadron from the direction of the fishing fleet. He opened fire and believes he sank one of the torpedo boats, the other making off for cover among the fishermen. So soon as he noticed the fishermen, Admiral Rojestvensky ceased firing.

He proceeded on his way without leaving any vessel behind, and says he believes the vessel which the fishmen reported remained on the scene for six hours without offering succor to the drowning men was the other torpedo boat, either waiting for his consort or repairing damage inflicted by the fire of his ships.

Signals Disregarded.

It is stated that torpedo boats attacked the leading Russian ship. They disregarded the signals to keep off when picked up by the searchlights and fire was opened on them.

Rojestvensky refers to and replies specifically to the reports in the British press, showing that he had the press accounts before him when he wrote his report. Some of his language is sarcastic, specially when speaking of the appearance of the torpedo boats from the direction of the British fishermen, covering an intimation which will certainly arouse resentment in England. He declares that no other naval commander at sea under similar circumstances would have failed to open fire, adds that he courts the fullest inquiry, and suggests that a court of inquiry could be held at Vigo.

Admiral Expresses Regret.

In concluding his telegram Admiral Rojestvensky expressed in the most warm-hearted way the regrets of the whole squadron to the fishermen who had suffered and to the families of the victims.

Rojestvensky's report was telegraphed from Vigo direct to the Emperor, who received it Wednesday night. It was communicated yesterday morning to Ambassador Hardinge by Foreign Minister Lamsdorff himself.

According to word received here, Great Britain will at once begin the most formal and most searching inquiry into the affairs.

In diplomatic circles Rojestvensky's report created the keenest interest. The feeling is that the situation demands impartial investigation to determine the facts to the satisfaction of both parties and to the world generally. The mystery is not considered to be cleared up.

Admiralty Cannot Explain.

One of the things particularly pointed out is the fact that Rojestvensky's report was written after he had seen the foreign accounts of the affair. The Admiralty is unable to explain why, after being attacked, he waited four days before reporting, and that he then took pains to reply to the allegations of the press. In some quarters this is regarded as suspicious. Of course, the Government accepts the report in perfect good faith, but if an inquiry should prove that the report was prepared to shield himself the most severe punishment will be meted out to him. If, on the contrary, it is proved to be correct, it will place Great Britain in an awkward position. In either event the situation might be rendered more acute and the feeling among the diplomats is that, pending a solution of all the questions in doubt, the greatest tact and moderation should be observed by the statesmen and newspapers of both countries.

Japs From Hull.

There is reason to believe that the British Embassy was acquainted with information which reached the Russian authorities some time ago of the arrival at and subsequent mysterious disappearance from Hull of twenty Japanese, mention of which was made in these despatches Oct. 25. It is pointed out that the original version of the incident as recited by the captain of the trawler Moulmein coincides closely with Rojestvensky's.

The captain said that while the squadron was passing he suddenly noticed two torpedo boats which approached so near that he thought they intended boarding him when they steered off, heading back for the squadron. Almost immediately after the squadron opened fire. According to one account of Rojestvensky's report it specifically states that there were no torpedo boats with the squadron when the accident occurred. If this is true the statement of the captain of the Moulmein would completely corroborate Rojestvensky.

Rojestvensky's Actual Words.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 28.—The naval general staff publishes the following two despatches from Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky:

First despatch: "The North Sea incident was caused by two torpedo boats advancing to attack without lights under cover of darkness against the vessel leading the detachment. When the detachment turned on its searchlights and opened fire the presence of several small steamboats resembling steam fishing boats was discovered. The detachment endeavored to spare these and ceased firing as soon as the torpedo boats were out of sight.

"The English press is indignant because a torpedo boat left by the detachment on the spot until morning did not aid the victims. Now, there was not a single torpedo boat near the detachment and none was left behind, consequently the vessel remaining near the small steamboats was that torpedo boat which was not sunk, but only damaged. The detachment did not aid the little steamboats, because we suspected them of complicity, on account of their obstinately cutting into the order of the positions of our vessels. Several of them showed no lights and others only very late."

Second despatch: "Having met several hundred fishing boats, the squadron showed them every consideration except when they, in company with foreign torpedo boats, of which one disappeared, while the other, according to the fishers' own evidence, remained among them until morning. They supposed it was a Russian, and were indignant because it did not aid the victims; but it was a foreign one and remained until morning, seeking the other torpedo boat, its consort, either to repair damage or through fears of betraying itself to those who were not its accomplices. If there were also on the spot fishermen imprudently dragged into the enterprise, I beg in the name of the whole squadron to express my sincere regret to the unfortunate victims of circumstances under which no warship, even in time of deep peace, could have acted otherwise."

Grand Trunk Pacific A National Necessity.

Forward Canada! This is the watchword of every patriotic Canadian who has faith in the future of Canada and its resources.

Our resources are represented by vast undeveloped areas in Northern Ontario and Quebec, rich in minerals, water powers, timber and agricultural land.

We have in the North-west nearly two hundred million acres of wheat lands, coal deposits, etc.

To bring all these into commercial touch with older Canada, we need another trans-continental railway.

Therefore the Laurier Government has projected the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

This railway will run from ocean to ocean, every inch on Canadian soil.

The Grand Trunk Pacific is a necessity. Even Mr. Blair says new railways are a necessity to open up the millions of acres in the the North-west to settlement.

The Conservative Government gave the Canadian Pacific twenty-five million dollars, twenty-five million acres of land, which will net that Company at least one hundred million dollars and also presented the Company with railway completed by the government, which cost thirty millions.

Yet vast as the price, the C. P. R. has been worth it in building up and developing the country. We should have no North-west as we now have it but for the C. P. R.

Now we must have a new North-west built up to the north of the C. P. R. by the Grand Trunk Pacific, and what, in comparison, will be the cost to the country?

The Government of Canada build the eastern section, 1975 miles from Moncton on tide water, New Brunswick, to Winnipeg.

The actual cost of this section will, including interest charges, be $71,156,975.

But it will cost the country no such sum; the Government builds and owns this section and only pays interest on its cost for seven years. To do this will be needed a sum of $10,655,562.

That is all the eastern division will cost the government or country under the agreement. The G. T. P. R. leases this section from the government for 50 years and pays a rental of 3 per cent, which will cover the interest the government will have to pay on the cost of the line it owns.

The G. T. P. Company builds and owns the western section from Winnipeg to the Pacific ocean, and all the the government does is to guarantee the interest on three quarters of the Company's bonds, which will require the sum of $3,197,940, so that about fourteen millions will cover the cost to the country of a line nearly 4000 miles long, which the company is bound to operate to the advantage of the country.

The Government will have absolute control of freight rates.

The G. T. P. will be the shortest line on the continent, carry all freight to Canadian ports and make Canada independent of United States Territory.

If you want Canada to grow vote for the railway. If you want Canada to stand still, vote nay.

Geo. Stevens [illegible] rate of wages on every government work.

Fibroid Tumors Cured.

A distressing case of Fibroid Tumor, which baffled the skill of Boston doctors. Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, Mass., in the following letter tells how she was cured, after everything else failed, by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Hayes' First Letter Appealing to Mrs. Pinkham for Help:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been under Boston doctors' treatment for a long time without any relief. They tell me I have a fibroid tumor. I cannot sit down without great pain, and the soreness extends up my spine. I have bearing-down pains both back and front. My abdomen is swollen, and I have had flowing spells for three years. My appetite is not good. I cannot walk or be on my feet for any length of time.

"The symptoms of Fibroid Tumor given in your little book accurately describe my case, so I write to you for advice."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Note the result of Mrs. Pinkham's advice—although she advised Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, to take her medicine—which she knew would help her—her letter contained a mass of additional instructions as to treatment, all of which helped to bring about the happy result.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Sometime ago I wrote to you describing my symptoms and asked your advice. You replied, and I followed all your directions carefully, and to-day I am a well woman.

"The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely expelled the tumor and strengthened my whole system. I can walk miles now.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth five dollars a drop. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female trouble of any kind to give it a faithful trial."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Mountains of gold could not purchase such testimony—or take the place of the health and happiness which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought to Mrs. Hayes.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women; all ovarian troubles; tumors; inflammations; ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb; backache; irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation. Surely the volume and character of the testimonial letters we are daily printing in the newspapers can leave no room for doubt.

Mrs. Hayes at her above address will gladly answer any letters which sick women may write for fuller information about her illness. Her gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so genuine and heartfelt that she thinks no trouble is too great for her to take in return for her health and happiness.

Truly is it said that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing so many women, and no other medicine; don't forget this when some druggist wants to sell you something else.

$5000 FORFEIT If we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.

MR. KENDRY'S RECORD.

Record—if a space of eight years, mostly filled—to use a bull—with emptiness, can be called a record.

Mr. Foster is a clever manipulator of the truth. Language may be used to conceal thought. Mr. Foster uses it to conceal truth. He can dress a lie in the garb of truth, with great cleverness. At Mr. Kendry's meeting, Mr. Foster spoke.

Mr. Foster said, as reported by the Review, "I have sat with Mr. Kendry in Parliament, and have heard him MENTION, not once, or twice, or thrice, but many times, the Trent Valley Canal, and can bear witness to that. (Applause.)

Mark the ward "mention," and note the double edge of meaning Mr. Foster puts upon it. Mr. Foster might have heard Mr. Kendry "mention" the Trent Valley Canal once, twice, thrice, and many times, in the same speech of a few minutes.

Mr. Foster forgot for the moment that there was such a thing as the Parliamentary Hansard, in which every word spoken by every member in the House is recorded. Now, a reference to Hansard shows that Mr. Kendry in eight years, referred to the Trent Canal two or three times, and made remarks that altogether might occupy seven or eight minutes. In 1896, while the House was in supply, Mr. Kendry made a few remarks in endorsation of what Mr. Mr. McHugh had previously said on the subject of the Trent Valley Canal.

In the session of 1897, Mr. Kendry, when the House was in supply, made a few more remarks in reference to the appropriation of $650,000, for the Peterborough-Lakefield section, as being too little, and preferred the appropriation for the Lake Simcoe division.

In the session of 1898, Hansard does does not record Mr. Kendry as having opened his mouth in the House, on any subject whatever.

On April 19th, 1899, Mr. Kendry put this formal question, which had been printed, and all he had to do was read it, "From whom was the land purchased upon which the dam is being constructed at Nassau, on the line of the Trent Valley Canal?"

Perhaps this is one of the occasions upon which Mr. Foster heard Mr. Kendry "mention" the Trent Valley Canal.

In the session of 1900 Hansard contains no record of Mr. Kendry opening his mouth in the House at all on any subject.

That ends Mr. Foster's opportunity of hearing Mr. Kendry "mention" things, for the latter was defeated in the general elections, and has been out of the House ever since.

In 1901, May 17th, Mr. Kendry "mentioned" the Trent Valley Canal in a few words of reply to Col. Ward who had advocated Port Hope as an outlet.

That ends Mr. Kendry's "mention" of the canal. In 1902 he failed to refer to the canal.

In the session of 1903, Hansard itself does not "mention" Mr. Kendry as opening his mouth in the House.

Practically that is Mr. Kendry's record in the House in eight years. It is true, that in addition, he on one or two occasions interjected remarks, or made formal inquiries, such as moving for the papers regarding the drowned lands along the Otonabee, and on one or two occasions put in a few words on the tariff. But aside from these trifling contributions, Mr. Kendry's speeches, as a whole, in the House, have been in his own interests — in denunciation of the British preference, as it affects the woollen industry, in which he is apparently more interested than in subjects of special and general interest to West Peterborough.

As a matter of fact, Hansard, which misses nothing that goes in in the House, does not record Mr. Kendry's presence in the House, so far as raising his voice in the interests of West Peterborough is concerned, during four of the eight sessions he has given West Peterborough the "splendid representation" Mr. Foster credits him with. In the sessions of 1898, 1900, 1903 and 1904, according to Hansard, Mr. Kendry did not darken the doors of the House of Commons, though doubtless the books of the "paymaster" will show that he, at least, drew his sessional indemnity.

Is West Peterborough satisfied with such formal representation as Mr. Kendry has given? True, he pleads that the demands of his private business occupy so much of his time and attention that he has none of either left to attend to the business of West Peterborough.

And yet he wants to repeat the practically sham representation he has given for the past eight years.

Mr. Kendry says he has too much private business to look after, to attend to ours, and still he wants another chance to do practically nothing for five years.

Isn't it about time for a change in the representation of West Peterborough, in spite of Mr. Foster's honourable "mention," and certificate of character?

GOOD LOGIC.

It is now in order for Mr. Kendry or Mr. Foster to denounce the Liberal policy as murderous. Liberal Government has brought prosperity and new stories are being added to factories. One of the owners of a factory in Toronto which the Liberal policy has made prosper so greatly that a new story had to be added to the factory buildings, was killed by the fall of a brick. Now Mr. Kendry can trace this death directly to the Laurier Government. If that Government hadn't been in power another story would not have been needed—there would have been no bricklaying and no bricks to fall. That would be just as logical as some of the arguments of Mr. Foster or Mr. Kendry.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Three great productive classes ruined by the Laurier policy — the bailiff, the sheriff and the pawnbroker.

Mr. Borden the Opposition leader, has issued a statement of his position, but it has fallen flat. What his Conservative friends want is not what Mr. Borden has to say—they are waiting for Mr. Blair to speak.

Mr. Borden is innocence personified. He give notice that contributions must be dropped into the Conservative campaign election "barl" and no questions asked. Some of Mr. Borden's practical political friends will sigh for the good old days when "send me another $10,000," rang out in clarion tones.

Mr. Kendry scorns the idea of the British Preference in any form. That's Mr. Kendry's loyalty to the Mother Country. He rejects the Preference which has increased Canada's exports to Great Britain from 61 millions in 1896 to 134 millions in 1904—simply because it has cheapened woollen goods to the Canadian consumer and made Canadian manufacturers hustle a little harder to compete with the slow-going Britisher. He looks out for No. 1, while the Government looks out for No. 6 million Canadian consumers.

KEENE SOLID FOR FINLAY.

Splendid Meeting Held There Saturday Night.

The Candidate Well Received—Other Excellent Speeches by Prominent Men.

Keene, Oct. 28th. (From our own correspondent)—A large and representative meeting of the electors of this riding, was held in the Town Hall, on Saturday evening in the interests of Mr. John Finlay, Liberal candidate for East Peterborough.

Mr. Andrew Shearer was chairman of the meeting, and on the platform were the candidate, Mr. John Lang, late member from this constituency, and Messrs. R. F. McWilliams and F. D. Kerr, of Peterborough.

Mr. John Lang was the first speaker called upon, and received an ovation when he arose. In opening, he said he was pleased to see such a large number of the intelligent electors of Ontario present, and said the presence of so many ladies augurs well for the success of Mr. Finlay on Nov. 3rd. He thanked the electors for the hearty support they had given him in the past campaigns, and then asked them to extend the same to his friend Mr. Finlay. He had redeemed this riding twice, and, if necessary, could do so again. In speaking of the grand record of the Liberal Government, he gave many instances of wise enactments, which had benefitted the farmer and the country in general. The administration of the post office department under the skilful supervision of Mr. Mulock, showed, that for the last fiscal year, there was a surplus of over $300,000 as against a deficit of $750,000 in 1896, causing a financial improvement of nearly $1,100,000, and this with a two cent rate on letters. He also said a few words about the transcontinental road, and thought it was the best bargain that any government had ever entered into. In closing, he again asked the electors to support Mr. Finlay and the Laurier Government, which was sure to be sustained.

Mr. F. D. Kerr was the next speaker, and in an able manner dealt with the Grand Trunk Pacific scheme. He said the government, in making the agreement with the G. T. R., had avoided the mistakes the Conservatives had made in building the C.P.R. He was not in favour of government control of railways, and showed how the Intercolonial had always had a balance on the wrong side of the ledger. Many capable ministers had tried their hands at running it, and all had the same story, "it didn't pay." In a clear and concise manner he gave the terms of the agreement with the Grand Trunk Pacific Company. The Government was to build the Eastern section, and then lease it to the company for fifty years. The company is to deposit five million dollars with the government as a guarantee. The Government also reserves running rights for the Intercolonial over the Eastern division, and also running and hauling rights over the Western. To aid in building the Western division, the Government guarantees the payment of the principal and interest of the company's bonds, to the extent of 75 per cent. of the cost of construction. Provision is made for the repayment by the company, with interest at three per cent. In closing, he said the trust imposed in Sir Wilfrid Laurier had not been misplaced, and he would be returned to power with a larger majority than ever.

Mr. Finlay, the candidate, received a cordial reception when he arose. He would not take up much time, he said, as the other speakers had covered the ground pretty thoroughly. The election, as far as he was concerned, would be clean and honest, and not one dollar would be spent in an illegitimate way. The Laurier Government should be sustained for the wise and far-seeing manner in which they had administered the country's affairs. As a manufacturer he has men in his employ who have been with him for 30 years, and, as they had served him faithfully, he saw no good reason why they should not continue to work for him. The same might be said of the Liberal Government, and they should and would be sustained on Nov. 3rd.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams was the last speaker and dealt with the tariff question. The preferential tariff with Great Britain had done more to cement the bonds of good will between Canada and the Mother country than all the previous legislation. Previous to 1896 Canada was known to the majority of people in the old country as a frozen waste near the Arctic Ocean. Now she is known all over the world as the first colony of the British Empire. He also spoke of the surtax on German goods, and the anti-dumping laws against United States manufacturers. The trade of Canada since 1896 had increased 107 per cent., beating all the records of European countries. The tariff had been revised from time to time. He contrasted the condition of Canadian trade at the present time with 1896, and showed the enormous increase. He saw that while it would be absurd for the Government to claim all credit for the prosperity the country enjoys, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues can justly feel proud of the success of their administration during their eight years of office. During that time race and religious prejudices had been healed and all concede that in Sir Wilfrid Laurier, a French Canadian and a staunch Catholic, they have one of the greatest statesmen Canada has ever known. In closing Mr. McWilliams spoke eloquently of the brilliant future of Canada, and said she would go forward to her destiny, either as an independent nation or a partner in the grandest empire the world has ever known. As it was 11 o'clock he would not take up any more time, but would ask the electors to support Mr. Finlay and do their part to continue the able administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

The meeting closed with cheers for the King, Sir Wilfrid and the speakers of the evening.

A meeting in the interests of Mr. Sexsmith was held here on Tuesday evening.

NO FAVOR IN START

Not a Single Election by Acclamation in Canada.

FEW SURPRISES AFFORDED

Mr. Jabel Robinson Falls Out of the Ranks in West Elgin—The Conservatives in Quebec, Although Leading Workers Hope, Let Nothing Go By Default—Few "Fancy" Candidates.

There was not a single election by acclamation in all Canada yesterday. This would indicate on the surface a very keenly waged contest, but surface indications do not always betray what is beneath. The probability is that orders went out from Conservative headquarters to fight every seat, lest a Liberal victory should be foreshadowed by numerous elections by acclamation. Certainly upon no other theory can be understood some of the nominations in Quebec.

The Ontario nominations passed off very quietly. The expected happened everywhere, except in West Elgin, where Mr. Jabel Robinson, who sat in the last House as an Independent dropped out, leaving the contest to the representatives of the two historic parties.

Only Two "Fancy" Candidates.

There are but two third party candidates in Ontario. This marks perhaps low water in the matter of "fancy" candidates. In former general elections there were always some no-party men to give spice to the contests. In 1896 there were no less than fifty Independents in the field, chiefly Patrons and P.P.A. apostles. There were in that year forty-two three-cornered contests. In 1900 there were twelve Independents in the field in this Province, and there were seven three-cornered contests.

In 1896 and 1900 there was in Ontario one election by acclamation. The outlook for the Liberals at the polls brightens every day. Mr. Borden has shot his bolt. There is no outstanding figure in Ontario Conservatism, no one to act as his lieutenant on the stump. Mr. Foster and Mr. E. F. Clark come nearer to filling the bill than any others, but they are fighting for their political lives in Toronto in that formerly hopelessly Tory, but now most doubtful, city. They certainly cannot lead the hosts throughout the Province. In all the other Provinces the Liberals are confident of victory, but they are not over-confident, and are relaxing no effort to secure an ample majority for Laurier and the Larger Canada.

Nominations to Be Held.

Nominations took place in nearly all of the Dominion constituencies yesterday. The exceptions, with the dates on which the candidates will be officially placed in the field, were: Thunder Bay and Rainy River, Nov. 4; Dauphin, Manitoba, Nov. 11; Mackenzie, N.W.T., Nov. 15; Comox-Atlin, B.C., Nov. 22; Kootenay, B.C., Nov. 22; Yale-Cariboo, B. C., Nov. 22; the Yukon, Dec. 16.

THE PREMIER AT MONTREAL.

Addressed Meetings in St. Henri and St. Mary's—Magnificent Ovations.

Montreal, Oct. 28.—Notwithstanding the fact that he had just recovered his breath from three of the most arduous days of the campaign, Sir Wilfrid Laurier addressed two monster meetings last night, the first at St. Henri and the second in St. Mary's division of Montreal. The Premier was accompanied by Senator Kerr of Toronto, and Hon. J. P. B. Casgrain. He displayed no sign of fatigue, and his voice was still in excellent condition. The great enthusiasm that he has aroused at every appearance both in the vicinity of Montreal and in the townships shows clearly his undiminished popularity and the strong hold that the policy that he extols has secured on the mass of the people. St. Henri is a suburb of Montreal, the chief place in the county of Hochelaga, where Mr. L. A. Rivet defeated Dr. Barnard at the last bye-election. A great effort is being made by the Conservatives to regain the seat. The cordial welcome that was accorded to the Premier last night and to the candidate should at least tend to dampen the hopes of the Opposition. The meeting was held in the town hall, a fairly spacious structure, but only a percentage of those who clamored at the doors long before they opened were able to get in.

Until then, especially after the Premier walked on the platform, there was round after round of applause, with waving of hats and fluttering of handkerchiefs. For some time after the Premier rose he could not be heard for the generous and unmistakable enthusiasm that his appearance on the platform aroused. Sir Wilfrid spoke for almost half an hour, and at intervals the hall rang with cheers.

HOW MUCH LONGER

Russia's Delay Causes London Journals to Wax Hot.

BRITAIN PREPARES FOR WAR

Tremendous Activity Reported From All Dockyards—Mediterranean Fleet Hastening in the Direction of Gibraltar The Home Fleet Likewise Concentrating—Public Greatly Aroused.

London, Oct. 28.—"How much longer—?" is the burden of newspaper editorial articles this morning. Commenting upon the continued delay of the Russian Government and what is characterized as the amazing story Admiral Rojestvensky presents in defence of his action, little disposition is displayed to listen for a moment seriously to the admiral's story. Some St. Petersburg special correspondents even go so far as to suggest the explanation "home manufactured." The most serious of the morning newspapers confess that the country is under the shadow of war and that the word is now with Russia.

The fact that the second Pacific squadron appears to have fired on vessels of various nations is regarded as proving that its officers were in a condition of nervous panic, rendering the squadron a danger to the world's commerce.

Britain Prepares For War.

Notwithstanding the diplomatic check in consequence of Admiral Rojestvensky's report, it is evident that Great Britain is preparing for the possibility of war. Tremendous activity is reported from all dockyards where vessels under repair are being made ready for sea under urgent orders from the Admiralty. At Cardiff it is stated that Admiralty agents are securing great quantities of coal for Gibraltar, Portsmouth, Malta and other ports and paying high freights. The Mediterranean fleet is hastening in the direction of Gibraltar, and it is announced that the Channel squadron, with decks cleared, will leave Gibraltar early this morning, its alleged object being a "sham attack on the rock." The home fleet, likewise, is concentrating. In fact, almost the entire British navy is pointing in the direction of the Baltic fleet, a portion of which is expected to sail from Vigo during today.

Cabinet to Meet To Day.

Perhaps the most significant development is the Cabinet meeting which is called for noon to-day. While the meeting was ordered prior to the receipt of Rojestvensky's report, which changed the situation considerably and appears to place some of the burden of proof upon Great Britain, the meeting undoubtedly marks the reaching of a serious stage.

While up to the present time the Government has maintained an almost complete silence with regard to the progress of the affair, it is considered almost certain that Premier Balfour, who will make a speech at Portsmouth to-night, will after a conference with the Cabinet be in a position to make some definite announcement. Public sentiment, which hitherto has kept under remarkable control, hardly can stand the passing of another day, and especially because of the opportunity offered by Mr. Balfour's appearance on the platform without some satisfactory explanation being made.

Public Greatly Aroused.

It might be said that yesterday was the first time that any real excitement was exhibited on the part of the public. Early editions of the afternoon papers, calculated to arouse the most intense national feeling, positively announced that a time limit had been set for Russia to reply, and that the Cabinet had been called to assemble immediately. This brought out a crowd in Downing street, but it quickly dispersed when informed that Mr. Balfour had not arrived from Hatfield House, and that they were 24 hours ahead of time.

Admiral Rojestvensky's report seemed to stagger almost everyone. Its statements were met with incredulity and evidently the reply was regarded as merely an adroit counter in order to gain time. The text of the admiral's telegrams, received at a late hour last night, were calculated to inflame instead of to allay the sentiment of the British public. His statement that he endeavored to spare the trawlers and ceased to fire as soon as the torpedo boats were out of sight, together with the virtual accusation of complicity with supposed Japanese torpedo boats against the fishermen is hardly likely to reconcile an angry nation to the possibility that there is another side to the case calling for investigation.

Allowed to Repair Ships.

Madrid, Oct. 28.—Scovitch, the Russian Ambassador to Spain, and Foreign Minister San Pedro, had a long conference here yesterday. The Government has authorized the Russian ships at Vigo to remain in port and complete repairs, on condition that they leave immediately after the repairs are completed.

Murdered Men Buried.

Hull, Eng., Oct. 28.—The funeral yesterday of two of the victims of the North Sea tragedy was made the occasion of a great public demonstration. The civic officials attended the ceremony and hundreds of wreaths, including one from King Edward, were placed on or about the coffins. Business was suspended and the flags were half-masted on the ships in the harbor. Thousands of people lined the route to the cemetery.

Mine Buildings Wrecked.

Johnstown, Pa., Oct. 28.—An explosion of 200 small kegs of powder at the Sunshine Mine, near South Fork, has killed Horatio Noble, aged 16, and wrecked all the buildings near the mine. The loss is estimated at $200,000.

If you don't consider it worth more than the price return the book in good condition and get your money back. Illustrated circular free. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Sequel to Dreyfus Case.

Paris, Oct. 28.—A sequel to the Dreyfus case was the opening of the court-martial yesterday of four prominent officers of the War Ministry, Colonels Dautrich, Rollin, Francois and Mareschal, charged with using military funds and otherwise influencing witnesses against Dreyfus at Rennes. The previous Ministerial investigation partially vindicated the accused, who demanded a court-martial.

PETERBOROUGH BOY'S RESPONSIBLE PLACE

Mr. Wm. Packenham B. A. Made Member of Educational Council.

Last night's Toronto Star contained a half-tone cut of Mr. William Packenham, B.A., an old Peterborough boy, a son of Mr. Edward Packenham, of the American Cereal Company, Principal of the Toronto Technical School, who has been appointed a member of the Provincial Educational Council in the place of Prof. Clarke, who declined appointment. Mr. Packenham is demonstrating the fact that Peterborough boys make successes.

MR. FITZGERALD CALLED UPON.

To Latter us Something About His Survey of New Ontario.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — I notice an article in last night's Examinerr describing Mr. Cameron's survey party, and the country they worked through during the last season. I understand Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald was also in New Ontario during the summer for the Government. Perhaps Mr. Fitzgerald will come out of his shell and enlighten us a little as to the nature of his trip, and the country he surveyed. Let us hear from him.

Yours, etc.,
ONLOOKER.

ENNISMORE BOY TO BE MADE BISHOP

Semi-Official Announcement That Peterborough Diocese Will be Divided in Near Future.

Rev. Father Scollard to be made Bishop of New Diocese With See at the Soo.

"Annals of the Promulgation of the Faith" of Lyons, France, Announces Change.

An announcement of interest to Peterborough is that contained in a recent issue of the "Annals of the Promulgation of the Faith," published in Lyons, France, to the effect that the Diocese of Peterborough, which as at present constituted, is the largest diocese in the Province of Ontario, is about to be divided, and the northern and western part will be taken off and made into a separate diocese. As at present constituted it extends from Peterborough county on the east to the Thunder Bay district in the west, and to the height of land in the north, and is more than 300 miles in length, all under the care of His Lordship Bishop O'Connor.

DETAILS OF THE CHANGE.

By the proposed division the diocese of Peterborough will consist of the Counties of Peterborough, Durham, Northumberland, Victoria and Muskoka, leaving Nipissing, Algoma and the Thunder Bay districts for the new Diocese, the See of which will be at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and the same paper which announces the change, also states that the new Bishop will be an old Peterborough boy, Rev. Father Scollard, of North Bay.

This decision will make the diocese more workable, as it has been felt for some time that the rapidity with which the newer parts of the province are being filled with settlers, demands more attention and time than one Bishop, with the details of the eastern part of the Diocese to attend to, can give.

An interview with the local clergy this morning gave the information that while no official confirmation of the change had been received here, the "Annals of the Promulgation of the Faith," is generally well informed on the affairs pertaining to the church in the mission countries, one of which Canada is considered, consequently it is thought probable that the announcement is but the forerunner of an official bull making the change suggested.

THE NEW BISHOP.

Rev. Father Scollard, who is mentioned as the new Bishop, is a son of Mr. John Scollard, of Ennismore, where he was born and raised, and where he is well known and greatly admired, and his many friends there will learn with pleasure of the great honour which is to be conferred upon him. The new Bishop, that is to be, received his education at St. Michael's College, Toronto, and the Grand Seminary, Montreal, upon his graduation from which, he was ordained in Ennismore church fourteen years ago, and was immediately attached to St. Peter's Cathedral, where he acted as Curate. Later he was made Rector of St. Peter's, upon the death of Rev. Father Ruskins, and remained in that office until he was made Rector at North Bay and was succeeded by Ven. Archdeacon Casey, now of Lindsay. He was attached to the Cathedral here for five years, and for nine years he has been in charge of the North Bay parish. He is about forty-three years old, and will be one of the youngest Bishops in the province. He has shown good ability and has evidenced that he will be fully capable of filling the duties of the larger and more responsible office to which he is likely to be called.

AN IMPORTANT DIOCESE.

His Diocese will extend from the Manitoulin Island on the south to the Height of Land on the north, and from Nippising District on the east to Thunder Bay District, meeting the Winnipeg Diocese on the west, so that it will be a large and very important charge. Probably no Diocese in the province is more important than this new one will be. The country is rapidly filling up necessitating the formation of new parishes, and the erection of new churches, so that the Bishop will be a very busy man.

It is expected that the change will be announced officially in a short time.

MR. HALL IN NORTH COUNTRY

Addressing Meetings There Yesterday and To-day.

Mr. R. R. Hall, the Liberal candidate for West Peterborough, is prosecuting a most vigorous campaign throughout the north country. Mr. Hall, accompanied by Hon. J. R. Stratton, yesterday afternoon addressed a meeting at Taylor's school house, and in the evening addressed a meeting at Ventress' school house. This evening Mr. Hall and Mr. Stratton will address a meeting at Union Creek, and on Saturday night Hon. J. R. Stratton will address a meeting at Swamp Lake, Galway, in Mr. Hall's interests. Mr. Hall will not stay in the north country for this meeting but will return to Peterborough on Saturday at noon to be present at the Saturday night's rally.

Dancing.

Prof. C. F. Davis, of Toronto, has been requested to open classes in society dancing in Peterborough, and desires to inform intending pupils that he will be at the Oriental Hotel to make final arrangements, on Saturday, October 29th, at any hour, and would be pleased to give any information that may be desired in reference to the classes. Special attention will be paid to children. Information may be had at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

PRACTICAL POINTERS OF PETERBORO'S PROGRESS

NUMBER FIVE

The above illustration representing the office and factory of Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, is one which every Peterborough citizen will look upon with pride, for perhaps no firm has done more to bring Peterborough before public notice than that of J. J. Turner & Sons. The factory is the largest and best equipped sail and tent factory in the Dominion, and the goods manufactured here are known from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

This firm, however, has not always done the immense business that it does at present, and it is one of the local industries that has benefitted by the good times contingent upon the returning to power of the Liberal Government, and none are more ready to accord the credit for the measure of prosperity that that Government has brought than are the members of this firm.

In 1896 the business, as all who were resident here then will remember, was conducted in a much less pretentious and smaller building than the magnificent structure illustrated above, their place of business then being across the street from the present building.

But finding that their business was growing and had become too large for their available room the firm decided upon the wise course of building a new factory, which policy was carried out, and the present building erected.

The business did not stop expanding with the erection of the building and is still increasing at a satisfactory rate, thanks to the condition conducive to growth, a combination of prosperous times and good business management.

SUDDEN DEATH IN HASTINGS.

Robert Scriver Died on Road to the Wharf.

Heart Failure Caused Death of Peterborough Man—Had Been Staying in Hastings for a Month.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Hastings, Ont., Oct. 27.—Mr. Robert Scriver, of Peterborough, who with his two sons have been here at Hastings during the past month, died very suddenly at eight o'clock tonight. The deceased was going to the wharf to take his boat for home and his son James, who followed a few seconds afterwards, found him on the ground dead. Doctors were summoned who pronounced death due to heart trouble.

HOUSE WEDDING ON DENNISTOUN AVE.

Miss Emma Taylor Married to Mr. J.W. Hilborn.

A very pretty wedding was that celebrated this afternoon at 31 Dennistoun avenue, at the residence of Mr. Wm. Taylor, when his second daughter, Emma, was united in marriage with Mr. Jacob W. Hilborn, in the presence of about fifty guests. The ceremony was performed in the drawing room which was beautifully decorated, by Rev. J. R. Butler, of Blackstock, a former pastor of the bride's family. The bride was tastefully attired in a gown of cream silk trimmed with chiffon and lace, and carried white chrysanthemums, and the bridesmaid, Miss Alice Taylor her sister, was dressed in a steel grey suit also trimmed with chiffon. She carried pink chrysanthemums. The groomsman was Mr. Geo. Taylor of Port Hope, cousin of the bride.

After the ceremony the guests sat down to a delightful dinner, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hilborn left on the 5.10 C. P. R. train for Toronto and the west. They will return in a few days and will go to their new home in Balgonie, Assa., where Mr. Hilborn is managing director of the Balgonie Milling Co. The groom's present to the bride was a handsome bracelet, and to the bridesmaid a gold and pearl pin.

The presents were numerous and showed the esteem in which the bride is held.

INFLUENCE OF THE DAILY PRESS.

Debated on by Young Men's Guild Last Night.

Decides That It Does More Harm Than Good—Interesting Meeting of George Street Y. M. G.

One of the most successful meetings of the George street Young Men's Guild ever held, was that of last night, when the regular meeting was held. Interest was lent to the occasion by a debate, which formed the principal part of the evening's programme, and proved both interesting and instructive.

The president of the Guild, through lack of time, announced his inability to take the office given to him in his absence, and the vice-president, Mr. George Robertson, filled the duties of that office, and acted as chairman of the evening.

The debate which followed the business was on the subject, "Resolved, that the daily press does more harm than good," and the subject was ably handled by the different speakers. Those on the affirmative were Messrs. Davidson, Percy Reid, and Harry Cressman; and on the negative the speakers were Messrs. J. W. Wood, Sutcliffe and Gordon Miller.

Each speaker occupied five minutes in the exposition of his subject, and some good arguments were presented and splendid ability shown. The addresses of Messrs. Davidson and Reid for the affirmative were given without notes, and were worthy of special mention, while all the speakers, some of whom were making their first attempt at public speaking, did themselves great credit.

The affirmative took the position that, while they admitted that the daily press was a necessity and, if properly conducted, a benefit, the modern daily newspaper was an agency which was detrimental to the best interests of the community. The negative, while combatting this argument, and advancing evidence to prove that the press had done great service to the world, did not fully succeed in proving their point, and, as a result, the decision was given to the affirmative.

The meeting was a decidedly interesting one, and future meetings, which will be conducted along lines calculated to bring out the talent of the young men, along literary lines, will be equally interesting.

Mr. Walter Dredge provided a much appreciated part of the programme by giving gramophone selections.

LADIES' AUXILIARY ANNUAL MEETING

Ladies of Y.M.C.A. Presented Reports and Elect Officers

Last Year a Successful one—The Receipts and Expenditures.

The annual meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. was held yesterday afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. parlours, and the attendance of the members of the Auxiliary was large and the interest manifested was gratifying.

Mrs. Hunter, the President, presided over the meeting, and the first business was the reception of the Secretary's report presented by Mrs. R. J. Frost, as follows:—

During the past year five regular and two special meetings were held, with an average attendance of seven. In October last a concert was given under the auspices of the Auxiliary, at which a handsome sum was raised for the yearly expenses.

The meeting of October 29th, took the form of a Thanksgiving meeting, and a thankoffering of $2.50 was contributed. No meeting was held in December.

An affiliation fee of $1.00 was sent to the Provincial Secretary in January. On the 5th of April the Ladies provided a tea for 25 boys from London. The tea was in charge of Mrs. Madill and Mrs. Jeffries. The Strangers' Teas have been carried out very successfully during the year by the different churches. At the last meeting some repairs were asked for the boy's room, and a concert was proposed for November.

The sympathy of the Auxiliary was extended last month to the family of our late Hon. President, Mrs. J. A. Hall, who just a year ago was obliged to tender her resignation as President of our Auxiliary. Mrs. Hall was for five years a very faithful president. We have the great satisfaction of knowing that she, who so lately has been summoned from us, was prepared for the call to enter into that joy which awaits all true Christians.

The report of the treasurer was presented, the details being: Gross receipts of Auxiliary, 1903-04, $309.71; expenditure, (concert, furnishings, etc.,) $223.27; balance on hand, $86.49.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Pres.—Mrs. E. J. Hunter.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Wm. Davidson.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. F. Mason.
Sec.—Mrs. Frost.

STOVE TALK NO. 6.

Why the "Happy Thought" Burns Less Coal Than any Other Range.

1. The fire pot in the "Happy Thought" is entirely different to any other range. It is deeper and narrower, and twenty years of use has proved that this feature alone will save many tons of coal.

2. The Duplex Grates, from the original patterns of the inventor, distributes the draft equally over the entire grate surface. No dead corners.

3. The peculiar flue construction is the result of fifty years of careful study, and that the proportions are absolutely correct is proved by the fact that the Happy Thought bakes with a smaller fire than is possible with any other range.

UNWARRANTED CRITICISM.

At his first meeting and at his last meeting in the rink Mr. Kendry put the iron industry in the class of industries "ruined" by the Liberal policy.

Mr. Kendry must not know what he is talking about or he has no use for facts.

The country is full of evidence that the iron and steel industry is not "ruined" but booming. Day after day the Examiner has cited instances—one no later than yesterday in which the manager of the Lake Superior Company at Sault Ste. Marie states that the "improvement in the iron market in Canada was a big thing for the company."

The establishment of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company is another tangible evidence of the faith of local men in the results of the tariff policy of the Government, and its Grand Trunk Pacific policy. The promoters are principally Conservatives—in sentiment—but in business they are sensible business men and see that their business interests and the business interests of the country are helped, not "ruined" as Mr. Kendry says by the Liberal policy.

Another object lesson of how Mr. Kendry's "ruined" iron industry flourishes and the great impetus to industrial activity caused by the Grand Trunk Pacific project, is the fact recorded in our news columns.

A direct result of the Government's railway policy is the decision of the Canada Car Company to establish an enormous plant in Montreal. The plant which will cover 36,000 square feet, will have a capacity of 15 steel cars, 25 all wooden cars, and 15 passenger coaches a day. Besides, the works will turn out steel under frames for 25 cars a day and 30 to 40 steel truck frames. It will use 500 to 600 tons of material a day, will employ at the outset 1,500 to 2,000 men, with a pay roll of from $75,000 to $125,000 a month, and a turn-over of eight millions a year.

Thus we have such evidence of the idiocy of Mr. Kendry's unthinking rant that the Liberal Government is "ruining" the iron industry as the fact of the Auburn Woollen Mills being equipped with new machinery since 1896, and now running day and night to fill orders is an evidence of the "ruin" of the woollen industry

MARK STREET CHOIR CONCERT A SUCCESS

Enjoyable Programme in Town Hall East Ward Last Evening.

A very successful musical and literary entertainment was held last evening in the town hall, East Ward, under the auspices of the choir of the Mark street church. There was a large audience present, and the programme was heartily enjoyed.

The selections by the choir, under the capable leadership of Mr. John Miller, were well rendered. The choir contains a number of good voices, and careful training was shown in the rendition of the chorus and quartette numbers.

The opening number was an anthem, "O, for a thousand tongues," which was splendidly sung. A male quartette, Messrs. W. Hopper, J. Miller, Ashton and A. Whatley, sang that favourite number, "The Wayside Cross," with good effect, Mr. Miller taking the solo. A duet by the Misses Chasty, was very pleasingly rendered, and a solo, "The Holy City," by Mr. J. Miller, was rendered in fine voice. A mixed quartette, Mrs. Payne, Miss Davey, and Messrs. Miller and Whatley, sang "Moonlight will Come Again."

Before each musical number a reading was given by Miss Lora Leach, formerly of Kansas City. Her numbers included these of a humorous, dramatic and pathetic nature, and were warmly received.

"RESIDENTS" LETTER INSPIRES ANOTHER

"Citizen" Endorses the Words of Former Writer.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—I was glad to see a communication in your paper yesterday signed "A Resident", complaining of that intolerable nuisance, which has attained such formidable proportions, i. e., the reprehensible conduct of the youth of this town. The rampant rowdyism is even far greater and more general than that which he complains of. He asks why a constable does not frequent the spot in question for the purpose of catching the culprits red handed in their criminal conduct. Why, sir, it would not be safe for a constable to go single handed for that purpose, unless he was accompanied by a body guard. The abatement of the nuisance can only be accomplished by the united efforts of all respectable citizens to put down this rowdyism, and if need be, let us form an association for that purpose, and I look to the press to lead in the matter. Peterborough hoodlums have more than a local name. From my travels I can honestly say that such conduct can no where be found in this wide, wide world, outside of so called Christian lands. Is it not high time that our missionaries returned from heathendom and concentrated their efforts upon the heathen at home, where there is more need for the good work and at less expense?

Yours etc,
A CITIZEN.

GRAND RALLY SATURDAY NIGHT.

Last Week-end Meeting of the Campaign.

Senator Cox and Other Prominent Speakers Will be Here To-morrow Night.

To-morrow night the last of the Saturday night rallies in the Liberal Committee Rooms in the interests of Mr. R. R. Hall, the Liberal candidate in West Peterborough, will be held, and it promises to be the most enthusiastic and successful of the whole series.

Hon. Senator Cox will be in town that evening, and will give an address at the meeting, and in addition a number of other prominent gentlemen will be present and speak. This rally should be the best of the series, and no doubt the rooms which were filled last week will be overflowing to-morrow night. Mr. Hall, during the last week has met with gratifying success in his canvass and in his meetings and his election seems to be assured.

All the young men are especially invited to be at the meeting to-morrow night, when a grand climax to the campaign will be reached.

A REQUEST TO CANADA.

To Modify Regulations Regarding Dumping of Goods.

London, Oct. 27.—(C.A.P.)—At a meeting of Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, referring to the new Canadian customs regulations, J. Crooks, said: "The members of the general trade committee were hopeful that if they put forward their moderate resolution the Canadian Government might recognize and remove or modify the conditions so as to make it possible for us to continue our legitimate trade."

The Chairman said it was somewhat remarkable that Canada in protecting herself from the evil of dumping should put the Mother Country in such a jacket and make it almost impossible to continue her trade with Canada. Canada, on the other hand, assisted in dumping in this country by giving bounties to their iron and steel manufacturers in order to supply the Mother Country with goods below the cost of production.

Charles Lancaster pointed out that Canada dumped more pig iron in this country than America, Germany and Belgium combined.

Low Cheese.

Cheshire cheesemakers complain of the lowness of prices. This they attribute to the competition with which they are met from Canada.

Tax On Food.

Sir John Gorst, in speaking at the Free Trade Union meeting at Macclesfield, said it was an undoubted fact that the tax upon food tended to raise the price of food, and the measure of advantage to the colonies of a tax upon food was the measure of increase in its price.

Grave Responsibility.

London, Oct. 27.—(C.A.P.)—Colonial Secretary Lyttleton, speaking at Warwick, said a grave responsibility would be incurred if the colonies, being willing to meet in conference, Great Britain was pusillanimous enough to refuse discussion.

A Curse and a Fraud.

London, Oct. 27.—In a general attack on the Government at Norwich, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, Liberal leader, said a conference on the question of an unrestricted preference between the Mother Country and the colonies would be a farce and a fraud upon and befooling of the colonies because taxes on food were wholly opposed to the interests and sentiments of the British people. The country was sick of the whole thing. The fiscal controversy showed the Premier's contempt for the intelligence of the country.

PORT ARTHUR ASSIZES

Salvatore Peccello Sentenced to Three Years in Penitentiary.

Port Arthur, Oct. 27.—The fall assizes began here Tuesday with Judge Osler presiding. There were three cases in the docket, King v. Salvatore Peccello charged with the murder of S. Mezzo on June 6 last. The Carlstadt shooting case, in which L. Sasso Andra was charged with shooting Engineer Towkle and Thomas Ward, C.P.R. trainmen, with intent to kill, and King v. F. Hubert, forgery.

In the Peccello murder case the evidence went to show that the accused and the deceased had a dispute over some money matters. A scuffle ensued, during which Mezzo was fatally shot. He died an hour afterwards. F. H. Keefer made a strong plea on the self-defence theory, based by a much larger and stronger man than the accused. R. C. Clute, K.C., for the Crown, made a forceful address to the jury.

Judge Osler's address was impartial, but it leaned toward the prisoner. After being out more than three hours the jury returned to the court room with a verdict of manslaughter. The judge imposed the sentence of three years in the provincial penitentiary.

The jury in the Andra shooting case rendered a verdict of guilty. The sentence was three years in the Kingston penitentiary.

The Hubert forgery case was traversed to the next court, there being no civil cases upon the docket. The court closed yesterday afternoon.

A BOY AND TWO TRAMPS.

Strip Him of His Clothing and Beg Him in Woods.

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—Chief Hamilton is out in the country looking for a couple of armed tramps, who committed an outrage at Dalmeny on Saturday.

About 9 o'clock Saturday morning a little son of Alex. Stewart, a well-to-do farmer, went to the bush to cut a shinny stick, and on the edge of the woods was accosted by two men, who asked him where his father kept his money. The lad replied that he did not know, and the tramps led him further into the bush, where they stripped him completely of his clothing.

Leading the naked lad further in the bush, where it was particularly dense, the scoundrels gagged the youth and made off. Wandering in his pitiable condition, the little fellow bravely started to find his way home and succeeded in reaching it at 6 o'clock that evening. He told his story and Chief Hamilton was notified.

The boy was able to give a good description of the men, and they will likely be run down. One was a stoutly built man and carried a gun and was apparently well up in years. The younger had no gun, but in a belt he carried a pistol.

Died While Shooting.

Chatham, Oct. 27.—The friends of John Pidgeon of Chatham township were horrified to hear yesterday of his sudden death while duck shooting at Bear Creek Tuesday. How the accident occurred is unknown. The deceased with a friend, Simon Thibodeau, was shooting. Thibodeau had just fired at a duck when, on turning he found his friend lying prone on the ground and death followed

ON THE SAFETY OF OVER EATING

The Rule of Choosing the Lesser of Two Evils Applies to the Way You Eat.

I want to know how a man is to know when he has had enough?

The Pilgrim Fathers, I believe, had a quaint saying to the effect that you should always rise from the table feeling as if you could eat some more.

But the question is, how much more?

Just when to stop?

That's the point.

The rule is wrong, because it's no rule at all.

It is inexact and unscientific.

It is likely to lead to the dangerous habit of eating too little.

And eating too little—or digesting too little, which amounts to the same thing—is the cause of nine-tenths of the diseases from which humanity suffers to-day.

What is disease?

It is simply uneven balance between waste and repair.

Some organ lacks strength to carry on the special work for which it was created.

Where shall it find the strength it lacks?

In drugs?

Ten thousand times, NO!

Better die than become a hopeless drug fiend.

No; in food.

"But," you say, "I eat a plenty of good food every day!"

True, dear friend; but you don't digest it.

And food, undigested, is mere poison.

So, to make food do you good, you must take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The great thing about Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is, that their action does not depend upon stimulative druggery.

They cannot create a habit.

They contain no ingredients to "pick you up," "tone up your nervous system" or furnish whip energy, by calling out your vital reserve forces.

They create new strength, force and energy out of your food.

If taken starving they will do you no good at all.

So, eat to live, and live to eat, with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The curse of our present civilization is exhaustion.

And exhaustion, whether of brain, nerves, physical strength, or vital force, is caused by starvation.

Of two evils, it is better to overeat—and prevent indigestion with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets—than to rise from the table, not having eaten enough to repair the exhaustion of your vital forces.

For exhaustion or starvation leads to the most varied forms of sickness or disease, brought on by inability of the weakened vitality to counteract the disease—poisons and microbes.

Whereas the well-fed and well-nourished person, without ever feeling the worse for it, can expose himself to dangers, the mere thought of which would drive the weak, starving dyspeptic into a panic fit.

Good food, well digested, is the great secret of a healthful existence here on earth.

So eat heartily, every day, of the best food you can get, and regulate the working of your digestive machinery with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

As a result you will be astonished to find, how much stronger and livelier you feel, how much more and better work you can do, how much more pleasure you can get out of life, and how your old enemy, that chronic trouble, which has fastened upon your weak spot, wherever it is, will up and away, and ever after leave you in peace, health and comfort.

There's more truth than poetry in all this.

Try it once.

Birds of Great Age.

After seventy-five years of captivity, a female eagle owl has just died in an aviary in England. Brought from Norway in 1829, this bird within the last thirty years has reared no less than ninety young. Although the eagle owl is reputed to live to a great age, there appears to be but few recorded instances where the age could be definitely ascertained. A golden eagle which died at Vienna in 1719 was known to have been captured 104 years previously, and a falcon, of what species is not recorded, is said to have attained an age of 162 years. A white-headed vulture taken in 1706 died in the zoological gardens at Vienna in 1824, thus living 118 years in captivity.

HALF SICK PEOPLE

Just sick enough to feel heavy-headed, lazy and listless; to have no appetite, to sleep badly, tossing and tumbling about sometimes until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning from one side to the other; nervous and nervous, and to have what you eat float like lead in your stomach; not sick enough to take to bed or call a doctor, but just sick enough to not know what to do.

Ninety-nine times out of one hundred these symptoms are all caused by the stomach, bowels, liver and digestive organs. Just think for a moment what habitual neglect of the stomach, bowels and liver means; sickness instead of health, nervous and wasted instead of genial and cheerful. Now, all this can be remedied in one night. Smith's Fireside and Butternut Pills will always work wonders. They will regulate the functions of the liver and bowels, immediately unload the congestion, cure the constipation and cleanse the blood of impurities.

Anyone suffering from chronic constipation, bad humors, sick headache or liver complaint can tone up the entire system, elevate the spirits and again make life really well worth living by a single week's use of Smith's Fireside and Butternut Pills. They will give you the appetite of youth, your food will agree with you and sound, refreshing sleep will visit your bed. They are Nature's Remedy, entirely different from anything you have ever taken before, and always cure sick headache, constipation and biliousness in one night. 25 cents at all dealers.

TORONTO LIVE STOCKS.

Receipts of live stock at the city market were 106 car loads, composed of 1525 cattle, 1126 hogs, 2548 sheep and lambs and 75 calves, with 4 horses.

There were no loads of exporters offered. A few picked steers and an odd cow, selected from amongst the loads of butchers' cattle, with a few export bulls, were offered. Export cows were sold at $3.25 to $3.50 and export bulls at $3.00 to $3.75 per cwt.

The bulk of the butchers' cattle offered were of the common to medium classes, but there were a few picked lots of heifers of good to choice quality, which sold at lower prices than at any time this season. Picked lots of choice heifers sold at $4.23 to $4.35; loads of good, $3.85 to $4.15; fair to good, $3.60 to $3.80; cows, $2.50 to $3.25 per cwt.

Short-keep feeders, 1200 lbs. each, sold at $4 per cwt.; feeders, 900 to 1050 lbs. each, sold all the way from $3 to $3.60 per cwt.; distillery bulls sold from $2.40 to $3.75 and $2.85 per cwt.; canners' bulls sold at $1.50 to $1.75 per cwt.

Stockers, 450 to 700 lbs. each, sold at $2.25 to $2.75 per cwt.

About 20 milch cows and springers sold all the way from $30 to $60 each. The demand for choice quality cows is good.

Prices for veal calves remain fairly steady at $3.50 to $5.25 per cwt.

The run of sheep and lambs was large, and prices remained fairly steady. Export ewes, $3.40 to $3.50; bucks, $2.50 to $2.75; cull sheep, $2 to $3.50 each.

The run of hogs was fairly large, about 1600, which sold at $5 per cwt. for selects and $4.75 for lights and fats and $3 to $3.25 for sows, and $2 for stags. These quotations are for fed and watered. Mr. Harris reports prospects for lower prices.

Little Girl's Sad Death.

Forest, Oct. 28.—Yesterday morning about 9 o'clock Pearlie Spearman, the little 8-year-old daughter of H. A. Spearman, of the township of Bosanquet, Lambton County, was almost instantly killed by being run over, near Jura, by the heavily loaded wagon of Arthur Dale, who was taking a load of oats to Forest. Mr. Dale did not see how the accident occurred, but it is supposed the little girl, while playing around the wagon with others, caught on the side. Losing her hold she slipped under the wheel and was crushed so badly that she lived only about half an hour and was dead before a doctor could be got.

KILLED WIFE WITH AN AXE.

Cold-Blooded Deed At An Early Hour Wednesday in Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Oct. 27.—A brutal murder was committed in the city a few moments before 3 o'clock yesterday morning. Robert W. Taylor, a teamster, who lived in the west end of the city, entered all the rooms of the inmates of his house with a lamp and a bloody axe in his hand and told them he had murdered his "old woman."

On investigation the inmates found Mrs. Taylor lying on a couch in her room, fully dressed, with her head split open and quite dead.

The murderer, who was sober and apparently in his senses, smoking his pipe, wanted to explain the nature of the wound. He then asked for a glass of whiskey. He had been in the house all day and had not been drinking more than his wont.

When handcuffs were put on him he remarked that he was quite comfortable. He formerly belonged to Cameron, Ont. His wife's maiden name was Rathbun. She came from Deseronto, Ont. As far as known there was no motive whatever for the crime.

The coroner stated that he did not believe the man was insane, notwithstanding his unaccountable crime and apparently inexplicable conduct.

Sent Up For Trial.

Ingersoll, Oct. 27.—In the police court yesterday afternoon, Mrs. William Des was given her preliminary hearing on the charge of murdering her husband. After the evidence of three witnesses had been taken, which was much the same as that given at the inquest, the magistrate sent the prisoner up for trial at the spring assizes. The prosecution was conducted by Crown Attorney Ball of Woodstock, and J. L. Patterson, Ingersoll, defended.

Demand For Canadian Boots.

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—Edgar Tripp, Canadian commercial agent in Trinidad, writes to the department here saying that there is a market for Canadian boots. Of $300,000 worth imported last year, Canada got only $5,000.

CONTROL of BRONCHITIS

Is Undoubtedly Possessed by the Well-known Family Medicine.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine

Turpentine is considered a specific for bronchitis.

The difficulty has been in the administration of turpentine so as to reach the irritated and inflamed parts and not be disagreeable to the patient.

Not only has the trouble been overcome by Dr. Chase in his Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, but he has also combined with turpentine two or three ingredients of almost equal power in soothing and healing the diseased parts and overcoming bronchitis and other dangerous diseases of the bronchial tubes and lungs.

By a secret process these elements of unquestioned medicinal power have been combined in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine so as to be pleasant to the taste and suitable for children and adults alike.

This remarkable success of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for bronchitis, asthma, croup and whooping cough is sufficient evidence that it is effective in ordinary coughs and colds.

MRS. RICHMOND WITHROW, Shubenacadie, Hants Co., N.S., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine with good success. My second daughter was troubled with bronchitis from the age of three weeks. Oftentimes I thought she would choke to death. The several remedies we got did not seem to be of much use, but the first dose of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine brought relief and further treatment made a thorough cure. This trouble used to come back from time to time, but the cure is now permanent. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has saved us many doctor's bills. I would not be without it in the house for many times its cost."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle.

BRITISH M.P. AS GYPSY.

Confesses Constant Life Covering Twenty Years—Had Some Amusing and Instructive Experiences in That Time.

Life in a caravan, with all its freedom and its unconventionality, is dear to the heart of Harry T. Eve, K.C., the member of Parliament for Mid-Devon. George Borrow could not have entered into the spirit of such a gypsy-like existence with more zest, says an English exchange.

Mr. Eve has just concluded a caravan tour at Dartmoor, and his experiences are both amusing and instructive. He has been caravaning for over twenty years, and his present van is his fourth. During that period he has wandered over Devon, Cornwall and Somerset. A huge volume of photographic views forms a memento of his journeyings.

There is nothing ornate about his van externally. Those who meet it on the roadside or on the moors murmur "Gipsies," and pass on. The interior, too, is plain and homely, though every convenience is provided, and orderliness and cleanliness are two salient features.

It is Mr. Eve's boast that he is his own housekeeper. He does everything for himself, and the brightness of the brass work testifies to his thoroughness and energy.

When on the road his life is simple and regular. "I usually," he said yesterday, "turn in about 9 o'clock, and am out again at 5, when the pure and fresh moorland air is best enjoyed. I light the fire and prepare my meals, between which I can appreciate the moors to my heart's content."

"Heavy farm horses," he added, "are the best kind for the van with their steady three miles an hour." Attired in the dress of an ordinary son of the toil, Mr. Eve often handles the reins himself and it is not an uncommon sight to see him squatting on the shafts complacently smoking, and, to all appearances, as a yokel expressed it, "like one of us gipsies hisself, sur."

A good story is told in this connection.

A new hind had arrived, but was a stranger to the district. He proceeded to Mr. Eve's house, but was informed that the latter was "out Widdicome way picknicking." Gaining the necessary directions, he started and had not gone far before he met a caravan with an affable-looking individual in charge, whom he accosted with, "Hi, guv'nor. Seen an gentleman picknicking near Widdicombe? Squire Eve, I mean—dye know him?"

The driver did. In the purest Devonshire dialect he informed his questioner that he had "come from thicky part, but hadn't seed no parties picknicking." He rather expected the squire would be found at home and offered the wayfarer a lift "back no far."

On the way agricultural matters were jovially discussed over pipes until, arriving near the house he sought, the stranger got down and went in. Some little time afterwards he was vastly astonished when Mr. Eve, having changed his clothes, walked into his presence and disclosed himself as the man's late companion in the van.

Mr. Eve also tells the following story with great gusto: It is his practice when journeying to stable his horses at the nearest farmhouse. He was on one occasion making the necessary arrangements with a farmer in a courtyard, when a man rushed up in a very excited state and shouted, "I say, mister, 'ave 'e got a padlock? There be some gipsies gone up the road, and us 'ave just killed a pig and us want to lock 'en up."

On another occasion Mr. Eve was forced to draw up his van nearer the high highway than usual and was soon accosted by an individual who, after laying down the law, inquired who the visitor was.

"I am the Duke of ——," replied Mr. Eve.

"You don't look much like him," was the rejoinder.

"Who are you?" asked Mr. Eve in return.

"I'm the police sergeant."

"Well," said Mr. Eve, "you don't look like one."

Oldest Clock in England.

Peterborough Cathedral has the oldest working clock in England, says The London Chronicle. It was erected about 1320 and is probably the work of a monastic clockmaker. It is the only one now known that is wound up over an old wooden wheel. This wheel is about twelve feet in circumference, and the galvanized cable, about 300 feet in length, supports a leaden weight of three cwt., which has to be wound up daily.

The clock is said to be of much more primitive construction than that made by Henry de Nick for Charles V. of France in 1370. The clock chamber is in the northwest tower, some 120 feet high, where the sunlight has not penetrated for hundreds of years, and the winding is done by the light of a candle.

The gong is the great tenor bell of the cathedral, which weighs 32 cwts., and it is struck hourly by an 80-pound hammer. The going and the striking parts of the clock are some yards apart, communication being by a slender wire. The clock has no dial. The time is shown on the main wheel of the escapement, which goes round once in two hours.

Two Scotch boys were wandering from a village to a town, and both were tired and hungry. When the town was reached each purchased a penny mutton pie, and they sat down to eat them. Remembering the last Sunday's lesson about the feeding of the 5,000, and how the bread was multiplied, one of them said: "Hadn't we better ask a blessing?" "Ay," said the other. Then both took off their bonnets and prayed: "Oh, Lord, bless these penny mutton pies, and make them equal to two-penny ones."

Baby Costs Too Much

When the price paid is the mother's health and happiness. The father doesn't realize as he romps with the child what years of wifely suffering must be set against the baby's laughter.

Chronic invalidism is a high price to pay for the painful joy of maternity, yet it is at such a cost that many a woman becomes a mother. Such a price is too much because it is more than nature asks.

By the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription maternity is made practically painless, and a quick convalescence is assured in almost every case.

"I am pleased to give my testimony and wish I could find words strong enough to induce other sufferers to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. Wesley Guy, of Kemptville, Ont., Box 6. "For eight years after my little boy was born I suffered with female weakness, also sore..ess in breast, could not lay my right side, and pain in back. Was so miserable sometimes did not know what I was going to do. Tried several doctors but derived no benefit until I began using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Had only used four bottles, also some of Dr. Pierce's Antiseptic and Healing Suppositories, when I felt like another person. I recommend Dr. Pierce's medicine to all my friends. If anyone wishes to write me I will gladly answer."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss; therefore, accept no substitute.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the bowels.

THE CHILDREN.

Fresh butter, unsalted, if eaten freely will cure a child of summer complaint.

The childhood that has not known the friendship and companionship of flowers is a defrauded one.

A white silk covered dress shield under the baby's fancy bib is a sure protection not only to the dress, but the underclothing.

A sandwich dear to childhood is simply bread, butter and sugar, with a liberal sprinkling of powdered cinnamon. Try this for the school lunch basket.

The children who are properly dressed and sent out of doors to play in all weather have rosy cheeks, bright eyes and a look of genuine health. They are different from the pallid little house plants upon whom the fresh air is never allowed to blow.

Matrimonial Chances.

The suggestion of an English periodical that mothers with daughters of a marriageable age should select as places of residence those spots which are known to possess a surplus of eligible bachelors sounds humorous, but is it? Since women persist in wanting to get married, and even the suffragists allow that every woman has a right to expect to get married at some period of her life, why is it not the part of commendable prudence and nothing derogatory to a girl's character to eschew the places where social conditions are most contrary to the fulfillment of her hopes and seek those where conditions are most propitious?—New York Tribune.

The Kitchen Floor.

In furnishing a house it is no extravagance to cover the kitchen floor with the best quality of linoleum, costing about $1.25 the square yard. There is practically no wear out to this floor covering; it is easily cleaned, offering no harbor for dust or insects. Linoleum is made of cork, ground in oil, and subjected to great pressure. Very good qualities are now made in this country, and the American designs are often very artistic. The patterns are not merely printed on the outside, as in the case of oilcloths, but go clear through the fabric. Thus they endure until the linoleum is worn through.

Ancient Irish Custom.

An ancient custom still prevails in Cork. Every three years the lord mayor proceeds in his state barge to the mouth of Cork harbor and throws into the sea a dart that has a gilded head and a shaft of mahogany. This ceremony implies the dominion of his town over the adjacent sea, with all its inlets and islands.

Bomb Experts.

Russians and Macedonians excel in the making of dynamite bombs.

Imitation Gems.

False diamonds and other precious stones are manufactured of a substance called strass, or paste, which is white, but can be colored to represent the jewel imitated. It is made of the purest, most highly refractive glass that can be obtained.

Tuning Forks.

Take a tuning fork of large size and set it vibrating, and one in the same key across the room will soon give out the same sound.

Secret Wall Safes.

The riotous acts of the old commune, still inspire such fear in the Rothschilds who live in Paris that several of them still guard their treasures. The costly paintings, statuary and vases which adorn the home of Baron Alphonse are so mounted that after being exhibited to friends they may be swung back into the wall at the touch of a spring.

COMMON BROWN SOAP.

A Few of Its Many Uses to Which It May Be Put.

Do not turn up your nose at a bar of ordinary brown soap. It may not be ornamental, but to the initiated its uses are legion. Here are a few of the things it will do:

When nails are to be driven into a board or into wood or furniture where it is feared that they may split the wood first lay them in soapy water or pound them into a bar of soap and then drive them into the wood. If this is done they will never split the wood. Carpenters and makers of handmade furniture always keep a piece of yellow soap in their tool boxes for this purpose and reason.

Soap shavings or a small lump of yellow soap tucked into a mouse hole will prevent the reappearance of the mouse most effectually.

Chance stains on carpets and rugs may be removed in the easiest and best way by scrubbing with a small stiff brush which has been rubbed over a piece of soap, the spot being rinsed and wiped in clear water immediately. A little soap mixed with stove blacking will produce a better shine with less work and a luster that will last for a long time.

Plated silverware can be cleansed by allowing it to stand for a few hours—three or four—in hot water in which a handful of borax has been dissolved and one-fourth of a bar of common yellow soap has been cut up and melted. Solid silver can also be cleaned in this way, which is not laborious and does not wear off the plate like the ordinary rubbing usually given silver that is being cleaned.

Soldiers' Friend Coming.

Miss Violet Brooke-Hunt, known throughout the British army as the soldiers' friend, will arrive in Canada about the middle of this month (October). She passed through Ontario on her way to Victoria, B. C., and on her trip east she will lecture at several places.

Her visit to Canada is, however, with the object of seeing the country, and is emphatically not a lecturing tour. Her engagements are being made at the instance of the Canadian military men.

In Toronto, Col. Otter is arranging for Miss Hunt to speak in Association Hall on Oct. 18. The lecture, which will concern itself with her philanthropic endeavor, will be under the auspices of the garrison officers, and the Daughters of the Empire.

Miss Hunt first earned her sobriquet in South Africa, though prior to the war she had taken an active interest in social, political and philanthropic work in Gloucestershire. At the age of 14 she was trained by her grandfather, W. P. Price, M.P., of Tilberton Court, Gloucestershire, to take an interest in forming schools and classes, libraries and kindred institutions as well as athletic clubs in the neighborhood.

Her special mission in life has been the carrying out of these schemes among the soldiers of the British army. In South Africa she drew the attention of Lord Roberts, who summoned her from Bloemfontein to Pretoria to start a soldiers' institution.

While in South Africa she met many of the colonial troops, and it was her brain that conceived the idea of establishing the Colonial Club in London at the time of the coronation, which proved so great a boon, supplying a much-needed rendezvous.

The End Is Near.

"You look hopeful. What's going on?"

"The doctors have begun to issue bulletins concerning the condition of that rich uncle of mine who has been hanging on for so long."

In His Line.

De Style—I hear the actor she married gets up every night and walks the floor with the baby. How did she ever get him to do that?

Gunbusta—Why, she laid railroad ties the entire length of their flat.

LETTER WRITING.

An Art That Every Girl Should Determine to Master.

One thing every girl should know something of practically as well as theoretically is the art of writing a graceful, well expressed, dainty note or letter. There are few things more pleasant to the recipient than a really clever and witty letter, a fact which every girl should bear in mind. She should understand that one of the unpardonable sins is a gift unacknowledged, a question unanswered, a request to which there has been no response.

When she has learned the rudiments, when she knows what the ordinary rules of grammar, punctuation and composition require, let her not by any means be satisfied. After this she must learn to express herself individually, to give the graceful turn and say the pleasant thing. Nothing is such death to good writing, whether the tiny note or the lengthy letter, as haste. No one can do justice to either without giving herself up to it entirely for the time being. There should be no signs of telegraphic curtness, or, on the other hand, of "padding," or trying to fill up a given amount of space with words only, so that the document may present to the eye the appearance of a letter.

A girl should understand what a value there is in the little note of reply, congratulation, condolence. In writing them she should avoid stock phrases and speak from her heart, naturally, simply. She should also recognise what a bond is a brightly written, informing letter between friends and, knowing you cannot get something for nothing, should bring to it every faculty. To compare notes with an absent friend as to books read, pictures seen and people met is an education no girl can afford to neglect.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Boston Common.

In a Spanish book of travel, "Costumbres Yankees, Viajes por la America del Norte," by Jose Sanches Somoeno, is the following account of the origin of Boston Common: "A great philanthropist named Common had the happy idea of presenting the children of Boston with a leafy grove of great trees."

An Odd Chinese Law.

Late Hours and Long Life.

A statistician affirms that the majority of people who attain old age have kept late hours. Eight out of ten who reach the age of eighty have never gone to bed till after 12 o'clock at night.

HAD TO HIDE IT

A mother wrote us recently that she had to keep Scott's Emulsion under lock and key—her children used to drink it whenever her back was turned. Strange that children should like something that is so good for them. It's usually the other way. Scott's Emulsion makes children comfortable, makes them fat and rosy-cheeked. Perhaps that's why they like it so much—they know it makes them feel good.

MORE CORUNDUM IN PETERBOROUGH

A Rich Deposit has Been Found in Methuen.

Value Placed $390 per Ton—A Valuable Discovery.

Word has been received in Peterborough that some weeks ago, Mr. J. T. Vosper of Campbellford, sent to Ottawa to Prof. Wilmot, director of the Government Geological Survey, a sample of corundum, he had found on his property in the township of Methuen, County of Peterborough, and at the same time requesting that gentleman to make an assay of it. Assisted by Profs. and O'Brien, Prof. Wilmot made the assay in the Government laboratory, and they gave it as their opinion that the corundum was the finest that they had ever assayed, and of a colour unlike anything they had ever seen. Its specific gravity, as determined by them is 3.99, while that of good corundum is 3.85. It is next in hardness to the diamond, lacking only four or five points of being as hard. Its value was placed at $390 per ton. The felspar in which the corundum is found, they said, was also very valuable. The samples will be labelled with the name of the contributor and the location of the property, and placed among the Government's mineral exhibits at Ottawa.

Great Britain Willing to Submit to an International Commission to Decide.

A SPEEDY SETTLEMENT

(Special to the Examiner.)

Paris, Oct. 28.—Great Britain has offered to submit the Russo-British complications to an interantional commission and there is every reason to believe that Russia will accept this arrangement.

A COMMISSION TO DECIDE

London, Oct. 28.—Orders have been issued and acknowledged by Vice Admiral Rojestvensky that the Russian squadron remain at Vigo until the conclusion of the Present Russo-British negotiations.

FLEET TO STAY AT VIGO.

London, Oct. 28., 1.10 p.m.—A statement has just been issued by the Russian Embassy as follows: "We are in constant communication with the British Government, as a result of these communications the Embassy hopes that there will be a speedy and satisfactory statement. The aspect of the situation has decidedly improved."

COURT OF INQUIRY.

London, Oct. 28. — It is authoratively stated that in principle a satisfactory settlement of the Anglo-Russian dispute has been reached. Several details and informalities remain to be arranged, but the proposal to refer the matter to a Court of Inquiry has been accepted.

MINISTERS CHEERFUL.

London, Oct. 28.—The cabinet meeting broke up shortly before 2 o'clock, the Ministers laughing and chatting, and being apparently in the happiest frame of mind, thus confirming the belief that the crisis is in a fair way to be dissipated.

NOMINATIONS IN EAST PETERBORO'

Two Candidates in the Field Representing the Two Parties.

Mr. Finlay, the Liberal Nominee, has Good Chances of Election.

Public Meeting Held After the Nomination — Successful Week-day Meetings.

The nominations at Norwood for East Peterborough were held yesterday, and at the close of the nominations a meeting was held at which addresses were given by speakers representing both parties. The only names placed in nomination were those of John Finlay and John A. Sexsmith. The agents named were Messrs. Ackerman, for the former and Ghent, for the latter.

Mr. B. Morrow, was requested to act as chairman of the meeting, but declined and County Councillor Buck was chosen by consent of both sides.

JOHN FINLAY.

J. A. SEXSMITH.

ers should have the first half hour, er should have the first half hour, and the last three-quarters of an hour, and the Conservative an equal length of time in the interval.

Mr. Finlay was the first speaker and in view of the fact that he was in his home town he did not make a lengthy speech, occupying only a few minutes.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams was the next speaker and filled out the half hour dealing with the personal claims of the Liberal candidate and the Grand Trunk Pacific agreement. Mr. McWilliams' address was exceedingly well received.

Mr. Sexsmith followed in a half hour speech, and which he dealt with the Immigration Policy, the binder twine question, and his personal claims.

Following him Mr. A. W. Wright, the Conservative organizer, spoke for three-quarters of an hour, giving a humorous speech, and replied to Mr. McWilliams. He also took up the tarift question.

The last speaker was Hon. S. C. Biggs of Toronto, who delivered a vigorous address for three-quarters of an hour and dealt effectively with the general topics of the campaign. This closed the meeting.

During the week Mr. Finlay has had a series of very successful meetings through the riding, Mr. R. F. McWilliams accompanying him on his tours, the meetings held being at Haultain in Burleigh township, Apsley, in Anstruther, Clydesdale and Laswade in Chandos, Oakley in Methuen, and Havelock. At the latter place Hon. S. C. Biggs also spoke.

TULLY MERRELL & MEREDITH

expected to make good. Gillespie will also be given a trial on the half back line, where he has been doing good work. Graham's presence on the half-back line should prove a source of strength to the team. Craig who is sick will be missed from the wing line, but his place will be filled by a strong player. The following players are asked to be at the Y.M.C.A. at 2 o'clock sharp: Cameron, Gilbert, Bickey, Crowley, Meagher, McDonald, Greene, Hartshore, Burnham, Graham, Mathern, Shaw, Morgan, Gillespie.

The game will be called at 2.45 o'clock sharp. Rev. A.J. Barr will referee and D. F. McWilliams will be umpire.

SPRINTING

A. J. Burns informs the Examiner to-day that the half-mile race between himself and Belland has been called off as far as to-morrow is concerned, as he does not intend to run two races on one day. The race may take place a week from to-morrow.

• • • •

A. J. Burns returned home from Ottawa last night, where spent the last few days, and claims to be in first-class condition for his race with Harrison, which will take place to-morrow afternoon starting from the Driving Park and running two and a half miles out the Keene road over the Locks Bridge. The finish will be made on the Driving Park track, the runners going around the track once. Harrison will be given a minute handicap, and with that advantage hopes to be able to win from Burns on a good road. The race will be the best long distance race seen here in a long time, and the betting is about even on the two men. The officials are being appointed to-day. The race is for a medal donated by the Peterborough Rugby Club.

• • • •

Burns will likely go to Ottawa on Thanksgiving Day to participate in an open one-mile race for the Journal Cup, representing the Ottawa City and Valley Five Mile Road Championship.

HOCKEY.

The Portage Lake Hockey Club is the first of those in the leagues to have its team for the coming winter made up. It will be little changed from last winter, and,contrary to expectations, Bruce Stuart, the brilliant centre man, will not be an absentee. Barney Holden, of Winnipeg, has been secured to play cover-point, in the place of Hod Stuart. Fred Lake, last year with the Michigan Soo, will fight it out with Westcott for the right wing place. It is understood that West is considered the most likely man for the position, but that will not be decided until the ice forms.

The Portage Lake team for this winter will thus be: Hern, goal; Gibson, point; Holden, cover point; Morrison, rover; B. Stuart, centre; Shields, Lake and Westcott, wings.

• • • •

Port Perry is again entering the hockey arena with an intermediate team, and President Ike Watson thinks well of the club's chances for the championship. Hughie Anderson, it is said, will likely return to his first love, and another good man or two, will be induced to take up residence on the Scugog. The rink is being enlarged.

• • • •

POOR OLD LINDSAY.

Up in Lindsay the hockeyists are talking of how they will clinch the intermediate championship of the O. H.A. They had better wait and see how they come out in the district series before they talk of landing a championship. Lindsay never had a team that was worth sour apples.—Uxbridge Ex.

BASKET-BALL.

A special meeting of the Brownie Basketball team is called for this evening at the Y.M.C.A. at 7.45 o'clock sharp. All members are urgently requested to be present as the business is of a very important nature.

RUGBY.

Dr. Barr, of Varsity will referee the game here to-morrow.

• • • •

Eric W. Hamber, captain of the Argonaut Rugby team, has returned home from Winnipeg, and will play with the caarmen the balance of the season. Hamber played centre half for St. John's against Winnipeg on Saturday last at Winnipeg, and won the match by 17 to 2.

• • • •

The Burns-Harrison race will be finished by a half mile run on the track at the Driving Park. Those attending the rugby match will have the privilege of witnessing a splendid finish. The finish will take place about 2.30 o'clock.

• • • •

Peterborough must win to-morrow.

• • • •

Turn out and encourage the boys.

• • • •

Irving Ardagh, one of the best defence hockey players in the business will play on the Toronto's half-back line to-morrow.

• • • •

The locals are very confident of turning the tables. There'll be no "stage fright" to-morrow.

• • • •

There should be a great battle on the wing line to-morrow.

• • • •

Shaw will be played at centre-half to-morrow. He is putting up a splendid game at that position.

LAURIER SURE TO WIN.

The contest is sweeping onward with the Liberal swing of victory, and there is no room for doubt that the Laurier Government will be returned to power on November 3rd, by a big majority. Speaking at Montreal, Sir Wilfrid said he was as sure of that result as he was of his own life. The indications are all that way, and it is no party partiality that gives one important justification of this confidence.

The Toronto News, independent, with strong Conservative leanings, sizes up the situation this way.

Reasoning from carefully compiled reports, received and published, from every constituency in the Dominion, the News makes the following forecast of the result of the polling on November 3rd:

Liberals	120
Conservatives	85
Doubtful	20

This is not enthusiasm on the part of the News, nor certainly party bias, but these figures are the result of cold, calculating analysis of the special information received from every riding in the Dominion.

If all the doubtful ridings are given to the Liberals the Laurier Government will have a majority of 84.

If all the doubtful ridings are given to the Conservatives, the Laurier Government will still have a clear majority of 26.

If—as will most probably be the case—the doubtful ridings "break even," the Liberal majority will be 40 or 42.

These figures are significant and point to the fact as undoubted that the Liberal Government will be returned by a good substantial majority.

The News has been leading up to such a result, and preparing the Conservatives for, just such a jolt. It has been pointing out that the Conservative case has been presented to the people by Mr. Borden in rather a weak and disappointing way, and it has seen other signs to show that popular judgment and popular common sense were on the side of the Liberal Government.

Local workers can form some estimate of the impartiality of the forecast of the News when it concedes West Peterborough to Mr. Hall by 100 or 200 majority, and the East to Mr. Sexsmith by a small majority. Liberals, however, will not be content with this, but will work hard and hopefully to put both Peterboroughs in the Liberal column.

The swing of Liberal victory is a fact. Make the swing as strong as possible, in both the East and West.

Keep both hands on good Government.

Keep both hands on Peterborough's prosperity.

The Labour Legislation Of Laurier Government.

It is an axiomatic truth that no Government governs well that does not provide efficient administration and protection for all classes of the community; and this the Liberal Government has done, as its administrative record shows.

The Liberal Government has not neglected a single opportunity to improve the condition and standing of the toilers, and is therefore entitled to their good will and support---one good turn deserves another.

The splendid results of Liberal revision of the tariff and adoption of business methods in the administration of affairs---in stimulating industry and providing more employment at higher wages, has made special labour legislation less necessary.

But this has not been neglected just prior to the Liberal party coming to power. A. W. Wright the present Conservative organizer reported to the Conservative government that their was no sweating system in Canada.

The Liberal government investigated, found sweating in connection with government contracts and stopped it.

Under Conservative contracts for militia and other clothing subletting prevailed till at the last poor women and girls were forced to work in their squalid homes for 20c. a day.

This was stopped and now all workers on government contracts for clothing get fair wages and sanitary conditions must be good.

The Liberal government introduced the fair wage system on all government contracts on public works and buildings in all lines of trade. The wages current in the vicinity be paid, and an officer is appointed to see that this is done.

Not only must fair wages be offered but paid. Part of the contractor's money is held till every wage earner is paid every cent due. Fair wage schedules, fixed by the government, are parts of all government contracts. Since the department was organized over 70 claims for wages have been proved and payment ordered and made.

The Liberal government gave labour a Department of its own in the government. Sir William Mulock is the minister.

The department of labour since it started has been of the greatest service to labour interests. It has a correspondent in every city or town of importance and the government is thereby kept informed as to the rights and conditions of labour.

The Liberal government established to Labour Gazette the official organ of labour, published monthly and at the end of the year bound in volume form---their are now four volumes, 4000 pages in all. In this Gazette all happenings of interest to wage earners in all lines and in all cities and large towns are furnished by special correspondents, a record of the features and causes of strikes and look outs, and tables giving current rates of wages from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and the comparative cost of living.

Under the Conciliation Act the Labour Department appoints a Conciliator to effect a settlement in trade disputes. Through this intervention numerous strikes involving between 15,000 and 20,000 employees have been settled and great loss of wages prevented.

The Labor Department gathered the opinions of labour organizatios, and on the basis of these opinions, passed a law providing for compulsory investigation as a preliminary to settlement where conciliation fails.

The first alien labor law passed in Canada was passed by the Liberal Government, and on the advice of workingmen it was so amended as to place its enforcement in their own hands. Any person who thinks the law is being violated can bring action and, as the act specifies, the prosecutor receives 50 per cent. of the fine imposed.

Several Commissions have been appointed under the Department of Labour, to inquire into the causes of industrial disputes in British Columbia, to inquire into and prevent the employment of aliens by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, to inquire into and prevent fraudulent practices of employment agencies in Montreal in regard to importing Italian labor.

A poll tax of $500 was imposed by law on Chinese entering the dominion.

The Railway Act has been amended to afford better protection to employees, and a special duty of the Railway Commission established in 1903, is to inquire into the causes of railway accidents and enforce regulations to prevent accidents.

Though the special acts passed in the interests of labor are not numerous, yet any workman, who studies them will see how sweeping and far reaching they are in protecting the rights of all classes of toilers, shielding the weak from the greed of capital and securing the highest current rate of wages on every government work.

THE PEANUT VENDOR TELLS THE ENGINEER HOW A GREAT RAILROAD SHOULD BE RUN.

HOW YOUNG MEN SHOULD VOTE.

On November 3rd, hundreds of young men in Peterborough will cast their vote for the first time, and the way they do this will be a momentous consideration for them.

Youth, in its enthusiasm and hopefulness, its vigour and joy of living, sympathises with enterprise and progress.

The young men will have before them the candidates representing the record and policy of two great parties.

In the matter of record, which will the right-thinking young man choose?

Will he choose the Liberal party, with its splendid eight year record of accomplishment, with its accompaniment of prosperity and progress, or the Conservative party, with its eighteen years of incompetence, and its accompaniment of dull times, and stagnation?

Whom will you choose as your leader—Laurier or Borden?

In their own interests, in the interests of the town, in the interests of the country, the rising manhood of Peterborough will rally to the support of the Liberal Government.

We base this probability on three facts:

Because it is a Government of Achievement.

Because it is a Government of Victory.

Because it is a Government of Foresight.

It is a Government of Achievement. Read the records for proof. Stagnation has given place to success, industrially, commercially, financially. The national spirit of patriotism has expanded as never before. The Dominion has been linked to the empire in a stronger chain than ever in the past. Forward movements have been taken. Canada has come to her own. It has been a Government of Achievement.

A Government of Victory—victory over old and vexed problems that were long as running sores in the national body. Victory over dangerous and unpatriotic racial cries. Victory over disintegrating movements in the party war for power. Victory in spite of iniquitous legislative stumbling-blocks that long prevented the free expression of the people's will.

A Government of Foresight, legislating for the coming years as well as for the present; for 1954 as well as for 1904. Planning for the great days that are to be when the expansion of our country, now well under way, will have trebled the population, quadrupled trade and enlarged our influence in matters of empire in corresponding degree. A Government of Foresight, "sanguine in hope, bold in speculation, always pressing forward."

We appeal, besides, to the virile young manhood of Peterborough to claim Sir Wilfrid Laurier as their leader because he is a leader in achievement and in victory; because of foresight.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is a leader to cheer for, to fight for, to follow!

This "greatest statesmen of Greater Britain" is an ideal leader for ideal young Canadians.

He is a man whom the young men of Canada can afford to follow for his candor, his courage, his contempt for all that is base, his commendation of all that is ennobling.

The man whose thirty-three years of public life has been stainless; whose high character measures up to his high standard of ethics.

The man who, as the eloquent young Parliamentarian of the seventies, exclaimed: "Let us have the courage to tell the truth!"

The man, who, on the threshold of his public career, declared: "I am one of those who think that everywhere, in human things, there are abuses to be reformed, new horizons to be opened up and new forces to be developed."

The Liberal leader is the man who is reforming abuses, who is opening up new horizons, who is developing new forces in our national life.

The man whose peroration at the great Massey Hall meeting deserves immortality:—

"If there is one class to which, above all others, I would appeal, it is not to you older men, not to you middle-aged men, but to the young men—the hope of the country. To those who have life before them let my prayer be this:

"Remember from this day forth never to look simply at the horizon, as it may be limited by the limits of the Province, but look abroad all over the continent, wherever the British flag floats, and let your motto be,

"Canada First, Canada Last, and Canada Always!"

This is the leader whom we invite the young men of Peterborough to cheer for—to fight for—to vote for on the third of November!

This body will have a part in the future of the Dominion, which is now on the threshold of a future of unparalleled growth and greatness, such as many young men now voting for the first time will live to see.

MR. FOSTER'S FINE INSTINCTS

"Where were the Bordens and the Fishers when Lord Dundonald rode into Ladysmith?" When Mr. Foster flung out that characteristic jibe at his Toronto audience last night he offended against the common decencies of public life and made plain the reason why he is disliked and distrusted even by his political friends. There are circumstances which ought to check even his bitter tongue. It ill becomes him or any of those who applauded his cold-blooded sneer to talk loftily about the loyalty or the patriotism, or the personal sacrifices of the Minister whose only son went out to his death in the South African war. The grave of Lieut. Borden on the veldt is the answer to Mr. Foster's sneer.—Globe.

IS HE A C. P. R. MAN?

The Hamilton Herald, a convinced advocate of public ownership and operation of railways, is not deceived, as others holding the same views are deceived, by Mr. Borden's deliberate and studied evasion and double-dealing. Referring to his manifesto published yesterday and his significant omission of anything about public operation of the Transcontinental Railway, The Herald says:—

"The silence of the Opposition leader on this point is very significant, and will do much to neutralize the favourable effect of his advocacy of Government ownership. Out west Government supporters are saying not only that Mr. Borden would lease the road to an operating company, but that that operating company will be the Canadian Pacific. If that were so, far better not to spend a cent of Government money in railway construction. It is scarcely credible that Mr. Borden would propose to strengthen the C. P. R. Company's monopoly in the west; but when he persistently evades the question of operation even in his formal 'message' to the people, are not his opponents warranted in suspecting that a secret understanding exists between him and the C.P.R. magnates?"

That condition would bring about beautiful competition in freight rates.

CAMPAIGN NOTES.

Mr. Blair's "bombshell" was a fizzle. Instead of taking the stump against the Government, he is doing business at the old stand—as chairman of the Railway Commission, much to the disgust of the rail-away element of the Conservative party.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier spoke at Valleyfield on Tuesday night. The manager of the Montreal cotton mills advised the people to support Sir Wilfrid, saying that the difficulties of the mills were not due to the Liberal policy. Here is a man interested in an industry, represented by Mr. Kendry as being ruined by the Liberal policy, supporting its leader.

Mr. Borden's leading support in Ontario, is not phenomenal. He has only Mr. Foster to do his subsidiary stumping, and what does the Conservative party owe to Mr. Foster? It owes to Mr. Foster the loss of power, and the fact that it is now in the cold shades of opposition. In 1896, Mr. Foster's conspiracy to oust Sir Mackenzie Bowell from the leadership, his acting as brood hen of the "nest of traitors," his bolt on the eve of a general election, were largely responsible, coming on the heels of a long procession of scandals and corrupt deals, for the defeat of the Conservative party at the polls. Mr. Foster owes the Conservative party a great deal. He smashed it in 1896, and he can hardly do less than do a little patching for it now. If the respectable residential riding of North Toronto elects Mr. Foster we have a striking example of self-respect yielding to the party lash, and of party prejudice triumphing over principle.

Pile sufferers know that Ointments and other local treatments sometimes relieve but never cure. They don't remove the cause.

THE NEW NATIONAL TRANSCONTINENTAL LINE.

Reasons for the Construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific System.

A Series of Unanswerable Arguments.

1. BECAUSE it doubles the industrial and productive area of Canada.

2. BECAUSE it doubles opportunity for every man in Canada.

3. BECAUSE it offers the shortest and best all-Canadian line from tide water to tide water, summer and winter.

4. BECAUSE it is the only all-British railway across the continent under one management.

5. BECAUSE it is so situated as to be most secure from foreign invasion; giving depth, and therefore, strength to our country, to the advantage of both Canada and the Empire.

6. BECAUSE it gives development and competition in transportation to 1,200 (in length) miles of grain-growing country in the West.

7. BECAUSE it develops vast coal fields on the Saskatchewan, Athabasca and Peace rivers, for the supply of fuel to the prairies.

8. BECAUSE it gives the most north-westerly part of the prairie region, which is furthest from the Atlantic, a short outlet to the Pacific.

9. BECAUSE it connects the railway system of Canada with 4,000 miles of steamboat navigation of the Athabasca, Peace, Laird and Mackenzie rivers, their great lakes and the Arctic Ocean.

10. BECAUSE it develops mining and lumbering in northern British Columbia and provides facilities for profitable interchange of mutual necessities between the prairies and the mountain regions of the far west.

11. BECAUSE it ensures a third railway outlet from and through the wheat fields to the lakes and ocean.

12. BECAUSE it develops a thousand miles of northern Ontario and Quebec, with timber mineral and farm land resources.

13. BECAUSE it cuts nearly 200 miles off the present Intercolonial distance between Quebec and Canada's nearest winter port, St. John.

14. BECAUSE by government ownership and control of rates, with modern construction and adequate equipment, it provides an all-year-round outlet for western grain; and gives the merchants and manufacturers of eastern Canada profitable access to the markets of the great West.

15. BECAUSE it does this without land grant, tax exemption or provincial or local aid of any kind.

16. BECAUSE it induces the investment of one hundred millions of British capital in Canada; and correspondingly interests the British public in Canada's welfare.

17. BECAUSE co-operation with the Grand Trunk Company secures effective, satisfactory and business-like operation, ensures fulfilment of all engagements, provides business from the start, and secures the Government from payment on its guarantee.

18. BECAUSE by that co-operation all principal points in eastern Canada are put in direct connection with the West without extra charge.

19. BECAUSE it transfers the through traffic interests of the Grand Trunk from the Western States to Western Canada.

20. BECAUSE it provides against over-capitalization, for effective government control of rates, and secures running rights to other roads throughout its whole length.

21. BECAUSE it will develop millions of acres of new country, bring in millions of new settlers, and expand our home market, to the advantage of every factory, and working man, in older Canada.

22. BECAUSE for Imperial military reasons it gives the safest and most inland route from coast to coast.

23. BECAUSE an Atlantic outlet for the Canadian Northern, and extension of the Intercolonial to the wheat fields is provided for without a cent of additional public cost.

24. BECAUSE it gives maximum public control for a minimum public outlay, and absolute security for the financial responsibility assumed.

25. BECAUSE it is a national necessity for transportation reasons, and a needed factor in our growth and development.

RUSSIA BACKS DOWN

Baltic Fleet Stays at Vigo Pending the Inquiry.

PREMIER BALFOUR'S SPEECH

Mr. Balfour Thought Russian Version of the Trawler Incident an Attack On Britain's Honor—Phantom Ships—Such An Admiral Could Not Pass Unscathed, Unchallenged and Unpunished.

London, Oct. 29.—All danger of war between Russia and Great Britain has been averted, and the settlement of the only points in dispute regarding the attack by Russia's second Pacific squadron on British trawlers, Oct. 21, has been referred to an international commission under The Hague Convention.

Premier Balfour, speaking at a meeting of the National Union of Conservative Clubs at Southampton last night, broke silence. "The Russian Ambassador," said Mr. Balfour, "has authorized a statement to the following effect:

"The Russian Government, on hearing of the North Sea incident, at once expressed its profound regret and also promised most liberal compensation. The Government has ordered the detention at Vigo, of that part of the fleet which was concerned in the incident, in order that the naval authorities might ascertain what officers were responsible for it; that those officers and any material witnesses would not proceed on the voyage to the Far East; that inquiry would be instituted into the facts by an international commission as provided by The Hague Convention."

"That," Mr. Balfour interpolated, "had nothing to do with arbitration; it was the constitution of an international commission in order to find out the facts and any person found guilty would be tried and punished adequately. The Russian Government undertook that precautions would be taken to guard against recurrence of such incidents. Special instructions on this subject would be issued. Preliminary to this court," Mr. Balfour said, "there would be the coroner's inquest at Hull over the dead fishermen, a Board of Trade inquiry and an inquiry by Russian officials at Vigo. The Board of Trade inquiry would be specially constituted by the British Government to include representative men. The Russian Embassy had been asked to send a representative and give assistance. Apology and compensation have already been offered, nothing now remains but to determine which account is correct, Rojestvensky's or the trawlers."

The immense audience received Mr. Balfour's announcement of the settlement of the affair with unbounded enthusiasm.

Premier Balfour's Speech.

Premier Balfour addressed an immense meeting in Artillery Hall last night. His appearances on the platform at 8.05 p.m. was the signal for great cheering, which was again and again renewed. The Marquis of Winchester presided.

On rising Mr. Balfour said:

"[illegible] this great assemblage [illegible] with a moment of national [illegible] Since the assembly [illegible] these events have happened [illegible] have stirred to the depths every section and every class of the community, every subject of His Majesty and the conscience of the English-speaking people of the world, as well as the general sentiments of civilized Europe."

Continuing, Mr. Balfour said he believed the lamentable and deplorable tragedy of Oct. 21-22 would not end in war. The matter had been referred to an international commission, and both sides would abide by the decision of the international commission, which would consider all the questions at issue, thus war between the two great nations would be avoided without dishonor. There would also be a Board of Trade inquiry with, he hoped, the assistance of representatives of the Russian Government.

War Not to Come.

Consequently, so far as he was able to see into the future, the result would not be one of those great national struggles which, though they might occasionally be necessary, always left behind a deplorable mark and always retarded the progress of humanity and civilization. War between two great powers could not be raised without great danger to neutrals, but until last Monday (the day the news of the North Sea incident was made public), what neutral contemplated ever being fired upon and sunk during the progress of a peaceful vocation?

The report in the first instance was received with universal horror, indignation and surprise by the whole civilised world. Two stories had been put before them, as a result of which this matter was to be made the subject of impartial, international inquiry, although it was impossible to doubt which of the stories was true.

As the ally of Japan, Great Britain was bound under well defined rules to assist Japan, but as they should make it a point of honor to use their whole national power in fulfilling this obligation, it was also a point of honor that their duty as a neutral should be scrupulously performed.

The Premier said it was incredible that a fishing fleet could be engaged in hostile operations, and ridiculed the idea of a torpedo boat attack. The Russian fleet was thirty miles out of its course, and it was absurd to suppose that the commander of the alleged torpedo craft would choose a position for attacking the Russian fleet in the centre of a fishing fleet.

Doesn't Believe the Story.

The Premier expressed disbelief in the existence of these Japanese ships and said the nearest Japanese warship was 14,000 miles away. Such a story as that told by the Russian admiral was the purest fancy. The Premier hoped the truth would be made manifest and clear as noon day when the inquiry, which the Russian Emperor welcomed, took place. The Russian Government had not at any time underrated the gravity of the crisis or failed to do what it could to diminish it.

Mr. Balfour thought that the difficulty was surmounted. At the same time recklessness or indifference to cruelty ought to be avoided by every man who had the interests of civilization or his own conscience at heart. It could not for a moment be supposed that throughout all the channels of commerce from St. Petersburg to Vladivostock and the narrow ways of commerce like the English Channel and the Red Sea, an admiral of another power should be allowed to pass under such circumstances unscathed, unchallenged and unpunished after such a deed as that of the night of Oct. 21. It would be a position which it would be impossible for Great Britain as a neutral to tolerate. Hence the Russian Government had promised to make an inquiry and had ordered the detention of part of the Russian squadron at Vigo.

Attack On Honor.

The Russian version of the occurrence of the night of Oct. 21 was equivalent to an attack on Great Britain's national honor. The torpedo boats spoken of by the Russian admiral were phantom ships—creatures of pure fancy—against which Mr. Balfour entered a most emphatic protest: He was glad to say that the Russian Government had agreed with Great Britain regarding the necessity for an investigation. The responsible officers would not be permitted to proceed to the Far East, and the persons found guilty would be adequately punished. In agreeing to these things, Russia had taken the view which commended itself to other civilized nations. Russia had given a pledge that she would prevent a recurrence of the tragedy which filled British hearts with sorrow and the hearts of most men with indignation.

The Russian Ambassador had authorized the statement that the Russian Government, on hearing of the North Sea incident, at once expressed profound regret and the Russian Emperor telegraphed to the King in similar terms. The Russian Government had also promised the most liberal compensation. The Russian Government had shown an enlightened desire that truth and justice in this matter should prevail. The entire facts must be brought out at the investigation, which, Mr. Balfour pointed out, would be made by three distinct bodies—first, by the international commission; second, by the Board of Trade enquiry, and, third, by the coroner's inquest.

Change of Situation.

Mr. Balfour said: "If this meeting had been held yesterday evening, I would not have dared preface my remarks in a hopeful tone. Everybody felt that if the trawler incident could be repeated a belligerent fleet was indeed a pest against which all neutral powers would be bound to combine. The only version we had on that day of the lamentable incidents of the previous Friday was the version supplied us by the trawlers. Thursday morning the situation changed, because for the first time we had the counter story, supplied by the Russian admiral. In the story of our fishermen there was much tragedy, but I am driven to the belief that there is much romance. It is impossible to doubt which is the correct story. I should not have approached it but for the fact that the admiral's story is really an attack upon our national honor and implies that we are not doing our duty as neutrals! In an island kingdom like Great Britain, the nationality of every craft is known. It is inconceivable that we could be harboring Japanese sailors and warships without Russia, and, indeed, the whole civilised world, knowing it. I enter a most emphatic protest against such an allegation. The truth will be made manifest and clear as noonday when the enquiry is held, which, in most statesmanlike manner, has been welcomed by the Czar. But in bare justice to the Czar and the Russian Government, I will say they never at any time under-estimated the gravity of the crisis or failed to do what they could to diminish it.

Punish Wrongdoers.

"Remember the wheels of diplomacy move slowly, and, perhaps, the wheels of Russian diplomacy especially slowly, but it should be borne in mind that the tragedy was not known until Monday, and the Government at once expressed its sorrow and promised reparation, and at the very beginning intimated that any wrongdoer ought to receive punishment. One difficulty was that the fleet which committed the outrage was on its way to the illimitable east. That difficulty has been gotten over, but there is another difficulty, namely, that the Russian admiral has a theory of the rights and the duties of belligerent fleet as against neutrals which would really make the high seas a place of public danger. Suppose some dark night a liner or a transport fell in with the second Pacific fleet at Gibraltar, when they intended to divide, and approached within the magic distance; according to the admiral's theory, he would be justified in sinking it. The position is one impossible for neutrals to tolerate. A fleet animated by that policy would be a fleet which would have to be eliminated out of existence if civilized commerce were to pursue its way unimpeded. I am glad to think that in this view the Russian Government agrees and has given orders which will prevent a recurrence of the tragedy that filled our hearts with sorrow and the hearts of all those who had heard it abroad with something approaching indignation."

Praise For the Czar.

Mr. Balfour thought it must be admitted that the Russian Government had shown an enlightened desire that truth and justice should prevail. Only a few hours ago he should himself have taken a gloomy view of the possibility of a satisfactory and peaceful solution. He thought the Emperor had shown himself an enlightened judge of what was right in the matter as between nation and nation. The British Government did not ask of others anything it would not gladly have granted if it had been in a similar position. The Government had no desire to take advantage of Russia's difficulties to enforce its demands. It had appealed simply to justice and equity; principles which ought to govern in the good relations between nations, and it had not appealed in vain. It might have been far otherwise, and that it was not was due in great measure to the foresight and wisdom of the Emperor. The world had its eyes centred upon one great warlike tragedy in the Far East. It would have been appalling, but it was not at one moment impossible that that great world's tragedy would have been doubled.

"It would have been doubted and we should have seen the greatest calamity that could befall mankind, namely, a struggle between two first-class powers. Speaking for the Government, Mr. Balfour declared he could say they had done all they could consistently with honor to avert the calamity.

Not Yet All Over.

"To say the incident was closed and over would be too much, but they surely would not think him over-sanguine in hoping the spirit of reason and justice which had brought Great Britain through the most difficult parts of the controversy without the calamity of war would still preside over the council of the nations, and that the greatest of all calamities, that of internecine war between two European nations would be avoided.

"If," said Mr. Balfour, "war could be avoided without dishonor the settlement would reflect nothing but credit upon the ruler of that great empire with which we have been so nearly coming in collision, but with whom it is my earnest hope and sincere belief our good relations will remain undisturbed. I hope I have said nothing which can in the smallest degree impair international relations, and though I have spoken under a heavy sense of responsibility and under considerable difficulties, I do think the events of the last few days, though they can never wipe out the tragic occurrence of last Friday, will not bring in their train any of those widespread calamities which at one time we almost feared they would bring with them. I congratulate this country and Russia, Europe and the world on what I believe will be the result of the last few days negotiations."

St. Petersburg Believed.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 29.—There was a feeling of profound relief here last night over the announcement that the differences between Great Britain and Russia are to be submitted to a commission. This outcome is attributed to the direct interposition of Emperor Nicholas and King Edward. The British Government, in the face of an excited public opinion, which was demanding the most extreme measures, proposed the submission of the issue to a commission under The Hague convention, while the Russian Government was preparing a similar proposal to the neutral powers, notably France, and, it is believed, the United States, were using all their influence to avoid a world catastrophe.

Russian Minister Glad.

London, Oct. 29.—Ambassador Benckendorff, who has been working night and day, expressed the greatest pleasure over the result, which he considered, honorable to both nations.

Opinions of the Press.

London, Oct. 29.—The opinions of the press on the settlement, as announced by Mr. Balfour are diverse. While The Daily Mail hails it in the biggest type caption, as "Russia's surrender," the more thoughtful papers are less pleased.

ALL MINERS KILLED

Not One in Tercio Mine, Colorado, Escaped the Explosion.

60 MEN PROBABLY PERISHED

Exact Number of Dead May Never Be Known As the Mine Is Burning—Explosion Preceded By Rumbling Sound Resembling An Earthquake—Rocks Thrown a Quarter of a Mile.

Trinidad, Col., Oct. 29.—Probably 60 men lost their lives in a terrific explosion which occurred at mine No. 3 of the Rocky Mountain Fuel & Iron Company, at Tercio, forty miles west of Trinidad, yesterday afternoon. The exact number of dead may never be known, as the mine is burning, and in all likelihood the bodies will be consumed. A large number of mine officials left here as soon as word of the accident was received. Company doctors and other physicians were picked up all along the line.

F. J. Forman, Government stock inspector, was at Tercio when the explosion occurred. He returned here last night and gave the following account of the affair:

"I was standing not more than 100 yards from the mouth of the tunnel when the explosion occurred. The explosion was preceded by a low rumbling sound, resembling an earthquake, which made the earth tremble and startled the whole camp. It looked toward the mine and out of the mouth of the tunnel and two air shafts came a great volume of smoke and dust, which continued for nearly a minute. Out of the two air shafts, each of which are 7 feet in diameter, timbers that were fully 3 feet in diameter were shot in the air and broke into splinters. Rocks were thrown over the camp for a distance of a quarter of a mile; in fact, it rained rocks, broken timbers and all kinds of debris for fully a minute and many persons were injured by being struck with these missiles.

"The explosion, which resembled a volcanic eruption, caused the wildest excitement. Men, women and children rushed to the mouth of the tunnel, and women, whose husbands were in the mine, had to be brought away by miners to prevent their being killed by deadly fumes coming from the mouth of the tunnel."

The mine employs eighty men, and it is believed that at least sixty were in it at the time. It was not possible that any in the mine could escape. It was impossible to secure names of the dead and injured last night.

Montreal, Oct. 29.—A serious explosion took place last night in one of the east end buildings of the Montreal Gas Co., resulting in the death of John Douglas, the foreman and considerable damage to the company's property.

Gas Troubles in St. Kitts.

St. Catharines, Oct. 29.—Some workmen employed by the Gas Company to locate a leak on St. Paul street caused an explosion yesterday afternoon that created havoc for a time. The pipe ran under the concrete walk and into the Conservative committee room. The explosion blew the sidewalk into the air and caused a hasty exit from the committee room, where the plaster was torn from the walls and ceilings. A match had been lighted, igniting the gas. No one was hurt. William Ward, one of the Gas Company's men, narrowly escaped asphyxiation. He was working in a trench and remained too long. He was dragged out in an unconscious condition, but recovered.

BRITISH FISCAL POLICY.

Chaplin's Resolution Carried in the National Union of Conservatives.

London, Oct. 29.—Fourteen hundred members were present at the annual conference of the National Union of Conservatives, which opened yesterday at Southampton. Mr. Chaplin's resolution was carried with but two dissentients, calling for reform in the fiscal policy of the country and cordially supporting Premier Balfour's demand for power to deal with the evils arising from the unfair competition caused by dumping. It likewise welcomed the recent declaration of the Prime Minister that if again returned to power he will invite a conference with delegates from the colonies and India to meet to discuss, first, whether the idea of fiscal union commends itself to them; and, second, how it is to be carried out.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. GREAT BOON TO PETERBOROUGH.

Conservatory of Music Will be Established Here by Mr. R. Gliddon.

All Lines of Musical Instructions Will be Given by Competent Teachers.

An Institution Greatly Needed Will Open in Old Lech Residence About December 1st.

An announcement which will give genuine pleasure to a very large portion of the community, and especially to the music-lovers of the town, is that to the effect that Peterborough is, at last, to have a Conservatory of Music.

Mr. R. Gliddon, who is known to everyone in Peterborough as a musician of more than usual ability, and as having been identified with many musical enterprises, all of which have been successful, has, for some months, been carrying on negotiations with the owner of the Lech residence at the corner of Rubidge and Hunter streets, with a view of securing the house as a home for a Conservatory of Music, and to-day the Examiner is able to announce that the negotiations have been successfully concluded, and about the first of December the Peterborough Conservatory of Music will be opened under the direction of Mr. Gliddon.

This commodious residence has for months been undergoing extensive repairs and has been enlarged and thoroughly modernized, the improvements having been carried on latterly under Mr. Gliddon's directions, given with a view of making the place adapted to the use to which, as a Conservatory, it would be put.

The house, from its associations and sympathies, is one admirably adapted to a musical rendezvous, for the Lech family were all enthusiastic musicians, and on this account a Conservatory of Music will carry out the traditions associated with the building.

Mr. Gliddon has been a resident of Peterborough for the past six years, and during his entire residence here he has been engaged exclusively in musical work, and in this he has been signally successful. The pupils trained by him have taken high, some of them the highest, honours, in the Toronto Conservatory of Music examinations, which fact is sufficient proof of his musical ability, and the thoroughness of his pupils' training.

Before entering into the undertaking, Mr. Gliddon discussed the matter with a large number of the town's leading citizens, and from them he received the strongest encouragement to establish the Conservatory, and the unanimous opinion was that the town needed badly such an institution, and that the time was ripe for its establishment.

There is a vast amount of latent musical talent in Peterborough, and with a Conservatory in our midst, this talent should find an avenue for development. Among those of moderate means there are numbers of young persons who havve really excellent ability, but whose parents are unable to bear the expense of sending them to Toronto. With an opportunity such as will be provided by the Conservatory of obtaining the training necessary to develop the ability at home, no doubt music in Peterborough will be given a decided impetus.

All lines of instruction will be given, including vocal, piano, violin, etc., and the very best teachers available will be procured. The best Toronto musicians will make periodical visits to the Conservatory, and the services of these will be supplemented by resident teachers.

It is expected that the Conservatory will be opened about December 1st.

VERY SUCCESSFUL TEA AND CONCERT

Large Attendance at George Street Church Last Night.

A Splendid Tea and a Splendid Programme Under Auspices of Ladies' Aid Society.

The people of the George Street Methodist Church have acquired the reputation of making a success out of all their undertakings and last evening an opportunity was afforded the ladies of this church to add to this reputation and the opportunity was not lost. The "High Tea" and concert under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society was from every standpoint a great success. The tea was strictly "high" class and after the inner man had been given his quietus, an equally high-class of entertainment was supplied for the elevation of the mental side of ones nature. There was a very large attendance and the whole affair was thoroughly enjoyed.

The tea was served in the basement of the church where everything appetizing and tempting to the palate was to be found from the most delicious viands to the most dainty pastry. The members of the Ladies' Aid Society presided at the tables, which were waited upon in admirable fashion by the young ladies of the congregation, who, of course, added a certain degree of attraction to the occasion.

Following the tea a programme was presented in the church which was well filled. Rev. Dr. Crothers, pastor, was chairman. The opening number, a violin solo "Berceuse", by Miss Maud Crothers was rendered very effectively, the player producing a sweet and broad tone. The chairman made a few remarks of welcome to those present, being glad to welcome those of other churches and the townspeople generally. He congratulated the ladies on the success of the occasion and he believed there was a good deal of truth in the saying that as far as church work was concerned a woman was worth seven and a half men. He spoke of the necessity of getting rid of all stiffness in the church and of promoting true brotherly love and friendship.

Miss Gertrude Kendry sang in very pleasing voice "When the Children Pray" with violin obligato by Miss Crothers. A duet "Music and Song" was sung with splendid effect by Misses B. Parnell and I. Gray.

Rev. W. J. Joliffe gave a short address upon the application of the words "I have taken off my coat, how shall I put it on?" Just as it was easier to take off one's coat than it was to put it on again, it was to lose a good name than recover it again—a good name was better than riches and those who had inherited a good name should be thankful. One's good name may be destroyed by false statements of others, but when it was destroyed by one's own improper conduct to recover it was no easy matter. There was the danger of putting off honesty for dishonesty, or making temporary gain when the loss is to oneself was far greater; of putting off truthfulness for lying, benevolence for meanness, sobriety for drunkenness, of failing to make the most of good impressions and of allowing opponents to slip away who would never present themselves to us again. We may be our worst enemies and the greatest detriment to the building up of good character. Mr. Joliffe congratulated the ladies of the church upon their very successful entertainment.

Miss M. Crothers was again heard with much pleasure in a violin solo, Handels "Largo" after which Mr. R. N. Joliffe sang "Queen of Angels" and was encored. Miss Kendry's second number "A Memory" was highly appreciated The closing number was a solo, "The Skipper and his Boy" by Mr. A. L. Davis and was warmly received.

The accompanistes for the evening were Misses E. Crothers, M. Hay, W. Dobbin and E. L. Joliffe.

The affair was in every way a great success and the ladies on whom such a heavy burden falls in events of this nature may well feel satisfied with the success which attended their efforts.

BROKE HIS LEG IN RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

Thomas Byers the Victim of a Serious Accident Last Evening.

Mr. Thomas Byers, a teamster, living at 627 George street was the victim of a very serious accident about 6 o'clock last evening. He was drawing a load of gravel from the gravel pit on Water street, when his horses became frightened and ran away. Byers was thrown from the waggon and his right leg was broken below the knee, two bones being fractured. The Dan Spence ambulance was summoned and took the injured man to Nicholls Hospital, where Dr. McClelland attended him.

ELECTION RETURNS IN HOCKEY RINK.

Special Arrangements Have Been Made for This Service.

On election night the returns will be received in the Brock street rink, which will be connected by special service with both telegraph offices. Mr. R. M. Roy will be present with his lime-light lantern, and will reproduce the returns on a canvas. The full band of the 57th Regiment has also been engaged by the Rink Company, and during the evening will render a choice programme of good music. This will be a good opportunity of learning the news of the elections under comfortable conditions. The committee rooms will both be crowded and only a comparatively small number of persons will be able to hear the announcements which will be made, but in the rink everything will be conducive to comfort. A fire will be kept going all day to heat the place, and the dual privilege of learning the election returns and enjoying a first-class band concert will be afforded. The Rink Company will be under a heavy expense in securing this service and a small admission will be charged to cover expenses.

At the Police Court this morning two cases of failure to send children to school were enlarged.

Nellie Smith failed to appear in court to answer to a charge of having deposited ashes in the street and failing to remove them after warning from the Chief. A fine of $2.00 was imposed.

James Dalton was charged with vagrancy. He came from Belleville, and perhaps that explains, to a certain degree, why he is so lazy. The Chief gave evidence of a conclusive nature against the prisoner, who was sentenced to six months in Central Prison. The Magistrate is a firm believer that all healthy men should work and has no sympathy for the vags. which appear before him.

Gordon McQuesten and Gordon QMilligan, two youths of about 18 years, were charged with damaging a car, the property of the C.P.R. Company. They pleaded not guilty. The two had stolen a ride from Toronto on the way to Ottawa and had broken the seal of one of the cars. They were remanded until Wednesday.

Sweeties for Hallowe'en.

You should see the tempting taffies, maple cream, chocolates, Jumbos, nut candy and cream bar! The reason it is so fresh is because it comes direct from the candy kitchen daily. The reason it is so good is because of its pureness. You really dinna ken the sweetness o' a kiss until you taste the Hallow'en taffy kisses Jobe makes.

LAST WEEKLY RALLY TO-NIGHT

Big Meeting in the Liberal Committe Rooms.

Hon. Senator Cox and Other Prominent Speakers—Good Prospects for Success.

To-night the last Saturday night rally in the Liberal Committee Rooms before the election, will be held, and it promises to be the most successful of the whole series. The speakers will all be prominent men, among them Hon. Senator Cox, who will be in town for the purpose of addressing this meeting. Every voter is invited to attend this meeting. This series of Saturday night rallies has been a feature of the campaign and every week has seen the attendance increasing until last week when the rooms were filled. This betokens a growing interest in Mr. Hall's candidature, and is also evidence of his growing popularity, and the culmination will without a doubt result in his election on Nov. 3rd, by a good majority.

Mr. Hall returned this morning after three days spent in the northern part of the riding, and he brings with him good news of the victory that is to be on Thursday next.

Let everyone turn out to the last Saturday night Rally to-night, and hear the speakers arranged for.

STODDART LECTURES.

A Special Low Price Being Offered for This Beautiful Work.

A canvas is being made of this city for the examination and sale of these famous lectures which are now offered in thirteen volumes. They embrace so many places and peoples of absorbing interest to the general reader, that the books should find a ready shelf in the library of all those who would add a choice set to any collection that they may already have. The books are well printed on calendared paper, and the illustrations are profuse and all of a high grade of work. The plates are made from photographs taken under the personal supervision of Mr. Stoddard, and for this reason they are all new and fresh, illustrating his subject matter differently from the ordinary set style of illustrations. Looking at the work from both a literary and typographical view-point, we do not hesitate to recommend them to all book lovers as well as those who would wisely invest a small amount of capital in a judicious manner.

THE "GOOD" OLD NATIONAL POLICY.

The Review declares that a vote for Borden and Kendry is a vote for the "good" old National policy. When was the "National" policy "good," or what "good" was it when it was "good?"

We had a trial of it for eighteen years and the longer we had it the worse it got. In 1896 when the Conservatives left power the country was in a state of stagnation and depression—low wages smokeless chimneys, and general discouragement.

The Liberal Government introduced the National tariff policy and clean, capable administration, with the result of having for the past eight years prosperity in Scriptiure measure, full to the brim, shaken down and running over.

The proof of the pudding is in the eating. If the "good" old national policy couldn't—at least didn't—make the country prosper when it was in full swing with better men to administer it, how can we expect it to do better to-day with incompetents at the helm? such as are behind—a long way, too—Mr. Borden.

The National policy of the Liberals has been a booming success and the same strong men are at the helm—"the best brains of the country," a Toronto Conservative says. It will be a continued success.

A POINTER FOR MR. KENRDY.

In a new tailoring shop on Water street, and probably others in town, there may be seen pieces of Hewson tweeds, "Made in Canada," — in Nova Scotia. These tweeds are of such excellent quality, that the same class of goods, made in Nova Scotia, are sold over the counters of London, England, tailor shops, in successful competition with the best Scotch tweeds.

This bears out the truth of what Mr. Jonathan Hodgson, of Hodgson, Sumner & Co., says — that the present tariff is sufficient for all mills that are properly managed, and have ample capital.

The trouble is that a high protection tariff induced over-competition, and over-production, and watering of stock. If a badly managed woollen mill wants a tariff that will bring big dividends upon highly watered stock, the consumer has to pay the dividends in the higher price.

Mr. Kendry himself, admits that his mills are running steadily, because they are making a class of goods, for which there is a market.

Who would expect any business to flourish by turning out goods for which there was no demand? The Hewson tweeds are sold because they are made so good that they meet the ever present demand for goods of high quality at reasonable prices.

If every farmer went into raising strawberries, they couldn't sell their products on the Peterborough market for a cent a box, for competition, and the law of supply and demand, would fix the price. If too many woollen mills glut the limited home market with goods, a profitable business cannot be expected.

If a line of woollen goods is made which does not meet the demands of the market, it cannot be expected to succeed.

Making goods in demand, keeps mills busy, as witness the Auburn Mills, the Cobourg mills, and the Nova Scotia mills.

The Conservative principle is high protection, but it also declares that when an industry reaches the exporting stage, its protection should be lowered. According to this, the Hewson Mills of Nova Scotia should be relieved of their protection, because they are exporting tweeds to London, the heart of the Empire, and successfully selling them in competition with Scotch tweeds.

FIGHTING AGAINST FACTS.

Mr. Kendry is rabid in his denunciation of the Liberal policy for ruining the woollen industry. But the the facts are against his contentions. If the woollen industry was in so bad a condition, under Liberal rule, they wouldn't have imported so much. But note. Here are the figures of wool importation for corresponding periods:

Conservative Period.
Eight years' imports (lbs.)...67,094,548
Av. yearly imports (lbs.)... 8,386,816

Liberal Period.
Six years' imports (lbs.) 56,134,382
Av. yearly imports (lbs.) ... 9,364,063
Liberal average greater by lbs., 977,246.

More wood was manufactured in Canada in the Liberal years than in the Conservative years. The record proves it.

Mr. Borden has issued a manifesto but in it he said no word about Government "operation" of railways, only Government "ownership." If it comes to that, what is the great difference between Mr. Borden's plan and the Government's plan? Under the latter the country absolutely owns the eastern section, about three-quarters of the whole line, and has a first mortgage on the rest of it.

STOVE TALK NO. 6.

Why the "Happy Thought" Burns Less Coal Than any Other Range.

1. The fire pot in the "Happy Thought" is entirely different to any other range. It is deeper and narrower, and twenty years of use has proved that this feature alone will save many tons of coal.

2. The Duplex Grates, from the original patterns of the inventor, distributes the draft equally over the entire grate surface. No dead corners.

3. The peculiar flue construction is the result of fifty years of careful study, and that the proportions are absolutely correct is proved by the fact that the Happy Thought bakes with a smaller fire than is possible with any other range.

GOOD PROSPECTS IN EAST RIDING.

Splendid Meeting in Mr. Finlay's Interest Held in Norwood Last Night.

Speakers Were Mr. R. F. McWilliams, of Peterborough, and Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., of Toronto.

A "Good Times" Government and What it has Done for the Country.

There is no dissenting voice among the electors of Norwood. It is Finlay, first, last and all the time, and the other parts of the riding, taking their cue from the home town of the Liberal candidate, are echoing the same story.

Last night a rousing meeting in Mr. Finlay's interests was held in Norwood town hall, which was well filled, and considering the fact that on the preceeding day a meeting had been held in which numerous political addresses had been given, the attendance at last night's meeting was very gratifying. There were three speakers, the candidate, Mr. Finlay, who, however, in view of the fact that he had the preceeding day spoken, only gave a brief address, claiming support on personal grounds, and upon the ground that he was a supporter of the progressive Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Mr. Finlay was well received, and it indications are an index his election is already assured.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams, who, during the campaign has been accompanying Mr. Finlay on his speaking tour through the riding, followed the candidate, and gave a splendid three-quarters' of an hour address, dealing principally with the tariff question and the Grand Trunk Pacific agreement. He presented good arguments in a forcible way, and his address was well received.

MR. JOHN FINLAY,
Liberal Candidate for the East Riding Peterborough County.

The last speaker was Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., of Toronto, who spoke for an hour and a quarter, delivering one of the best political addresses ever heard in the country. Mr. Rowell is an exceedingly well informed man on the public questions and made a presentation of the Liberal case, which could not help but convince his hearers. His exposition of the Grand Trunk pacific agreement, which he claimed and proved was the best agreement made by any Government with any company for any railway of quarter the length of that of the G.T.P., was clear and concise, and his defence of the Government's position was masterly.

Mr. Rowell was listened to with intense interest from start to finish, and was frequently applauded during the delivery of his address.

COUNTY COUNCILLOR IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. Wm. Buck, County Councillor, was made chairman for the evening and in a short speech opened the meeting. He invited any Opposition speaker who might be present to take the platform, but as none volunteered, the meeting proceeded, the candidate being the first speaker. Mr. Finlay said that he was proud to be a candidate in support of the Government. He said that he was known to everyone present. He had lived in Norwood for twenty-five years and he felt that he had done considerable for the farmers as a manufacturer, and had found it necessary to extend his business because of the good times which had, at least in part been created by the "Good times Government." He said that he had called the attention of the Post Master General to the fact that Dummer needed a better mail service, and it had been granted at his request. He asked the electors for their support on Nov. 3rd and promised to serve the riding to the best of his ability if elected to represent East Peterborough.

MR. R. F. MACWILLIAMS.

The next speaker was Mr. R. F. McWilliams, and delivered an effective address. Mr. McWilliams said that the electors had two questions to vote upon. They had to vote for either Mr. Finlay or Mr. Sexsmith, and they could support either the Liberal Government or the Conservative party, and the record of the Government was before them. The speaker referred to the fact that in this contest they had an opportunity for the first time in many years, of voting for a Government candidate from the eastern part of the riding. It had been said that in the past Norwood men had not been successful, but while this may have been the case in the past he was sure it would not be said on this occasion. He paid a high tribute to the capabilities of Mr. Finlay, and said no one amongst them had a better right to become the member than Mr. Finlay.

Mr. McWilliams dealt with the Grand Trunk Pacific agreement, and said that it provided Canada with what it needed more than anything, a railway from ocean to ocean. He said that he was not a supporter of Mr. Borden's policy with regard to the Grand Trunk Pacific, and was opposed to that gentleman's plan to extend the Intercolonial, which would provide a road but by a roundabout method. Further, the road must be completed at the earliest possible moment.

THE TARIFF.

The speaker then took up the tariff question and referred to Sir Wilfrid's reply to Mr. Foster's attempt to prove Canada's prosperity by rows of figures, when the former said that if he were elected it would not require figures to prove that the country was progressive. This was a proud boast, but 99 out of every 100 men could prove the prosperity by the same method. It is not necessary to quote figures to prove the present prosperity, but some figures may be quoted not as proof but as an emphasis. The foreign trade had increased from $239,000,000 in 1896 to $467,000,000 in 1903.

It has been argued that Providence was to be credited for this prosperity, but Providence was not alone responsible for this prosperity. No country in the world had made such growth in trade as Canada, during the last seven years, the trade of this country increasing 107 per cent. during that period. In the last year of Conservative Government, the farmers sold $331,000,000, but in 1903 the figures were $578,000,00. These figures show that Canada has prospered not only with other countries, but that it has prospered in greater proportions.

The prosperity has been caused to a considerable extent by the changes in the tariff policy instituted by the Liberal Government. The Fielding Government had helped in three ways:

1. By a general reduction in the tariff, by which $32,000,000 had been saved to the people of Canada in seven years.
2. A re-adjustment of the tariff, by which the tariff was cut down on raw materials for the manufacturers, and—
3. By the British preference.

Notwithstanding Mr. Foster's assertion the Liberals had not stumbled upon the preference. The effect of this preference was that Canada got an advertisement in Great Britain, which did more to stimulate its trade than anything else, and which changed the conditions of trade with Great Britain. As an instance of this, Mr. McWilliams quoted the case of the American Cereal Company which had found it to their advantage to come to Canada and manufacture their products there, so that the goods shipped to England might be consistently stamped, "Made in Canada."

The British people have risen to a new conception of what Canada is, and is now regarded as a nation. It was the preference that has given Chamberlain the opportunity of advocating an imperial policy, the adoption of which would make Canada prosper in a way which would eclipse even that of the last seven years.

MR. ROWELL'S ADDRESS.

Mr. N. W. Rowell was the next speaker, and in an eloquent address, he gave a concise resume of the conditions under which the country had prospered. Mr. Rowell said it was a great pleasure for him to speak in behalf of Mr. Finlay, who is considered as one of the best candidates in the field.

In this case there are two parties, both with records, and if the records of the two parties are considered, the electors will have no difficulty in deciding as to which party is more worthy of being returned to power. The speaker thought that the people were beginning to recognize the great importance of selecting good men to conduct the affairs of the country. Canada is a great country. The arable land in Canada is about 1,700,000 square miles, and only one-eighth of that area is at present occupied. In view of this great area to be settled, it is important that the very best men be chosen to do the public business. This was not the condition in 1896, Mr. Foster and Sir Mackenzie Bowell to witness, when the country made a change and called the Liberal party to power. The present harmonious blending of the different creeds and peoples was not in evidence in 1896.

The Opposition claim that Providence had been good to Canada, which fact was responsible for the prosperity, was not a solid claim, because the responsibility would not have been possible, even with Providence's aid, had there not been a progressive Government in power.

The Conservatives had certainly done something to develop Western Canada, but while the C.P.R. had been built, the people did not come into the country, and in 1896 Canada was not even maintaining its natural increase; in 1897 only 20,000 settlers came into the country. The immigration policy of the Government had resulted in an increase of the immigration from 20,000 in 1897, to 133,000 in 1903-4. In 1897 222,000 acres of land were sold, and 327,000 acres taken up as free grants, but in 1903-04 there were sold 4,229,000 acres, and 5,389,000 acres taken up as Government grants.

The increase of population in the West has had the effect of extending business in the East, for manufactured articles, and in turn benefitting the farmers of the East.

THE G.T.P.

The great increase of population in the West has necessitated the construction of a new railway. In 1902 the crop was so large that the C.P.R. could not handle the traffic, and it was congested, and then there were only under crop 4,000,000 acres, but in the future West, with fifty or one hundred million acres under crop, three or four transcontinental lines would be necessary.

Mr. Rowell then, in a clear manner, reviewed the agreement as made between the Government and the railway. He explained that Government ownership of railways had not proved successful in Canada, and cited the case of the Intercolonial Railway, which had not paid operating expenses, and pointed out the great difficulties of government operation under the present system of party politics. If the G.T.P. were operated as a Government road, and the experience of the Intercolonial repeated, the people would have to be taxed to pay the interest on the cost of the road, and also the deficit in its operation.

He then compared the agreement between the Government and the C. P. R., with that between the Government and the G.T.P., to the great discredit of the former. He thought that no Conservative speaker could point to any railway contract ever made by any Government for a railway a quarter of the length of the G.T.P., that compares at all with that made by the Government.

The line was not merely a transcontinental line, but it is a transoceanic line, for the Act provides that ships shall be purchased or chartered to carry freight, on both the Atlantic and Pacific, and on this platform alone the Government deserves to be returned to power.

Mr. Rowell then touched briefly upon the trade question, and said that Canadian produce in Britain had been more popular than it was before the adoption of the preference, and because of this preference and the great change that had taken place in the minds of the British people with reference to Canada, this country had risen in the sight of the world from a colony to a nation. The speaker said that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had in this one act alone done enough to endear him to the people of Canada, and should be returned to power on November 3rd.

He asked all the electors to support Mr. Finlay, the representative of the "Good Times Government."

After three hearty cheers for the King, the Premier, and the candidate, the meeting closed.

GRIMLY FACE TO FACE.

Firing Lines of Both Armies Are Now Without Outposts

With the Russian Eastern Army, via Mukden, Oct. 28.—The heavy firing Wednesday night and yesterday morning was only the artillery exchanging shots. Both firing lines are now facing each other without outposts.

No Fight Since Oct. 26.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 28.—General Sakharoff telegraphs that no general fighting occurred since Oct. 26.

Artillerymen Fighting.

Mukden, Oct. 28.—There was an artillery fight on the night of Oct. 26 on the north shore of the Shakho River, directly south of Mukden. The cannonading, which was heavy, was continued yesterday, the Russians attacking the Japanese unsuccessfully. The fighting, it is believed, will continue up to the walls of Mukden.

Southeast of Mukden.

Mukden, Oct. 28.—Fighting began at 10 o'clock Wednesday evening southeast of Mukden. The Japanese have advanced to the village of Jerdagen, which they are reported to have captured after a fight lasting until yesterday morning.

JOHN DRYSDELL'S ESCAPE.

Bullet Missed Its Mark and Would-Be Murderer Suicides.

Montreal, Oct. 28.—An extraordinary tragedy occurred in John Drysdell's wholesale hardware store on Craig street yesterday morning. John Whitefield, an American from Whitefield, Mass., who has been a clerk in Drysdell's store for eight months, and was recently discharged owing to a bad reputation, walked into the shop yesterday morning, and, pulling a revolver, demanded money from Mr. Drysdell.

Drysdell lost no time in moving to the safe, but in passing whispered to a clerk to give the alarm.

Whitefield, seeing this, at once fired at Drysdell, and missed him. Seeing this, the ex-clerk at once turned round and blew his brains out, dying immediately.

NEURALGIC PAINS.

Are the cry of the Nerves for Better Blood.

Enrich the Blood and Neuralgia Will Disappear—It is Only Those Whose Blood is Poor and Watery That Suffer.

No part of the human system is more sensitive than the nerves. Many of the most excruciating pains that afflict mankind come from weak, shaky, shattered nerves, and among the nerve pains there is perhaps none causes more intense suffering than neuralgia, which generally attacks the nerves of the face and head, sometimes causing swift, darting, agonizing pains — at other times a dull, heavy aching feeling which makes life miserable. There is only one way to get rid of neuralgia and other nervous troubles, and that is through the blood. Poor, watery blood makes the nerves shaky and invite disease. Rich, red blood makes the nerves strong and banishes all nerve troubles. No medicine in the world can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a blood builder and nerve tonic; every dose helps to make rich, red blood, and every drop of this new blood feeds and strengthens the nerves and banishes all nerve aches and pains. Among those who offer strong proof of this is Mr. John McDermott, oBad Head, Ont., who says: "A few years ago while working as a carpenter in Buffalo I got wet. I neglected to change my clothes and next morning I awoke with cramps and pains throughout my entire body. I was unable to go to work so called in a doctor. I followedf his treatment, but it did not help me. As I was unable to work I returned to my home at Bond Head. Here I consulted a doctor who said I was suffering from neuralgia, but though he treated me for some time, he also failed to help me. I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, so decided to try them. I had not used more than three boxes before I felt they were helping me. From that on I gained day by day, and after I had used some ten boxes I had fully recovered my old-time strength and have since been able to work at my trade without any trouble. The pains and aches no longer torture me and I have gained in weight. I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are invaluable medicine and shall always have a good word to say for them."

Neuralgia, sciatic, rheumatism, St. Vitus dance, and the many other blood and nerve troubles all vanish when Dr. (Williams' Pink Pills are used—but you must get the genuine bearing the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around every box. Sold by druggists or direct by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Chased By a Russian.

Stockholm, Oct. 28.—The skipper of the Swedish steamer Aldebaran, from Hull, England, which arrived yesterday at Gefle, Sweden, says his vessel was chased in the Skagerrack during the evening of Friday, Oct. 21, by a foreign cruiser, apparently Russian, which threw its searchlight on her. The cruiser, increasing her speed, passed the Aldebaran and fired a shot which had no effect. The Aldebaran thereupon hoisted her flag and the cruiser again threw her searchlights on the steamer, and a few minutes later hailed that all round the Aldebaran without, however, hitting her. The Aldebaran's skipper then ordered the steamer to be stopped, and with his crew sought refuge below. The foreign warship thereupon disappeared in the darkness.

BATTERIES SILENCED.

Japs Have a Further Notable Success At Port Arthur—Take Two Mountain Forts —Russian Battleship Hit.

Tokio, Oct. 29.—It is reported that the Japanese opened a desperate attack on the eastern forts of the Keekwan group, north of Port Arthur, during the morning of Oct. 26, and silenced the Russian batteries. A shell exploded the Russian magazines. Simultaneously the Japanese attacked the forts on Rihlung Mountain and Sunghohowian Mountain, silenced the Russian batteries and stormed and occupied the forts in front of these mountains. On the night of Oct. 26 there was a conflagration in old Port Arthur, and Oct. 27 a shell hit the Russian battleship Sevastopol and two Russian steamers were sunk. Official confirmation of the above is lacking, but the reports are believed to be true.

Another Jap Victory.

Tokio, Oct. 29.— A press telegram from Gen. Kuroki's headquarters reports that on Thursday the Japanese captured Waitaoshan after sharp fighting. The attack began at eight o'clock in the morning and ended at four o'clock in the afternoon, the Russians retreating. The Japanese captured two machine guns. The Russian casualties are estimated at 200, and those of the Japanese at 170. The Russians occupied Waitaoshan on the 14th instant with eight companies and began constructing defences. The Russians retreated across the Shakhe River.

Guns For Japs.

Che Foo, Oct. 29.—Japanese at Dalny report the continued arrival of huge siege guns. A junk from Port Arthur with eleven Chinese who left there on Oct. 19 on account of costliness of food arrived here yesterday. They say that several of the Russian warships have been hit by dropping shells, but none have been sunk.

They estimate the able-bodied soldiers there now at 10,000, saying a smaller force would be insufficient to garrison the various positions. Scarcely a night passes without small engagements over minor positions and artillery fire is exchanged daily. Last winter's uniforms are being worn by the soldiers, who are now mostly supplied with Chinese shoes.

British Ship Released.

Vladivostock, Oct. 29.—The British steamers Allanton and Calchas (both seized by the Vladivostock squadron), have been released. A deposit of $300,000 was made in behalf of the latter vessel, whose case comes up on appeal at St. Petersburg shortly.

Mr. Carnegie's Libraries.

It may not be generally known that Mr. Carnegie's hobby of giving free libraries away originated with him when he was quite a young man, and long before he had any idea that he would be able to indulge his hobby in the present fashion. Part of his youth was spent in Pittsburg, and while he was there he found that a certain Colonel Anderson kept a kind of open house to working boys on Saturday afternoons. The colonel let it be known that he was always to be found in his library there, and that he would lend books to the boys. Young Carnegie, thirsting for knowledge, presented himself at the colonel's library one Saturday afternoon. There was some question as to his right to come in with working boys, as at that time he was a telegraph operator. To settle the matter the young man wrote a letter to The Pittsburg Dispatch, in which he argued that any young man who worked either with his head or his hands was entitled to be called a working boy. That letter carried the day, and always afterwards the young telegraph operator was allowed to come in with the working boys and to borrow books. Seeing how much good was being done by this arrangement, the young man made up his mind there and then that if ever he made money he would spend part of it in providing free libraries for people who worked. Every one knows how Mr. Carnegie has kept his word. In one memorable month alone the multi-millionaire gave away over $1,500,000 in this way.

The Proconsul.

A proconsul was originally a Roman consul who at the close of his term of office was sent to govern a province. Exceptions were often made, however, and in later times it was not required that the proconsul should have been a consul.

Caterpillars from six inches to a foot long are common in the vicinity of the Darling river, Australia.

JAVA'S DEATH PLANT.

It Grows Only on the Sterile Soil of the Volcanic Regions.

Java, the land of the famous and much exaggerated Death valley, has many wonderful curiosities, the principal one being the kali mujah, or death plant. It grows only on the sterile soils of the volcanic regions of Java and the adjoining islands and is even there reckoned as a curiosity on account of its extreme scarcity. It grows from two and a half to three feet in height, with long, slender stems, well protected by stout thorns nearly an inch in length. The ground leaves are of a delicate, satinlike smoothness, heart shaped, emerald green on one side and blood red, streaked and veined with light buff, on the other.

The flowers of this death dealing beauty are even more beautiful than the plant itself, being very large and cup shaped and of a color almost deathly in its whiteness. The name of the plant is from a characteristic of these splendid flowers, which, beautiful though they are, continually drip with a deadly poison.

The poison, which is distilled in the bottom of the cup shaped blossom, has the sickening odor of chloroform intensified a dozen fold, it being powerful enough to overcome a full grown man in a few seconds, even when inhaled in open air. The perfume, if such a pungent odor can properly be so called, produces insensibility in the form of convulsions, distorting the face, especially the mouth and eyes, into a horrid, crazy looking grin. Recovery from the effects of inhaling this odor is said to be very slow.

Poor Perkins!

"There's Perkins—you know Perkins—entered into an agreement with his wife soon after their marriage twenty years ago that whenever either lost temper or stormed the other was to keep silence."

"And the scheme worked?"

"Admirably. Perkins has kept silence for twenty years."

Doesn't Care For It.

"When I git personally acquainted," said the original philosopher, "with some of the fellers that the wimmen folks goes crazy over it cures me of ever wantin' to be popular with the wimmen folks."

Weakness from Poor Blood

CAUSES FEEBLE ACTION OF THE BODILY ORGANS

DR. CHASES' NERVE FOOD ENTIRELY OVERCOME WEAKNESS OF EVERY FORM

It may be weakness of the muscles or weakness of the nerves, weak action of the heart or feebleness of the organs of digestion, weakness of the liver, kidneys and bowles or weakness and irregularities of the organs peculiarly feminine.

WHEREVER LOCATED WEAKNESS IS DUE TO POOR, WEAK BLOOD AND CAN BE OVERCOME BY THE USE OF DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

Because digestion is impaired or the heart action irregular you have no reason to suppose these organs are diseased in themselves. They merely lack the nerve force which is in reality the motive power of the body and its organs.

A Few weeks' treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will convince you of its exceptional blood-forming and nerve-invigorating power, and by noting your increase in weight while using it you can prove that new, firm flesh and tissue is being added to the body.

Paleness, weakness, cold hands and feet, sleeplessness, irritability and low vitality soon give way to health, strength and vigor when this great food cure is used.

MRS. ALEXANDER BUCHANAN, Island Brook, Compton, Co., Que., writes:—"My system was very much run down and I was troubled for a long time with weak stomach and dizziness. I could scarcely get about the house to attend to my work and felt very miserable most of the time. After having used a few boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food my condition is entirely changed and my system wonderfully built up. I can with all confidence recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to any person troubled with weak stomach or weakness of any kind."

If you would be well and live in the full enjoyment of health, restore your vitality by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, is on every box. 16

Head About to Burst From Severe Bilious Attack.

"I had a severe bilious attack and felt like my head was about to burst when I got hold of a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. I took a dose of them after supper and the next day felt like a new man and have been feeling happy ever since," says Mr. J. W. Smith of Juliff, Texas. For biliousness, stomach troubles and constipation these Tablets have no equal. Price 25 cents. For sale by all druggists.

A Reminder of the Baltimore Fire. City Surveyor Raleigh C. Thomas reported to the burned district commission of Baltimore recently that his men, who were doing some field work on Smith's wharf, uncovered a large portion of wheat that was still burning—exactly seven months after the fire. "The wheat was so hot," said Mr. Thomas, "that we could not handle it. We had to let it cool off before we could proceed with the work. The wheat was in solid chunks, but the grains were distinctly visible. It was one of the most remarkable things I ever saw."

Whole cloves will more effectually exterminate moths than camphor, tobacco or cedar shavings.

To keep cake moist wrap in grease proof paper and store in the bread pan. The moisture in the loaves will prevent the cake from drying.

In making curtains at home it is well to remember that only in the cheaper grades are the frills put on with a heading. In thin curtains of the best quality the frills are always inserted in the hem.

To clean a gas oven use strong hot soda and water and scouring soap and have every part thoroughly scrubbed down. There is sure to be an unpleasant odor when cooking is going on unless the oven is kept clean.

Ballroom Etiquette.

Do not excuse or forgive too readily an undue familiarity on the part of your partner. Remember he may be almost a stranger to you, and you may never meet again. If you are tired and prefer to miss a dance sit it out with your partner if he suggests it; you are bound to him for the time, says Woman's Life. Never make the gross mistake of sitting it out with another man. No matter how much you may prefer the society of one particular man, never let your manner show it, but be pleasant, affable and smiling to all alike. Above all, never descend into the commonplace vulgarity of flirting with another girl's lover, even if you are old acquaintances. Try to realize what your own feelings would be under similar circumstances.

Cracked Crockery.

To make cracked crockery last put two or three pieces of sugar into the cracked vessel with one-third of a tumblerful of water, then place it on a very brisk fire. Spread the sirup liquid over the cracks. The melted sugar will ooze through the cracks and soon grow hard, completely stopping the fissures. Vessels employed for cooking food can be mended in this manner. The burnt sugar does not give any unpleasant flavor.

WHAT SULPHER DOES

For the Human Body in Health and Disease.

The mention of sulphur will result to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and, mind you, this old-fashione remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any result.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide), and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate-coated pellets and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigour and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver, and excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur, were often worse than the disease and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins, while experimenting with sulphur remedies soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples, and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article and sold by druggists, and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and especially in all forms of skin disease as this remedy."

At any rate, people who are tired of pills and cathartics and so-called "blood pirifiers," will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers, a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

Theaters In Madrid.

The present governor of Madrid, Count de San Luis, has put his finger into a wasps' nest by trying to interfere with the night life of that city. His intention to compel the theaters to close their performances at 12:30 under severe penalties is regarded by the Spaniards as an infringement on personal liberty, although he has explained his object, which is to diminish the crime rampant on account of the late closing of places of amusement and restaurants. Some of the popular theaters at present do not end their performances before 2 o'clock.

PREMIER RETURNED

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Elected in Quebec East.

DR. FISET AN OFFICE-HOLDER

Opponent Is Therefore Disqualified—The Liberal Candidate in Berthier Also Elected Under the Same Sub-Section of the Statute—Independent Candidate in Russell Out—A Straight Fight.

Ottawa, Oct. 29.—(Globe Special.)—Sir Wilfrid Laurier is elected in Quebec East and J. E. Archambault, Liberal, in Berthier County. The two men nominated against them are Government office-holders.

The Conservative in Quebec East is Dr. Fiset, analyst in the Inland Revenue Department. He sent in his resignation a day or two ago, and was informed that it had to be sent to the Privy Council, and would be dealt with at the next meeting. In the meantime Dr. Fiset is an office-holder.

The Conservative candidate in Berthier is Telesphore Michaud, postmaster. He has not resigned.

Chapter II., section 9, subsection 1 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1886, reads as follows:

"No person accepting or holding any office, commission or employment, in the service of the Government of Canada at the nomination of the Crown or at the nomination of any of the officers of the Government of Canada, to which any salary, fee, wages, allowance, emolument or profit of any kind is attached, shall be eligible as a member of the House of Commons, or shall sit or vote therein."

In Russell, L. Shaver, the postmaster of South Indian, is the Independent nominee. His disqualification leaves a straight fight between Wilson (Liberal) and Askwith (Conservative).

MONTREAL'S OVATION.

Sir Wilfrid and Sir Richard Greeted By Thousands of Electors.

Montreal, Oct. 29.—Another triumph was added last night to the long list already scored by the Premier during the campaign. Windsor Hall was packed to overflowing, and the greeting that Sir Wilfrid Laurier received was at once warm and spontaneous. It was the first speech in English that the Premier had delivered to the citizens of Montreal since the date of the election was announced, and the result was a crush so intense that it was some time after the speaking began before those who could not get in became reconciled to their fate and let order be restored. Sir Wilfrid was accompanied by Sir Richard Cartwright, who delivered an address of much vigor. For the first time the Premier's voice showed signs of fatigue, but only at the outset, for after speaking for fifteen minutes the familiar ring returned and was maintained throughout for more than an hour. Mr. Edward Holton, ex-M.P. for Chateauguay, was chairman.

Alleged Firebugs Arrested.

Toronto, Oct. 28.—Charged with being the perpetrators of incendiary depredations which have for the past year terrorized the farmers of King township, Thomas Godson and Joseph Godson, father and son, Mrs. Hamilton Bateman, daughter of the elder Godson, and Hamilton Bateman, her husband, were arrested yesterday morning. The allegation is that they are responsible for six consecutive fires which since July 10th, 1903, have destroyed all the buildings and stacks on the farm of James Bell, east half of Lot 28, 10th concession, King, and which in December last were the cause of a fruitless investigation conducted by Government Detective Rogers and Mr. H. H. Dewart, then Crown Attorney of the County of York. They were brought here and lodged in jail. They will appear before the magistrate to-day.

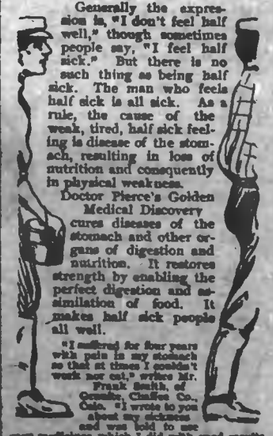
HALF SICK



Generally the expression is, "I don't feel half well," though sometimes people say, "I feel half sick." But there is no such thing as being half sick. The man who feels half sick is all sick. As a rule, the cause of the weak, tired, half sick feeling is disease of the stomach, resulting in loss of nutrition and consequently in physical weakness.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores strength by enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food. It makes half sick people all well.

"I suffered for four years with pain in my stomach so that at times I could n't work nor eat," writes Mr. Frank Smith, of Gormley, Claflen Co., Colo. "I wrote to you about my sickness and was told to use your medicines, which I did with good results. I only used four bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and must say that I am entirely cured and feel like a new man, and I can highly recommend your medicine to any sufferer."

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. It is strictly a temperance medicine.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach.

The "Common Sense Medical Adviser," one thousand and eight large pages, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE ETERNAL MASCULINE.

At seventeen we meet some girl
We worship fond and deep
And beg from her a tiny curl
We e'er and aye may keep.
"'Tis spun gold," we ardent swear,
"A mesh of filigree,"
And fondly kiss and hide it where
No prying eye may see.

At twenty-seven, less enthused
With auburn tinted curls,
We, finding it, grow much confused
To recollect which girl's
Fair head it lent a halo to—
May, Kate or Prue, the dears—
"Well, pshaw, the thing that's best to do
Is keep it ten more years!"

At thirty-seven, then, one day
While rummaging, we stare
In absent way at it and say:
"The devil! Whose red hair
Is this? It ne'er belonged to me!
The bricky stuff!" Ah, Fate!
We toss it forth and smile to see
It crinkle in the grate.

AN AID TO MOTHERS.

It doesn't help a sick baby to give it "soothing" drugs. On the contrary it lessens baby's chances of recovery. If your little ones show any sign of being unwell promptly give Baby's Own Tablets, and see how speedily they will be bright, cheerful, well and happy. This medicine is sold under a positive guarantee that it contains no poisonous soothing stuff or hurtful drug, and it cures all the little ills of babyhood and childhood. Mrs. W. H. Austin, Farmington, N. S., says: "Baby's Own Tablets are just what every mother needs when her little ones are cutting their teeth. When my little one cries I give him a Tablet and it helps him at once. Mothers who use the Tablets will have no trouble with their babies." Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or can be had by mail at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Yardstick.

The monument to the memory of King Henry I. of England ought to be a yardstick. His arm was just thirty-six inches long, and that is where the English and American yard got its standard of length.

The wooden harmonicon is one of the most ancient instruments. It is at present found in a very primitive form all over Africa and in many parts of Asia and Oceania.

Favorite Names In England.

An English paper took a ballot on the subject of favorite names for boys and girls and received 4,000 replies. A list of thirty-one boys and thirty-three girls' names was submitted, and the voting showed Harold and Dorothy to be the two most popular appellations.

Test of Coral.

Judges of coral say there is a "feel" to the genuine article that the imitation lacks. Real coral has a waxy feeling, while the imitation is as hard as marble to the touch.

Papuan Cannibals.

For some reason or other the Papuan cannibal prizes a Christian for a feast more than an ordinary pagan. In becoming a convert to the new faith, therefore, a native must have an unusually high degree of courage. He knows that as soon as he has been baptised he will be an especially tempting morsel, likely at any time to be butchered to make a holiday.

The Title Highness.

Highness is an old title that was first used by the later Roman emperors, then by bishops, then by the princes of Italy. Thence its use spread to Germany. It is now applied to princes who are vassals of an empire.

A TOPSY TURVY BILL.

It Would Be Destroyed if Treasury Officials Could Get It.

Albert Niggeman of St. Louis has a five dollar silver certificate in his possession that would be put out of circulation and destroyed if it fell into the hands of the treasury officials, yet it was issued by the government and is a perfectly genuine piece of currency in every respect. It is an extremely rare bill, one that would command a high price among collectors of curious coins and currency, but the cause of its rarity is the same as that which would cause the government to destroy it if it was ever turned in at a subtreasury. It is printed upside down on the reverse side.

The most extreme care is taken in the United States treasury to prevent any bills except those that are correct in every particular from being issued, care so extraordinary, surrounded with so many safeguards, which usually operate with almost mechanical precision, that it is little short of the phenomenal that a certificate with the engraving completely reversed on one side should ever have escaped the vigilant eyes in charge of these matters. Mistakes of this kind are not uncommon, but they are generally caught and the misprinted bills destroyed before they are put in circulation. No other mistake can be found in the certificate held by Mr. Niggeman except the reversal of its engraved back. It is of the series of 1899 and has therefore been in circulation probably five years, during which time the mistake that was made in printing it has doubtless never been observed.

Chief Clerk E. P. Johnson of the United States subtreasury states that this is the first five dollar bill he has ever heard of in circulation with the engraving on one side reserved. Several twenty dollar bills were issued a few years ago on which a mistake of this kind occurred, but this is the only definite information regarding such matters that he had. The mistakes of this kind that may be made do not affect the genuineness of the currency, though it is a rule of the government to destroy them if they ever reach the treasury. The value of a bill like this to a collector would, of course, depend upon his eagerness to possess it, but as it is the only one Mr. Johnson had ever learned was in circulation it might be considered very valuable as a curiosity. Secret Service Operative Murphy substantiated Mr. Johnson's statement regarding the rarity of the certificate and added that the only bills he knew of on which a similar mistake had been made in printing them were held without price by their owners. Mr. Niggeman has also withdrawn his five dollar certificate from circulation and will preserve it as a curiosity.

Seeking a Flat In Philadelphia.

A New York man whose business has recently called him to Philadelphia was yesterday securing a home for himself and family. "Philadelphia is called the 'City of Homes,'" he said, "and yet I can't get suited. My wife and I have always been accustomed to living in a flat. We don't want a house. We haven't the furniture to fit it up. Yes, you have a few flats in Philadelphia, but what are they like? They are such as we would pay about $25 a month for in New York, yet here in Philadelphia, where rents are supposed to be cheap, they ask from $50 to $75 for apartments that in New York wouldn't be tolerated even up in Harlem. The man who wants a housekeeping flat in Philadelphia at a reasonable rent is up against it. After a thorough investigation of the ground I am sure that there isn't any such thing in Philadelphia."

Russian Soldiers.

General Kuropatkin's complaint that his men are too old calls attention to the fact that the Russian system tends to place rather old men with the colors in wartime. The liability for service extends from the twenty-first to the forty-third year. The first four years are spent with the colors, and the conscript is then a reservist for fourteen years. It is quite likely, therefore, that Kuropatkin has received many reservists of about thirty-nine years of age. Japan's service age is from seventeen to forty.

"Little" Japan Not So Small.

Most of our maps of Asia are drawn to a small scale, and on such maps, remarks the World's Work, the Japanese archipelago fills little space. But she is larger than England and more populous. She has 6,000,000 more people than France. She sent six armies over sea within six months, every one of which was as big as either army that met at Waterloo. She has sent to Manchuria twice as many soldiers in six months as England sent to South Africa in two years.

COLLEGE BOYS TURN THE TABLES

Business College Won From Collegiate in a Close Game.

The Business College turned the tables on their old time opponents, the Collegiate Institute yesterday afternoon in a game of rugby at the Driving Park. A week ago the Collegiate were victorious by a score of 3-0, but they faced a strengthened team yesterday and were beaten by 1-0. The play was about as close as the score indicates, neither side having a very marked advantage and it was anybody's game until the final whistle blew. The winners got their points on two rouges, the results of long punts over the line.

The line-up was:—

College.		Collegiate.
Metheral	Back.	Laing
Carmichael	Halves.	Kennealy
O'Brien		Burritt
Thornton		Greer
Kennedy	Quarter.	Cahill
McIntyre	Snap.	Giroux
Downey	Wings.	McGill
Henderson		Sheffield
Armstrong		Sports
Stone		Main
Garvin		Hall
McIlmoyle		McKnight

Referee C. G. Graham; umpire, H. Walkey.

Greer and Hall exchanged places at half time.

The score at half time was 1-0.

DEBATING AND LITERARY SOCIETY ORGANIZED

In Connection With the Collegiate Institute—Bright Prospects.

On Thursday afternoon at the Collegiate Institute, a society known for the present as the "Upper and Middle School Debating Society" was organized. The following officers were elected:—

Hon. President—C. Fessenden.
Hon. Vice-Presidents—J. J. Jeffries and Miss Weir.
President—D. Davidson.
Vice-President—Miss L. Smithson.
Secretary—Miss A. Hyde.
Treasurer—Miss M. Burnett.
Reporter—Miss K. Martin.

The object of the society is to hold literary exercises and debates and encourage the pupils along this line of development. It is expected that meetings will be held every three weeks. It is the intention, if possible, to organize a Glee Club also.

The executive will meet next Monday to decide upon the time of the first meeting. Miss Weir was appointed critic, and Miss May Roberts and Mr. Frank Austin were appointed to assist the Executive in the preparation of the programme for the first meeting. There will be a debate at the first meeting, the topic to be decided upon by the executive.

There is no reason why this society should not enjoy a prosperous existence and prove a source of much pleasure and benefit to the members.

DELIGHTFUL "AT HOME" LAST EVENING.

Catholic Order of Foresters and Friends Spent a pleasant Time.

A most delightful "at home" was that held last evening under the auspices of the Catholic Order of Foresters, in their hall on Hunter street. The evening was spent in cards and dancing, and most heartily was the occasion enjoyed. About fifty couples were present and the sentiment of sociability manifested made every one appreciate the pleasure to the highest degree. Refreshments were served by the ladies during the evening, and the music was furnished by Miss Dorris. Everyone was agreed that the affair was from every standpoint, a most successful one.

Thousands who have used them will tell you so. Miss Lissie Watling, 177 King William street, Hamilton, Ont., says:

REGULATIONS TO SUIT THE HUNTERS

Extending the Season to November 19th.

The Ontario Game Commission had decided that owing to the fact that the Dominion elections will be held on the 3rd of November, and that a great many hunters have represented that unless the season is extended, they will be unable to exercise their franchise, an order-in-Council has been passed extending the hunting season north and west of French River, Lake Nipissing and the Mattawa River, to the 19th day of November.

A similar extension would be granted throughout the rest of Ontario if the statute so provided. While the statute cannot be changed, it has been decided that a few days grace be allowed, viz., to and including November 19th.

Successful Meeting of the Ladies' Literary Association of St. Peter's T. A. S.

The Ladies' Literary Association of St. Peter's T. A. S. entered on its fourth year's course of essay-reading last evening, and judging by the very large number present, there is an ever-increasing interest taken in the work of the association.

The essay of last night on "Marion Crawford" was prepared by Miss Marian Carveth in an excellent manner, and was read by her in an equally excellent style. Although the subject chosen was one which presented considerable difficulty, from the very fact of Crawford being a modern author, still the young lady displayed every evidence of deep thought and careful research in the handling of it. As Miss Carveth explained, her paper dwelt but little on the personal career of the author, as information in that line is not easily obtained. However, she dwelt considerably on his different works, particularly on his "Saracinesca Series," bringing out beautifully, his ability in descriptive works, his truth to nature, his elegance of language and picturesqueness of style, especially on his stories of scenes in Rome. Several of his works were briefly but ably outlined in the essay, the writer giving in her own language, her own appreciation of the works under consideration. The paper was thoroughly appreciated by the large audience present, and was, in every respect, deserving of the words of merit, bestowed upon it. It was also an excellent introduction to the reading of the works of "Crawford," for those who have not already done so.

During the evening, vocal solos were rendered by Miss Genevieve Dunn and Miss Veronica Devlin, both of which were heartily encored, the little ladies responding to their encores in a very graceful manner. An instrumental duet was ably played by the Misses Tangney.

An essay on "Byron" will be read by Miss K. McGrath on Friday, November 11.

A social evening for members will be held in the rooms on Wednesday evening, November 9. All those attending are requested to present membership tickets, and also to note that the social evenings open at eight o'clock, sharp. A meeting of the Ladies' Committee is called for next Friday evening, November 4, at eight o'clock, and it is urgently requested that complete returns, if possible, be made on that date.

INTERESTING EVENT IN LINDSAY

Rev. J. W. McMillan well Known Here Married to Miss Flavelle.

A wedding which will be of considerable interest to Peterborough society was that which took place in Lindsay on Thursday. The groom, Rev. J. W. McMillan, was well known in Peterborough. The Toronto News has the following account of the wedding:—

Rev. John Walter MacMillan, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Winnipeg, and Miss Amy Cooper Flavelle, second daughter of Mr. J. D. Flavelle, were married yesterday in the Cambridge Street Methodist Church, Lindsay. The Rev. G. W. Henderson performed the ceremony. Before the service a quartette, "The Voice that Breathed Over Eden," was sung by Mrs. E. T. Campbell, Mrs. Wm. Dundas, Mr. Wm. Rundle and Mr. C. B. Bishop. The bride wore an exquisite gown of white duchess satin, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Ethel Flavelle gowned in white silk crepe de chine, as maid of honour, and by her sister, Miss Edith Flavelle, and Miss Alice Dundas, of Toronto, as bridesmaids. The latter wore pale blue crepe de chine dresses, with court veils and carried pink roses. Mr. Kerr D. MacMillan, B.A., of Princeton University, acted as groomsman. The ushers were Dr. Allan McCullough and Mr. Louis Menypenny, of Toronto; Rev. Peter Sinclair, of Sarnia, and Mr. Aird Flavelle. After the ceremony a reception was held at the house of the bride's parents, Mrs. J. D. Flavelle wearing a soft grey voile dress. The bride's going-away gown was green broadcloth, with white and gold trimmings. Mr. and Mrs. MacMillan will live in Winnipeg.

NO DANCING IN Y. M. C. A. HALL

General Secretary Says That Hall was not Engaged for That Purpose.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

I note in your paper that a Mr. Davis, a dancing master, from Toronto, announces a meeting to be held in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Saturday evening, October 29th.

In justice to ourselves and the institution, we wish you to contradict this as no arrangement was made for the hall, nor is it available for such a purpose.

Yours respectfully,
GEO. H. WILLIAMSON,
Secretary.

MR. FITZGERALD ANSWERS "ONLOOKER"

Says His Report Will be Made to the Government.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—My attention has been called to an article which appears in last evening's edition of the Examiner, with the heading "Mr. Fitzgerald called upon" and signed "Onlooker."

Onlooker asks me to come out of my shell and enlighten him a little with regard to government surveys performed by me during the past season. Without in the slightest degree wishing to impugn the propriety of others in giving out such information and for the enlightenment of Onlooker, I beg to state that reports and returns of government surveys performed by me this summer will be sent in to the Crown Lands Department in the course of a few weeks, and any information Onlooker may require with regard to these surveys and the country surveyed will, I have no doubt, be cheerfully furnished to him on his application to the Crown Lands Department at the proper time.

Yours truly,
J. W. FITZGERALD,
Peterborough, October 29th, 1904.

ENGLAND WANTS LAURIER ELECTED

Cable From President of the World's Press Parliament

Sir Hugh Gilzean Reid Says the Vast Majority in the Old Country Desire a Decisive Government Victory.

The Globe has received the following cable message from London, England:—

The vast majority in the mother country, including the press, follow with the keenest fraternal interest the brilliant fight for a strong, free progressive Canada. Regardless of party, they ardently wish a decisive victory for the Premier and the Government whose constructive and far-sighted policy has enormously advanced the prosperity and solidified the relations of the Dominion, as is evidenced everywhere and was abundantly revealed during my recent visit. Maintained unbroken that policy will increasingly strengthen for mutual benefit, the commercial, fiscal and friendly bonds of Canada with the empire, and give her, as the Premier has declared, a place foremost amongst the great powers of the world. True citizens should rally to the standard of Laurier and liberty.

"Sir Hugh Gilzean Reid,
"President World's Press Parliament."

POPULAR YOUNG MAN'S REMOVAL

Mr. J. Laurence Promoted to Toronto Head Office.

Made Recipient of Cigarette Case by C. D. A.—Popular in Business and Social Circles.

Last week, Mr. J. Laurence, who for the last eighteen months, has been connected with the staff of the local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, received notice of his transfer and promotion to the head office, Toronto, and left this morning to enter upon his duties there.

While the change is a promotion to Mr. Laurence, and in that promotion Mr. Laurence's many friends here will rejoice, still there will be a sense of distinct loss felt by his departure. He is a young man who, during his residence here, has made himself very popular, both in social and business circles.

Perhaps in no society will he be more sorely missed than among the members of the Peterborough Golf Club, of which he was a prominent member, and last year he held the club championship. In musical circles, too, Mr. Laurence made himself very popular. He was a valued member of St. Paul's choir, and his voice as a vocalist were freely lent to every charitable object. He was a member of the C.D.A., and on Saturday night the members of that Society gathered in the Crown Hotel, to bid him good-bye. Among those present were Messrs. Jas. Hamilton, F. Bradburn, W. T. Hall, L. Hall, D. Davidson, E. S. Clarry, F. Smallpiece, E. R. Jarvis, H. Rush, Oscar Dumble, Milne Hamilton, and Dr. Amys. Mr. Jas. Hamilton, the president of the club, on behalf of the members, presented Mr. Laurence with a handsome cigarette case. Mr. Laurence in reply expressed his thanks, for the handsome and appreciated gift, and assured the members that he would always remember with pleasure his association with the members of the C.D.A.

WHAT PETERBOROUGH MANUFACTURERS SAY

Mr. Hall Should be Elected and Government Sustained.

Country Never so Prosperous—Interests of Peterborough Demand the Election of Government Supporters.

In order to find out the attitude of the leading manufacturers of Peterborough with reference to the present political campaign, and how they look upon the chances of Mr. Hall's election, the Examiner interviewed number of them to-day, and the result of these interviews is given below:—

LAURIER GOVERNMENT WILL BE SUSTAINED.

William Hamilton, President of William Hamilton Manufacturing Company: "What do you think of the political situation Mr. Hamilton?" "I think there is no doubt that the Laurier Administration will be sustained by a substantial majority in the next parliament and I think that any one, who is more interested in the Town, than he is in any political party will certainly favor voting for Mr. Hall and thereby helping to sustain the present Government."

"As a large manufacturer and as a large employer of skilled mechanics, you are naturally very much interested in the Tariff and any changes which may be made in it. What do you think of Mr. Hall's attitude toward the manufacturing interests?" "I think that he appreciates the tariff situation fully from all stand points whether it be that of manufacturer, employee or consumer on account of his being so largely interested in manufacturing companies. We want just such a man to represent this riding in the coming parliament. You will notice that Hon. Mr. Fielding in his last Budget Speech said: "All that I can say is that we do not claim for a moment that the tariff is perfect, but we do say that before we should enter upon a policy of numerous changes there should be a careful inquiry, and that inquiry we are prepared to make so that if there are inequalities or other defects in the tariff we shall be able to remedy them in due course."

"During the last eight years Mr. Kendry has had regard only for the woollen business. He seemed to forget that there were any other manufacturing interests affected by tariff changes. I feel perfectly satisfied that Mr. Hall will see that the claims of all the Peterborough Manufacturers are fairly presented to parliament."

MANUFACTURERS NEVER MORE PROSPEROUS.

Peter Hamilton, President of the Peter Hamilton Company was interviewed by a reporter of the Examiner,—

"I would like to get your views Mr. Hamilton on the eight years of Liberal administration from the manufacturers' standpoint," said the reporter. In reply Mr. Hamilton said,—

"I think that never before in the history of Canada has the manufacturing industries so increased nor has there ever been a time when manufacturers gave more constant and steady employment to their hands at fair wages. It certainly would be in the interests of Peterborough to have Mr. Hall elected as a supporter of the Liberal Government in the coming Parliament."

"From whatever standpoint you look at it the Town will make a big mistake if it does not elect Mr. Hall."

ANOTHER MANUFACTURER SPEAKS.

Mr. J. C. Shook, Manager of the Dickssn Company, on being interviewed by the Examiner said,—

"There does not seem to be any good reason why the Liberal Government should not be sustained and I believe it will be sustained by a good majority."

"This Town and County want more local improvements---the water in the Trent Canal system should be conserved in the interests of navigation, the manufacturing and the lumbering interests. A well regulated and uniform flow of water will tend to give constant and ready employment to the working men of Peterborough during all seasons of the year."

"The early completion of the Trent Canal will certainly lower freight rates to an extent which is little appreciated."

"By all odds Mr. Hall is best qualified to present our claims to the government and parliament and the interests of the riding will best be served by electing him as our representative."

LOCK COMPANY PROSPEROUS.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, President of the Peterborough Lock Company, was seen regarding the business of the Peterborough Lock Company, and in answer to questions Mr. Stratton said,—

"The business of the Peterborough Lock Company is perfectly satisfactory to the Company. During the past seven years under the Laurier administration, the output has been greater, and the sales consequently larger. We have employed a larger number of men, giving them steadier employment at higher wages, than the Company did in the seven previous years under the Conservative regime. We have been running full time during the past four years. The anti-dumping clause of Fielding Tariff will be of service to our Company in preventing Canada being made a slaughter market for staple lines of American goods. For this season of the year, during my connection with the Company, prospects have never been brighter, and trade for next season is looking well. With a proper appraisement of American goods, the tariff is satisfactory to us. What the manufacturer requires is a steady reliable tariff and he is then able to give steady reliable work to his employees."

THE FULL DINNER PAIL.

Keep both hands on the full dinner pail, may sound to some a senseless slogan, but it is full of significance to every class of the community. The full dinner pail is the symbol of our abounding prosperity, and the injunction to keep both hands upon it, is equivalent to a call to keep the prosperity we are, and have been, enjoying for the past eight years. This prosperity has been the accompaniment of the administration of the Liberal Government, and the way to retain our prosperity is to keep the Liberal Government in power.

To keep our prosperity, it is necessary to have from time to time the claims of the town, associated with our prosperity, placed before the Government, and kept before them, till they are met. We need to have the Trent Valley Canal completed, with all the advantages its completion will mean for the town. This will bring into being new industries, which will be established here by the existence of our cheap motive power, (which Mr. R. R. Hall has done so much to develop, by the establishing of a competing power company,) and also by the cheaper freight on raw material and finished products, which water transportation will bring.

The completed canal will also help existing industries, by cheapening freight on the price of raw materials. The manager of the Lakefield Cement Works says that railway carriage takes a quarter of the profits of the business. Canal carriage will make a world of difference, and greater profits will enable the works to run on full time, with resultant advantage to employees, as well as the community at large, the village where they are situated.

The completion of the canal will come all the sooner, if the town has a live representative, who will keep the Government up to the mark—as all governments need to be kept.

In these relations we shall be keeping our prosperity — keeping both hands on the full dinner pail—in another way, by voting for the Government which is pledged to build a new transcontinental railway, the Grand Trunk Pacific.

We cannot estimate the impetus to prosperity from the opening of a new market in the West, through the railway opening up access to homes for millions. This new market will create demands for the products of all our factories give our factories increased work and increased employment to labour. Even the work of building 3,500 miles of railway will necessarily bring a 100 million dollars of British money into the country to be spent in labour of men and horses. The demand for machinery will help swell the orders of such establishments as the William Hamilton, G. W. Green, the Electric Works, etc. The demand for shovels, picks and spades will put the new Shovel and Tool Works on their feet at once. There will be demands for food supplies, flour from our mills, etc., harness for horses, clothing for men and for scores of things which our merchants and manufacturers can supply.

The activity in manufacturing and commerce the large distribution of money in railway construction will, of itself, help to keep up our pace of prosperity, not to speak of the increased prosperity caused by the opening up of millions of acres of land to settlement and cultivation.

Dull times are coming in the United States—the highest protective tariff is not "adequate" to prevent it. Employees in the "States" are being discharged by the tens of thousands. We in Canada can escape this wave of hard times or make it break less disastrously.

The reason is simple. This agricultural lands over the border are all occupied and much of it exhausted by cropping, and tens of thousands of "Yankee" farmers—50,000 last year—are pouring into our Northwest.

In Canada we have hardly more than touched the infinite amplitude of our resources of forest, field and mine. Our prosperity and our trade will go on unchecked if we energetically enter upon the development of our natural resources and the most tremendous and far-reaching of the agencies of development is the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, whose line will open up wide areas of virgin territory in Northern Ontario and Quebec, and open up exhaustless mines of wealth in the new wheat fields of the North-west, whose occupation will open up and create new centres of population and new markets to the benefit of the trade and prosperity of every section and interest of the Dominion.

The Grand Trunk Pacific is a national necessity—it is a present necessity—and if the plan now before the people is set aside, the opening up and development of the districts mentioned will be delayed a quarter of a century. Let us keep moving. We must act now, must

Keep the prosperity we have and

Keep both hands on the full dinner pail.

PROSPERITY POINTERS.

The imports of hides and pelts go to show how a country's leather and kindred industries flourish. The figures of the last fourteen years are instructive. Note the increase in the two periods:

"Tory" regime.		Liberal regime.
1890...	...$1,712,012	1897	...$2,427,030
1896...	... 1,964,251	1903	... 5,962,744
Increase	$252,239	Increase	$3,435,714

The imports for 1896, the last year of Conservative rule, show an increase of only 14 per cent. upon the imports for 1890. The imports for 1903 show an increase of 198 per cent. upon those for 1896. The increases are the measure of the increased employment of Canadian labour in the industries into which these raw materials enter, beside the enormous increase in the supply from Canadian sources.

These are the evidences of national prosperity. Vote as you prosper.

IRON INDUSTRY NOT RUINED.

Gigantic Car Company Organized at Montreal.

Canada Car Company—Capital Three Millions—Formed to Build Coaches of Steel and Wood Freight Cars.

Montreal, Oct. 26th. — A substantial proof of the impetus that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway will give to industrial development in Canada, is furnished in the formation of the Canada Car Company, with a capital of $3,000,000. Mr. W. P. Coleman, President and General Manager of the Company, announced that an immense plant will be erected at once near Montreal, to be in operation early next summer. The plant will comprise the best features of the plant of the Pressed Steel Car Company. Being a combination arrangement, it will be capable of turning out wooden cars, steel cars, and composite wood and steel cars. It will have a capacity of twenty five wooden cars, fifteen steel cars and fifteen passenger coaches per day. Besides this the works will have a capacity for steel underframes for twenty-five cars a day and thirty or forty steel truck frames.

The building will cover 360,000 square feet. The big plant running to its full capacity will handle between 500 and 600 tons of material a day, will employ from 1500 to 2000 men, with a pay roll of from $75,000 to $125,000 a month. This will mean a turnover of $5,000,000 a year. Everything required will be made on the premises, except the raw material, lumber and steel.

Besides being able to supply the Canadian railway requirements the works will be in a position to command a large export trade, not only with the mother country but with the other colonies. The company is, with the exception of the men secured on account of their experience, an all-Canadian one. It is understood that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company have given assurances of large future contracts.

PETERBOROUGH MAN DIED IN IOWA

Late Mr. Hugh Bricket was Formerly a Resident of Otonabee.

The Star-Clipper, of Traer, Iowa, has a notice of the death of a former resident of Otonabee township, Mr. Hugh Bicket. The deceased came to Canada in the early forties, and settled on the east half of lot twenty-seven, concession two, of Otonabee, now owned by Mr. H. Moore. He was married to Janet, daughter of the late Wm. Fife, Sr., and sister of Hugh Fife, Indian River.

He removed to Iowa in 1867. The deceased was well known by many of the residents of this country, and was at one time a member of the Presbyterian church. The Star-Clipper says:—

Hugh Bicket passed Peacefully away last Friday. His very serious illness from a stroke of apoplexy suffered the Wednesday before was mentioned in our last issue. He survived but two days after the attack and the end came gently, without pain or distress. The good old man was ready to go. He had no regrets. He had lived a long and useful life. He had seen a large family of honourable children grow to maturity and well could he feel satisfied with his life work.

Father Bicket was one of the oldest men in the country—nearly ninety. He and his wife were the oldest couple in north Tama. He was born in Ayrshire, Scotland, in 1815, he was married to Miss Janet Fife, in Canada, who survives. In 1867 the family came to Tama county and for nearly forty years they have lived on the old homestead south of Traer. Thirteen children made up the family, nine of whom are yet living, all grown and married. They are: Frank, John and Henry, living on farms in south Perry; Thomas, of Glendale; Jessie Carlile, of Greene county, Iowa; Mary Dodd, of Des Moines; James, of Spokane, Wash.; Hugh, of Seattle, Wash.; Jean, wife of Wm. Dodd, Brainerd, Minn. Mr. and Mrs. West Dodd, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Carlile, Mrs. Wm. Dodd and son, Wallace, were all present at the funeral; also Chris Fife and George Godfrey, nephews, of Paulina, Iowa.

Deceased united with the church early in life and at the time of his death was a member at Tranquility, having been connected with that church since its organization more than thirty years ago. He was an honour to the church, as he was to the community. The quiet, moral, upright, and beautiful life lived by Father Bicket is a benediction and an inspiration to all who knew him.

The funeral was at the home Sunday afternoon, Rev. Currens conducting the service. An exceedingly large assemblage of old neighbors and friends gathered to pay tribute to the memory of the noble life. Burial was in Baker's Grove cemetery.

Mr. Morley spent a quiet Sunday with Dr. Smith. To-day will be his busy day with speeches and receiving degree of LL. D.

Newfoundland Elections.

St. John's, Ndd., Oct. 31.—The Legislative general election will be held to-day. The campaign closed last night. It is the prevailing impression that the Government will win, though by a smaller majority than four years ago. The struggle has been the fiercest in the political history of Newfoundland.

Town Wiped Out.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 31.—Corinth, Ky., a town of 350 inhabitants, was almost wiped out by fire Saturday night. Twenty-one buildings were destroyed, at a loss of $30,000, with insurance of $15,000.

KEEP A SHARP WATCH

Although Feverish Activity in Naval Preparation Abates.

RUSSIAN INQUIRY BEGINS

British Inquiry Will Open At Hull Forthwith—Admiral Sir Cyprian Bridge and Butler Aspinwall Appointed to Conduct the North Sea Inquiry At Hull—Still Watching the Russians.

London, Oct. 31.—The feverish activity in naval preparation, which characterized last week, has abated, but naval reports show that British war vessels are so disposed as to keep a sharp watch on all movements along the proposed route of the Russian Pacific squadron, including the Canary Islands, where the Russians have prepared elaborate arrangements for coaling from German steamers.

Admiral Rojestvensky's four battleships remain at Vigo, but, according to some reports, the firing in the North Sea was done by Admiral Volkersam's squadron, which is now at Tangier. The Russians' own enquiry into the Dogger Bank affair was opened at Vigo on Sunday; the British enquiry will open at Hull forthwith. The inquest will be resumed at Hull on Nov. 2. The Russian Embassy has canceled its instructions for a representative to attend the inquest, as it considers the case closed.

Premier Balfour returned to London rather unexpectedly by motor car last night from Canterbury.

Gerald Balfour, President of the Board of Trade, has appointed Admiral Sir Cyprian Bridge and Butler Aspinwall, barrister-at-law, who practices mainly in the Admiralty Court, to conduct the North Sea inquiry at Hull.

Watching the Russians.

Gibraltar, Oct. 31.—Four Russian torpedo boat destroyers passed through the straits, eastward bound, yesterday, shadowed by a British torpedo boat. The British Mediterranean squadron has been signalled 20 miles distant. The British mobilization manoeuvres at Gibraltar were brought to a close yesterday. This is regarded as indicating that no apprehension is entertained of further complications with Russia.

The North Sea Inquiry.

Vigo, Spain, Oct. 31.—The international investigation here of the North Sea incident has begun. The British cruiser Lancaster, which was here for some time, Saturday departed in the evening, after the commander had conferred with Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky on board the Russian flagship Kniaff Souvaroff, returned yesterday and there was another conference between the British and the Russian naval commanders on board the flagship of the latter.

Later in the day Admiral Rojestvensky went on board the Lancaster to return the visit of the British admiral.

Subsequently the Lancaster sailed for Villa Gracia, where it is supposed the British Channel fleet was assembled.

Rojestvensky Hasn't Resigned.

Enquiries here fail to obtain the slightest confirmation of the report published that Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky had requested Emperor Nicholas to relieve him of his command. The Russian Consul-General here said to the Associated Press that he was not aware that there was any question of replacing the admiral, and that he did not believe such a proposition had ever been raised.

The admiral was interviewed later in the day and said that he could say nothing at present about the North Sea enquiry at Vigo. The battleships and cruisers, he said, were now at Tangier, and the remainder of his fleet would stay at Vigo until further orders from St. Petersburg. In conclusion, the admiral reasserted the absolute truth of his version of the trawler incident.

To Remain At Vigo.

The Spanish Foreign Office has given out a statement to the effect that Russia has asked Spain's permission for the ships of Admiral Rojestvensky's squadron to remain in Vigo until the investigation of the North Sea affair shall have been concluded. Spain, according to the official statement, consulted the representatives of the several powers, who gave their approval. The authorization, however, applies only to Russian vessels now at Vigo.

The British yacht Ventura is in this port, and appears to be watching the movements of the Russian squadron.

The Russian admiral and subordinate officers of the Baltic squadron receive ovations whenever they come ashore.

There are five British warships off Vigo, evidently keeping an eye on the Russian vessels here.

Torpedo Boats Put to Sea.

Tangier, Oct. 31.—Five Russian torpedo boat destroyers have put to sea. The remainder of the fleet has been coaling and provisioning all day.

Details to Be Worked Out

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—The details of the convention for the constitution of the international commission to establish the facts in the North Sea incident are being worked out in London. The agreement between the two Governments, it is authoritatively stated here, goes no further than to have recourse to a commission under The Hague Convention to determine the facts, which, in the language of article 14, "leaves the conflicting powers entire freedom as to the effect to be given to the statement." The finding of the court, however, will constitute a binding moral obligation upon each power, which is expected to take the action called for without further representations from the other, but leaving the aggrieved Government free in case the action taken is not considered adequate to make such demands as it deems the occasion warrants. The commission is expected to be constituted promptly.

How It Happened.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—The Official Messenger yesterday publishes a telegram from Foreign Minister Lamsdorff to Count Benckendorff, the Russian Ambassador to Great Britain, and the Ambassador's reply thereto. The telegram of Count Lamsdorff is dated Tsarskoe Selo, Oct. 28, and is as follows:

"In a desire to bring everything that occurred in the North Sea into the clearest light possible, our monarch considers it beneficial to submit the affair to an international commission of enquiry, on the basis of The Hague Convention, for thorough investigation. Your Excellency is directed by Imperial command to propose this means of settlement of the question to the British Government."

To this Count Benckendorff replied on Oct. 29:

"I have communicated Your Excellency's telegram to Lord Lansdowne. The British Government accepts the proposal to submit the North Sea incident, in all its extent, to examination by an international commission, as provided for by The Hague Convention."

Fired At.

London, Oct. 31.—According to a Tangier despatch to The Times an American gentleman and two German sailors, while boating on the La Raiche River, were fired at. Their fate is unknown.

A despatch from Tangier to The Daily Telegraph reports that a German was killed at La Raiche.

THREE RIVERS, QUE

Accords Sir Wilfrid Laurier a Splendid Reception.

THE SKATING RINK FILLED

Five Thousand People Listen to the Premier—A Great Array of Carriages and Hundreds Who Marched in Procession—Premier Spoke With Vigor For 45 Minutes—Contrast of Administrations.

Three Rivers, Que., Oct. 31.—Three Rivers witnessed Saturday evening one of the greatest demonstrations seen here for years. Long before the evening express from Montreal was due large crowds gathered at the C. P.R. station, and at ten minutes before the arrival of the train the space in front and behind the station was filled with a mass of humanity. Sidewalks leading to the station were also filled with eager spectators. A magnificent carriage drawn by four horses stood in waiting, and around it the mass was very dense. When the train arrived and Canada's first citizen appeared shouts and hurrahs rent the air. The enthusiasm spread, and as the Premier, accompanied by Dr. Jacques Bureau, the popular local Liberal candidate, made his way through the crowd the sight of him was the occasion of renewed outbursts of spontaneous enthusiasm. He was met at the station by leading Liberals. Arriving at the carriage on the other side of the station, the hurrahs again went up. Then the procession started. First seven or eight mounted marshals led the way, then came the band with stirring music, then the Premier's carriage, followed by a great array of carriages carrying prominent citizens. Many hundreds marched along the streets. The procession went from the station along Bonaventura, Notre Dame, Platon and Fleuve streets to the Dufresne Hotel.

The Laurier meeting was held in the skating rink, the most spacious hall in the city. The doors were opened at 6.30, and even then hundreds entered. The galleries were reserved for ladies, of whom about five hundred were present. Lady Laurier and Madame Bureau occupied the place in the gallery immediately opposite the platform. Before 8 o'clock every part of the rink from which a speaker could be seen or heard was occupied, and from five to six thousand were packed in the body of the rink as close as they could stand.

The Premier, on being introduced, received a great ovation, which was again and again renewed before he could proceed. He was in good form and spoke with vigor for 45 minutes, notwithstanding that the hall was not warmed. He kept this vast audience in excellent spirits, and his periods were punctuated by great applause. He briefly reviewed the Conservative regime and set forth the golden prosperity of Canada under Liberal administration. He also gave an able defence of that administration, including the great Transcontinental Railway. The speakers were Mr. Bureau, Sir Wilfrid and ex-Judge Choquette. The Premier seemed to carry this vast audience with him. The great majority was certainly sympathetic. Sir Wilfrid denounced appeals to race and creed.

Mexico's Floating Gardens.

The floating gardens in the lakes near the City of Mexico were recently visited by an English naturalist, who reports them a paradise and accounts for their existence. Floating tangles of peat moss, rushes and grass are caught by stakes driven into the soft lake bottom, and upon this moss rich mud from the bottom is thrown. The surface is then transformed by cultivation into a floating garden.

DEATH OF MR. C. SHIELDS.

General Manager Lake Superior Corporation Ill Only One Day.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 29.—Cornelius Shields, general manager of the Lake Superior Corporation, died early yesterday morning at his home here. The cause of his demise is described by the attending physicians as oedema, or swelling of the lungs, caused by the accumulation of serous matter in the cellular tissue, accompanied by heart failure. The deceased had been ill only one day.

Mr. Shields leaves a widow, four sons and three daughters. Mrs. Shields and the two younger sons were alone at home. The body will likely be taken to Lacrosse, Wis., on Monday for burial beside the remains of his father.

Mr. Shields was 49 years of age and was born in Albany, N.Y. He began his career as water-boy with a railroad construction gang, then became a telegrapher and afterwards joined J. J. Hill's railroad enterprises, with which he was associated for several years. At a later date he managed the Virginia Coke and Coal Company for a couple of years and went from there to Sydney, C.B., to manage the plants of the Dominion Coal and Iron Company.

In April, 1903, he came to the Soo and faced the problem of re-organizing the Lake Superior Companies, which were then in financial difficulties. In this he was successful after several months labor and also succeeded in placing the plants here on a profitable working basis. In the hour of the realization of his hopes Mr. Shields has been taken away, and his death has cast great gloom over the town.

ON THE SAFETY OF OVER EATING

The Rule of Choosing the Lesser of Two Evils Applies to the Way You Eat.

"I want to know how a man is to know when he has had enough?

The Pilgrim Fathers, I believe, had a quaint saying to the effect that you should always rise from the table feeling as if you could eat some more.

But the question is, how much more?

Just when to stop?

That's the point.

The rule is wrong, because it's no rule at all.

It is inexact and unscientific.

It is lokely to lead to the dangerous habit of eating too little.

And eating too little—or digesting too little, which amounts to the same thing—is the cause of nine-tenths of the diseases from which humanity suffers to-day.

What is disease?

It is simply uneven balance between waste and repair.

Some organ lacks strength to carry on the special work for which it was created.

Where shall it find the strength it lacks?

In drugs?

Ten thousand times, NO!

Better die than become a hopeless drug fiend.

No; in food.

"But," you say, "I eat a plenty of good food every day!"

True, dear friend; but you don't digest it.

And food, undigested, is mere poison.

So, to make food do you good, you must take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The great thing about Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is, that their action does not depend upon stimulative druggery.

They cannot create a habit.

They contain no ingredients to "pick you up," "tone up your nervous system" or furnish whip energy, by calling out your vital reserve force.

They create new strength, force and energy out of your food.

If taken starving they will do you no good at all.

So, eat to live, and live to eat, with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The curse of our present civilization is exhaustion.

And exhaustion, whether of brain, nerves, physical strength, or vital force, is caused by starvation.

Of two evils, it is better to overeat—and prevent indigestion with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets—than to rise from the table, not having eaten enough to repair the exhaustion of your vital forces.

For exhaustion or starvation leads to the most varied forms of sickness or disease, brought on by inability of the weakened vitality to counteract the disease—poisons and microbes.

Whereas the well-fed and well-nourished person, without ever feeling the worse for it, can expose himself to dangers, the mere thought of which would drive the weak, starving dyspeptic into a panic fit.

Good food, well digested, is the great secret of a healthful existence here on earth.

So eat heartily, every day, of the best food you can get, and regulate the working of your digestive machinery with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

As a result you will be astonished to find, how much stronger and livelier you feel, how much more and better work you can do, how much more pleasure you can get out of life, and how your old enemy, that chronic trouble, which has fastened upon your weak spot, wherever it is, will up and away, and ever after leave you in peace, health and comfort.

There's more truth than poetry in all this.

Try it once.

To Impress Upon the Government The Immediate Necessity for The Canal Completion.

Rousing Rally at the Liberal Committee Rooms on Saturday Night---Great Enthusiasm Shown by the Large Number Present.

Stirring Addresses by Prominent Liberals Point to Splendid Victory for Mr. R. R. Hall on November 3rd.

Crowded as have been the Liberal committee rooms, on the occasion of former Saturday night rallies, the attendance of last Saturday night, when the last weekly rally of the campaign was held, surpassed them all, and not only was every available seat occupied, but the space behind the seats to the very doors, was crowded, and everyone remained to the close of the meeting.

The enthusiasm manifested by those present, was such as could leave no doubt in the minds of onlookers as to the way they expected the result of the election to go, and the confidence of the listeners was reflected in the speeches of those who addressed the meeting, for to a man they predicted with a confidence born of assurance that on November third, not only would Sir Wilfrid Laurier be returned by a handsome majority, but that for the first time in a number of years, West Peterborough would be counted among the seats which had elected a supporter of the Liberal Government.

All assertions to this effect made by the speakers, were greeted with rounds of applause, which showed that their words were but echoes of the thoughts of those who sat in the audience.

The meeting was by far the most successful of any similar meetings held during the campaign, and an inspiration was given by it which will have the effect of inducing the workers to redouble their efforts during the remaining days before the election to not only elect Mr. Hall, but to give him a majority, which will surprise even themselves.

SENATOR COX PRESENT.

Hon. Senator Cox was present at the meeting on Saturday night, and his address was eagerly listened to. The Senator was in splendid form, and spoke with an earnestness and vigour which carried conviction with it. After having listened to his address, there could be no doubt as to his position with reference to the Trent Valley Canal and the Grand Trunk Pacific, both of which subjects he went into fully, and fully vindicated himself of all the charges which had been made against him in connection with both of them.

He first dealt briefly with the statements made in the Review in a letter from Colonel Ward, in which charges utterly unfounded and untrue, were made against him in connection with the Nasaun dam, and he characterized the action of the Review and Colonel Ward in this matter as one likely to prejudice the public against the great project, for the insinuations that had been made against him had not the slightest foundation in fact, which statement he proved.

The other speakers at the meeting on Saturday night were; the candidate, who was given a rousing reception, Mayor Roger, Mr. T. M. Hunter, Mr. W. H. Meldrum and Mr. F. D. Kerr, the latter gentleman referring in scathing terms to what he termed the "sewer pipe politics" of the Review, in which respected citizens and gentlemen are being falsely maligned and abused.

There were seated on the platform the chairman, Mr. J. J. Hartley, Hon. Senator Cox, Mr. R. R. Hall, His Worship Mayor Roger, County Councillor T. M. Hunter, Mr. William Hamilton, Mr. A. McFarlane, Mr. G. W. Morrow, Mr. F. D. Kerr and Mr. W. H. Meldrum.

CHAIRMAN IS DELIGHTED.

Mr. Hartley, the chairman of the town committee, in opening the meeting, said the crowds at the meetings were growing as Mr. Hall's popularity was growing, and as the time goes on his election becomes more certain. The unfounded personal charges which the opposition had been making had failed, and the Liberal candidate was now riding on the top of the wave which would sweep him into victory.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway was very important, but it was not as important to the town of Peterborough as the completion of the Trent Valley Canal, (hear, hear) and who, he asked, was the better man to send to Ottawa to advocate and press for its completion, Mr. Hall or Mr. Kendry? (A voice—Mr. R. R. Hall.) Peterborough's interests demand its completion, and he had heard even Conservatives in Peterborough admit that Mr. Hall would be better able to represent Peterborough's interests in the Trent Valley Canal than Mr. Kendry.

He was full of confidence that on November 3rd, the people of West Peterborough would show that it was Mr. Hall whom they wanted, and this riding would once again be represented by a supporter of the Government, and be in line for the many public works which a supporter of the Government will be able to procure for the riding. (Cheers.)

A FARMER'S OPINION.

Mr. T. M. Hunter, county councillor, was the next speaker, and although his address was brief, he said a lot of good things in the short space of time in which he occupied the floor. He expressed his pleasure at being present, and was glad to see the confidence depicted on the faces of those in the audience.

The campaign was a short one, but during the few short weeks good work had been done, and he believed that the people of Peterborough were of the opinion as he was, that it would not be a good thing to trade Sir Wilfrid Laurier for Mr. Borden, as a Premier of Canada. Eight years ago the "best of traitors" had ruined the Conservative party, and it was then that Mr. Borden entered upon his Parliamentary career. He was too inexperienced to fill the office of Premier of a country like Canada, and Mr. Hunter said that he was only in his baby clothes compared with Sir Wilfrid Laurier in statesmanship. It would be in his opinion, a great calamity to Canada if Mr. Borden should be given the reins of power, (a voice, "there's no danger, he won't") because he would simply be a tool in the hands of men like Mr. Osler and others.

HON. SENATOR COX

Who Spoke Favouring Mr. Hall's Election and Trent Valley Canal Completion

Mr. Hunter compared very effectively the condition of the farmers eight years ago and their condition to-day. Eight years ago, he said, they were hard up, and prices were low, with little or no market for their products, but to-day all this was changed. There is a splendid market and prices are such as enable the producers to make a good living.

He promised that on November third the farmers would do their duty, and he hoped that the town's people would do their's, and vote intelligently, and for the benefit of themselves as well as the country at large.

Mr. W. H. Meldrum was the next speaker, and his address was one which carried conviction because he spoke of matters which concern the material welfare of every man. Mr. Meldrum said that he too, was pleased to be present and to see such a large audience. It augurs well for Mr. Hall that such a large number will turn out on a Saturday night to a political meeting. We all know, said Mr. Meldrum, the great prosperity which is prevalent throughout Canada and particularly in Peterborough to-day, as compared with that of eight years ago, and it is now for everyone to stand shoulder to shoulder to help to keep the town in the path of prosperity in which it has been for the last eight years.

The speaker then enumerated some of the industrial establishments in Peterborough which are behind Mr. Hall in this campaign, and among them were:

WM. HAMILTON MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

PETER HAMILTON COMPANY, LIMITED.

PETERBOROUGH LOCK MANUFACTURING COMPANY LIMITED.

COLONIAL WEAVING COMPANY, LIMITED.

COLONIAL INK COMPANY, LIMITED.

AMERICAN CEREAL COMPANY.

THE CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY, of which Hon. Senator Cox is a director.

OTONABEE POWER COMPANY.

There was one industry, however, Mr. Meldrum humourously remarked, that was not behind the Liberal candidate in this election, and that was the great Fort Steele Company. The promoters of this company were the same combination that are to-day conducting Mr. Kendry's campaign.

IMPORTANCE OF THE TRENT CANAL.

There was nothing, said Mr. Meldrum that would contribute so much to the building up of the town as the completion of the Trent Valley Canal, and West Peterborough, and the town of Peterborough in particular, should send someone to Ottawa who would be in a position to successfully agitate for its early completion. The speaker referred to the great advantage which the canal would give Peterborough as an industrial centre, and enumerated the ways in which, at the present time, without the canal the manufacturers of the town were handicapped in the matter of freight rates which handicap would be removed were the canal a reality.

Mr. Meldrum referred briefly to the Grand Trunk Pacific railway agreement, and said that it would not cost the people directly one cent of money. The only direct taxes we were called upon to pay, were the municipal taxes, and the small amount of money required by the Government to secure the new transcontinental railway could be taken out of the surplus of one year as the Premier had said, and the people would not feel it at all.

PETERBOROUGH'S INTERESTS.

Getting back to local conditions Mr. Meldrum said that the people of Peterborough should look after Peterborough's interests first of all, and he believed that if this were done Mr. Hall would be elected as the member to represent West Peterborough. Mr. Kendry had in his public capacity as a member of Parliament, tried to benefit himself personally at the expense of the people of the town. When the Otonabee Power Company were trying to get the dam on the Otonabee River to supply the town with cheap light and power, Mr. Kendry opposed the granting of that lease, and sought to maintain the monopoly of the water power. Fortunately he had not been successful and to-day the workingmen of Peterborough were getting light at one dollar per lamp per year, whereas before they had to pay three dollars. (Cheers.)

Mr. Kendry had been sent to Ottawa by the people to attend to the people's business but on the contrary he had used his position there to seek to advance his own business, and the affairs of the riding had to go begging. Mr. Meldrum said that he was a shareholder in the Auburn Woollen Mills and his opinion was that if Mr. Kendry would stay at home and attend to his business he would not have so much fault to find with the tariff.

He urged all present to work for the election of Mr. Hall, the representative of the "Good times Government," and he believed that he would be elected by a majority of four or five hundred.

CONSERVATIVES DO NOT WANT MR. KENDRY.

His Worship Mayor Roger, was the next speaker, and gave a short but effective address. He said that there were in this contest three outstanding features, which should, if they were considered, settle the question as to which candidate should be elected.

In the first place there was the abounding prosperity of Canada, which no one can deny, and which few wish to try. This prosperity, singularly enough, had commenced shortly after the Liberal Government had been placed in power in 1896, and had continued until the present time. The country was prosperous to-day as it has never been before, and he thought that while everything was going well, it was a good thing to let well enough alone.

The second feature was that Mr. Kendry had during eight years represented this riding at Ottawa, and as a representative he had been a complete failure. The Conservative party to a man in West Peterborough, know that it is not in the interests of Peterborough to send Mr. Kendry to Ottawa again, and a resume of the facts will prove this. At the time of the Conservative nomination Mr. Kendry said that his business would not permit him again to act as the representative of West Peterborough, as he would not be able to give the time to his Parliamentary duties that they demanded. When he declined to accept the nomination, and when afterwards Mr. Waddell refused it, the party here were quite willing to allow the riding to be represented by a Liberal member, and it was only after the visit of the leaders to Toronto, when the leader of the party had been seen, and he had urged them, in the interests of the party in the country, to place a candidate in the field, that they had so decided, but he believed that while they had felt in duty bound to their party to nominate a candidate, they were not anxious to elect him, and were of the opinion that the riding would be better represented by Mr. Hall.

WE MUST HAVE THE CANAL.

The third feature, said the Mayor, was the great importance to Peterborough, of the Trent Valley Canal. It is unquestionably in the interests of Peterborough to send a Liberal to Ottawa for this one thing alone. The great importance of this canal to this town cannot be over-estimated, and he was certain that the immediate result would be the enlargement of present industries, and the establishment of new ones.

He had heard Mr. Stuart of the American Cereal Company, say, that if he could be certain that the canal would be completed within a reasonable time, he would erect such mills as would enable the farmers of Peterborough County to secure six cents a bushel more for their wheat than the usual market price now. The completion of the canal, in the Mayor's opinion, would be the turning point in Peterborough's history. He was satisfied that the electors would send a supporter of the Liberal Government to Ottawa on November 3rd.

HON. SENATOR COX.

Senator Cox received a great ovation when he arose to speak, and it was some minutes before he could proceed. When the cheering had subsided the Senator expressed his thanks for, and his appreciation of, the reception his old townsmen had given him. Continuing in a reminiscent strain, he said that he could see some faces in the audiences which he had remembered since he came to this town in the early days of his life to make his way in the world, and although since that time he had removed from Peterborough, and was seldom here, he still remembered his friends of the early days, and was glad to see their faces once again.

This contest upon which we are engaged is a very important one; it is not so much whether Mr. Hall shall be the representative or Mr. Kendry, but is the larger one, that of the returning to power of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Liberal Government, or the turning out of the Liberal Government, and electing Mr Borden. He believed that there was no question as to the return of the Liberal Government, and he further said that he spoke advisedly when he said that he believed that Mr. Hall would be elected by a good majority, and that he would make a first class representative, and further, that at the end of four or five years the people will be glad to send him back for another term.

The all-important question of who is to govern Canada during the next five years is now engaging the attention of the people of this country from the Atlantic to the Pacific. There is no need of quoting figures to prove the great prosperity of Canada in 1904. Every man who wants work knows how easy it is to get it; every man who wants to engage men knows how hard it is to get them. Everyone who has a house to sell or to rent, knows how easy it is to find a purchaser or a tenant; and everyone who wants to buy or rent knows how hard it is to get a house. There was prosperity, such as there never was before, but there is a great danger that if there is a change made in the Government there will come with that change, and as a result, a change in the fortunes of the people of the country.

Among all the important and beneficial measures which the Liberal Government has enacted during the last eight years, the continuance of work on the Trent Valley Canal on a larger and more extensive scale than ever before, the deepening of the St. Lawrence and the Grand Trunk Pacific agreement have been the most important.

CANAL MUST BE COMPLETED.

Continuing, the Senator referred to the Trent Valley Canal, and said that he had always done all he could to secure an early completion of that waterway, and when he had been negotiating with Mr. Stuart for the establishment in Peterborough of the American Cereal Company he had assured that gentleman that the canal would be speedily completed. It had not been completed at as early a date as he then expected, but he was still of the strong opinion that it would only be a matter of a short time before the canal would be connecting Georgian Bay with Lake Ontario. The American Cereal Company would not have located here had the promoters not believed that the canal would soon be finished, and he knew from discussions which had taken place at meetings of the Board of Directors of the Company that a flour mill of a daily capacity of 4,000 barrels would be established here if the directors knew for a certainty that the Canal would be open to carry the wheat in and the flour out.

CONSERVATIVES PREJUDICE THE CANAL.

The Senator then made a reference to a personal matter, after asking the indulgence of the audience for mentioning it, and made a full explanation of the sale of the Nasaun Dam property by the Canadian Bank of Commerce to the Government and the Canadian General Electric Company. He reviewed the facts contained in his open letter in reply to that of Col. Ward, and showed conclusively that the sale was a proper one, and that the property had not been sold for more than it was worth. The Conservatives by their persistent misrepresentation of facts prejudice the public against this great enterprise, and do decided injury to Canada.

He would be glad of the assistance and co-operation of Mr. Hall at Ottawa in pressing for the completion of the Canal, which would mean so much for Peterborough.

SENATOR COX AND THE G. T. P.

The Senator's words on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, with which he is connected were listened to with great interest, because it was felt that a speaker who knew exactly what he was talking about on this question was before them.

He said that he believed the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway was THE MOST IMPORTANT ENTERPRISE EVER PROPOSED IN ANY COUNTRY BY ANY GOVERNMENT. Imagine, said he, the development of Canada which this road will make possible. He had been in Fort Sampson a few weeks ago, and he had thought while there of the great impetus that would be given to Canada's trade to have a second transcontinental railway stretching across the country hundreds of miles to the north of the present line. This country is rich in natural resources, and with a new railway line these resources will be developed.

This plan is one worthy of the great mind of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. It has been said that the scheme was one engineered by himself and Mr. Hays, and the great Grand Trunk Pacific was called the Cox-Hayes Company the only wished that he had the ability to conceive such a scheme. His connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific was the same as his connection with any of the other companies with which he was connected as a director.

NOT ONE DISHONEST DOLLAR.

He did not expect, nor would he accept one dishonest dollar from the Grand Trunk Pacific or from any other source. (Cheers.)

The statements made by the Conservatives as to the cost of the road to the country, and that made and repeated by Mr. Borden, that the country was paying nine-tenths of the cost of the road is not correct, and Mr. Borden's attention has been called to the untruth of his statements but he still persists in making them.

The outside cost to the country for securing this great railway will be $14,000,000, and compared with the bargain the Conservatives made with the C.P.R., the great advantage to the country is seen. The Government gave to the C.P.R. $25,000,000 in cash and 25,000,000 acres of land besides giving them outright a line of railway of 600 miles already built. And yet, he thought that in view of the great advantage conferred on the country by the C.P.R. the bargain was a good one. Instead of the Government being blamed for making such a contract with the Grand Trunk Pacific they should be returned with a larger majority than ever.

He wished to reiterate his statement that he had no interest in the G.T.P. except as a shareholder, and while he expected to make some money out of the building of the road, his money would be made not by getting something for nothing, but by the great development of the country which will follow the building of the road and the increased banking business, the increased life and fire insurance business and the increase in business generally.

A POPULATION OF 25,000,000.

Senator Cox believed that in the very near future Canada instead of having a population of 6,000,000 she would have one of 25,000,000. When the G. T. P. was first suggested by the Government, the Conservatives said that there was no need of another railway across the continent, and that the time was not ripe for such a proposal, but they do not say that any more. "I believe," said the Senator, "that inside of five years, cars will be running across the continent on the Grand Trunk Pacific to Port Sampson, or such terminus as the company may decide upon, and that steamers will also be running from the western terminus to the countries of the Orient, and from the eastern terminus to the countries of Europe."

There is no watered stock in the new railway, and no deal, or steal, or corrupt practices, and he said he would stake his reputation on the truth of this statement.

He closed by asking the electors to give a good majority for Mr. Hall on November 3rd, amid the hearty cheers of the audience.

"SEWER PIPE POLITICS."

The next speaker was Mr. F. D. Kerr, and although he spoke but briefly, his address was right to the point and he was warmly received. Mr. Kerr had just returned from a trip through the southern part of the province, and brought back the report that in West Northumberland Mr. McColl would again be elected; in East Northumberland, Mr. Cochrane, the Conservative candidate, would be snowed under; in Durham he was assured that Mr. Aylesworth was going to sweep the riding; and in Victoria it was said that Col. Sam Hughes' days were numbered. With all these Liberal members, and Mr. Hall in West Peterborough, and Mr. Finlay in the east, they would go to the Government with a solid front and demand the completion of the Trent Valley Canal, which, with the influence and assistance of Senator Cox would be assured.

Mr. Hall referred to the style of campaign which the Review newspaper was conducting. No decent man in Peterborough could view with anything but contempt the "sewer pipe politics" of the Review. He believed that the people of West Peterborough would resent this kind of thing and would manifest that resentment on November 3rd. Mr. Hall has been a resident of Peterborough for sixteen years, and in his public and private life he would compare very favourably with Mr. Kendry. We have to vote, said Mr. Kerr, according to our principles, and if the Conservatives wish to preach purity they must first practice it. With a leader like Sir Wilfrid Laurier and a candidate like Mr. Hall, the riding should go Liberal by a good majority.

A POPULAR CANDIDATE.

Mr. Hall was the last speaker, and as he rose to speak he was given a magnificent reception. First of all he thanked the committees which had done such noble work during his absence from town during the last week. He felt that victory was assured, in spite of the mean and foundationless personal charges which had been made against him, particularly in the northern part of the riding, which he had just visited.

He had said on a former occasion that he was going to get a majority in Harvey, Galway and Cavendish, but since that time he had been out through those townships, and the majority he had figured on was going to be largely increased. The Toronto News, which is considered to be friendly to the Conservative party, and is owned by a Conservative, in its forecast of the elections gives the Liberals a good majority in the country, and says the Liberal candidate in West Peterborough will be elected by between one and two hundred majority.

DESPICABLE PERSONAL CHARGES

Despite the fact that the Conservatives had from their platforms, when he was not present to defend himself, made personal charges against him, which were not only un-

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB'S MEETING

Election of Officers at Annual Meeting.

Mr. J. H. Burnham is President—Presidents Report Presented.

The annual meeting of the Fortnightly Club was held on Saturday afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. parlors. There was a fairly large turnout of members and the election of officers resulted as follows:—

President—J. H. Burnham.
Vice-President—K. Hardly-Wilmot.
Secretary-Treasurer—Mrs. E. F. McWilliams.
Committee—Mesdames, Boucher, Hardly-Wilmot; Dr. McNulty, D. Hughes-Charles, Rev. J. C. Davidson, Sheriff Hall.

The retiring president, Rev. J. C. Davidson, read his annual report,

To the Members of the Fortnightly Club,

Ladies and Gentlemen,—On behalf of the Executive of the Club, I beg to report that the past season's work, owing to the extreme severity of the weather during the winter and owing also to the fact that several lectures on literary subjects were arranged by other organizations in town. The Fortnightly Club met only on the following occasions:—

(1) In November, when a lecture was delivered on the beginnings of Astronomy, by Prof. Burke.

(2) In December, Dr. Rigby's racy lecture on Cleveland.

(3) In February when a very large audience assembled to hear a deeply interesting lecture on Radium, by Prof. McLennan.

The Executive Committee also called together once, but as none of the members were present, no other meeting was called.

The Secretary, Mr. J. L. Garvin, has left town, and reports a small balance due to the Y.M.C.A. for use of the hall. All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. C. DAVIDSON,
President.

Messrs. Burnham and Hardly-Wilmot were appointed a programme committee for the year.

The treasurer's report was read, showing a deficiency of $2.35. This however, would have been more than made up had all the members paid their fees.

After discussing what lectures would be advisable to secure for this coming season, the meeting adjourned.

STOVE TALK NO. 6.

Why the "Happy Thought" Burns Less Coal Than any Other Range.

1. The fire pot in the "Happy Thought" is entirely different to any other range. It is deeper and narrower, and twenty years of use has proved that this feature alone will save many tons of coal.

2. The Duplex Grates, from the original patterns of the inventor, distributes the draft equally over the entire grate surface. No dead corners.

3. The peculiar fine construction is the result of fifty years of careful study, and that the proportions are absolutely correct is proved by the fact that the Happy Thought bakes with a smaller fire than is possible with any other range.

DISASTROUS FIRE DESTROYS MILL

Mann's Planing Mill a Total Wreck as Result of Fire at Noon To-day.

Heroic Efforts of Firemen Save Adjoining Buildings from Destruction.

Loss of About $6,000 will be About Covered by Insurance --Fire Started in Motor Room.

One of the most disastrous fires that has visited Peterborough in years, was that which practically destroyed Mann's planing mill on Dublin street at noon to-day. The fire made a clean sweep of the mill, and practically nothing was saved of the contents of the building.

The origin of the fire, which started about 12.40 o'clock, is not definitely known, but it is supposed to have been caused by the motor. Most of the mill hands were at dinner, but a few of them who were on the upper story of the building, heard a loud report below. They rushed downstairs, and found the motor room, which is at the west end of the building, in flames. The alarm was at once sounded, but the flames spread with lightning rapidity. The floor was covered with shavings and small pieces of wood, which were soon a mass of flames. The fire spread from department to department, in each of which was material of a very inflammable nature.

By the time the firemen had arrived, the flames had spread to the upper story, and the flames and a cloud of dense smoke were belching from the windows and through the open doors. The whole building was in flame, and it was apparent that it was doomed.

The fire brigade was quickly on the scene, and soon had three streams of water playing on the building, one at the front, another at the rear, and a third at the side. But the fire had secured a firm hold, and would break out time after time, in places where it appeared to have been extinguished.

At the rear of the building, the firemen had a hard fight to keep the fire from spreading to the box factory at the rear of the mill. A quantity of slabs were also stored at the rear of the mill, but by good work on behalf of the brigade these were kept free from the fire, and this prevented it spreading to the drying room, which separates the mill from the box factory. A fourth stream of water was put on about 1.15 o'clock and after another half hour's hard fight, the fire was under control.

The brigade had a hot battle with the flames and smoke and are deserving of credit for their splendid work. The fire was kept confined to the one building, though at times it looked as though the adjoining houses would suffer.

Mr. Ernest Mann, who owns the mill will suffer a serious loss as a result of the fire. He bought the mill last December and valued it with its contents at $10,000. Early in the spring he built an addition at the rear, a box factory where cheese boxes were manufactured. This part was not damaged. The insurance on the building and machinery was $4,000 and on the contents $500. On the box factory there was an insurance of $1,500. There was a considerable quantity of finished material in the mill, all of which was destroyed.

There were about 20 hands employed at the mill at the time of the fire and the business was being conducted most successfully. The mill had been very busy and it was found difficult to fill all orders.

Mr. Mann, when seen to-day said that he intended to make repairs at once and start business again as soon as possible.

The loss will be practically covered by insurance, which was in the Royal and Guardian Companies, both English companies.

The planing mill has been in operation for over 30 years in Peterborough, having changed hands several times. It was first owned by J. D. Beptie, who sold out to the Donnell estate, from which Mr. Mann bought it last year.

Mr. Mann had recently made extensive repairs and improvements about the mill to the extent of about $1,000. Considerable new machinery including an electric motor was installed.

The building was about 50 feet in length by 40 in width and was a two-story structure. The exterior was of brick with metallic roof. The exterior was not injured to any great extent but the interior was a total wreck.

THE FIFTH WARD AND THE CANAL.

No section of the town of Peterborough will gain as much from the completion of the Trent Valley Canal as the Fifth Ward. While the whole town will be a big gainer, this ward stands to reap the most direct and solid advantages. It has the outlet into Little Lake, and the principal wharves and warehouses, which the canal will bring, will be located in that ward. The value of vacant lands, suitable for factory sites, will be increased, and in this regard the value of the whole property of the village will be increased.

It is, therefore, in the interest of every property owner, of every business man, of every mechanic and working man, that not only should the Laurier Government be returned to power, but that Peterborough should be represented by a supporter of the Government in the person of Mr. R. R. Hall.

The personality of Messrs. Hall and Kendry do not enter into this contest, only to the extent that one is a supporter of the Government, which will surely be returned to power, and under whose administration the town and county has prospered, and that the other is a supporter of a government policy which failed to make the country prosperous.

In casting their votes the electors are not in reality voting for Mr. Hall or for Mr. Kendry — they are voting for the leaders and party and policy, of their two respective representatives.

Mr. Hall has shown in his four months of candidature, his fitness as a representative, and has accomplished more in that short time, ten times over, than Mr. Kendry has done in his eight years of nominal representation.

The elector who desires the benefit of the town, should cast aside personal considerations, and vote for the solid advantage of himself, his business, and property interests, and the general interests of the town and county.

Mr. Kendry has shown that he is "no good" as a representative — he has chiefly used his position in Parliament to advance his personal interests.

ANOTHER LIE---SPIKED.

Another lie "nailed" is the usual way, but as this is a railway lie, "spiked" is the proper word.

Conservative papers, speakers and managers finding that they could not condemn the G.T.P. on its merits have not hesitated to misrepresent and distort it so to indulge in straight lying.

An example of picturesque lying are the G.T.P.R. cow placards that lie on the bill boards.

These placard pictures lie; because the Grand Trunk Pacific does not run to Portland (a United States port) and therefore Uncle Sam cannot milk the G.T.P.R. cow.

The Government took especial pains that this should not happen. The Grand Trunk Railway came to the Government and wanted aid to extend its line from North Bay to the Pacific and the old company wanted aid by way of cash bonus and land grant to the value of about sixty million dollars.

The Government at once said, "No; this Government has abolished the practice of subsiding railways by money, or land grants, and in another way your proposition does not suit our policy."

"Your existing Grand Trunk System has its seaboard out-let in a foreign country. We want a railway that will run every inch on Canadian soil; that will begin and end at Canadian ports and bring the products of the West to Canadian ports, over a Canadian railway."

"To insure this the Government will build a line from Monoton, on tide water, to Winnipeg, and lease it to you at 3 per cent. on the total cost including betterments, after completion, and interest during construction, and the Government will aid you in building the Western section by guaranteeing three-quarters of the interest on the cost of your section of the road and it will cost the country about 41-2 millions to do this."

This was done; a company was formed—The Grand Trunk Pacific. This company will build the western section and own it. The Government will build the eastern section and own it. The Grand Trunk Company is bound to lease this section from the Government and operate it as a part of their western line and is bound to pay a rental of three per cent. on the cost of the line. That will permit the Government to pay the interest on the cost of the section it builds, and the only cost to the country will be the payments by the Government of the interest on the cost of the road for the first seven years of the fifty-year lease. This will take about ten million dollars so that this added to the cost of guaranteeing the bonds for the western section — making about 14 millions in all—is all the railway will cost the country. True the road will cost about 100 millions of good British money spent in Canada, but as the Company will have to pay the great bulk of the interest on the cost of its section and as the three per cent. rental will pay the cost of the Government section, the total cost to the country will be about the fourteen millions mentioned above, nearly two million dollars less than the surplus revenue this year.

The traffic over the road will not go to Portland, U. S. The railway company is bound to send every pound originating in the West over the Grand Trunk Pacific, to a Canadian port, that is, unless a shipper specifically states that he wants his goods to go another way.

And it is, besides, in the interests of the Grand Trunk Pacific to send all its freight over the All-Canadian line, because it has to pay three per cent. interest upon the cost of the line it leases, and that will mean giving the line all the freight that offers, or that it can carry.

The Government not only has power to compel the G.T.P. to send its freight to Canadian ports, but has complete control of the freight rates, and every railway in Canada has running rights over the Grand Trunk Pacific.

So that the Conservative cow argument is merely a pictured lie, and a bill-board bluff — a boomerang — a kicking cow.

Accident Which Befel Delivery Rig of Mr. W. C. Forman.

An accident, which might have proved serious, if not fatal, was that which occurred on Saturday evening at the C.P.R. crossing on Aylmer street. Mr. W. C. Forman's delivery man was driving down Aylmer street delivering goods, and when crossing the track the rig was struck by a train, which the driver did not notice until it was too late to avert an accident. The engine struck the horse and carried it with the waggon some distance. The waggon was badly smashed, but the horse, while it was injured, and is under the care of a veterinary surgeon, will recover.

The driver, fortunately, escaped without injury, but the goods in the waggon were scattered and destroyed.

PROGRESS OF SIEGE

Advances at Port Arthur Satisfactory to the Japanese.

THIRD ASSAULT ON FORTRESS

Japanese Shells Fire Only Smokeless Powder Magazine in Port Arthur—Portions of Town Caught Fire, and the Conflagration Continued the Whole Day—Japs Capture Important Russian Trenches.

Che Foo, Oct. 31.—The third general attack on Port Arthur began Oct. 24, according to unimpeachable authority. On October 26 Japanese shells set fire to the only smokeless powder magazine in Port Arthur. Portions of the town caught fire, the conflagration continuing the whole day. On the same day the Japanese captured the Russian trenches on the slope of Rihlung Mountain, also a fortified position protecting the fortress. The Japanese consider the progress of the siege to be highly satisfactory.

Japs Defeat Russians.

Tokio, Oct. 31.—A report from the Manchurian army headquarters received yesterday records a successful night attack against the Russian outpost at Wumingtsun and two unsuccessful counter attacks made by the Russians. The report is as follows:

"On the night of Oct. 26 a small force of the enemy attacked Waitao Mountain, but were immediately repulsed. Oct. 29 at 3 o'clock in the morning, a detachment of infantry was despatched from the centre army against Wumingtsun, located midway between the outposts of both armies. The enemy was surprised and the houses occupied by the enemy were set on fire. Using the place as a base, the enemy made frequent night attacks against our outposts. On the night of Oct. 28 a force of the enemy, of unknown strength, attacked an eminence near Santaohangtsu, but was immediately repulsed."

To Retake Waitao.

Gen. Kuroki's headquarters, Oct. 31.—The Russians attempted at midnight last night to retake Waitao Mountain, which was captured by the Japanese last Thursday. No details of last night's fighting have been received yet. Waitao Mountain has been bombarded frequently since its capture by the Japanese. Its defences were of a semipermanent character, and the trenches were very deep. The Russian losses there were nearly 300. They left 70 dead and wounded on the top of the hill. The number left at the foot is not known, as the Japanese are unable to reach there, owing to the constant fire of the Russians.

Kuropatkin Reports.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—General Kuropatkin has telegraphed as follows, under date of Oct. 29:

"I have received to-day no despatch reporting encounters with the enemy. During a cavalry reconnaissance yesterday after an infantry fight supported by artillery, we occupied the Village of Chiantsiashesan. The enemy has retired from Sindia.

"Oct. 29 our chasseurs, with insignificant losses, retained a village a kilometre west of Chentian against a violent Japanese bombardment."

General Kuropatkin also records other outpost affairs, including the Russian reoccupation of the Village of Tynsin, a short distance south of Liidsratung, whence they had been previously expelled by the Japanese, who burned the village.

Fight With Cold Steel.

Mukden, Oct. 31.—The Japanese assumed the offensive on Oct. 27 at Yansintun, half way between Bentsiaputsa and Fantiapu, on the Mukden road. The whole day was passed by the artillery in preparation for a bombardment of the Russian positions. Towards evening a whole regiment moved out to capture the hill, on which is a Buddhist temple, south of Yansintun. The temple was held by a Russian battalion with two machine guns. A fierce fight with cold steel strewed the summit of the hill with corpses. The Russians were outnumbered, their machine guns were dismantled, and they were compelled to fall back upon their main positions, carrying with them the barrels of their machine guns. The Russian artillery then swept the hill with such a hail of projectiles that the Japanese were unable to remain there. Heavy losses were inflicted on both sides.

Fought in the Trenches.

Mukden, Oct. 31.—The attack of the Japanese on the Buddhist temple hill, on Oct. 27, led to sharp fighting. The Japanese artillery played on the position from early in the morning, rendering the trenches untenable, shells and shrapnel sweeping everything and demolishing all the shelters. Two machine guns with the battalion defending the hill were smashed and disabled, but the defenders carried off the remains of the guns when they were forced to retire.

The Japanese infantry attack under cover of the bombardment was made in close order. There was desperate hand-to-hand fighting in the trenches, followed by a counter attack with the bayonet. The Japanese finally gained the hill, but were unable to hold it in the face of the deadly Russian artillery fire.

Final Moves Now.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—The military situation has not yet developed anything of great importance, though the fight at the Buddhist temple hill, on Oct. 27, appears to have been decidedly a heavy engagement. It probably indicates that final moves on both sides are now occurring, preparatory to another long and serious battle. Viceroy Alexieff is now on the way to St. Petersburg. The nature of his reception here is the food for much speculation. Some of his friends still cling to the idea that he will be made Chancellor of the Empire, with his residence in the Winter Palace, where, it is said, a suite of apartments has already been prepared for him. On the other hand, many declare that his political career is practically over, and that his reception at St. Petersburg, while officially cordial, will mark the end of his political ascendancy. It is even rumored that the old Viceroyalty of the Caucasus will be revived for his especial benefit, which would constitute a complimentary and comfortable sort of exile.

Don't Trust to Luck.

Even if there is such a thing as luck you cannot afford to trust to it in case of sickness. You know by the experience of others that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food actually forms new blood and tissue and revitalizes the nerves and by using it regularly you can be certain that your system is being built up and that weakness and disease are being overcome.

Shot His Comrade.

Sutton, Oct. 31.—A shooting accident occurred here yesterday afternoon. Two boys named Hilliard Millard and Norman Taylor, aged about 13 years, were out rabbit hunting. Not getting any game they had decided to return home, when Taylor proposed discharging their guns. As Millard raised his, it accidentally discharged, and the shot struck Taylor in the neck and shoulder. He was dead when help arrived.

Burns Cause Death.

Berlin, Oct. 31.—Mrs. Catharine Debus, aged 70, mother of County Councillor George Debus, of Berlin, died at noon yesterday at the Berlin and Waterloo Hospital, from the effects of burns sustained while heating some preparation on a gas stove. It boiled over and caught fire, igniting her clothing and burned her severely about the hands, arms and breast.

The Army in India.

London, Oct. 31.—An army order has been issued giving effect directly to Lord Kitchener's scheme for the redistribution of the Indian army. Roughly speaking, the units are grouped in formation wherein they can best train in time of peace for fighting. The cost of the changes will be £10,000,000.

Three Persons Killed.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 31.—Three persons were killed and 12 injured in a rear-end collision between section 2 and section No. 1 of the Missouri Pacific World's Fair Special, at Tipton, Mo., early yesterday.

Farmer Hangs Himself.

Rousseau, Oct. 31.—George Kellington, a farmer residing near this village, committed suicide Saturday morning by hanging himself in his barn. No cause is given for the rash act.

1,800,000 People

Have Asked Us to Buy Them a 50c. Bottle of Liquozone.

We offer to buy the first bottle of Liquozone, and give it free to each sick one who asks it. And we have spent over one million dollars to announce and fulfill this offer. Our object has been to let Liquozone itself show what it can do. A test is better than testimonials, better than argument. In one year, 1,800,000 people have accepted this offer. They have told others what Liquozone does, and the others told others. The result is that millions now use it. It is more widely employed than any medicine ever was—more widely prescribed by the better physicians. And your own neighbors—wherever you are—can tell you of people whom Liquozone has cured.

Not Medicine.

Liquozone is not made by compounding drugs, nor is there alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetable; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease. It is this fact that gives Liquozone its worth to humanity. And that worth is so great that, after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, we paid $100,000 for the American rights.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

It is not much trouble for the wolves to find fault with the sheep.

Always remember that a good deal may be said on the other side.

When a husband is mean to his wife he almost always outlives her.

Patience is one of those things of which we don't get enough and every one else gets too much.

Some people say that the cemetery widowers take notice a good deal quicker than the courthouse widowers.

When a girl is as cross as two sticks at home and smiling and pleasant downtown old fashioned women call her a "street angel."

One of the marvels of the age is the little indignation a girl will show at her father's great wrongs and the great indignation she will show at her lover's little ones.

The Gem of the Family.

Here is a little incident which a commentator on Dean Ramsay's "Reminiscences of Scottish Life and Character" thinks is worthy of a place in that volume: A Mr. Baird, who was one of those who had made great fortunes in the iron industry in Scotland, having risen from a laborer to be worth about $10,000,000, was once dining with the Duke of Hamilton. His grace said that he had not had the pleasure of meeting any of Mr. Baird's brothers. Mr. Baird replied, "And nae great loss, my lord; they're all brutes but me."

CONTROL of BRONCHITIS

Is Undoubtedly Possessed by the Well-known Family Medicine.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine

Turpentine is considered a specific for bronchitis.

The difficulty has been in the administration of turpentine so as to reach the irritated and inflamed parts and not be disagreeable to the patient.

Not only has the trouble been overcome by Dr. Chase in his Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, but he has also combined with turpentine two or three ingredients of almost equal power in soothing and healing the diseased parts and overcoming bronchitis and other dangerous ailments of the bronchial tubes and lungs.

By a secret process these elements of unquestioned medicinal power have been combined in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine so as to be pleasant to the taste and suitable for children and adults alike.

This remarkable success of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for bronchitis, asthma, croup and whooping cough is sufficient evidence that it is effective in ordinary coughs and colds.

MRS. RICHMOND WITHROW, Shubenacadie, Hants Co., N.S., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine with good success. My second daughter was troubled with bronchitis from the age of three weeks. Oftentimes I thought she would choke to death. The several remedies we got did not seem to be of much use, but the first dose of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine brought relief and further treatment made a thorough cure. This trouble used to come back from time to time, but the cure is now permanent. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has saved us many doctor's bills, and I would not be without it in the house for many times its cost."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers or Manufactured, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle.

A PHANTOM FARM.

Justice Russell Lowell Got a Glimpse of It, So It Is Said.

A curious story of James Russell Lowell is told. It runs about as follows and deals with a "witch farm:" The place is a forest near New York, at some distance, but within a walk from the city. On the edge of the forest a farm will at times appear which no one remembers to have ever seen unless he happens to be among the few who have had the uncanny privilege. There is no one about the farm, no sound is heard, yet there are signs of busy occupation. The door is open, empty milk pails lean against the wall, newly cleaned pans and dairy utensils and butter churns are set out to dry; clothes hang on the line in a little drying ground.

Whoever chances on the farm seldom stops long to look. He will pass on, thinking to himself: "I don't seem to remember that farm. I must inquire about it in town." In town not a soul knows anything about it, and never will that person see the farm again, however often he may return to look for it. Then others will go out to seek the witch farm. Over and over again will they pass and repass the very spot where it had been seen, retracing their steps and puzzling and saying: "It must be there. We have mistaken the way."

They are few indeed to whom the spectral farm has shown itself. Lowell himself once saw it. On the verge of the wood he passed a homestead which appeared precisely as has been described. Lowell saw it all and passed on without thinking, then suddenly stopped short with a feeling of something strange, turned and sauntered slowly back. But no house at all was there, and he was unable to find again the exact spot where it had been.

THE TREE OF IMAGES.

Legend of a Possible Plant That Grows in Tibet.

There is a legend about a tree of Tibet, called the "tree of 10,000 images," which reads like this:

Far away in the dreary land of Amboe, in Tibet, is a green valley in which, in a Tartar tent, was born a wonderful boy named Tsong Kaba. From his birth he had a long white beard and flowing hair and could speak perfectly his native tongue.

His manners were majestic, and his words were full of wisdom. When he was three years old he resolved to cut off his hair and live a solitary life. So his mother shaved his head and threw his long, flowing locks upon the ground outside their tent door. From his hair sprang the wonderful tree.

Tsong Kaba lived many years, did countless good deeds and at last died. But the tree which had grown up from his hair lived, and they called it "the tree of 10,000 images." This was long before the Christian era, but it is the testimony of the French missionaries that the tree lives yet. The leaves are always green. The wood is of a reddish tint and has an aroma as of cinnamon.

The bark of the tree is marked with well known symbols in the Tibetan language. Alphabetic characters also appear in green on every leaf, some darker, some lighter than the leaf itself. The branches of the tree are described as being spread out like plumes of feathers crowning a trunk only eight feet high, but of great girth.

Two French missionaries who saw the tree were fully convinced that the marks upon it were of natural growth.

He Still Agreed.

Lord Justice Romer was a chancery judge in England for nine years before he was raised to the appeal court. Decisive in manner and no waster of words, his simple "I agree" has become famous. Lord Justice Rigby was giving an elaborate decision one day and happened to pause in that effective way he had to give emphasis to a point. In an instant came Sir Robert Romer's sonorous "I agree," to the visible discomfiture of Sir John Rigby. "But I hadn't finished my observations," he said and thereupon continued his judgment, somewhat more exhaustively. At length he finished. "I still agree," said Lord Justice Romer. And the appeal court rang with unaccustomed laughter.

Looking Into the Future.

"I guess I might as well quit school, pa," said the boy.

"Why, my son?"

"Oh, there ain't any use going, except to be able to help my little boy when I grow up, and if they have changed the way of doing things since you were a boy so that you can't help me it's likely I'm just wasting my time getting ready to help my little boy."

He got the help he wanted, but it was a good thing he didn't hear what his father had to say about newfangled school books after he had gone to bed.

His Favorite Animals.

Sunday School Teacher—Do you love animals?

Boy—Yes'm.

"That's right. I'm glad you do. What animals do you like best?"

"Snakes."

"Goodness! Why do you like snakes?"

"'Cause it ain't wicked to kill 'em."

Practically Admitted.

Tess—May is considerably older than Bess. Jess—Yes. May practically admitted it to me the other day. Tess—You don't say? Jess—Yes; she said, "Bess is just about my age."

Success.

Paul—Percy, what is your idea of success? Percy—My idea of success? Well, it is having people run after me who used to run away from me.

"GUESS who it is?" The mother knows the touch of the soft hands too well to need to guess, and for the moment she enters into the playful spirit of the child and forgets her toil and weariness. Then a sudden movement sends a thrill of pain through her and she realizes that though love may lighten labor it cannot lighten pain.

Thousands of women who have suffered from backache, headache, and other consequences of womanly disease, have been made well women by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as it has done me so much good," writes Mrs. Henry Harrell, of Tarboro, N. C., Box 109. "I was sensitive as I could hardly walk when I began taking the 'Favorite Prescription.' I also had uterine trouble and could neither eat nor sleep only as I took morphine. Tried four different doctors and they all failed to do me any good, so one of my friends recommended your 'Favorite Prescription' to me and I took only three bottles and am now well and healthy. Can do almost any kind of work."

THE LAW OF MOTION.

Effect of Dropping a Weight on and Off a Moving Car.

If a person were to jump into the air from the floor of a car in a rapidly moving train his feet would reach the floor in a direct line to the very spot from which he jumped, in accordance with the second law of motion, which says: If there be two or more causes of motion taking place in two different right lines, whether inherent in the body or external to it, their effects do not interfere, nor does either diminish or augment the effect of the other. In other words, when a force acts upon a body in motion the change of motion which it produces is in the direction and proportioned to the magnitude of the force which acts. Those who move on a railroad at the rate of thirty miles an hour, or forty-five feet in a second, do not find the relation in which they stand to the objects in the car in any degree changed by the velocity. Take a stone by way of illustration—instead of the person jumping—and it, like the passengers, has a common motion onward with and derived from the train, and when let fall from the hand it retains that motion during its descent. At the beginning of its fall it would have the speed of the train in a horizontal direction, and gravity would act upon it in a vertical direction, and it would fall as if the car was without motion. If the stone be dropped outside from the platform of the car to the lower step thereof instead of to the ground it will be found that in accordance with the laws stated it will fall in a direct vertical line, the same as does the stone let fall inside the car. The stone, if dropped to the ground outside, likewise falls in a direct vertical line, but it has lost the onward motion of the train and is left behind.

A Sweet Joke.

An American army officer who was in Cuba during the Spanish war was extremely dissatisfied with the cooking. He insisted that the Cubans put sugar into everything they cooked. At last he announced that he would eat nothing but boiled eggs. "They can't sugar them," he declared. So he ordered them next morning. But before he appeared at the table another officer had filled the salt cruet with sugar. When the "kicker" appeared, his eggs were brought to him. He opened them with a gloomy complacency and sprinkled over them plenty of the doctored salt. At the first mouthful he turned purple. "Sugared! Sugared!" he exclaimed and rushed from the table.

She Had No Foreign Complaint.

"Is it true that you were very seasick on the trip over?" asked Mrs. Goodart.

"Yes, indeed," replied the old lady.

"Why, I understand your daughter left a sure remedy in your stateroom before the ship sailed."

"No, indeed, there wasn't nothin' there but a bottle of something for mal de mer, an' I knew I didn't have no foreign disease like that."

He Cashed It.

"Porter," said the man who finds fault, "there's a draft in my section of this sleeping car." "Well, sir," was the reply, accompanied by an outstretched hand, "dar ain' but one way to git rid ob a draft." "What's that?" "Cash it."

A Suggestion.

Shortleigh—To be honest, old fellow, I'm rapidly growing dissatisfied with my own company. Jokeleigh—Great Scott! Why don't you marry and join some club?

ROMANCE IN A BANK

A TOUCH OF HUMAN NATURE IN THE WHIRL OF BUSINESS.

How the Cynical Old Skinflint of a Cashier Obliged the Wife of a Depositor and Was Amply Repaid by the Light of Gratitude in Her Eyes.

The cashier sat at his desk, wondering what he had better do about that Jones note. He felt sure that Jones was on the square, but—

"Excuse me. Is this the cashier?"

It was a pretty woman of thirty who spoke. She was well dressed, and there was that about her which caused the cashier to look a second time.

"Yes, madam."

"I am Mrs. Jenkins. My husband has an account here. He'll be in pretty soon to draw some money. I don't want you to let him have it."

The cashier looked a third time at his caller. This time he stared hard, and the little woman on the other side of the railing looked down at the tesselated floor.

"But it is his account, madam. If he wants to draw some money I can't stop him."

"My husband is the best man in the world," the woman said. "For 360 days in the year he is good and kind to me—he is always good and kind—but, then, once in a long while he gets—that is—he isn't—oh, you know!"

"Yes, I guess I know," said the cashier.

"And I don't want you to let him have any money. I know it is his money, but if he doesn't get the money, if he just stops to think a minute, he will"—

"I'll see what I can do, madam," said the cashier.

"Thank you, sir," said the woman simply and went away.

The cashier walked over to the cage of the paying teller and picked up his sheet on which was written the list of depositors. After the name of Mr. Jenkins, the husband of the woman who had called on him, he wrote:

"Stop payment on this account until my O. K. is secured." Then he signed his name and called the paying teller's attention to the notation.

An hour later Mr. Jenkins came in and presented for payment a check for $300. Jenkins was an old depositor and carried a good account.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Jenkins," said the paying teller, "but you'll have to get the cashier's O. K. before I can pay this check."

There was perhaps a slight odor of whisky on Mr. Jenkins' breath.

Jenkins grew angry and insulted in a minute.

"Is my account overdrawn?" he demanded.

"No, sir; your balance is $980."

"Then what do you mean by refusing to honor my check?"

"You'll have to see the cashier about that. I am acting under orders."

Jenkins stormed over to the cashier's desk. He was red in the face and furious.

"What do you mean by stopping payment on my account?" he growled.

The cashier looked up from his desk and looked the angry depositor straight in the eyes. He looked hard, and in a moment Jenkins dropped his eyes.

"You know what I mean," said the cashier slowly.

"Who told you anything about it?" said Jenkins presently.

The cashier waited a minute, again looking Jenkins straight in the eyes.

"You know who told me," said the cashier below his breath.

Jenkins turned without a word and walked straight out of the bank. Next morning he came back. His wife was with him. The couple walked up to the cashier's desk.

"I want to put my bank account in my wife's name," said Jenkins. In a purely formal and businesslike way the transfer was made. No explanations were made, and no questions were asked on either side, but as Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins walked away the woman turned and looked at the cashier.

"Im used to being called a hard hearted and cynical old skinflint and all sorts of names," said the cashier, "but when a woman looks at me as she did this morning I forget them all. It makes me feel like I was really doing some good in the world."

A Short Story of How Some Ladies Are Robbed.

"Half the thefts that women charge to pickpockets," said the reformed burglar, "are not thefts at all, but simply cases of loss from their own carelessness. Don't tell them that I said so, though, for I've had enough blame to bear in my day, but that's the truth. If a woman goes home and makes a hullabaloo about being robbed she gets more sympathy, but let her say she lost her money and she has to shoulder the whole responsibility and be found fault with into the bargain."

"But what becomes of the pocketbooks and purses? They are not going off of themselves."

"Their owners lose them without knowing it. They lay them down or drop them and they are picked up by somebody who doesn't run round looking for the person they belong to. Here is a case in point: A woman seated herself before a bargain counter piled with remnants of silk. After turning over a few pieces she felt something fall into her lap and picked up a fat leather pocketbook.

"'Hello,' she says. 'Here's a purse. It looks as if it had a lot of money in it.' And she handed it to the clerk, who laid it on a shelf back of him and said he would send it to the lost and found department.

"When that woman had found the goods she wanted and went to take her pocketbook out of her reticule it wasn't there, and you ought to have heard her squeal. She declared she had it when she sat down to the counter. But it was gone sure enough.

"A store detective was sent for, and he asked her a few questions. He was a friend of mine and told me the story. Then he asked to see the purse she had found, and it turned out to be her own. She had laid it down the first thing, and when it fell into her lap she was so surprised she didn't recognise it.

"And I really think that she hated to admit that she hadn't been robbed."

PETERBORO WON GLORIOUS VICTORY

Defeated Strong Toronto Team in a Geat Contest on Saturday Afternoon.

The Score was 29-17. Visitors had Advantage in First Half but Were Outplayed in Second.

Brilliant Playing of Locals. Game Full of Open and Interesting Plays. Great Surprises to Visitors.

Glorious was the victory! The Peterborough rugby team showed their true colors on Saturday afternoon, at the Driving Park, when they put a decided crimp in the championship aspirations of the Toronto rugby team by administering a decisive defeat to this Queen City twelve which had hitherto been looked upon as sure winners of this district. It was but another case of the unexpected happening, but it did not happen through any fluke or through any temporary weakness on the part of the defeated team. The Peterboros won on their merits, won fairly and squarely and demonstrated that they are a superior aggregation. It took the boys some time to get going, but when they did strike their gait, there was no stopping them. The team simply smothered the visitors on the second half, the wings being irresistible and the backs playing as if their very lives depended upon the result of the game.

THE CROWD.

The largest crowd of the season was present to witness the game, which from every standpoint was a exhibition of good football and the was very interesting throughout. From has a Peterborough crowd of spectators become so enthused as in the second half of the game, when the cheering was terrific. Those who think rugby is not a popular or an interesting game should have been present on Saturday.

THE PLAY.

The play was always open and pretty to witness. The backs indulging in plenty of spectacular punting. There were numerous brilliant runs and pieces of clever combination play and the tackling was good. Both teams were guilty of some costly fumbling but outside of this the play was of the best variety. The teams were about evenly matched as regards weight, both being fairly light and the battle on the wing line was a keen one.

BOTH TEAMS STRONG.

Considering the fact that the Torontos with a team not as strong as that of Saturday, defeated the locals two weeks ago in the city by the score of 21-4, the chances of the locals looked slim on Saturday. The visitors team was admitted to be the strongest they had placed on the field this year, while

CAPT. "BILL" CROWLEY,
Who did great work in Saturday's game.

the game could be said as regards the Peterboros. A couple of changes on the back division improved that division wonderfully, and furthermore, the teams were on their mettle and every man played for all that was in him. Every man was a star and is deserving of credit for the victory.

REVERSAL OF FORM.

In the first half a fairly stiff breeze was blowing diagonally across the field and the visitors, winning the toss, chose to kick with the wind. The Peterboros' plan was to hold the score down as much as possible in this half and rely on the second period to win the game. And that is what they did. Though the Torontos had the advantage in the first half, it was only a slight one, and they were exceedingly lucky to get a touch-down. The locals came dangerously near scoring on several occasions, but a little bad judgment at critical points lost what looked like a couple of sure scores. In the second half, the wind died down completely; but so did the Torontos, and the locals scored 24 points before the visitors had anything like a look in. The winners totally played grandly and had their opponents beaten at every stage of the game. The wings broke through almost at will and frequently downed the quarter or half before they could relieve; they had all kinds of speed and followed up the long punts of the backs, like lightning, often nailing the Toronto backs before they could kick or run. The back division of the Peterboros, which was a trifle unsteady at the outset, settled down and their long runs of heavy punts were very fatal to the Torontos. The reversal of form was very cheering to the spectators, who went fairly wild over the great playing of the team.

LOCALS' LINE-BUCKING.

The Torontos struggled bravely, but struggled in vain. The winners showed vast superiority in line bucking, scoring the second touch-down by a series of mass players in which every man on both teams took a hand, inch by inch, foot by foot, yard by yard, the Torontos were pushed back towards their line until on the last down with five yards to make by an almost superhuman effort, Graham of the local team was shoved over the line for the try, which put the locals one point in the lead. This seemed to unnerve the Torontos, who except for a few minutes towards the close were never in the hunt.

THE BACK DIVISION.

It would certainly be a difficult matter and it would also be unfair to pick out any particular star on the local team. Every man shone at some stage and though some had more opportunities than others, all deserve the highest laudation. The back division could not have won but for the excellent work of the wings and vice versa. Shaw at centre half was perhaps the most conspicuous figure because of his great punting, which was an eye-opener to the spectators. He was the best punt on the field and his long soaring kicks were always ground gainers. He also bucked the line many times for good gains and worked like a Trojan through out. His only weakness is in catching but he more than made up for any fumbles by his great kicking. Captain Crowley at right half played his usual brilliant game. He caught, ran and kicked like a veteran and played a most effective game. He is as slippery as an eel and frequently made good gains by his fine running. But Morgan at left half was the surprise of the team, his brilliant work being a feature. His catching was superb and his errors which were very few, never proved costly. His dodging runs were very timely and he was one of the hardest men on the field to bring down. He put up by far the best game he has ever played and his work was the talk of the spectators. Mulhern a junior weighing only 128 pounds was tried at half back and though he had no chance to shine, he did what was required of him in good shape. He catches and punts well and is a good runner. Graham at quarter was a source of strength to the team. He handled the ball cleanly, passed accurately and put up a good game generally.

THE WING LINE.

The wing line was wide awake on Saturday and stood the fast pace in remarkable style, being far fresher than their opponents at the finish. They held their checks at all times and broke through frequently. Rickey played a great game, tackling and following up to the king's taste. Meagher was also very conspicuous by his good work and took advantage of every opportunity. McDonald, though light, was fast and sure and was one of the surest tacklers on the field. Hurtubise's great strength was a prominent factor in the success of the mass plays and as a wing man he has few superiors. Cameron and Green worked with a will and more than held their own with their checks. Burnham played well at centre and made no mistakes. If the players individually and as a whole team do as well next Saturday there can be no fear of the result.

THE TORONTOS.

The Torontos have a fast and well-balanced team, especially strong on the back division. Morrison and Housser are the stars both being fine punters, runners and catchers. Gibson, the ex-Varsity half also did good work and was very slippery when running. Fellows and Dale were conspicuous on the wing line, which is fast and all are fault; if he or they deceive me a second good tacklers.

The line-up was as follows:—

FIRST HALF FOR TORONTO.

The game was called at 3.50 o'clock. The play opened with an exchange of punts by Housser and Shaw, the former gaining ground. Housser kicked to Mulhern, near the local goal line and the latter kicked into touch. The Torontos centre half kicked over the dead line for a point. Score, 1-0.

Crowley gained ten yards by a nice run around the end. Shaw fumbled a long punt of Housser's behind the goal and had to rouge. Score, 2-0.

A minute later, Housser kicked into touch on goal, making the score 3-0.

Meagher stole the ball and went over, a touch, but was called back for an offside. Morgan caught the oval on the run and made the prettiest run of the day, dodging all the visiting team but Morrison for a forty yard gain. Rickey was ruled off for two minutes. The play was in the centre of the field. Hurtubise got a five minute rest. Gibson made a pretty dodging run but was brought down by Burnham. Morgan was catching and running in fine shape. Housser started a dangerous looking rush but Graham brought him down by a great tackle. Mulhern saved a score by tackling Gibson near the line. Peterson ran thirty yards before McDonald collared him and Housser punted well over the line for another point. Score, 4-0.

A minute later Cochrane blocked a punt of Shaw's near the line and Fellowe got over for a try which was not converted. Score, 5-0. The air was very blue.

Peterborough began to force matters and got the ball within five yards of the Torontos' line. They foolishly tried to buck the line on the last down instead of kicking and consequently lost ball whereas they were sure of at least one and possibly five points by kicking. Perram and Hurtubise went off for wrestling and half time was called.

PETERBOROS' TURN.

Peterboro started right in to do business. Shaw gained fifty yards for a long punt, Morrison being tackled before he could relieve. Marsh was hurt and had to quit. Crowley and Hurtubise were ruled off at the same time. Shaw kicked over the line to Gibson who was downed by Meagher about thirty yards from the line. Morgan got the ball for a fine run and a scrimmage took place, ten yards from the line. By three successive mass plays, the Toronto were, inch by inch shoved back and Graham sent over for a touch amid great excitement. The locals had five yards to make on the last down and every man on the team took a hand at the shoving which sent Graham over, Shaw failed to convert. Score, 8-0. Things were looking better.

Everybody began to root and the ball had started to roll. Shaw punted well down the field to Gibson whose return was neatly blocked by Cameron who kicked over the line and Meagher got a try which again was not converted. Peterborough was now leading by 13-0. The men yelled, the ladies cheered, the girls screamed and the boys howled. It was a sudden but refreshing change.

Toronto braced up and the ball went to Peterboros' end but not for many minutes for Crowley by the longest run of the day carried the ball fifty yards, almost securing a touch, but he was downed by Morrison. Gibson fumbled Shaw's sky-scraper and Meagher tackled him ten yards from the line. Green was ruled off. Shaw punted over the dead line and the score was 14-0.

Shaw booted the leather over the line to Morrison who returned to Cameron. Gibson fumbled Shaw's punt in front of the goal and Rickey by fast following up grabbed the sphere and crawled over the line. Shaw converted making the score 17-0.

McDonald made a couple of fine tackles at critical moments and Shaw's great punting was having a desired effect. A punt over the dead line swelled the score to 18-0. A rouge a moment later, a result of another of Shaw's punts put the score 19-0.

Graham zig-zagged his way through several would-be tacklers for a good gain. Meagher's following up was splendid and he frequently tackled the opposing backs before they could get away. Cameron again blocked Housser's punt and Graham grabbed the ball and went over for a touch. The kick, which was a difficult one, was missed. Score, 24-0.

A costly fumble brought the play into the locals' territory and Gibson dropped a goal from the field making the score 24-11.

Shaw made a bad fumble of Gibson's punt and Peterson got the ball and got over for a very lucky try before anyone realized what had happened. Fellows converted, making the score 24-17.

But the Torontos had a look in for a very short period and the locals again took the advantage. Shaw kicked over the line to Morrison, who relieved by a run. He passed to Gibson, but Rickey was "Johnny-on-the-spot" and cleverly intercepted the pass and the rest was easy, scoring a touch-down. The whistle blew before the locals had time to make the kick leaving the score 29-17.

HEARD ON THE LINES.

29-17. Rah! rah! rah!
Now for the Argonauts!
And then the Tigers!
And then the championship!
Guess that's turning the tables some.

To say the result was a surprise to the Torontos would be putting it mildly. The Globe said Peterborough would need an entirely new team to beat the Torontos on any field—Guess again.

The Toronto press and the Toronto players themselves admitted that their team on Saturday was the strongest that has represented the club this season.

The showing of the locals in the second half was great. Every man played a star game.

Morgan's playing more than delighted the spectators. He was the surest catch on the team and his dodging runs were a feature.

Shaw was the best punt on the field. He has improved wonderfully in this respect during the past few weeks. He was subject to some hard usage in bucking the line so frequently but he did noble work.

Hurtubise's great weight and fine tackling were strong factors in the victory.

The Torontos are strong on the back division. All are fine punters and good catchers.

As usual, McDonald was conspicuous for his tackling.

Meagher and Rickey followed up like whirlwinds and both did great tackling.

Mulhern had not much to do but he was always there when needed.

In the second half Crowley caught the ball while running at full speed and had gained fifty yards before being downed. Our popular captain played a great game.

Fellows of the Torontos is nearly the size of Hurtubise. They collided a few times but "Jean" was always on top.

"Daddy" Lamont was down with the Torontos.

The locals play the Argonauts next Saturday. They can beat them if they play the game they put up in the second half on Saturday.

How did the Torontos ever beat our boys by 21-0? The locals must have been sleeping.

The crowd was the largest and most enthusiastic that has attended a game here in years. They got the worth of their money.

Quite a sprinkling of the fair sex was noticeable at the game.

Rickey's intercepting of Morrison's pass was a pretty piece of work.

The wind died down completely in the second half or the score would have been larger.

Chris Graham did splendid work at quarter. His experience and headwork told in the victory.

Green is developing into a splendid wing player. He has the weight and tackles well.

With another week's practice, look out for the boys next Saturday.

The backs should practice handling long punts this week.

EASY ENOUGH

to get the wrong kind of Wall Paper.

Easy enough to get the right kind, too, if you come to the Peterborough Bookstore.

founded, but harmless, he would not deal in personalities, but he could, if he chose, refer to the Beet Sugar Company at the head of which were the local leaders of the Conservative party, and there had been taken from the people for stock, which was at present worthless, $40,000, and all that there was to show for it was the pile of concrete in the east end of the town. And not only that, but he could mention if he wished the fact that after it was a defunct concern the promoters came to the town asking it to guarantee the bonds for $100,000.

A PRIDE TO PETERBOROUGH.

Senator Cox's connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific was an honourable one as it has been with every company with which she has been identified. It should be a proud thing for Peterborough citizens to think that two of her sons, Senator Cox and Mr. E. R. Wood have been made directors in the Grand Trunk Pacific, and he did not believe that Senator Cox would allow anything to go past Peterborough that he can possibly bring here. The new railway would create a necessity for cars, locomotives and other manufactured articles and he believed that Peterborough would get some of them. The Review, he thought, was not acting in the best interests of the town in maligning and abusing one of the best men that Peterborough ever had to take an interest in it, which Senator Cox is. The people should show that they appreciate the interest that he has taken in the town instead of abusing him.

"THE LEFT-HANDED COW."

Mr. Hall referred jokingly to the cartoons which have been posted up around the country to bring discredit on the G.T.P. He said that if their knowledge of statesmanship were no better than their knowledge of cows, when they would depict a man milking her on the left-hand side, they were hardly the class of men who should be entrusted with the Government of the country.

The speaker took up the Grand Trunk Pacific agreement and contrasted it with the C.P.R. bargain. Not one acre of land had been given to the G.T.P. as compared with 25,000,000 given to the C.P.R., and as the new line was completed the Government would be able to sell the land for ten times as much as it was costing the country to get the railway.

In conclusion Mr. Hall asked all his supporters to keep up the good work, and if they did he was satisfied that he would be elected with a good majority on November third.

The meeting then closed after hearty cheers had been given for the King, the Premier and the Candidate.

..The Liberal Record..

...FACTS BRIEFLY STATED...

The last seven years under Liberal Rule have been marked by unprecedented progress and prosperity.

Never were the farmers so well to do, so happy and so comfortable.

Never were manufacturers so busy.

Never were working-men so much in demand. Never did they get better wages.

Never did Canada bulk so largely in the eyes of the world.

Greater progress all round has been made in the past seven years than during the previous eighteen years. Which shall it be? "Full Steam A-HEAD" or "Down Brakes" on the wheels of progress.

Mrs. L. C. Glover, Vice-President Milwaukee, Wis., Business Woman's Association, is another one of the million women who have been restored to health by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was married for several years and no children blessed my home. The doctor said I had a complication of female troubles and I could not have any children unless I could be cured. He tried to cure me, but after experimenting for several months, my husband became disgusted, and one night when we noticed the testimonial of a woman who had been cured of similar trouble through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, he went out and bought a bottle for me. I used your medicine for three and one-half months, improving steadily in health, and in twenty-two months a child came. I cannot fully express the joy and thankfulness that is in my heart. Our home is a different place now, as we have something to live for, and all the credit is due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Yours very sincerely, MRS. L. C. GLOVER, 614 Grove St., Milwaukee, Wis." TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 1st, 1904.

A LAST WORD.

In these days of plenty and prosperity the people should not forget the causes that have to do with the promotion and maintenance of good times, and should not forget their duty to themselves in seeing that nothing is done to interfere with a political party that in a brief administration has made the Dominion of Canada the leader of every other nation on the earth in the matter of the percentage of increase in its trade.

The people of Canada are respectfully asked not to forget that percentage of taxation has been reduced thirteen per cent. by the Liberal Government.

DO NOT FORGET that despite this reduction in taxation the national debt has remained practically stationary.

DO NOT FORGET that from 1896 to 1903, under the Liberal Government, the trade of Canada has increased from $239,025,360 to $467,-064,685.

DO NOT FORGET that in the eighteen years of Conservative rule this trade increased only $66,000,000, and that in the seven years of Liberal rule it increased $228,000,000.

DO NOT FORGET that the exports of Canada increased during the Conservative regime of eighteen years by only forty-two million dollars, and that they increased during the Liberal regime of seven years by one hundred and four million dollars.

DO NOT FORGET that the circulation of bank and Dominion notes increased during the eighteen years of Conservative rule by less than $21,000,000, and increased in the seven years of Liberal rule by over $47,-000,000.

DO NOT FORGET that the country has been so prosperous under the Liberals that the assets of banks increased in the seven years of Liberal rule by $325,862,880, and increased during the eighteen years of Conservative rule by only $140,649,522.

DO NOT FORGET that the Liberal Government found a deficit of $761,148 in the Post Office Department, and have turned this deficit into a surplus of $292,702, while at the same time reducing the domestic postage rate from three cents to two cents, inaugurating penny postage to Britain, and increasing the number of post offices and the pay of country post-masters.

DO NOT FORGET that the Preference tariff treatment given by the Liberal Government to Britain has been the means of causing an agitation in Britain for granting Canada and the other colonies preferential treatment in the British market.

DO NOT FORGET that the manufacturers of Canada are so busy they cannot supply the demands made upon them, and that their agitation for a higher tariff which the Conservatives endorse has but one object, viz., to permit them to charge the consumer higher prices.

DO NOT FORGET that in 1896, the last year of Conservative administration, the total immigration was only 16,835, and that in the fiscal year 1902-3, under the Liberals the immigration was 128,364.

DO NOT FORGET that in 1896, the last year of the Conservatives, the homestead entries in the West were only 1,888, and that in 1902-3, under the Liberals, they were 31,-383.

DO NOT FORGET that in 1896, farm lands in the West were selling at from $1 to $2 per acre; and that now they are selling at from $6 to $20 per acre.

DO NOT FORGET that the Conservatives tied up the West with the C.P.R., and forced the settlers to farm on shares with that railway corporation; that the Liberal Government have been providing relief for the farmer by subsidizing other railways, which, however, get no land grants, and no exemptions from taxation, and which have to submit to Government control of their freight rates; and that the relief afforded to the farmer, is more than enough to pay for the binding and threshing of his crops.

DO NOT FORGET that the Liberal Government have entered test cases in the courts to get an early decision as to when the C.P.R. tax exemption ends; and as to when the Government shall have control of C. P. R. freight rates.

DO NOT FORGET that the Liberal Government is bringing into the West a powerful competing railway, the Grand Trunk, which will force down down railway rates. It is under Government control. This railway was bitterly opposed by the Conservatives.

DO NOT FORGET that the railway proposition of the leader of the Conservatives, Mr. Borden, was to buy up the most expensive and unproductive parts of the C.P.R.; that this scheme would open up no new country for colonization; would not increase the country's transportation facilities at all; but would simply mean the paying of millions of the people's money to the C. P. R. for the privilege of taking an unproductive portion of its railway line off its hands.

DO NOT FORGET that the Liberal railway policy opens up vast areas of new country, agricultural, mineral and forest lands; that it greatly increases the transportation facilities of the country; and that the money expended upon it will go into the pockets of the people, provide work for new settlers, and add to the general prosperity.

DO NOT FORGET the grain legislation passed by the Liberal Government to rescue the settlers of the West from the monopoly fastened upon them by the Conservatives.

DO NOT FORGET that the land in the West has been kept for the settler, and a stop put to the Conservative policy of giving it away to railways and other corporations.

DO NOT FORGET that the Government has passed legislation to establish a railway commission which will control railway rates and prevent discrimination.

DO NOT FORGET that the Government has appointed an inspector of binder twine to protect the farmer against short and inferior twine.

DO NOT FORGET that the Government secured the abolition of the cattle quarantine maintained by the United States, and that during the four and a half years the quarantine was in operation, Canadians exported to the United States only $52,600 worth of cattle, while in the four and a half years succeeding the abolition the sales totalled $5,329,-516.

DO NOT FORGET that the Liberal Government has spared no efforts to promote the interests of the farmer.

DO NOT FORGET the lean years of the Conservative regime, and the years of plenty and prosperity under the Liberals.

DO NOT FORGET to vote for a continuance of the fat years by marking your ballot for a supporter of the Liberal Government.

WALDHEIM MAY HAVE A HISTORY

Former Peterborough Man Arrested on Charge of Theft.

Thought to be Baron de Vottgemi, of Germany, and Graduate of Brown University.

Additional information is given on the Waldheim case, in Saturday's Globe. The prisoner was at one time a resident of Peterborough. The Globe says:

"Detective Duncan has returned to the city with about $300 worth of property stolen by Hans Waldheim Uhere and sold in Buffalo. Waldheim's case is not likely to be disposed off for at least two months, as the police are making enquiries about him in all the countries of Europe. Eight charges of burglary have been preferred, the complainants being A. H. Greene, 16 Rushholme road; Geo. Melville, 78 Empress crescent; E. J. Canell, 84 Empress crescent; John Kirk, 64 Sorauren avenue; Mary Graham, 81 Lowther avenue; William Goulding, 67 St. George's street, and T. M. Gibson, Birch avenue. As many more, the police assert, might be laid. From correspondence found on his person Waldheim seems to be th eBaron de Voltzemi, a German aristocrat, and a graduate of Bonn University. This will be determined definitely by the correspondence with the German police."

SURVIVED BROTHER ABOUT ONE WEEK.

Miss Catherine Barrie Died in Otonabee of Pneumonia.

Miss Catherine Barrie survived her brother James by only about a week, and after an illness of eight days, the same length as that which resulted in the death of her brother, and from the same disease, pneumonia. She passed away this morning at the residence of Mr. J. A. Guerin, where she has made her home.

The deceased lady has been a lifelong resident of Otonabee, having been born in that township 70 years ago. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Barrie came to Canada from Ireland shortly after the time of the Robinson immigration, and at the time of their arrival here there were only three houses in Peterborough.

One brother, Richard, of Peterborough, is the only surviving member of the family, which during its long residence in this county has been very highly respected.

The funeral will take place from the residence of Mr. J. A. Guerin, lot 14, concession 14, Otonabee, on Thursday, November 3rd, at 8 o'clock, to St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterborough, and to the Roman Catholic Cemetery for interment.

FROM SOUTH AFRICH.

New Way of Using Chamberlains Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following: A neighbour of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy teat the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

Love of Travel.

The love of travel is not caused by ordinary restlessness, but springs originally from the universal craving of the soul for something different from its usual environment. It also comes from a legitimate longing for that broader education which only personal study of other races, civilizations and religions can bestow. And, finally, it arises from a yearning for the joy and benefit of realizing history, by visiting the ancient shrines of art, the homes or sepulchres of heroes, and the scenes of heroic deeds. When such desires are once awakened, to travel is to live, to remain continually in one place is to stagnate.

Thousands of books of travel have been written, but not withstanding that the scenes described in them are practically the same, and though the streets and buildings which adorn their text are perfectly familiar to their readers, such works are usually welcome, and always in proportion to the degree in which mere figures and statistics are subordinated to the ideas suggested by such travel to the writer's mind, which of course vary infinitely according to the culture, sympathy and enthusiasm of the individual. Thus, in a similar way, the keys of all pianos are the same, yet it is not the bits of ivory themselves that hold us spell-bound, but the magnetic fingers that move over them, and the musical interpretation and expression given by the performer.

If only accurate statistics and detailed descriptions were desired, guide books would be sufficient, but who ever reads a guide-book for amusement? Such thoughts have encouraged Mr. John L. Stoddard to present in printed form lectures which for eighteen years delighted and instructed hundreds of thousands of people and this chronicle of his labours in permanent form is being widely welcomed.

Lives Aged 101.

Brockville, Oct. 31.—The township of Montague can boast of having for a resident the oldest woman in Eastern Ontario, in Mrs. Darby Morrison. She was born in Sligo, Ireland, in 1803. She came to this country in 1837, passing Ottawa, which at that time consisted of a few house on the bank of the canal. She remembers the coronation of George IV., William IV. and Queen Victoria, and distinctly remembers seeing Daniel O'Connell. Notwithstanding her great age she is in excellent health, is able to walk about the house and can thread a needle without glasses, which she has never used.

IT IS IMPORTANT

To Know What You are Taking When Using Catarrh Medicines.

Catarrh is the short route to consumption, and the importance of early and judicious treatment of catarrh, whether located in the head, throat or bronchial tubes, cannot be too strongly emphasized.

The list of catarrh cures is as long as the moral law and the forms in which they are administered, numerous and confusing, from sprays, inhalers, washes, ointments, and salves to powders, liquids and tablets.

The tablet form is undoubtedly the most convenient and most effective, but with nearly all advertised catarrh remedies it is almost entirely a matter of guess work as to what you are taking into your system, as the proprietors, while making all sorts of claims as to what their medicines will do, always keep it a close secret as to what they are.

The success and popularity of the new catarrh cure, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, is largely because it not only cures catarrh but because catarrh sufferers who used these tablets know what they are taking into their systems. Stuart's Catarrh Tablets being composed of Red Gum, Blood Root and similar valuable and antiseptic ingredients, and are pleasant to the taste and being dissolved in the mouth they take immediate effect upon the mucous lining of the throat, nasal passages and whole respiratory tract.

The cures that Stuart's Catarrh Tablets have accomplished in old chronic cases of catarrh are little short of remarkable, and the advantage of knowing what you are putting into your stomach is of paramount importance when it is remembered that the cocaine or morphine habit has been frequently contracted as the result of using secret catarrh remedies.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets meet with commendation from physicians, because their antiseptic character renders them perfectly safe for the general public to use and their composition makes them a common sense cure for all forms of catarrhal troubles.

All druggists sell them at 50 cents for full sized packages.

MINISTERS MET IN REGULAR SESSION

Monthly Meeting of the Ministerial Association Yesterday Morning.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ministerial Association was held Monday morning in the Y.M.C.A. parlour. There were present Rev. Messers. J. C. Davidson, Dr. Torrance, J. G. Potter, J. A. Wilson, W. J. Jolliffe, Dr. Crothers, W. Major and J. G. Lewis.

The visitors present were Rev. A. L. Harvey, of Toronto, and Rev. Mr. Hatchell.

Arrangements were made for a rally of the Young People's Societies of the town for Tuesday, November 14. An address will be given by Rev. T. A. Moore, of Hamilton, assistant secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance.

Rev. Mr. Davidson reported as to the wide circulation of the resolution of the Association regarding political corruption. It had been copied by both religious and secular papers and been generally commented upon by both. Among the papers which had copied it were, The Montreal Witness, Kingston Whig, Christian Guardian, Ontario Churchman, Saturday Night, Lakefield News and others. Similar resolutions had been passed by Hamilton and Sussex Ministerial Associations and by the Northumberland Rural Deanery. A letter was read from the Bishop of Toronto, warmly endorsing the course pursued and expressing hope that many other associations would follow in the example set to lead public opinion both in this and in other directions.

The hospital visitation was arranged as follows for November:—

October 30th, W. J. Jolliffe.
November 7th, J. G. Potter.
November 14th, J. G. Lewis.
November 21st, W. Major.
November 28th, E. A. Langfeldt.

Arrangements were made whereby each member will be responsible for Thanksgiving service in his own church, there being no union service.

Rev. Dr. Torrance read a valuable paper on "The Office Bearers of the Early Church". An interesting discussion in which all present participated followed.

The meeting closed with a season of prayer, in which the guidance of God on the coming election was prayed for.

The oven of an Imperial Oxford Range and the old-fashioned spit before an open fireplace do better roasting than any other cooking apparatus invented.
In the olden days the spit had to be kept turning to get all sides of a roast cooked. It is much the same with the ordinary cook-stove. The heat of the oven is greatest on the fire side—roasts, bread, pies, cakes, etc., have to be turned and twisted to get them cooked at all. The result is uneven, unsatisfactory cooking—good food ruined. The diffusive fine construction of the draws fresh air into the fine chamber, super-heats it and diffuses it evenly over the oven, thus heating it quickly, thoroughly and uniformly—back, front and sides are at the same equal temperature. The result is juicy, tender roasts, light, dainty pastry, evenly raised bread—successful cooking.

When you buy an Imperial Oxford Range you get the result of over sixty years' thought and experience in scientific construction of cooking apparatus.

JUST AND TRUE IN PUBLIC LIFE

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt's Sermon at St. Luke's on Sunday Morning.

A Practical Discourse Dealing With an Important Subject.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt preached an eloquent and powerful sermon to a large congregation at St. Luke's Church on Sunday morning. His text was:—

Phil. 4:8, "Finally, brethren whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

These grand words were almost the last outpouring of the fulness of the Apostle's love. Everybody knows them, everybody admires them, everybody is conscious of an undefined pleasure in them. But my object will be answered, if by God's grace, we are enabled to fix them upon any mind with a more accurate intelligence and impress with a more practical obedience.

No doubt the chief intention which St. Paul had, was to impress upon the converts at Philippi, certain great, moral religious duties, but then, within and underneath those duties, what the true philosopher always sees, and what there must of necessity always be, deep spiritual truth, of which those moral duties are, after all, only an index and a development. All morality, might not say all truth?—is the gospel itself.

You will observe, that all these good and holy things purify. St. Paul does not say, "Do them," but what is far more, "Think of them." The word means literally. Take them into your mouths, dwell on them, imbue your very spirit with them, for there is life in them when fostered in the inner life, of which the outer life is only the reflection. Religion is not this thing, or that thing, but it is at home in everything and what determines that home? The state of thought. Therefore St. Paul says, "Have these things in your mind." The great difficulty we all have is with our own thoughts. Some have a powerful imagination, and it leads them they don't know where. Some have a strong affection, and it makes slaves of them. Some love vehement passions, and they run away with them. Almost everyone of us feels, "If I could but regulate my thoughts; if I could but keep out wandering fancies and foolish imaginations, my soul would be sure to make good progress." Therefore God says, "Occupy the ground; expel the bad by bringing in the good; keep out the erring by leaving no room only; pile up thought upon thought. "Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue, if there be any praise, think of these things." That is, every mind must have its own thoughts and every thought must have its food. Thought dies without food. Some men think too abstractly. Some men think much of the evils they try to avoid. That is vainness. The thought may take the bad character even from the wrong thing, which it is the object of that very thought to destroy. It is far safer, it is far better, and far more effective to think of the true, the holy and the good.

How to think of it practically. Trace it to its first principles, see it in its wrongs; carry it out to its legitimate affection; the near and the more remote observe it. Stop upon it and admire it long enough; consider how it bears with our own life and character; live in it inwardly; pray and resolve how you can go and live it outwardly. This is what the Apostle had in his mind, when he said, "Think on these things."

We may put together the first three things of which the Apostle speaks, "the true, the honest, and the just." They have some affinity, though they are not the same thing. They are linked together at this point, —that they are all one great common truth, and that truth is this, —Christ is truth. Not one part, not one exhibition of it, however large or however beautiful it might be, but all truth; for Christ is 'The Truth', He says, and He is not to Himself unless, according to the strict significance of that word of His, He is "the truth," that is "all truth." He is "truth", because he is the substance of all the law, the O. T., "of all nature,—and everything else is a shadow."

He is "truth' because His law is real truth, and because, too, everything is reality, so that all beside Him is shadow. He is "truth' because all that is true indeed in any person owes itself, either directly or indirectly to Christ.

He is "truth' because not one of His laws ever did or ever can change. "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my word shall not pass away."

Now look at this. A law has gone forth from the mouth of the Almighty, and it could never change,—that every child of Adam, born in Adam and guilty in itself, may not be banished for ever from His presence, and sent to eternal punishment. And it was essential to the moral government of men upon this world, that the truth He spake should be inviolate. Accordingly every creature, without exception must have perished, had not God made a plan, and Jesus executed it. The place was His —God made a mystical body, of that mystical body He made Christ the head. Now, just as in the natural frame, when the head suffers, it is the same as if the members suffer, so it is with that mystical body of the Church of Christ. Christ suffered all things. He the innocent, paid the debt for us, the guilty, to the uttermost farthing. Thus it is the same as if we had suffered We have suffered the penalty in the in the Lord Jesus Christ; therefore, God is true, and the sincere lives. God has kept His word. Sin, every sin, under Heaven is punished with death. In the case of the unbeliever, it is punished in the unbeliever, in the case of the believer, it is punished in the Lord Jesus Christ. So Christ stands out in the midst of a redeemed word and a pardoned church. God's one truth for men is authenticated in the Lord Jesus Christ.

You will be taking a very inadequate view of "the true, the honest, and the just, if you do not include all those grand principles in the schemes of man salvation.

Now, for your own mind, and for your own comfort, you would do well to inculcate very much the truth, and the honesty, and the justice of God, as was involved in this matter, could God reject any soul who ever came in the name of Jesus Christ? Could he ever punish, or bring up against you any sin which you have once simply laid by an act of faith, upon Jesus Christ? Did He,—God would be untrue, dishonest and unjust to His own word—to His own covenant,—to His own Son, — and to His own revealed plan,— and to His own being.

And there lies the rock of our place.

The thousands of people who write to me, saying that

GUSTAVUS SMITH Rock Dixfield, Maine.

If you look at the love of God, you may think, though it would be very bad thought, you may think love is a feeling. Love has its ebb and its flow; love is various according to the object of its love; but truth and justice are absolutely essentially unchangeable. They are the salvation of God's throne; they are the strength of all government, without which, were they violated in the least degree, all rule would turn, first to tyranny, then to criminality. Therefore, all must think of the unswerving accuracy of the mind of God; think of those balances of God, where Jesus suffers and your sins are atoned for; think of the perfect equity of the great day of judgment, and remember, —that there are things which are not —to mock you! Is that blood of Jesus not to be held equivalent for any sins? Would that be honest. Would God break His own oath? Is that just? The more you meditate upon the truth, the honesty, and the justice, which regulates the sacred transactions between Heaven and man,—that is the more you see the Cross of Christ as the great embodiment of the mind of God, and contemplate the highest truth as it is exhibited there, the more prepared you will be to go on to take a proper estimate of what is to be "the truth, the honest and the just", in the relations and dealings of this present life. Whatever you can form, this loftier comprehension of the inner and beautiful principle, your standard will be very high and better able to take measure of the circumstances of life.

I doubt whether any one estimates truth, honesty and justice as he ought to do in the concerns of the world, who is not conversant in his own thoughts with the character of God, and the manifestation God has made of Himself, from the first principles of life. I do not wonder at those frequent delinquencies of truth and honesty with which the business and political world has been so unhappily filled. If, as we know most sadly, monstrous political vices are rampant about us,—if a period of wealth and progress brings with it a corresponding growth of recklessness and dishonesty, this concerns us all. We may keep ourselves, but how do we attempt by progress, by sympathy, by appeals to more honourable and pure instincts, to keep our brother? How do we—to dare to face the other side of the question, almost encourage his misdeeds by belittling his political offences and by seeming to regard them as the natural consequences of conditions which we are unable to rectify. Surely, as such thoughts rise before us, we shall offer with a personal conviction, the prayer which is continually on our lips, "Remember not Lord, our offences, nor the offences of our fathers, whither take than vengeance on our sins." Offences which stand out in terrible distinctness, —sins which we cannot hide from our sight.

All these sins are committed by men that have been false in their higher relation to God, and to his own soul, will be true to his fellow man? And why have these men been false to God? Many because they have not considered and realised God's truth in them. They have not yet entered into the force of that one great contract, of which all other contracts are but resemblances. They have not personally exhibited the conditions, nor have they mastered them in their own understanding,—nor have they come to the power which is in the thought of God's truth. They never vested their own souls upon the honour of God. They have not proved what justice is; what that calm sense of forgiveness is, which, when a man has once felt, he can never forget. Therefore it is no wonder that men of the world have no fixed principles and can give and take no adequate security between man and man of right action.

We are standing at the eve of an election, when representatives of the people are to be chosen to govern the people. I place an appeal to the people, which of course is to hear the will of the people, upon a religious foundation. The expression of the people's will must be obtained, without any influence whatever, on the part of others, for the sake of personal or party gain. I know that you who hear me will exercise your franchise honestly, justly and as in the sight of God. I would consider it an insult to you were I even to mention the possibility of buying or selling your votes. I exhort you whether in word or deed not depart from the strict line of upright sousness and right. To you truth, honesty and justice should be very dear, because they make the very thought of your own grace.

ROSEBERY'S SPEECH

Says Laurier's Statements Are Guarded and Vague.

PREMIER UNDER PRESSURE

His Expressions in Favor of Commercial Tyeaty With Britain Declared to Be By Britain's Former Premier—Only Absolute Freedom, Political and Commercial, Will Sustain the Integrity of the Empire.

London, Nov. 1.—(C.A.P.)—Lord Rosebery, at Trowbridge, said: "I observe that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's utterances are very cautious, very guarded statements and purposely vague statements as to his general wish for commercial relations between the Mother Country and Canada. I know Sir Wilfrid is in the throes of a general election. I do not know the circumstances in which he is speaking, except so far as regards the general election, and should like to see the text of these speeches before I comment too closely on the extracts which are furnished us through no unbiased channels, but there is a speech of Sir Wilfrid's bearing on these questions which I recommend you to cut out and take to your homes to preserve as the best possible statement of the situation, the relations of the British Empire in its various parts, which has ever been uttered by a British statesman: 'There are parties who hope to maintain the British Empire on the lines of restricted trade.' (There were not many people when he said this of that kind; there is one very eminent one now.) 'If the British Empire is to be maintained it can only be by the most absolute freedom political and commercial. In building up this great Empire, to deviate from the principles of freedom would be by so much to weaken the ties, the bands which now hold it together.' (Cheers.) These are wise words, and they should be written in letters of gold over every building which has to do with the Empire all over the world. (Renewed cheers.) But I quite admit that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, under pressure from Great Britain, has intimated his wish, his readiness rather, to enter into a commercial treaty with Great Britain. Well, I never doubted at any time if it were thought expedient and if it were possible that Great Britain should throw over her free trade policy that Canada would be willing to enter into a commercial treaty with Great Britain."

Press On Rosebery's Speech.

The Globe, in referring to Lord Rosebery's speech, says: "To contend that the colonies do not want a conference is to imply a belief in the stupidity of those who read their newspapers."

The Pall Mall Gazette says there is no ground whatever for so unflattering a picture as Lord Rosebery elects to draw of the temper of the disposition of the British dominions beyond the seas.

The Westminster Gazette says: "Lord Rosebery is perfectly right in suggesting that if we begin with food we must go on to raw material, and that we cannot give great benefit to Canada without devising corresponding benefits for Australia."

Commenting on Lord Rosebery's Trowbridge speech, The Glasgow Herald asks how are colonials to be diverted from the Imperial notion of making a profit from the necessities of our teeming population and thrown back upon that lofty and more fruitful conception exhibited in Lord Rosebery's peroration. Is it possible to recall the colonies to the attitude of 1902, so succinctly expressed in the words of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and quoted by Lord Rosebery? The privileges which the colonies enjoy through their connection with us remains, for which we think they don't pay too high a price by any preference they give us. Surely it is high time for Liberal-Imperialists to be thinking out the means of breaking the fall they are under the direful necessity of preparing for through the hypothetical conference which is to demand a British preference.

A Serious Charge.

London, Nov. 1.—(C.A.P.)—A correspondent professing intimate knowledge has written The Glasgow Herald denying the statement in its editorial that Great Britain protects itself against a country where cattle disease doesn't exist. He mentions a series of experiments in different parts of Canada where a strikingly large percentage of tuberculosis was found, and suggests that pure breeds might be imported for breeding purposes.

Useless and Even Injurious.

London, Nov. 1.—(C. A. P.)—Lord Avebury, lecturing at the London Institution on fiscal policy, said Canada, New Zealand and South Africa, though giving Great Britain a preference by raising their duties against foreigners showed no disposition to place the mother country manufacturers on an equality with their own. Unless they were prepared to do so he feared the conference would be useless and even injurious.

Four Per Cent. Dividend.

London, Nov. 1.—(C.A.P.)—A four per cent. dividend was declared at the meeting of the White Pass Yukon Railway Company yesterday.

Lord Stanley Speaks.

London, Nov. 1.—(C.A.P.)—Replying to a protest by the retail trade against the introduction of the cash on delivery system into Great Britain on the ground that it would act disadvantageously against small shopkeepers, Lord Stanley, the Postmaster-General, said he did not intend to put it into operation in Great Britain, but thought he might be allowed to do what he could as regards the colonies and dependencies to promote trade. Unless they stopped it a great part of our trade was going to foreign countries. He hoped it would help to exchange commodities carried by post between Great Britain and the colonies.

GREAT INCREASE IN CUSTOM RECEIPTS

Returns for October, 1904, Show a big Jump.

More than Double Those of October, 1903—Peterborough's Trade is Growing.

The receipts of the Customs Office at Peterborough during the month of October, 1904, were $17,220.20 in excess of those in the same month in 1903, and are more than double those in that month, the figures being, October 1904, $31,794.26, and October 1903, $14,514.10.

These figures speak with an eloquence which cannot be mistaken, and show that the trade of Peterborough, as evidenced by the customs receipts, which are the best indicator of the growth of trade, is advancing by leaps and bounds.

The Sturgeon heaters, which this company will manufacture, are invented by Mr. R. G. The establishment of this industry will be of considerable advantage to Peterborough, as it will employ only skilled hands. It is expected that active operations will commence in the near future, and that an extensive business will be carried on.

PROBABLE FATAL GUN ACCIDENT

Wilfrid Davis Shot by Gun Discharging.

Sad Story Comes from Havelock—Son of Belmont Farmer Accidentally Shot.

An accident, which, it is feared, will result fatally is reported from Havelock this morning, by the Examiner's correspondent. It appears that Mr. Samuel Davis, a farmer living about 12 miles from Havelock, in the township of Belmont, with his two sons, the youngest of them, Wilfrid, a boy about 12 years old, went out into the woods to shoot partridge.

The father and the eldest son went on some distance ahead, and hearing a gun shot, and later a boy's cries they hastily returned and were horrified to find Wilfrid lying on the ground with a terrible gash in his side, caused by the discharge of the gun.

It is not known definitely how the accident occurred other than that, of course, the gun was accidently discharged.

A doctor was immediately sent for from Havelock, and he left at 10.30, and up to the hour of sending the despatch, had not returned, so that the extent of the boy's injuries cannot be learned, but it is feared that they will prove fatal.

HONOURED BY HIS OLD FRIENDS.

Address and Presentation to Mr. M. D. N. Monro Last Evening.

By Employees of C. G. E. Pattern Department, of Which Mr. Munro was Formerly Foreman.

Last evening the employees in the Pattern Department of the C. G. E. Works made a Hallowe'en call upon Mr. M. D. N. Munro, 260 1-2 McDonnel street. Mr. Munro was for seven years foreman of this department and those who were previously associated with him in work there deemed it a pleasure to have an opportunity of renewing old friendships and a party of twenty called upon him last evening, bringing the necessaries for an oyster supper. Mr. Munro was taken totally by surprise but he extended a hearty welcome to his guests and in a short time all were seated at an oyster supper following which was a short toast list. The toasts honoured were to "The King," "Our Host," "Our Trade," "Our Country." All those present made short speeches and during the evening Mr. Gilbert Scott read the following address after which a presentation of a handsome hacksaw was made:—

Mr. M. D. N. Munro,
Poet and Cartoonist.

We, your old shopmates, have been anxiously awaiting for a chance to have a chat with you about old times, so we took advantage of this Hallowe'en to call upon you and talk over the old days when you were poet laureat of the C. G. E. Co'y Angling Club and also the advising spirit of those anglers and their guides. You who so well knew every nook and corner of the Trent Valley Waterway from Nogies Creek to Charlie Huffman's cottage and was ever eager and willing to start the boys out for a good time.

Now, Mr. Munro, you know we cannot let this occasion pass without showing our appreciation of your kindness in the past and we ask you to accept this Hack Saw as a gentle reminder of the past, hoping you may long live to use it.

(Signed) Geo. W. Scott, W. H. Hill, D. Carlyle, J. Mills, F. Houston, Brat Seward, P. Gilbert, J. Panter, A. Gregg, J. O'Brien, W. H. Frost, P. McFadden, G. Galley, H. Lattimer, J. Begley, Brat Lang, Prof. H. W. Ryder, J. Gerrard, G. W. Scott.

Mr. Munro replied in suitable terms, expressing his appreciation for the kind sentiments expressed and referring to the pleasant associations he had enjoyed while foreman of the Pattern Department.

The occasion was a most enjoyable one for all concerned and proved a delightful "Hallowe'en."

HALLOWE'EN FAIRLY QUIET.

Youngsters Had a Good Time But did no Great Damage.

Thirteen Police Were on Duty to Look After Them—The Usual Pranks.

"We had thirteen policemen on duty last night," said Chief Ressel to a reporter this morning, "and not one had occasion to make an arrest."

One would conclude from this statement that either the behaviour of the young people was tolerably good or that they managed to elude the watchful eye of the police in the performance of their deeds, of whatever nature they might have been. But considering the fact that only one call was received at the police station during the whole night and that being because a gate was "swiped," the conduct of the boys and girls was better than usual. The police evidently believed in the policy that "prevention is better than cure," and managed to hold the youngsters well in check.

Last night was an ideal one for Hallowe'en and consequently there was a very large turnout of young people on the streets. The usual pranks and tricks, most of which were of a harmless nature, were indulged in until a late hour. The kid with the pea-shooter and five pockets full of peas was much in evidence and whether he shot at the windows and gave the nervous lady of the house an awful scare or opened the front door and scattered the contents of one pocket about the hall carpet, it made but little difference. Some of those who failed to take in their door mats are regretting it to-day, others have a fence about their lawn, but the gate, so handy to swing upon, is a minus quantity, but may yet be discovered. In certain sections of the town, fences which have stood for many a year are lying in a lifeless looking condition on the ground, having succumbed to the efforts of the children to dislodge them. Then there are those whose shutters are not where they were yesterday, but all this sort of thing is to be expected and is even looked forward to on such a night. A few stray wagons were noticed this morning on some of the streets but they had not been damaged.

One party were out with the determination to "paint the town red" and they succeeded to considerable extent. Several signs on Water and other streets were daubed and with red paint and a few of the store windows received a coat. This was one of the objectionable features of the occasion and those who perpetrated this act were fortunate to escape the hand of the police.

"Mother Goose" and her goslings were out in full force and created much merriment. The party was clad in appropriate costumes and make a most impressive flock of geese as they hailed one of the street cars and enjoyed a trip over the line.

The quantity of taffy, chestnuts and apples consumed was of course as large and as effective as in former years. It was found that the taffy would cool more satisfactorily in the kitchen under the watchful eye of the maker than out in the back yard, exposed to all the perils of the night.

STRANGER'S TEA SUNDAY NIGHT

Young Men at the Y. M. C. A. From all Parts of the World.

Another monthly Strangers' Tea was held at the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday evening, Mr. Gerrard, vice-president, in charge, in the absence of Mr. Harding. Men were present from Cardiff, Wales; Warkworth, Woodville, Bristol, Eng.; Toronto, London, Williamsburg, St. Catharines, Hamilton, Rochester, and Shrewsbury, England.

Among the guests from England was a young man who was employed in the warehouse of Sir Geo. Williams, the founder of the Y.M.C.A.

Another young man present said that up to two weeks ago he had spent his time and money in a notorious hotel in town. Several weeks ago he had exchanged it for the Y.M.C.A., and intended to stay with the latter. It might be added that the same young man has induced two of his comrades to do likewise.

THE MAPLE LEAF THAT IS A LEAF

A Leaf of a British Colombia Maple of Immense Size.

Mr. H. M. Lloyd of Park street, has received from a friend in British Columbia, a specimen of the leaf of the "large leafed" maple of that province, which is big enough to arouse patriotic enthusiasm, and infuse new vim into the singing of "The Maple Leaf Forever."

This British Columbia maple leaf, which grows on a comparatively small tree, is a leaf to be enthusiastic over. It has the same outline as the maple leaf of Ontario. It measures sixteen inches in one direction, and eighteen inches in the other, and the leaf stem is about a foot long.

Mr. Lloyd is justifiably proud of his maple leaf and has had it mounted.

STOVE TALK NO. 6.

Why the "Happy Thought" Burns Less Coal Than any Other Range.

1. The fire pot in the "Happy Thought" is entirely different to any other range. It is deeper and narrower, and twenty years of use has proved that this feature alone will save many tons of coal.

2. The Duplex Grates, from the original patterns of the inventor, distributes the draft equally over the entire grate surface. No dead corners.

3. The peculiar flue construction is the result of fifty years of careful study, and that the proportions are absolutely correct is proved by the fact that the Happy Thought bakes with a smaller fire than is possible with any other range.

The BEST STOVE CO.

WHAT PETERBOROUGH MANUFACTURERS SAY

Mr. Hall Should be Elected and Government Sustained.

Country Never so Prosperous—Interests of Peterborough Demand the Election of Government Supporters.

ALWAYS CONSERVATIVE, BUT NOW LIBERAL.

Mr. R. H. Kells, Manager of the Colonial Weaving Company, said to the Examiner reporter: "This is a new industry established in Peterborough under the Fielding Tariff. We manufacture and sell woven labels to manufacturers of all kinds of clothing, boots and shoes, in the leading cities and towns in Canada. I have always voted Conservative in Dominion Elections, but I cannot set party before the best interests of the Town and County, and will support Mr. R. R. Hall at this election."

BUSINESS STEADILY INCREASING.

Mr. A. H. Stratton, Vice-President of the Colonial Ink Company, on being interviewed said: "The Colonial Ink Company is the only manufactory established in Canada producing printing inks, writing inks, mucilage, carbon paper and typewriter ribbons. This industry has been established in Peterborough under the present tariff, and the Company are satisfied with the increasing volume of business. In a new enterprise, such as ours, there are always difficulties; these are being and have been overcome, and we are now taxed to our utmost capacity to fill the orders that we are receiving. We have a contract for the manufacture of printing ink for the Toronto Globe, and other large papers, and our business is steadily increasing, which the shareholders and employees will be glad to appreciate. As our business increases the number of our employees will correspondingly increase. Our prospects for business are good, and I am satisfied that as our goods become fully appreciated, we will outgrow our present premises, which will be to the advantage of Peterborough. With Mr. Hall elected and the Laurier Government sustained, Canadian-made goods would no doubt have a great preference at Ottawa."

A GRAIN MERCHANT'S VIEW.

Mr. George Mather, the well-known grain merchant, says "Laurier will win---The Grand Trunk Pacific will be an immense gain to the country. It will put large amounts of money into circulation, and coming on the eve of a probable era of hard times, it ought to tide Canada over. Things are not so prosperous in the United States. The G. T. P. should help Peterborough indirectly. As to the tariff it is all right, and reasonable changes to be made will no doubt be fairly dealt with."

CANAL WOULD BENEFIT MANUFACTURERS.

A. L. Sykes, Manager of the Canadian Cordage Company said, "I would like to see Mr. Hall elected as I know he would not rest until the Trent Canal was completed. If that Canal were completed at both ends it would mean a saving to our factory in freight rates alone of over $10,000 per year. This gives your readers some idea how important it is to the manufacturers of Peterborough to complete that work. It will enable them to employ their hands steadily all the year round at good wages. It is apparent that Mr. Hall as a Government Supporter can do more than an out and out opponent."

A CONTRACTOR'S STATEMENT.

Mr. I. J. Hartley, one of Peterborough's leading contractors, to the Examiner reporter, said: "My opinions about Laurier's chances? He will come back with a bigger majority than ever. Nobody is kicking. Wages are good. Sifton has transformed the Interior Department. Immigration to the Canadian West has increased 900 per cent. since 1896. Dakota and Minnesota are sending hundreds of well-to-do farmers into Canada. Locally the people were never better off, property is high, building plentiful, and employment for everybody. Apart from this, I think that Mr. Hall will make a good live representative, and will be able to do more than Mr. Kendry in obtaining Government improvements for the Town of Peterborough."

WHAT LAURIER DID FOR LABOUR

Some Figures Which Speak With Eloquence.

In Every Line Workingmen are Being Better Paid Than in 1896.

That labour is better aid in 1904 than it was in 1896 no one can doubt, and this morning the Examiner interviewed some of those who are in touch with workingmen, and the facts quoted below were learned. It will be seen that in every department labour is better paid now than it was in 1896, and in some cases the scale of wages has been doubled.

The following figures speak eloquently:

	1896		1904
Building Labourers	10c to 12c	per hour	20c to 25c
Bricklayers	25c	" "	40c to 45c
Stonemasons	25c	" "	40c to 45c
Carpenters	15c to 17½c	" "	25c to 30c
Tinsmiths	17½c	" "	25c
Machinists	17½c to 20c	" "	20c to 30c
Boilermakers	17½c to 20c	" "	20c to 30c
Blacksmiths	20c	" "	25c to 30c

GOOD MEETING IN SMITH TOWNSHIP

Mr. Hall Was Well Received There Last Night.

Last night a very enthusiastic meeting was held in the school house on the 4th line of Smith, in Mr. R. R. Hall's interests, and the prospects for the Liberal party in that part of the riding are excellent. The speakers of the evening were the candidate and Hon. J. R. Stratton, both of whom were given splendid receptions, and the arguments they presented in favour of the election of the Liberal candidate and the return of the Liberal Government were unanswerable.

That Mr. Hall will get a big vote from Smith township is now assured.

THE CONSERVATIVE COW

The Conservative cow used to illustrate, or, rather, distort, the Grand Trunk Pacific, is a rum "critter"—without point, for her horns are so "crumpled" that she cannot "hook" and the imaginery milker doesn't understand his business. He is sitting on the left side, the wrong side, of the beast, and no self-respecting and well-trained cow will stand that—she will kick over pail and milker. And there is no point to the parable for the Grand Trunk Pacific does not run to Portland, in the United States, but runs from ocean to ocean every inch on Canadian soil, and ends in the east at a Canadian port, and the company is bound by self-interest as well as by specific agreement to send every ounce of freight originating on the lines to a Canadian port unless specially requested by the shipper to do otherwise. It's a mighty poor cause that has to be bolstered up by misrepresentations and false statements.

AN EMPANELLED FALSEHOOD

The Cox-Haya panel displayed in the Review has more falsehood—expressed and implied—to the square inch than one of Foster's speeches. Messrs. Cox, Haya and others asked the Government to subsidize an extension of the Grand Trunk to the Pacific, with money and land grants, equivalent to about fifty million dollars. The Government turned down that proposition mighty suddenly. The Grand Trunk Pacific was organized to build an all Canadian railway every inch on Canadian soil from ocean to ocean, and though, its construction will cost about one hundred million dollars, all the country will have to pay is about fourteen millions — the Grand Trunk Pacific and the rental of the Government section paying the rest. The cause that is built up on falsehood rests on a sand foundation.

PORT ARTHUR FIGHT

Forced by Japs After a Month's Preparation.

BEGIN ALSO ON THE SHAKHE

Early Resumption of Hostilities On a Large Scale in Manchuria—Remarkable Situation—Russians and Japanese Within Hailing Distance—Kuropatkin's Hard Job Against the Aggressive Japanese.

Che Foo, Nov. 1.—The general assault upon Port Arthur, which began in a preliminary way on Oct. 24, developed into a fiercely raging battle Sunday, when the Japanese flung heavy forces against the fortress in their third attempt to secure a commanding position. The result of Sunday's fighting is unknown.

The Japanese have been preparing for this assault for a month. It is believed that the Japanese did not expect to capture the town on this occasion, but to accomplish another important forward step. This plan was adopted following the first assault, when thousands of lives were sacrificed in an attempt to swarm over the fortification by a mere force of numbers, regardless of loss.

This assault, like the previous one, was a dramatic incident of weary weeks of trench digging, gun mounting and small engagements. In the opinion of experts, the assault will cease when the Japanese have secured such positions as will enable them to creep steadily closer under the noses of the Russian guns.

It is believed that two more general assaults will be necessary before the distance between the belligerent lines is sufficiently shortened to make an attempt to enter the main forts and make the end of the siege practicable.

The Japanese infantry are now using mechanical devices which enable them to throw grenades with great accuracy and rapidity. Except for the knowledge that the bombardment was continued all information covering the period between Oct. 27 and Oct. 29 is lacking, but presumably Japanese operations are gradually assuming the proportions of the general attack of Sunday. The fighting is reported to have been most severe from Rihlung Mountain down along the whole east side of the town.

A steamer which has just arrived here from Newchwang reports having heard heavy firing at Port Arthur Sunday night and yesterday, until she was out of earshot, indicating a continuance of the battle which began on October 24 in a preliminary manner, and developed Sunday into the third attempt of the Japanese to secure a commanding position.

All Up With Port Arthur.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 1.—The latest reports from Port Arthur are by no means encouraging. General Stoessel is making a good defence, but the Japanese are approaching now by parallels, confessedly close to important Russian fortifications. While this form of attack is less spectacular and less costly in men than repeated assaults, it is no less conclusive in ultimate results, demanding a sleepless defence and being almost impossible to frustrate.

WITHIN HAILING DISTANCE.

Japanese and Russians Ready to Resume Hostilities On the Shakhe.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 1.—Everything indicates that both the Japanese and Russian armies south of Mukden are ready for a resumption of hostilities, if indeed fighting has not already begun. General Kuropatkin reports that the Japanese have received reinforcements from the south and Fengwangcheng. Their conjunction seems to have been accomplished, and they are ready to resume the offensive both east and west of the railroad. There is no official estimates of the strength of the Japanese reinforcements, but correspondents place it at from 40,000 to 60,000. It is believed that the Japanese force has been largely augmented from both Port Arthur, where an engineering siege has been begun and Japan, whence it is understood every available man is being drafted.

Meet On Equal Footing.

It seems to be assured that the Japanese will be able to meet General Kuropatkin on an almost, if not quite, an equal numerical footing. The mere fact that they are again threatening a double flanking movement indicates Field Marshal Oyama's confidence in the sufficiency of the force at his disposal. It is believed here that the second battle of the Shakhe River will prove to be as much bigger and more serious than the first, as the first was more serious than the battle of Liaoyang. General Kuropatkin is confronted by an exceedingly difficult problem. He is pitted against a Japanese force stronger, even despite its recent losses, than that first opposing his southern advance. If Kdropatkin now succeeds in checking even, or in breaking the Japanese formation, it will open large possibilities for the brief remainder of the present year's campaign. On the other hand, a Russian reverse now would render the position exceedingly critical.

Fighting On Russian Extremities.

Despatches indicate the resumption of fighting on both extremities of the Russian front. The night of October 30 the Japanese attacked the Russian entrenchments east of Sinchinpu, but were repulsed, though the bombardment continued throughout the night. A Japanese advance has also begun against the Russian positions at Tunganon, a mile and a half north of Bentsiaputze, where they encountered a heavy Russian fire.

Thus it appears that the Japanese are becoming aggressive along the whole front from Bentsiaputze on the extreme east to Sinchinpu, which is west of the Shakhe River, where that stream bends south after crossing the railroad. This probably constitutes the extreme Russian west, making the battle front about the same as when General Kuropatkin began his southern movement.

Great Fight At Hand.

Mukden, Nov. 1.—The manifestations of the Japanese in their centre, which now converges at a point where the plain meets the hills, have attained the greatest importance. These manifestations are being fully met by the Russians so that the situation at this point of the prospective battlefield is now one of the greatest interest and apprehension. At the present moment the trenches on both sides are crowding with troops and at many places the Japanese and Russians are within hailing distance.

Sunday night there was the heaviest bombardment of the week from the Russian batteries, and the Russians are seemingly apprehensive of crucial surprise. This bombardment was accompanied by a continuous rifle fire, while the infantry advanced by means of quick entrenching at intervals of a few hundred feet under cover of darkness.

Aid From Port Arthur.

The outcome of this activity is a tense vigilance along the entire extended front. This tension, taken in connection with the reported reinforcement of the Japanese by one and one-half divisions from Port Arthur is likely to precipitate a great battle within a few days.

From their immediate bivouacs they calmly behold each other and are able to distinguish each others entrenching gangs as they drop their tools when relieved. These observations are made from points of vantage immediately outside the range of artillery, which is intermittent in its practice against the principal eminences.

The Japanese shells are daily breaking on Pagodo Hill, which is most conspicuous in the Russian position, and in front of which the villagers remain in their houses, indicating that by some prearrangement with the Japanese their homes will not be shelled by the latter.

The Russian forces are disposed so as to meet the disposition of the Japanese armies.

The Latest Skirmishes.

Mukden, Nov. 1.—Two battalions returning Oct. 30 from the banks of the Shakhe River came under fire from the Japanese 12-inch guns. One man was rendered deaf and dumb, and another was thrown into a ditch and buried alive.

RIOTOUS DEPUTIES.

Some of Them Throw Inkstands in the Melee.

Madrid, Oct. 31.—Prolonged and tumultuous scenes have occurred in the Chamber of Deputies during the course of debate on proposals for the prosecution of certain deputies. The disorders consequent on the opposition's obstructive tactics compelled a suspension of Saturday's sitting and the appointment of a secret committee to give judgment concerning insults exchanged during the debate.

The sitting was subsequently resumed. The opposition repeatedly demanded roll calls on votes and the proceedings were heated and disorderly. The president, being threatened with personal violence, had to be protected by the clerks and attendants. The crucifix behind the president's chair was overturned by blows of sticks; all the writing material on adjacent desks was swept to the floor, and ink stands were flung at the vice-president.

Premier Maura was present on the ministerial bench from 7 o'clock in the evening, declaring he would not leave till the sitting adjourned, which did not occur till late last evening.

It is reported that the Premier will suspend the sittings and ask the Chamber for a vote of confidence.

MR. TARTE'S GOOD-BY.

Says He Retires From Parliamentary Life Without Regret.

Montreal, Oct. 31.—Hon. J. Israel Tarte has issued a parting address to the electors of St. Mary's division. After reaffirming his position in fiscal and transportation matters, Mr. Tarte says: "I retire without regret from Parliamentary life. I now feel a relief, as I have never counted upon the gratitude of political parties. Those, in fact, who build their hopes in this fragile soil frequently find that they have built in sand. I carry with me the profound conviction that I did my duty to the best of my knowledge and judgment towards my country and towards the party in whose ranks I entered during its darker days."

Cotton Mills Resume.

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 1.—The Booth cotton mills, which have been closed for the past three months, resumed operations yesterday. By next Monday the regular number, 1,600, will be employed. The mills will be operated full time all winter.

Providence, Nov. 1.—The mills of the Hope Company, in the villages of Hope and Phoenix went on a full time basis yesterday. They have about 500 employes.

Augusta, Me., Nov. 1.—The Edwards Manufacturing Co.'s cotton mills were started yesterday, after a shut down of four months. A ten per cent. reduction in wages went into effect yesterday, but about 75 per cent. of the 1,300 operatives went into the mills.

Thorough in Action

On the Digestive and Excretory Systems.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

Are Lastingly Beneficial—Removing the Cause of Disease.

The symptoms of dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, kidney disease and rheumatism point to the presence of poisonous matter in the system.

The first thing Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills do is to thoroughly cleanse the system of this waste matter by causing free action of the kidneys, liver and bowels.

This result is not brought about in a harsh and irritating way, but in naturally and thoroughly accomplished.

The flow of bile from the liver aids digestion and ensures continued regular action of the bowels; the free action of the kidneys removes the uric acid, which would otherwise cause rheumatism or stone in the bladder.

Digestion, assimilation and the removal of waste matter are carried out without pain or discomfort, and there is no foothold for contagious or other disease.

There is no other preparation possessing this unique and combined action, and none which can possibly reach such complicated diseases as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. C. F. Immel, shoemaker, Western Hill, St. Catharines, Ont., states: "I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills regularly for some time and consider that they are unsurpassed for torpid liver, defective circulation, indigestion, headache and constipation, as these were my troubles. I used many remedies, but got no relief until I tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and a few boxes of this preparation have entirely cured me. I am not in the habit of endorsing any medicine, but in this case I cannot speak too highly in praise of Dr. Chase's Pills for what they have done for me."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

14-YEAR-OLD BOY JAILED.

On a Charge of Manslaughter For Death of His Sister.

Galt, Oct. 31.—There have been some unusual developments in the death of Mary Sachs of Doon. On Monday night at 6 o'clock she was found lying on the doorstep in an unconscious condition and with blood running from a small hole over her eye. She lived but a few minutes. Dr. Mulloy, coroner, and Dr. Scott Hegg, of Preston, were called shortly after and apparently accepted the story given out by the family that the girl had fallen on the wire mat at the door and died as a result of puncture of the brain by one of the wires.

On Tuesday Chief Atkinson of Preston got to work on the case, and his discovery resulted in an inquest being called for by County Crown Attorney Bowlby, who ordered the body exhumed on Wednesday. The post-mortem revealed a bullet imbedded in the brain and slight powder burns on the face.

At the inquest Saturday, Charles Sachs, the 14-year-old brother of the girl, was arrested on the charge of manslaughter. The boy got a small rifle in Berlin on Monday, and he was shooting at a mark on a tree. The girl stepped to the door, only a few feet away, and the bullet struck her. Before coming to her assistance the boy hid the rifle, and when questioned by Chief Atkinson, a few days later, he denied ever having had it. He confessed later, however, and produced the weapon.

ROSEBERY'S ADVICE.

Let Tariff Reformers and Canadians Join in Drafting Treaty.

London, Oct. 31.—Lord Rosebery, speaking at Trowbridge, likened the members of the Government to poodles jumping through different fiscal hoops at the crack of Mr. Chamberlain's whip. In connection with fiscal reform the people had to consider Mr. Chamberlain alone. He regarded Mr. Chamberlain's policy as certain to bring disaster as it sought to impair the splendid relations of our glorious heritage by imposing a fiscal policy in the name of our fellow-subjects in the colonies. He thought if Great Britain threw up her free trade policy Canada would be willing to make a commercial treaty with the Mother Country.

Sir Howard Vincent had said that 95 per cent. of the Canadians were in favor of Mr. Chamberlain's proposals. Let five of the tariff reform syndicate meet five skilful representatives of these Canadians and try to frame a commercial treaty on the lines of Mr. Chamberlain's policy and they would meet with considerable difficulties, but if the rough draft they produced would be a great stride in the direction of commercial union, he would recommend the matter of a treaty to the Tariff Reform League.

Double Drowning.

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—Word has been received of the drowning in Lake Pythonga, Pontiac County, Thursday night, of Frank Richten and Angus McLean, of Buffalo, NY. With a party including father and the uncle of McLean, they were at a hunting camp in the unsurveyed wilds of Pontiac, about twenty-five miles northwest of Gracefield, the nearest railway station. They were returning to camp in a canoe and evidently had an upset. The upturned canoe was found by others of the party and a search immediately instituted. The theory is that cramps and exposure probably caused them to drown, as sticking in the bottom of the upturned canoe was a hunting knife. It is supposed they were using this as a means of hanging on and that one becoming cramped the other went to his assistance and both drowned. The McLeans formerly belonged to Buckingham, Que. McLean was 19 years old and Richten 21.

Congressman Is Interfering.

Detroit, Oct. 31.—Congressman Lucking has interested himself in Edward Slaughter, condemned to be hanged at Sandwich Dec. 22. Rev. Mr. Powel, pastor of the Second Baptist Church of Detroit, headed a delegation to whom Mr. Lucking agreed to do all in his power for the young man, who is an American subject, having been in Canada only four hours when he killed Farmer Rudden. Lucking has seen R. F. Sutherland, K.C., M.P., Windsor, and came to an understanding as to procedure.

Another Elevator Collapses.

Buffalo, N.Y., Oct. 31.—From some cause which cannot be definitely explained, the Ontario elevator collapsed yesterday and sunk into the waters of the Evans slip. The elevator contained about 70,000 bushels of barley, a large portion of which lies at the bottom of the slip. The loss on the grain and the building is estimated at $350,000. Chas. Bartholomay, 62 years old, the elevator superintendent, was seriously injured.

Ned. McLaren Shot.

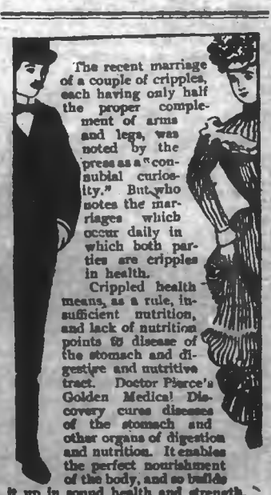
Winnipeg, Oct. 31.—While hunting near Blairmore, N.W.T., on Friday last, Ned McLaren, a nephew of Mr. McLaren, the lumber king, met with a serious shooting accident. While sitting on a log he drew the rifle towards him. The gun discharged and the bullet entered his body over the heart. He is in a critical condition at Frank Hospital.

Killed in Runaway.

Barrie, Oct. 31.—John Lummis of Wyebridge was fatally injured Saturday night while driving home from Barrie. It is supposed his horse ran away as he was found on the road with his head crushed and three ribs fractured. Deceased was 72 years of age. He was a member of the Board of License Commissioners for Centre Simcoe.

Killed By a Car.

Montreal, Que., Oct. 31.—William Parks, a glass blower, thirty years old, was crushed to death by a car late last night, and Donald Laurant, another glass blower, was badly injured. The two men were clutching for a fight in the street when a passenger car struck them.



The recent marriage of a couple of cripples, each having only half the proper complement of arms and legs, was noted by the press as a "connubial curiosity." But who notes the marriages which occur daily in which both parties are cripples in health.

Crippled health means, as a rule, insufficient nutrition, and lack of nutrition points to disease of the stomach and digestive and nutritive tract. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect nourishment of the body, and so builds it up in sound health and strength.

"I had been a great sufferer from indigestion for the last nine years," writes Mrs. Margaret Stingle, of Owings Mills, Baltimore Co., Md. "I was such a wreck it seemed death was near, but to-day can say I feel like another woman. I have received much and lasting good from Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription.' I have taken twenty-five bottles in all, and followed the advice of Dr. R. V. Pierce, and am happy to say that life is worth living now. A thousand thanks for your treatment."

Do not be cajoled into trading a substance for a shadow. Any substitute offered as "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery" is a shadow of that medicine. There are cures behind every claim made for the "Discovery."

The Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

VENETIAN GLASS.

Marco Polo Gave the First Great Impetus to Its Manufacture.

It was Marco Polo who gave the first great impetus to the glass industry at Venice. The great traveler encouraged his countrymen to manufacture and to export large quantities of glass to the orient to satisfy the growing demand there. It is difficult to determine when the first glass factories were established in Venice, says the Chicago News. Some historians have attempted to prove that it was as early as the fifth century. The most ancient existing document relating to this industry is an article in a treaty concluded in 1287 between Bohemond, prince of Antioch, and Jacobo Contarini, doge of Venice. This time stained parchment refers to the purchase of broken glass—a most necessary ingredient for the production of good glass—by the Venetian merchants in Syria. In 1289 the great council of the republic prohibited the establishment of glass furnaces in the city proper, as they were frequent causes of serious fires, and finally relegated the glassblowers to the island of Murano (1292), where the industry has flourished down to the present day.

Murano's glass manufacturers possessed many political and other privileges. Their daughters could even marry into the families of the proud Venetian patricians. In the seventeenth century the glassblowers of Venice were recognized as the best in Europe. This fact caused the Duke of Buckingham to employ Venetian workmen in the glass manufactory which he opened in 1670 for the purpose of making imitations of the fine Venetian drinking glasses.

Evelyn, the diarist, writing in 1641, says: "I passed over to Murano, famous for the best glasses of the world, where, having viewed their furnaces, I made a collection of divers curiosities. 'Tis the white flints which they have from Pavia, which they pound and sift exceedingly small and mix with ashes made of a seaweed brought out of Syria, and a white sand that cause the manufacture to excel."

THE WORD "HOODLUM."

Man and Incident From Which It Sprang in San Francisco.

"Hoodlum," the word which has found place in the vernacular of the local lexicon, is well understood to apply to a class of objectionable young toughs who have no respect for sex, age or the rights of decent people and no sense of what is proper or becoming in the character of him to whom the epithet is justly applied—a hoodlum today, a criminal tomorrow.

While the meaning of the term is well understood by the people, few there be who know the derivation of the word and how it came to be forced into our language. It is this:

It was in 1872, when the Odd Fellows held a picnic at Redwood City. On that occasion a gang of toughs "butted in" with the otherwise orderly attendance. Among the gang who went from San Francisco was one whose name was Hood Lummix. Nature would seem to have had a farcical part in the creation of the original hoodlum, for Hood Lummix was a most peculiarly formed creature. Clumsy, big footed, with a big mouth and protruding teeth, thick lips, a big bushy head of hair of a dirty brick color, standing out like the quills on a porcupine, this almost malformed specimen, as is usual, attracted the attention of a lot of young rowdies who picked upon him as being an easy guy for a day's sport. Go where he might, he was followed by a gang who hooted and yelled and, in brief, made things unpleasantly lively during the day, but more particularly in the afternoon when the steam beer commenced to do its work.

The amusement of the gang did not confine itself to the picnic grounds. On the contrary, they went outside, broke into orchards and flower gardens, destroying valuable property, and finally wound up the day by shooting a valuable horse belonging to a rancher. This last act was more than the sheriff of San Mateo was prepared to stand, and as a result he bagged a couple of dozen of the chief offenders. When the cases came up before the justice of the peace in Redwood each and every one of the accused laid the entire blame on Hood Lummix. Poor, simple minded Hood got six months in jail, and in sentencing him the justice, who was very much displeased that he could not send the entire gang to state prison, delivered a lecture to the offenders, in which he said: "I now warn you to keep out of this county; we want no more of Hood Lummix or his gang to visit us." Hence the word became coined by dropping the last syllable of the name, making the word as now used, "hoodlum."

Natural Cure For Rheumatism.

There is a wonderful grotto at Monsummano, Italy, called the Grotto Giusti, where the natural vapor is stated to be an infallible cure for rheumatism. Fifty years ago some workmen were quarrying for lime when they discovered the grotto, and its healing powers were first made known some little time later. In the lowest portion, appropriately named the Inferno, the temperature is about 95 degrees F., and here the victims from rheumatism sit and perspire for an hour at a time. Such a vapor bath is said to be of much greater service than a Turkish bath.

No Premeditation.

Justice of Peace—What do mean by saying it was not premeditated, Rastus? You acknowledge that you broke into the plaintiff's hardware store and stole a bunch of keys. Rastus—Yassuh, yassuh. But dat wusn't mah fault, jedge. Mistah Smiff done put locks on his chicken coop dat none ob mah keys would fit, an' dere wusn't no udder way ter git in widout his heahin' me 'ceptin' by borrerin' dem keys, Yassuh; dat's de truf.

His Voice.

"What would you do if you had a voice like mine?"

"Have it operated on."

"Have it operated on? Why, I'll have you to understand that I made my fortune through my voice."

"Yes. I heard you proposed to your wife with it."

Wages, Forsooth!

Mrs. Annex—I'll tell you what I'll do, Bridget. If you'll consent to stay I'll raise your wages. Bridget—Listen to her, wud ye? Raise me wages, indade! Ye'll increase me salary, that's phwat ye'll do.

The Modern Way.

He—And so they got married? She—Yes, they got married, were separated again in a week's time and have lived happily ever since.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Will Match Black Mack Against any Horse in his Class, When in Training.

Messrs. W. and H. Elmhirst, joint owners of the racing stallion Black Mack, send a communication to the Examiner in which the challenge of H. A. Cook to race Velma against their horse is made. The Messrs. Elmhirst state that their horse has been out of training for some weeks, and further, that they do not intend to match him against ringers.

They are prepared to meet any horse in his class at any time that he is in training, but think too highly of him to match him against a horse such as "Velma."

RUGBY.

The Peterborough rugby team will run an excursion to Toronto on Saturday morning on the G. T. R. The team will go up on the 7.30 flyer and the tickets are good to return on any train until Monday evening. A special train will leave the city on Saturday evening about eleven o'clock, so as to afford those who desire to attend the theatres an opportunity for so doing. The fare for the round trip is $2.05 and no doubt there will be a large crowd take advantage of this cheap rate and go up with the team and encourage them to victory.

The local team will practice to-night and on Wednesday night at 7.30 o'clock at the Driving Park and on Friday afternoon in preparation for Saturday's big game.

* * * *

The Argonauts will be strong for Saturday. They hope to have Irving Ardagh on the half back line.

* * * *

Every player is asked to attend all this week's practices. The boys will have to be in the very best of condition to trim the Argos as it will be the hardest game of the season so far.

* * * *

The Argos with Humber and Ardagh on the back division expect to beat the locals on Saturday and then win the group championship. Well, we'll see about it.

FOWL SUPPER A GREAT SUCCESS

Large Crowd Attended Annual Event at Stewart's Hall.

There has been many successful fowl suppers in Stewart's Hall, O'onabee, in past years, but none more so than that which was held last evening. There was a very large attendance, four bus loads of young people from Peterborough swelling the number. The supper provided was an excellent one, being rich in both quality and quantity. There was fowl galore, and of every description,—another instance of the prosperity under the Liberal Government. After the supper a programme was presented, the numbers being supplied by Miss Alberta White, reader, and Mr. Jos. Halpany, entertainer. Both were accorded a flattering reception and provided a most delightful evening's entertainment. The affair could hardly have been more successful.

It being Hallowe'en, the inhabitants of that vicinity could not let the opportunity pass without playing a few harmless pranks upon the townspeople present and when the young people from town went to obtain their busses to return they found such things as ploughs, wagon wheels, hay, etc., taking their places. After one bus load had gone a distance of about 200 yards, the driver was amazed to see the harness fall from one of the horses. It was but another Hallowe'en trick and the damage was quickly remedied.

DEER HUNTING SEASON OPENED THIS MORNING

Peterborough Parties Leaving to Enjoy Two Weeks Sport.

This morning the crack of the rifle was heard about the woods and waters of the north country, and the fleet-footed deer will awaken to the fact that his existence is in danger and his life for the next two weeks will be a miserable one, if he manages at all to escape the hunters' deadly bullets. The hunting season this year is extended from Nov. 1st to Nov. 19th, instead of closing on Nov. 15th, as in former years. The extension has been made because of the elections and most of the parties will wait until Nov. 4th before going back to try their luck.

The Eagle Lake Hunting Club, one of the largest parties which leave Peterborough yearly, have left for their regular outing. The following are in the party: Messrs. J. Cottingham, captain; C. Gunsolus, Chas. Butcher, A. Mitchell, C. Westlake, H. Evans, D. Sheehy, M. Dobson, O. Dumble, L. Hall, T. Parker. The first four have been in the back country for the past 10 days on a fishing expedition and will remain for the hunting season. The following will go out on Thursday:—Messrs. G. Fitzgerald, G. Mitchell, M. Tooley and W. White.

EPWORTH LEAGUE SOCIAL A SUCCESS

Large Turnout at Charlotte Street League Meeting Last Evening.

The "Post Office" social at the Charlotte Street Epworth League last evening was from every standpoint a great success. There was an unusually large attendance including many non-members of the society who were heartily welcomed. A short programme was rendered during the first part of the evening consisting of selections by the Sunday School orchestra, vocal solo, Miss Florence Hall, reading, Miss Thomas, instrumental solo, Miss O'Neil and vocal duet, the Masters Hall.

The Post Office gave excellent service and each one present was the recipient of a letter which contained information which had the desired effect of promoting a spirit of sociability and creating amusement for all concerned.

Refreshments were sold at the close, bring a most delightful evening to a conclusion.

T. A. S. LITERARY SOCIETY MET

Very Large Turnout to Hear Lecture by Mr. J. H. Burnham.

Last Evening's Splendid Meeting—Very Enjoyable Programme Presented.

The seating capacity of the large T.A.S. Hall was taxed to its utmost last evening, on the occasion of the regular fortnightly meeting of the Literary Society in connection with the Total Abstinence Society. At every meeting held this season there has been a splendid turn out of members, and so excellent have been the programmes provided, that it seems safe to say that there will be no falling off in the attendance at future meetings. It speaks well for the healthy condition of the society as a whole, when its several departments are in such a flourishing condition. It is always well to encourage the young people along wholesome literary lines, and to interest them in the thoughts of the great writers of the world. This is what the St. Peter's Literary Society is aiming to accomplish, and if the attendance and interest in their meetings can be taken as any criterion, the desired result is being acquired.

The chairman last evening was Mr. J. Hanrahan, who, after a few opening remarks, called upon the Harmony Orchestra for a selection. The orchestra is composed of Messrs. McPherson and Ramsay, violins; McDonald, cornet; L. A. Hally, clarinet, and leader; and Mrs. E. W. Argus, piano. They play very nicely together, and their selection was encored. A vocal solo, "Good Night, Little Girl," by Miss Loretta Clancy, was warmly received, as was the solo "Down where the Suanee River River Flows," by Miss Annie Simons. Master W. McWilliams sang, "For Sale, a Baby," and in response to a hearty encore gave "Blue Bells."

Mr. J. Hampden Burnham, gave a very interesting lecture on "Irish, Scotch and English Wit and Humour." Wit, said the speaker, usually concealed a good deal of malice, for when anybody was witty at our expense, there is generally something laid up in store for us. A friend may indulge in humour at our expense, but this is not likely. Humour results from merriment, good fellowship and kindly feeling.

Some people say, and perhaps rightly, that there cannot be found wit in an Englishman. The Englishman prided himself on oscillating between the two extremes of never being very high or never reaching a very low state. There was plenty of Irish wit, it was natural, but the Scotch was the best in the world, he was sorry to say. The Scotchman's wit was not malicious, rough or boisterous, and he was rarely conscious that he was making a witty saying. The characteristic of Irish wit has been said to lie largely in bulls. The Englishman must be conventionally correct in his sayings, even though he may lose the point of the joke. Mr. Burnham, by a series of very interesting readings, gave examples of what he considered the cream of English, Irish and Scotch humour. The selections were splendidly chosen, and were read in a manner such as to prove highly interesting to the large audience.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Burnham for his able address.

Rev. Father McColl said a few words in appreciation of Mr. Burnham's kindness. He was always a favourite with the T.A.S., which which would welcome him back at any time.

A solo, "Asleep in the Deep," was given by Mr. E. W. Argus, and was well received. The last number was a male quartette, "Guinieve," by Messrs. McGregor, Williams, Pope Weir, and was much enjoyed.

The singing of the National Anthem brought a delightful evening's programme to a close.
